ABOUT 28,500 WOMEN OPERATORS OF AUTOMOBILES IN CONNECTICUT

Approximately 28,500 women were licensed to operate motor vehicles on the public highways of Connecticut during the past year, according to an estimate of the state motor vehicle department. This number was equal to the whole number of operators, both male and female, licensed in the state twelve years ago.

Male operators licensed in the state last year reached a total of about 208,500, and, while there was an unprecedented increase in the number of women drivers, the number of male operators increased in greater proportion, so that the figure representing women operators listed on the books of the department at the end of the year stood at approximately 12 per cent. of the total list of operators, a decrease of 2 per cent. from the previous year.

Women between the ages of 21 and 30 years were licensed in the greatest numbers. Male operators, also were most numerous between those ages, and women between 31 and 40 years old came next in numerical strength on the list of female operators. The oldest woman operator was more than 70 years old, whereas the senior male operator was recorded as being 90 years old. Neither has figured in an accident. More than 400 women over 60 years old were licensed to drive during the year and only a small percentage of them became involved in accidents. The average age of operators who figured in accidents reported to the department was 23 years.

The department will begin to issue 1925 operators' licenses on Thursday. It is estimated that more than a quarter million operators will be licensed in Connecticut this year, more than ten times as many as were licensed thirteen years ago. Applications for operators' licenses will be filled by mail.

MANY CONNECTICUT PEOPLE AT ST. PETERSBURGH, FLORIDA

Nearly fourteen hundred citizens of Connecticut are spending the winter months in St. Petersburg, Florida, where the erection of many new hotels and houses during the past summer has provided winter quarters for many thousand additional visitors who are flocking to the Sunshine City and its environs this winter.

At the present rate of influx of Connecticut visitors who arrive in numbers daily by train and motor, it is expected that before the end of January there will be over five thousand in St. Petersburg from that state.

Mrs. Charles B. Chapman, of Norwich, is a guest for the season at the Edgewater inn.

Winthrop Bucklin, of Reynolds Hill, Mystic, Conn., arrived there a few days ago by motor and intends to spend the winter.

G. Wyman Carroll and Herbert M. Stapley are Norwich visitors to Belair.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Morrison and Mrs. W. J. Morrison, of Danielson, who spent the early weeks of the season at Orlando, are now quartered at the Huntington hotel, St. Petersburg, for the balance of the winter.

H. C. Weaver and Miss Weaver of New London, are prominent in New England social gatherings in St. Petersburg.

Connecticut was once the stronghold of the scientific game of roque, evolved from the old game of croquet, and not only did Norwich, New London, Willimantic, Meriden, New Haven and Bridgeport support energetic roque clubs, but delegates came from all over the country to attend the National Roque Association meets in Norwich.

At St Petersburg, the roque enthusiast finds twenty or more perfect courts, supported and kept in splendid shape by the city. The roque players have their choice of playing either in a palm shaded city park, or at the waterfront, where a number of the courts are under cover. Because of city maintenance, the expense is negligible, and the condition of the courts raises this interesting game to its highest point of amusement. Tournaments are continually in progress, and February will be the time of a national tournament in which players from everywhere are entered.

SENATOR BINGHAM GUEST AT JUSSERAND BANQUET

(Special to the Bulletin)

Washington, Jan. 11—Senator Hiram Bingham was one of the principle speakers at the Jusserand farewell banquet last night and with Mrs. Bingham was seated at the speakers table. Senator Bingham, who is an old personal friend of Jusserand, referred to the ambassador's record as a man of letters as well as of diplomacy, and referred to his having received honorary degrees from fifteen eastern universities, all of which were represented at the banquet. The Connecticut senator met at the banquet many men of prominence who have known him as an explorer and professor at Yale and both he and Mrs. Bingham will find themselves quickly at home in the new surroundings. They have taken an apartment for the winter at the Hotel Lafayette which has many prominent senators of both parties among its guests.

SUCCESSFUL BENEFIT WHIST BY FAITH TRUMBULL CHAPTER

Saturday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock a benefit auction whist was held at the home of Mrs. Charles L. Stewart of No. 123 Broad street by Faith Trumbull chapter D. A. R. There were eight tables in play and the prizes were awarded as follows:

First Mrs. M. E. McGuire; second, Mrs. William T. Crandall; third, Mrs. Harry Ford. Refreshments were served after the whist, Mrs. George A. Ashbey, regent of the chapter, serving. The plans for the whist were in charge of the ways and means committee, Miss Barbara Allen, chairman.

The prizes were contributed by Mrs. Arthur H. Lathrop, Mrs. Harry E. Higgins and Mrs. William H. Oat.

TWO MEN IN STRUGGLE FELL OUT OF WINDOW

Corfu, N. Y., Jan. 11—Two men struggling in a room on the third floor of a hotel here fell out the window early this morning, one being instantly killed and the other fatally injured. The dead man was John Whalen, who leaves a mother and two sisters in Malone, his home address; the injured man is W. D. Lyman of Amelia, near Poughkeepsie; He has a fractured pelvis and other internal injuries.

CO-LABORERS OF THE DEVIL GIVE SCANDAL, SAYS PRIEST

Continuing his series of sermons on The Ten Commandments, Rev. Myles P. Galvin preached at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday on the Fifth Commandment—"Thou shalt not kill," going on in his consideration of those things which kill the soul, through sin. He took up for further exposition the sin of scandal—word, act or omission which may lead others to sin. The preacher emphasized the word may—for so far-reaching is the evil effect of this sin that it reacts against the individual who not only makes another actually commit sin, but in the very possibility of causing such commission.

Father Galvin had already taken up the topic of scandal through evil words; so his theme Sunday was scandalous acts. He dealt with the scandal given by persons who appear to think the church merely a theatre, spending their time during mass in gazing about, talking, etc., thereby not only themselves offending against the Divine Sacrament of the altar, but leading otherwise devout neighbors to sin.

Again, he had a rebuke for the Catholics who disobey the law of their church which forbids eating meat on Friday—a matter of discipline, similar to the prohibition under the ancient dispensation as promulgated by Moses, a custom of self-denial good for both spiritual and bodily health. All non-Catholics know this prohibition of the Catholic church—and the so-called smart Catholic who openly violates it, at public banquets and elsewhere, wins only contempt.

Father Galvin referred to the awful sin of scandal through impurity in all its forms; also the evil effects of ill-will and bickering between neighbors, who by their quarrels scandalize all in their neighborhood. Taking up the division of omission, he noticed out particularly the grave sins of those parents who let their children had example, by negligence in the practice of their religion and in other ways. To all his auditors in the crowded church he appealed for a New Year of strict and faithful avoidance of anything in speech, deed, or omission likely to scandalize another; rather a new resolve to live, not as co-laborers of the devil, leading others into sin, but more in accord with the laws of God and His church, each individual doing his part to bring nearer and nearer the fulfilment of that wish of the Sacred Heart—the time when there shall be but one flock and one Shepherd.

Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly in giving holy communion. It was the Feast of the Holy Family, the epistle read throughout the world in every mass being Romans 13, 1-5 and the gospel Luke 2, 42-51—Jesus in the temple and His later subjection to His earthly parents in the obscure but holy house of Nazareth.

GAVE PRETTY PARTY FOR THIRTEENTH BIRTHDAY

From 3 to 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon Miss Louise Higgins, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins of Sachem Terrace, entertained 20 friends at her home in honor of her 13th birthday anniversary. A jelly bean hunt provided amusement for the young people who saved the jelly beans they found to purchase favors at an "auction" held immediately after the hunt. A score of different kinds of pretty favors were auctioned off for jelly beans.

Each guest was presented a doll and materials for dressing the doll and prizes were awarded for the best dressed dolls. The prizes went to Marion Agnew and Emma Thompson. A birthday supper was served at two prettily decorated tables. The favors were poets' birthday books. Saturday was also the 13th birthday of Miss Emily Bidwell and she was presented thirteen beautiful rosebuds by the guests. On each table was a birthday cake and thirteen lighted candles. Miss Higgins presided at one table as hostess and Miss Bidwell at the other table.

The home was prettily decorated, the color scheme being yellow. Mrs. Higgins was assisted in serving by Miss Mary Higgins, Miss Lillian Crumb and Miss Evon Broadhurst.

STATE BAR ANNUAL MEETING THIS WEEK

SERVICE IN ENGLISH AT GERMAN CHURCH

The monthly service in English was held Sunday evening at the First Evangelical Lutheran church on Franklin street, when the pastor, Rev. H. Hunzinger, spoke on the topic, Light of Men, from the text, John 1, 1-4. He said in part:

Life is full of mysteries. Who would dare to deny it? Whether we study those secret but powerful movements within our own bodies or in animal and plant life, whether we are looking down into the dust which is whirled around by our feet or up to the myriads of celestial bodies revolving in their eternal spheres. There are question marks staring at us everywhere. But the greatest mystery is the combination of them all—life itself. What do we know of life? We know much and we know nothing. We know enough of life's outside appearances. By the painful and difficult labor of ages our wise men have disclosed to us some so-called laws of nature. Thought by experience they have divided the colorful varieties of life into certain groups. But if they ever sat down to unfold to us the inside of life, its very nature, its origin and purpose, they know they were lying, they knew that all their keen conclusions were based on their own imagination. The nature of life cannot be found by our own minds as we are a part or it ourselves. There are only two ways open for us. Either we must give up and declare: We don't know it and we never will know it, that it would mean: Our life is a nonsense and to be good and faithful and hopeful is also a nonsense. That would mean the only sure thing, the only fact we know from experience is the coming destruction of our life by death. All the great achievements of the human mind, culture of body and soul, all the longing of your heart for justice and piece for nothing. Darkness, when our life began—darkness wherever we go—and even more darkness when our life comes to a close. Giving up? Oh, no! Not for me, and not for you! The very life in us that we cannot understand rebels against that "giving up." There's another way open for us and by all that inner light of love and faith and hope in us we will go it. Life will reveal itself to us—by its highest concentration—the Almighty God. All that we need to know about the origin, purpose and aim of our life we find comprised in these few verses of the first chapter of St. John's Gospel. "In the beginning was the word and the word was with God and God was the Word. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made through Him—and without Him was not anything made. In Him was Life and the life was the light of men." What's the beginning of life? That's the question mark. But rejoice, o my soul, it is turned into an exclamation mark. In Him was Life! All the life of the universe has its origin, development, purpose and end in Him the eternal Word. His mysterious willpower is the inspiration of all that exists. O, isn't it marvelous? Let us throw all the books, which contain the literary wisdom of natural development where they belong—into the fire. Let us do away with imagination and have faith in revelation. In Him was life and even a greater truth—the greatest of all. The life was the light of men. The eternal Word of God has descended into our flesh. He has become one of us to give us personal life—love, hope and faith in God.

How can we get in touch with this almighty and living God? "In Him was life and the life was the light of men." When St. John wrote these words—the gloom of death was spread over the whole world. People had arrived at the heights of a civilization without any parallel in human history. But this civilization had no foundation, it had no stronghold. That's why it fell apart so soon. There is no civilization which can prevail without religion. And the ancient world at the time of Christ practically had lost faith in the old gods. They had to move out. But there was nothing to take their place. Yes, the world was on the rapid downgrade; it was mixing faster and faster into the dark pit of death.

But suddenly in the fulness of time, the hour of God struck. The living God came to the rescue. He linked himself with the sinking dying world and held it fast through His son, whom God calls the Word. In Him was life and the life became the light of men. Rocked in the cradle of the deep surrounded by the wild waves of sin, death and misery, the life of God opened its eyes and became our light, the light of the world. He manifested His glory to us and we saw it —a glory of the only Begotten from the Father—full of grace and truth.

PHILIP PLANT ENGAGED TO NEW YORK GIRL

Setting at rest much speculation by New York society as to his matrimonial fate comes the announcement of the engagement of Philip Morgan Plant, part heir to the $17,000,000 estate of the late Commodore Morton F. Plant of New York and Eastern Point, to Miss Judith Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter Smith of 101 East 74th street, New York and Chillicothe, O.

Formal announcement of the engagement was made Friday after Miss Smith and young Plant had had luncheon at the Ritz in New York. The date of the marriage will be announced later.

Young Plant is the son of Selden B. Manwaring and the adopted son of Commodore Plant. Mr. and Mrs. Manwaring were divorced and the latter became the wife of Commodore Plant, whose fortune represented accumulation of profit in various steamboat, railroad and hotel enterprises. Shortly after his mother's second marriage, Philip was adopted by the millionaire and assumed his name. He became the stepson of Col. William Hayward, U. S. attorney for the district of New York, when his mother married again, following the death of the commodore.

Few, if any, of the young romantic figures in New York city have been reported engaged as much and often as young Plant. His name has been linked with girls on the stage and in society. But the announcement of Friday marks the culmination of a romance which had its inception in Plant's boyhood.

Undoubtedly it is his extreme popularity in the younger set that caused him to be the center of so much discussion in a matrimonial way. His popularity extends to all classes of social fabric. Broadway knows him as the boy with the ready smile. Park avenue, Fifth avenue and all the exclusive realms of the town know him as a frankly loving character whose enthusiasm knows no bounds.

Society Chat only recently linked the name of Plant with that of Miss Anne Elizabeth Whelan, heiress to the United Cigar Co. millions. It was then a matter of great interest to watch what was called a race for her hand between him and Gilbert W. Kahn, son of the millionaire banker. But the Whelan-Kahn wedding a few weeks ago shattered that speculation.

The first reported prospect for the Plant name was Miss Helen Jesmer, a scintillating beauty of the Follies. A queer twist in the lives of the two brought these together. It was on Nov. 1, 1920, that young Plant and Miss Jesmer were motoring from New Haven to New York, something went wrong with the car and an accident followed.

Miss Jesmer for days was in a hospital and Plants attention to her brought out the inevitable reports of an engagement. But with her recovery of health and what she called permanent loss of beauty, she brought suit against the young man for $500,000 on the last score. The courts heard the intimate details of the affair of the near fatal ride, and the case was finally settled out of court by a payment of $75,000, upon receipt of which Miss Jesmer slipped out of the scene.

Next came Miss Constance C. Campbell Bennett, actress and daughter of Richard Bennett, also of stage fame. Plant was reported engaged to Miss Bennett almost as often as he was seen in her company, but with the appearance of others in the setting society was left in a daze.

Finally came Miss Smith. After having his name linked with those of various bright lights of society and Broadway, Philip chose one whose friendship was of many years' standing.

The climax of this chapter of his life brought about this formal announcement from 101 East Seventy-fourth street:

"Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter Smith of 101 East 74th street, New York city and Chillicothe, O., wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith, to Mr. Philip Morgan Plant of 1051 Fifth avenue, New York city.

SPRINGFIELD TEAMS WORK B'NAI BRITH INITIATIONS

A joint initiation and installation was held Sunday afternoon and evening at Buckingham Memorial by Rose of New England lodge, No. 898, B'nai Brith, and the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 0, of the lodge. The initiation ceremony was conducted by men's and women's degree teams, 35 in all, from the Springfield, Mass., lodge and its auxiliary. The degree teams which are considered the finest in New England arrived in Norwich by bus at noon Sunday and were entertained at luncheon at the Wauregan hotel. The officers of the Springfield lodge and auxiliary made the trip in a machine owned by the mayor of Springfield who loaned his machine for the trip. The names of the Springfield degree teams and the members of the women's marching squad follow:

Men's degree: President, Louis Henner; vice president, Abraham Kanberg; monitor, Samuel R. Fein; treasurer, Max Spiversky; assistant monitor, Frank Ack (formerly of Norwich); warden Arnold Arenson, Henry Lasker, former president of the Grand Order, No. 1, was present and gave a brief talk. The incoming president of the Springfield lodge, Nathan Gilman, was also present as was Cantor Rakoff of Springfield.

Women's Auxiliary: President, Mrs. Rose Palmer; vice president, Miss Jennie Shalne; monitress, Mrs. Lillian Nathan; guide, Mrs. Carrie Darack; soloist, Mrs. Rose Widlansky; manager, degree team, Mrs. Lillian Nathan; director marching squad, Oscar Nikola.

Members of the degree team: The Misses Ida Cohen, Leah Rosenberg, Sonia Lewis, Mollie Lewis, Emma Strizak, Anna Siegel, Rose Pasik, Esther Aronstan, Bessie Dumerstan, Sophie Becker, Mary Lazerus, Sarah Smith, Minnie Webb, Anna Webb, Cissi Coleman and Sarah Greenstein.

The initiation ceremony started at 2.30 o'clock and occupied the greater part of the afternoon. The candidates initiated were as follows:

Rose of New England lodge: Dr. Charles W. Solomon, Dr. Meyer Goldberg, Harry Rosenberg, Max Belt, Geo. Schaller, Jacob Diamond of Putnam, A. Diamond of Putnam, Lester Bendett, Sam Ehrenberg, Joseph Swartzburg and Harry Markoff.

Woman's Auxiliary: Mrs. Ethel Belt, Mrs. S. Ehrenberg, Mrs. B. Rubinstein Mrs. R. Swartzburg, Miss Dorothy Pasnik, Mrs. Daisey Hivorsky, Mrs. Goldie Bruckner, Miss Rae Novick, Miss Marcia Bruckner, Miss Elizabeth Diamond, Miss Dora Diamond.

At the close of the initiation a supper was served with the following menu:

Cold Meats

Pickles — Olives

Rolls — Coffee

Abner Schwartz presided as toastmaster and the principal address was delivered by Max Hanover, who spoke on the topic of Service. Mrs. Alex Pasnik, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, officers of the lodge and visiting members were also heard. Music was furnished by the Harmon Sextette. Cantor Rakoff of Springfield sang and vocal selections were given by Mrs. Rose Widlansky of Springfield accompanied by Miss Ethel Cohen, of Springfield. Mrs. Rudolph Henschel was chairman of the entertainment committee. An interesting incident connected with the initiation was the fact that candidates representing three generations in one family were among those initiated.

Following the supper the installation of the officers of the lodge and auxiliary took place, the installing officers being Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lubschansky of New London, Mr. Lubschansky installing the officers of the men's lodge and Mrs. Lubschansky the officers of the auxiliary.

The list of officers installed follows:

Rose of New England lodge: President, Abner Schwartz; vice president Alex H Menes; treasurer, Dr. Pa A. Schwartz; secretary, financial and recording, Max Hanover; monitor, Morris Sussman; assistant monitor, Rudolph Henschel; warden, Abraham Bruckner; guardian, S. Ehrenberg.

Woman's Auxiliary: President, Mrs. Betty Pasnik; vice president, Mrs. Esther Trachtenberg; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles Jacobson; financial secretary, Mrs. B. Solomon; monitor, Mrs. Bessie Smith; sentinel, Mrs. K. Markoff; guide, Mrs. Rudolph Henschel; guardian, Mrs. Bella Bruckner; trustees, Mrs. M. Greenberger, Mrs. R. Trachtenberg, Mrs. B. Schwartz.

The officers of the Springfield lodge and the two degree teams left for home about 10 o'clock Sunday night.

$600,000,000 WAR CLAIMS OF UNITED STATES TO BE PAID $25,000,000 YEARLY

Agreement Reached by British and American Delegations—Amount Covers Cost of Occupation Forces in Germany and Damage Sustained—Payments Will Be Made From Proceeds of the Dawes Plan of Reparations and Will Extend Over a Period of About 25 Years—The Agreement is Subject to Ratification, Which is Regarded as a Foregone Conclusion.

Paris, Jan. 12.—(By The A. P.)—The British and American delegations at the conference of the allied finance ministers have reached a final and definite accord relative to the payment to the United States of the costs of the army of occupation and war damage claims. This was officially announced tonight.

The agreement is subject to ratification by a plenary session of the conference, but, inasmuch as France, Italy and Belgium entered the negotiations already pledged to support the American viewpoint, and divergences existed only between the British and Americans, ratification is regarded as a foregone clusion.

The United States under the terms of the agreement will receive about $25,000,000 yearly on the total of her claims, amounting to approximately $600,000,000. This reimbursement of the United States will occupy a period of twenty-five years.

The sum remaining due for the costs of the American occupation is fixed at between $250,000,000 and $260,000,000, while the amount of the war damage claims the conference has agreed will be based on the findings of the mixed claims commission. This has been tentatively fixed at $350,000,000.

The terms of the agreement provide:

First—The payment of the United States of $5,000,000 gold marks yearly by priority on the cash payments under the Dawes plan, to apply on the American army of occupation costs. These payments are to begin September 1, 1926, or after the extinguishment of Belgium's priority payments. If the Dawes plan functions normally that part of the United States claims will be written off the reparations book in 1943 or 44.

Second — The United States will share in the Dawes annuities at the rate of 2 1-4 per cent., the total payments not to exceed 45,000,000 gold marks annually, beginning retroactively September 1, 1924. These payments will be used to armortize the amount of the war damage claims as fixed by the mixed claims commission. The American representatives have agreed that this latter amount should not exceed $350,000,000, or with interest, roughly, 1,500,000,000 gold marks. Repayments under this head would normally take over thirty years, but it is expected that the heavier payments made in the latter years of the operation of the Dawes plan will cancel in about twenty-five years.

Third—The United States obtains the immediate release and possession, upon ratification of the protocol, of $15,000,000 now in the federal reserve bank, which was deposited there by the allies under the Wadsworth agreement.

These are the broad outlines of the agreement reached late tonight between Ambassadors Kellogg and Herrick and James A. Logan, on the one side, and Winston Churhill and Sir Otto Niemeyer, on the other, much to the surprise of the continental delegations because of the speed with which a situation that to them seemed a hopeless deadlock the past three days hasbeencleaned up.

The status of the German sequestrated property in the United States, including German tonnage, has not been officially discussed during the negotiations, but there appears to be a tacit understanding on the part of the United States delegation that they be held as security for the American claim, or that the amount of their value shall be deducted from the capital claim should they be definitely appropriated.

Approval by both the Washington and London governments of this agreement has been received by Ambassador Kellogg and Mr. Churchill, and the drafting committee is now engaged in putting it into a comprehensive and succinct resolution, and together with the solutions of other questions, it will be placed before the plenary session of the conference, which still remains tentatively fixed for tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Anglo-American accord was placed before a meeting of the delegates of the "big six," at which M. Theunis, (Belgium), Professor De Stefani (Italy), Viscount Ishii (Japan), and M. Clementel (Grance) adherred to the settlement as presented by Mr. Kellogg and Mr. Churchill, making ratification of the document by the plenary sesion certain as Theunis De Stefani and Viscount Ishii have full plenipotentiary powers, while M. Clementel was in constant touch with Premier Herriot during the drafting of the accord.

Unless the powers having limited interests raise difficulties on account of being faced with a more or less accomplished fact—they having had no part in the deliberations—and demand time for consideration of the protocol, the document should be signed at the plenary session tomorrow, and the conference should conclude its work tomorrow night. The experts committee will labor throughout the night rounding out the solutions of the other problems which will be turned over to the drafting committee as soon as concluded, and the latter hopes to be ready with its report for the final meeting of the big six at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Commenting on the agreement, Ambassador Kellogg said this evening: "I always felt confident that the question would be settled to everyone's satisfaction."

Ambassador Herrick remarked sagely: "All's well that ends well."

Mr. Logan said: "I am glad it is over; it has been tough pulling."

Winston Churchill and Sir Otto Niemeyer, for the British, also expressed satisfaction at the settlement.

Conversations on war debts between Great Britain and France continue intermittently. Mr. Churchill dined at the residence of M. Loucheur and went over the question with him, and also had a talk with M. Clementel during the day. He and M. Clementel will have another meeting tomorrow, at which Premier Herriot will be present unless prevented by work in connection with reopening of the French chamber. No attempt has been made thus far to take advantage of the new situation created by the appointment of Mr. Kellogg as secretary of state to bring America unofficially into these discussions.

DAWES PLAN FOREMOST IN PARIS THIS WEEK

Paris, Jan. 13—All the organizations provided for under the Dawes plan are gathering in Paris for what promises, to use the words of Seymour Parker Gilbert, Jr., agent general for reparations, who arrived in Paris today from Berlin, "one of the most important weefs in the execution of the Dawes plan since it went into force."

The Dawes plan will take the center of the reparations stage immediately the finance ministers make their exit from the scene. The first meeting of the Dawes plan officials has been called for Wednesday, when all the commissioners and trustees appointed under the plan will meet under the chairmanship of Mr. Gilbert.

On Thursday Mr. Gilbert will preside over the meeting of the transfer committee, which includes Joseph E. Sterrett of New York, representing the United States. The trustees of the German loan, Mr. Gilbert, Dean Jay of Morgan-Harjes Bank in Paris, and M. Termeulen of Holland will hold a meeting later in the week.

The coordinating board, when it meets on Wednesday, expects to have before it the official protocol of settlement concluded by the conference ministers and to study its adaption to the future execution of the Dawes plan.

SURRENDERS BUSINESS CARES FOR FIRST TIME

New York, Jan. 12. — Almerindo Portfolio, forty-six years old and a millionaire, is traveling southward on the Florida Limited, rid of business cares for the first time since he began his career as an immigrant errand boy at the age of ten.

His $7,000,000 cloak business built up painstakingly through twenty years he gave away today to six of his employes in the offices of A. Portfolio and Company, Inc., on Broadway. The former manufacturer has now undertaken his lon-cherished dream of a trip around the world.

Portfolio, the son of poor Italian parents, came to America in 1888. He went to work immediately as an errand boy. He emerged after 13 years of rugged toil, the manager of a shop. Four years later, with two machines in a Fourteenth street attic, he founded his own shop. The miniature factory in twenty years has changed into a $7,000,000 business. His own fortune made, Portfolio has given his business to others.

The six employes who, because Portfolio had a desire to travel around the world, became executives overnight, have all worked for the establishment at least ten years.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S ADVICE TO CONTRACTORS

Washington, Jan. 12—Delegates of the Associated General Contractors' of America, opening their annual convention here today, were advised by President Coolidge in a brief address at the white house, that they might serve the public interest by standardizing contract forms and adjusting operations ot combat seasonal fluctuations in employment.

Secretary Hoover, who spoke before the convention later, expressed opposition to the undertaking of construction work by governmental authorities without utilization of contractors' services.

"My own belief as an engineer is that construction of public works by contracts makes for national accomplishment," he said.

During general sessions of the convention, the delegates began discussion of a proposed "code of ethics" to govern contractors' relations with clients.

Leonard A. Sason, of Boston, introducing a committee report on the subject, predicted that labor rates in building would remain stationary during the next few months.

JURY SELECTED FOR THE TRIAL OF MEANS

New York, Jan. 12—Work of picking a jury for the trial of Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, and his one-time attorney, Thomas B. Felder on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice, was completed late today.

After the jury had been sworn in and discharged until tomorrow morning, former Judge Johnstone, representing Col. Felder, moved to dismiss the indictment on the ground that it was insufficient in law on its face and that there was not a single act alleged that shows the remotest tendency to affect the consummation of the agreement which had for its object the bribery of former United States Attorney General Daugherty and other government officials.

Federal Judge Walter E. Lindley of Danville, Ill., denied the motion. A similar motion made by attorney for Means also was denied.

Actual taking of testimony will begin tomorrow morning.

It was said that the general probably would decide to travel to Buenos Aires through the southern Cordilleras, by way of Neuquen, thus crossing southern Argentina.

Fire in Palazzo Rospigliosi

Rome, Jan. 13.—(By the A. P.)—Fire which broke out today in the historic Palazzo Rospigliosi, in which American Ambassador Fletcher lives was extinguished after several hours' work, the flames having been confined to the library of Prince Guilio Rospigliosi. The ambassador and his family, who occupied another part of the palace, were not endangered.

Paderewski in Rome

Rome, Jan. 12.—Ignace Jan Paderewski arrived here today and was received by many friends and representatives of the musical world. Premier Mussolini assigned Prince Colonna to meet the Polish pianist-statesman at the railway station. Among others at the station were Count San Martino, president of the Royal Academy, and Polish Minister Salefski. Paderewski will give a concert Wednesday, his program consisting of Beethoven, Schumann and Chopin.

SUSPECT NEWPORT BOY WAS MURDER VICTIM

Newport, R. I., Jan. 12.—The police tonight were searching for clues which might explain the death of Leon Rose, 13 years old, apparently a murder victim, whose body was found in the rear of a building on long wharf, near the freight yards of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad early this afternoon. The top of the boy's head had been crushed by a terrific blow, apparently inflicted by a 33 pound concrete building block which was found nearby. Rose had been missing since about 9 o'clock Sunday night.

An autopsy conducted by Dr. William A. Sherman, medical examiner, and Dr. Charles W. Stewart late today disclosed the head injury to be so extensive that it could not have been caused by a fall against the block, as had been at first supposed.

When found shortly after noon today, the body was snow covered. Death had occurred at least 7 or 8 hours before the body was found, the doctors said, and it was indicated that the fatal injury might have been inflicted many hours before the snow began to fall.

The body bore no sign of violence beyond the one blow on the head which apparently had been inflicted where the body was found. The overcoat was buttoned and the clothing was not disarranged. No attempt had been made to rob.

The police were unable to assign any motive for a hostile act against the boy.

Rose had left the house of an uncle at about 9 o'clock, announcing that he had to go to a railroad roundhouse, which is located not far from where his body was discovered. He never reached the roundhouse, workers there said today. Much interested in railroading, the boy frequently rode about the yard on locomotives, it was said. It was believed that he had gone to the yard to ride to the station on an engine which left shortly after 9 o'clock.

TESTS TO BE MADE BY CRASHES OF AIRPLANES

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 13.—Four airplane crashes are to take place at Wilbur field this week, McCook officers announced today.

The crashes are to be tests and are believed to be the first of their kind. Four old planes and four old motors are to be used. The planes will be stripped of their wings and placed on a 100-yard skidway. When the motor has reached its maximum the planes will be cut loose.

For 100 yards they will dash down the skidway. At the end of this, they will have reached their maximum speed and there they will hit a concrete wall.

Moving picture cameras will be trained on each crash and a record for close examination will be made. The crash will be observed through field glasses and other instruments.

It is hoped through these experiments to discover causes wherein death occurs to the pilot and to guard against them. Another purpose is to determine what methods can be best employed to prevent aeroplanes from catching fire during accidents.

A full load of gasoline will be placed in each ship.

HAS STORY OF AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP FOR JAPAN

Chicago, Jan. 12—Proofs of friendship of the American people for the Japanese are being carried back to Japan by Y. Tsurumi, student and political leader and son-in-law of the influential Baron Goto, former mayor of Tokio, he said today in an address. He expressed pleasure over the feeling he had found in America and said great importance attached to the relations of Japan and the United States in the Pacific era.

The American immigration exclusion legislation, he referred to as "the great blow from the hand of a friend."

OBITUARY

Miss Mary E. Curtin

New Britain, Jan. 12.—Miss Mary E. Curtin, secretary of the chamber of commerce of New Britain, and said to be the only woman secretary of a chamber of commerce in New England, died today of typhoid fever and pneumonia, after a two months' illness.

Miss Curtin was the organizer, first treasurer and a past president of the Business and Professional Women's club of New Britain. She entered the chamber of commerce here as a stenographer after her graduation from the New Britain High school in 1916. Later she was made an assistant secretary and in 1923 became secretary following the resignation of Ray L. Nakin.

Her work has attracted attention in all parts of the country and at the recent national convention of the chamber of commerce secretaries in Washington she took a prominent part in the discussions. During the campaign for funds for the new $80,000 hotel, which opened here last spring, Miss Curtin took an active part and much of the success of the proect was said to be due to her efforts.

Miss Curtain is survived by her parents and several brothers and sisters. Electrical Inspector C. J. Curtin, of New Britain, is a brother.

Drifted Helplessly In Tempests at Sea

Crew of 17 Men of Portuguese Vessel Relate a Story of Hardships.

New York, Jan. 12.—Seventeen half-starved men made port today with a story of hardships and brushes with death such as few sailormen live to tell.

They were the captain and crew of the Portuguese windjammer Manuel Caragol, which went down with a hole full of bones last Saturday morning, after 30 days of brave battles against gales that beset her from the time she left Rio de Janeiro until the battered hull was sighted by the shipping board freighter Kenowis.

Her master, Joseph Mogano, was taken off the Kenowis on a stretcher. Suffering the pain of three broken ribs, suffered when he rescued a seaman from being washed overboard, Mogano three times attempted to kill himself in his cabin, but members of the crew saved him each time. His last attempt was when the crew was removed from the Caragol to the Kenowis. Instructed to burn his ship because she was a menace to navigation, the master sought to make the defeated four master his funeral pyre, but was forcibly removed.

The Caragol left Rio October 18, for Philadelphia with a cargo of bones to be used for fertilizer. Within 24 hours she ran into a succession of squalls which increased in fury as she bravely continued on her way. Her plight grew worse and worse, the storms opening up seams in her, through which the waters poured. The crew threw loose cement into the hold, but only succeeded in clogging the pumps.

A few days before Christmas a gale stripped every shed of sail from her four masts, and the Caragol drifted before the wind. The day after Christmas, the coal gave out and the men burned parts of the deck to obtain heat. On New Year's day each man was rationed to one sea biscuit a day. On Jan. 7 the lookout saw the smoke of a ship on the horizon. The men went on their knees and prayed. The steamer sailed on.

For three more days and nights the Caragol drifted helplessly. Once the Gulf stream carried her to within 50 miles of New York. But another gale whipped out of the North Atlantic and tossed her back to a point 190 miles southeast of the Nantucket light, where the lookout of the Kenowis, herself blown 700 miles off her course by a gale, made out her distress lights through the driving rain.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI CONTINUES AGGRESSIVE

Rome, Jan. 12 (By the A. P.)—Although the eagerly awaited session of the chamber of deputies proved a disappointment to the crowds and sensation seekers who jammed the galleries, the sitting today was not without importance in that it again revealed Mussolini in the characteristic role of aggressor. Continuing to borrow a leaf from Marshal Foch's code of tactics, that the best defense is to attack, Mussolini presented a bill designed to deal a death blow to Freemasonry in Italy.

The bill provides that all secret societies and clubs must file with the police copies of their constitutions, by-laws, rules and regulations, as well as complete lists of the full names of their officers and members. Severe penalties are provided for failure to comply with these provisions. Although it was known that the Fiscist government had contemplated such a measure for many months, its presentation nevertheless produced a profound impression.

ASKS RESIGNATION STATE BANK COMMISSIONER

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 2.—Attorney General C. B. Griffith this afternoon demanded the resignation of Carl J. Peterson, state bank commissioner, appointed by Governor Jonathan M. Davis, says a special despatch to the Kansas City Star from its Topeka bureau.

Attorney General Griffith took action on the strength of an affidavit made by A. L. Oswald, a lawyer of Hutchinson, Kansas, in which it is charged Peterson demanded $4,000 for the parole of Walter Grundy, Hutchinson bank wrecker, now serving a term in the Kansas penitentiary, the Star dispatch says.

Peterson refused to resign and the attorney general will file ouster proceedings against the bank commissioner, says the despatch.

GAS EXPLOSION CAUSE DEATH OF TWO MEN

Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 12.—Two men were killed and 13 injured in a gas explosion at the new million dollar steam generating plant of the Southern California Edison Company here today.

The explosion occurred, according to a statement issued by company employes, when fire was lighted under a newly completed boiler, preparatory to steaming up. Gas escaping from a pilot light, which had been extinguished, exploded, showering brick and fragments of steel upon 300 or more men working in the room.

Damage to the plant will amount to thousands of dollars.

K. OF C. BLOCK DESTROYED BY FIRE IN LEOMINSTER

Leominster, Mass., Jan. 13. — Fire which discovered shortly after five o'clock this afternoon in the Knights of Columbus block in the heart of the business section has practically destroyed the building and is menacing surrounding property. A general alarm which brought all the apparatus in Leominster was followed by a request for assistance from Fitchburg, and it is believed now the fire is under control.

'PHONE OPERATOR STUCK TO POST DURING FIRE

Corry, Pa., Jan. 12.—Ethel King, telephone operator, stuck to her post today, calling volunteer firemen, while the flames roared around her. As a result the fire was confined to the telephone building, and to the garage next door where it started. The loss, including seven automobiles, is $50,000.

Train Derailed on The Penn. Railroad

Engineer Was Killed and Fireman Seriously Injured—Passengers Escape Injury.

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 12.—Engineer V. J. O'Brien, of Buffalo, was killed and Fireman William Breen, also of Buffalo, was seriously injured this afternoon when the Philadelphia-Buffalo express on the Pennsylvania railroad left the tracks near Keating. The locomotive rolled over on its side but the baggage car, dining car, two day coaches and two Pullmans, although leaving the rails, did not overturn. None of the passengers was injured beyond suffering slight bruises and scratches.

The cause of the accident has not been determined. Reports from the scene stated that there was no sign of a spread rail.

The accident occurred just over the bridge leading into Keating. Had it occurred a few hundred feet away the train would probably have gone into the Susquehanna river for there is a dangerous curve at this point.

The impetus of the locomotive tore up three lines of track, both main lines and a side switch. Traffic was tied up for several hours.

The body of O'Brien and the injured fireman were taken to Renovo on the engine of a milk train which was following the flyer. Breen is in a serious condition.

The flyer left Renovo 12 minutes late. In addition to the engineer and fireman the crew comprised Conductor Mulroy, Baggagemaster Witmerell and Breakman A. Kirkland.

BANKERS PAY TRIBUTE TO GEORGE F. BAKER

New York, Jan. 12.—J. P. Morgan in his first public address, and Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, led in voicing the tribute paid to George F. Baker, banker and philantropist, at the testimonial dinner into which the New York State Bankers' association turned their 27th annual banquet tonight.

At the close with the five hundred bankers on their feet cheering the aged guest of honor, Mr. Baker found it too much, and in a voice scarcely heard for his emotion, he appealed:

"What shall I say? All I can do is to ——"

When it seemed he might not go father he straightened determinedly.

"Is to thank you from the bottom of my heart. A little while ago I tried to tell some young men to conduct their lives to gain the love and affection of their fellows." After another effort: "I can only say the same thing again."

Then in a spirit of farewell: "I have had a long service as you know. I have crossed over the summit of lifes hill. I am wandering down the dowaward slope. I never shall forget. I can only thank you, again and again —and say: 'God bless you.'"

GOV. DAVIS DEMANDS A COMPLETE INVESTIGATION

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 12 (By the A. P.)—Jonathan M. Davis, "dirt farmer," governor of Kansas, stepped out of office today at the end of a turbulent two-year term and a few hours after his arrest on a charge of accepting a $1,250 bribe for a pardon.

Jointly charged with the retired executive is his son, Russell G. Davis, 28, who was caught in the act of receiving the money and delivering the pardon to Fred W. Pollman, former banker and convicted forger.

Both were released on bond of $1,000. Their preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 23.

Governor Davis went to court to face the accusation, made bond, wrote a letter to the presiding officers of the legislature demanding "a full and complete investigation" of his record, and then carried through his part in the inauguration ceremonies, turning over his office to the incoming governor, Ben S. Paulen, republican.

BEQUESTS IN WILL OF LATE ALDEN SAMPSON

New York, Jan. 12—Contingent provisions for the endowment of a chair of poetry at Harvard University and for bequests to Princeton University and to Haverford College are contained in the will of the late Alden Sampson, author and naturalist, filed for probat in the surrogate's office here today.

The major portion of Sampson's estate is left to a son, Edward of Washington, D. C., in addition to personal belongings of the deceased and New York City realty, the will gives him the residue of the estate in the form of a trust fund. On reaching forty he is to receive the principal; but the will provides that if he should die before reaching 40, and leaves no children, Harvard University is to be presented with $100,000 as endowment for a chair of poetry.

In this contingency, the residue of the statee, save a $50,000 trust fund left to the widow, is to be apportioned equally to Harvard and Princeton universities and Haverford College.

WOULD HAVE ASSESSORS OBTAIN WRITTEN OPINIONS

Bridgeport, Jan. 12—Because of the difficulty in accurately construing the meaning of statutes affecting matters of assessment and taxation, William H. Blodgett, tax commissioner of Connecticut, at the close of a hearing on conditions in this city, today stressed the advisability of assessors, when not certain of their legal rights, obtaining from city attorneys written, not oral, opinions. These, he said, should be made part of the official records of assessors office. The commissioner will later submit to the governor a special report of the taxation situation in Bridgeport.

STATUS OF TEXTILE WAGES IN NEW BEDFORD

New Bedford, Mass., Jan. 12.—Acceptance of the ten per cent wage reduction affecting 40,000 workers, announced last week by the New Bedford Connton Manufactuers' association, was referred to the individual unions at a meeting of the New Bedford textile council tonight. The textile council, the central body representing the seven principal textile workers' unions here, voted no recommendation in submitting the question to the workers. The council decided to request a conference with the manufacturers on the wage question.

NEW BILL REGULATING POLLUTION OF STREAMS

Discussed at Conference in Hartford by Parties of Interest—Manufacturers, Mayors of Cities and Shellfish Growers Criticised Measure Recently Drawn Up by a Special Committee of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce—Matter of Division of Cost Was Considered.

Hartford, Jan. 13.—Three prominent groups of Connecticut interests —manufacturers, mayors of cities and shellfish growers—met here today and constructively criticised the new bill regulating the pollution of streams which was recently drawn up by a special committee of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce.

The cities of New Haven, New Britain, Bristol and Norwalk, the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut and the Oyster Growers' association all were represented.

The main discussion hinged upon whether or not Connecticut municipalities should be included in the new bill. Epaphroditus Peck, representing the city of Bristol, maintained that because Governor Templeton vetoed a bill which omitted cities at the last session of the legislature, a similar bill was sure to be defeated at the present session.

Thomas Robbins, mayor of Norwalk, brought out the point that it would cost his city several hundred thousand dollars to purify the waters between Norwalk and the Sound. Judge John H. Kirkham, city attorney for New Britain, contended that the state should pay one-half of the cost of eliminating pollution as proposed by the new bill.

Major John Buckley, of Hartford, house leader at the last session of the legislature and chairman of the committee of judiciary, which recommended the pollution of streams bill vetoed by Governor Templeton, expressed the opinion that the chamber's proposed bill was a distinct, step in the right direction and that it was the only kind of a pollution bill which stood any chance of passage at the present session of the legislature.

John H. Goss, vice president of the Scovill Manufacturing company of Waterbury, who was a member of the committee appointed by the 1921 session of the legislature to study pollution of streams in Connecticut, said that the wholesale method of acting through the municipalities would secure better results than the retail method of trying to get against individual violators of the pollution law within a municipality.

Mr. Peck of Bristol said that the cities should be included in the proposed bill but he raised the question whether the courts would take jurisdiction on an appeal from the pollution of streams commissioners for which the chamber's new bill provides.

George T. Kimball, president of the American Hardware corporation of New Britian and chairman of the committee on pollution of streams for the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, commended the new bill and expressed the belief that it should include cities.

J. Frederick Jackson, of New Haven, sanitary engineer representing the state board of health, maintained that the commission provided by the proposed bill should be given power to man out a code of purity rather than be forced to follow standards laid down by law.

Howard W. Beach, of New Haven, chairman of the Connecticut Shellfish commission, commented on the fact that while in the past years the many interests represented at today's meeting were accustomed to shaking their fists at each other at legislative committee hearings, they were now making constructive progress in a harmonious fashion.

Among those present at the meeting were Howell Cheney, of Manchester, Mayor Pagonesis, of New Britain; E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Manufacturers' Association of New Britain; Charles E. Wheeler of Stratford; H. L. Lewis, of Bridgeport and George E. Beers, of New Haven, chairman of the chamber's committee and who was instrumental in drawing up the bill considered today.

The committee will meet here next Monday to decide whether cities should be included in or omitted from the pollution of streams bill and to put up the bill in its final form for presentation to the board of directors of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce at an early date.

IRISH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN PARIS

Paris, Jan. 13 (By the A. P.)—William T. Cosgrave, president of the Irish Free State, tonight threw off the incognito he has maintained during his rest on the continent, to preside at a dinner tendered the French "committee of friends of Ireland," in honor of the inauguration of the Irish Chamber of Commerce in Paris.

Mr. Cosgrave in an address declared that the Irish nation "now has started on national housekeeping." He laid stress on the growth of Irish exports and declared that the budget for the last nine months had been balanced.

Monsignor Baudrillart, member of the French Academy and rector of the Catholic Institute in Paris, welcoming Mr. and Mrs. Cosgrave, recalled the traditional friendship between France and Ireland and said that however much the French government might vary in its attitude toward Ireland "Our French hearts are Catholic and therefore beat with yours."

33 COMMUNISTS WERE ARRESTED IN ROME

Rome, Jan. 12 (By the A. P.)—The police today surprised and arrested 33 communists who were christening and decorating a red flag with the soviet emblem of the hammer and sickle. The communists had gathered in an old garage in the outskirts of Rome, placing sentinels around the building to prevent being surprised.

The meeting reached its climax when the wife of one of the communists, Maria Piccioni, with a champagne bottle in one hand and a bouquet of flowers in the other, was about to christen the flag, which bore the inscription: "Although struck by lightning the future is ours."

At this moment a police official, followed by a squad of detectives carrying revolvers in hand, jumped into the garage, shouting: "Hands up in the name of the law. You are all under arrest."

Of those taken into custody 13 were women.

PETITION OF MYSTIC VALLEY WATER CO.

Hartford, Jan. 12.—The petition of the Mystic Valley Water company for permission to increase their rates to consumers, now supplied under contract, was considered by the public utilities commission at a hearing at the capitol today. The company also asks for determination by the commission of a fair rate of increase from the present rate which is on a graduated scale based on a $4 charge for one family for one water faucet. The company supplies Groton and adjacent territories and the section known as the Mystic fire district.

The hearing was adjourned until January 26 at 10.30 a. m., at which time it is expected that opposition to the proposal will be offered by the Groton and Mystic officials.

FLEEING PRISONER WAS FELLED BY CLERGYMAN

Massa was arrested on the complaint of Antoinette Carmado, 19, who alleged that he invited her to go to a movie with him.

SECRETARY HUGHES TO TAKE A VACATION

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 12.—Selection of Detroit as the 1925 convention city and consideration of important reports marked today's sessions of the executive committee of the American Bar association, meeting here with Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes as presiding officer.

The convention will be held Sept. 2-4, and many of the reports now under consideration will be submitted to the full membership of the association.

Providence, R. I., and St. Louis, Mo., were Detroit's opponents in the contest for the convention.

Secretary Hughes, president of the association, spent most of the day with the committee.

"There is nothing to be said about my retirement from the cabinet," he remarked. "My letter to the president and his answer speak for themselves."

Asked if his resignation foreshadowed an intention to become a candidate for president, four years from now, the secretary indicated he has no further political ambitions, but desires to devote his time to professional work.

"I want to take a little vacation after I retire on March 4," Mr. Hughes said, "but I have not made my plans as yet, and do not know where I shall go, or what I shall do, except that I am going to rest. Then I shall resume the practice of law with my old firm."

Tonight the secretary was the principal speaker at a dinner given at the Piedmont Driving club.

Abuses of the bankruptcy laws and the remedies necessary for correction have been made the basis of a special committee's investigation.

Charles A. Boston, New York, chairman of the committee on ethics, has started a movement to raise funds for the compilation of a model code of criminal procedure, and the association will endeavor to arouse interest in the bill providing for the indexing and digesting of current legislation now before congress.

TWO MEN POISONED AT WEDDING PARTY

Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 12.—Two men are dead, three others are in a critical condition and numerous members of a wedding party at Gilbertson, near here, are being treated tonight in homes along the Mahanoy valley as a result of what is reported by police and physicians to have either been a wholesale poisoning plot or an ill timed joke.

The names of the victims have not been obtained. State and local police are working on the case.

According to reports among Gilbertson residents someone at the wedding put metal polish in the punch bowl at the wedding feast. First reports were that poison alcohol was responsible, but a physician who treated the victims stated that it was a powerful poison that had none of the characteristics of alcoholic poisoning.

Six persons are known to have drunk the liquid, but as members of the party were taken to homes and surrounding towns by friends the exact number of victims is problematical.

LAWYER PROMINENT IN ATLANTA DROPPED DEAD

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 12.—Alex W. Smith, prominent member of the Atlanta bar, dropped dead tonight at the Piedmont Driving club, just as Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes entered the reception room to attend a banquet given in honor of him and other members of the executive committee of the American Bar association.

Office Hours: 8:30 to 12 m; 1:30 to 6 p. m.

In the police court Monday morning Andre Czesauski of Stone Row, charged with intoxication as a result of a row in Brick Row late Saturday night, claimed he had been assaulted, but the police were unable to verify his statement, and he pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $10 and costs, which he paid.

For assault on Joseph Musial, Albert Suval pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $12.15. The assault was claimed to be the result of Musial's accosting Suval's daughter in Brick Row late Saturday night, which she reported to her father, who responded by striking Musial in the head. The girl claimed Musial had often made insulting remarks to her.

As the result of a raid made at the home of George Ellis on the Bingham Bridge road Sunday night at 2 o'clock by Lieut. Frank McLean and Officer Arthur Hurley, Henry Beaudry, 21, pleaded guilty to a charge of fornication and paid the fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $18.15, imposed by Judge Foss. Anna Kelley, 18, of Temple street, was ordered committed to the House of the Good Shepherd until she becomes of age.

Of eight raids conducted Saturday afternoon in the town of Mansfield by state police officers from the Stafford Springs barracks, Hartford and Somers, three resulted in conclusive evidence of illegal traffic having been carried on, three others in the location of stills and their attendant equipment, and two with no signs of owners or occupants figuring in violations of the law. Half way between Mansfield City and the South Coventry station, Officer Hulburt of Stafford Springs and Deputy Sheriff A. S. Hurlburt of Somers found at the farm of Frank Golic a five-gallon still, a quantity of mash and a couple of quarts of moonshine.

At the farm of Alexander Sedeski in Mansfield City Officers Heinold, Hardisty and Abild of Stafford and Smith of Hartford stumbled upon 50 gallons of prepared mash and a gallon of "white mule" in an obscure section.

On the property of Mrs. Kate Jas-lusky, near the Willimantic ice plant on the road to Mansfield Center, Officers Hayes, Hardisty, Abild and Smith found three gallons of moonshine and a five-gallon still. Golis, Sedeski and Mrs. Jaslusky appeared before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews and the first two pleaded guilty. Golic was fined $100 and costs, given a six months' suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for six months. Sedeski was fined $100 and costs on the charges of manufacture and $25 for having in his possession liquor with intent to sell, got a suspended six months' jail sentence and was placed on probation for six months. The case of Mrs. Jaslusky was continued to Saturday, Jan. 17, under bonds of $300, which she paid in cash. All the cases were prosecuted by Grand Juror Frank W. Millard.

The death of Ella Brown, widow of Charles S. Caswell, occurred at the Old People's home in Hartford Saturday evening. She is survived by one son, Charles H. Caswell, of this city, and a granddaughter, Miss Lois Caswell.

The marriage of Miss Donalda Cote and Herman Girardin of Hartford took place Monday morning in St. Mary's church, Rev. Ludovic Paradis of Voluntown officiating. Father Paradis was also celebrant of the nuptial high mass. There was special singing by St. Cecelia's choir. The witnesses were Louis Turcotte of Hartford, a brother-in-law of the bride, and Leon Girardin of Lewiston, Me., a brother of the groom. Following the ceremony, lunch was served at the home of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. Girardin left for a trip to Portland and Lewiston, Me. Guests were present from Portland, Lewiston, Holyoke, New Britain and Hartford.

Requiem high mass was sung at St. Mary's church by Rev. H. C. Leloc at the funeral services of Mrs. Camille Marcotte, held Monday morning. The casket was escorted to the sanctuary rail by a delegation of St. Anne society, the banner bearers being Mrs. Gedeon Cote, Mrs. Alfred Desrosiers and Mrs. Joseph Sampson. The canopy bearers were Mrs. Ferdinand Bernier, Mrs. Joseph Vertefeuille, Mrs. Joseph Boulais, Mrs. Znon Beausoleil. The bearers were Joseph Thiffeault, Alfred Desrosiers, Ferdinand Bernier, Gregorie Vertefeuille and George Baillargeon. The committal service at the receiving vault in St. Joseph's cemetery was read by Father Belec.

At the annual meeting of the Musi-cians' Protective union, No. 493, F. of A., held Sunday afternoon at band quarters on Jackson street, the following officers were elected: President, J. Deloraine Conant; vice president, Joseph Pepin; secretary, William B. Smith; treasurer, Wilbur G. Stevens; sergeant-at-arms, Harry Rosen; executive committee, the officers already named and A. Dumas, Hector Fournier, Roderick Cote, Harry Young and A. Vantine Anderson. Supper was served at a local restaurant under the arrangement of a committee composed of Wilbur G. Stevens, William B. Smith and Burt Osterhoudt.

According to the report issued from the public library by the librarian, Mrs. Terry, the year ending in November, 1924, shows the largest number of books in circulation within the library's history, an increase of 10,244 over the 45,346 books in circulation in 1923. In the children's department the circulation shows an increase of 7,865 over the preceding year.

Friends of Rev. H. S. McCready, formerly pastor of the First Congregational church in town, who were able to connect by radio Sunday night with KOO, Oakland, Calif., had the privilege of listening to a service there conducted by Mr. McCready. One of those to listen-in was Clarence C. Palmer, who tuned in at random at 10.45, and unexpectedly encountered an old friend's voice from that distance.

Mrs. Iva McGray, a former resident of North Windham, is to sing at Station WGI, Medford Hillside, Mass., Wednesday night at 9 o'clock or half-past.

Among the members of Our Lady of Lourdes church, Hampton, a Catholic Woman's club is in process of organization. The first meeting is to be held in the community room at the Fletcher Memorial library Friday at 8 o'clock. Toward the organization of this club the proceeds of a masquerade ball held New Year's eve have already been given, as well as a number of individual donations.

Heard and Seen

Mrs. Levi Warren and Miss Warren were the guests of friends in Springfield Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Veglard of Hartford spent the week end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Veglard.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tracy entertained for the week end Mr. and Mrs. William G. Wheelock, Jr., of Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Burton entertained over the week end Earl Stone Russell, of the state supervising force.

Mrs. John G. Bill, who is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Alma Bullock in Cambridge, is ill with bronchitis.

Alberto Salvi, harpist, who was to have appeared in High School Hall Wednesday evening at the second in the series of concerts given by the Community Entertainment Course, will be prevented from doing so by the illness of Mrs. Salvi. The concert will be given at a later date.

Rehearsals for a three-act comedy "Old Acre Folks" which is to be given by members of the Methodist church, are being held under the direction of Mrs. Charles Beebe. The cast includes Mrs. Alice Easterbrooks, Mrs. Charles Beebe, Howard Haling, and Miss Betty Muirhead.

Mrs. F. H. Sherman is to entertain the members of Ann Wood Elderkin Chapter, D. A. R., today (Tuesday) at her home.

A meeting of the Willimantic Pas-tors' Union was held Monday at the Baptist church, Rev. Frederick Foshay entertaining. Fifteen clergymen were present, also several guests, among them Mrs. McCullem and Mrs. Smith from Mansfield Depot, Mrs. Sundt of South Willington, Mrs. F. C. Williams and Mrs. Frederick F. Foshay of Willimantic. Dinner was served at twelve o'clock by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church, after which a discussion of the proposed child labor amendment was opened by Town Clerk Frank Fenton, who spoke in favor of the amendment. Mr. Fenton reviewed in a measure, the points he made last week at the debate on that subject, in addition answering certain objections made at that time. The members of the Union were quite evenly divided on the subject.

Mrs. William Johnston recently en-tertained at whist at her home, with sixteen guests present. Highest score was made by Mrs. J. L. Benton, second by Mrs. D. K. Clark. Mrs. Johnston was assisted by her daughter, Miss Muriel Johnston. Luncheon was served.

Miss Dorothy Ayer of the high school faculty spent the week end at her home in Newport.

David Yeomans of Andover spent the week end in Boston as the guest of his brother, John Yeomans.

Miss Madeline Holmes, of the model school faculty, is undergoing treatment at Hartford Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson and Miss Louise Kennedy of Greenfield, Mass., were callers Sunday at St. Joseph's hospital upon Miss Muriel Kennedy, who is a typhoid fever patient. Miss Kennedy has been ill for some time and is now recovering steadily.

Mrs. Frank H. Foss was a visitor in Norwich Monday.

Mrs. F. E. Guild is the guest in Baltimore to her daughters, Misses Harriet and Julia Guild.

Miss Ida Gibbs, of Pomfret, spent the week end at the home of Miss Florence McIntosh, attending the teachers' convention at the normal school Saturday.

Judge Frank H. Foss spent Monday in Bolton.

Mrs. M. E. Pomeroy is seriously ill at her home.

As early as 6.45 a crowd began to gather in front of the Gem theatre Monday night for the opening performance of the Charles K. Champlain Stock Company in "Thank U". In spite of stormy weather, by the time the light went down and the first curtain was rung up, there was not an empty seat in the house. "Thank U" is an unusual treatment of the not unusual predicament of a philanthropic rector in a small town under the control of a close-fisted vestry. The play was very pleasantly handled throughout and the audience roared with laughter and was liberal with applause. Charles Champlain gave an excellent interpretation of Rev. David Lee, suave and ministerial in accent and gesture, but with the simple dignity the part demanded. There was some very good pantomime, especially from Margot Beacon, the housekeeper and M. A. Francillon, as Abner, clerk of the vestry. Arthur Griffin as the apoplectic millionaire, F. Walter Card, proved a breezy young reforming waster, especially in the first act and the role of "Diane" was charming.

Mr. Champlin appeared in character after the second act with a welcome to the people of Willimantic, outlining the plays that are to be given the rest of the week.

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as I call it, first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Every one who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much." — Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

A Raw, Sore Throat

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Keep it handy for instant use.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

SAME CITY APPOINTEES EXCEPT TAX COLLECTOR

Willimantic, Jan. 12—The reading of the mayor's annual message and the yearly appointments of the heads of various city departments as recommended by the mayor made up the principal business of the January meeting of the board of aldermen Monday evening.

The reports of chief of police, chief of the fire department and superintendent of the streets were read by the city clerk, James S. Donohue, Jr. This was followed by the message of Acting Mayor George W. Hickey. Among recommendations made in the message were the issuance of serial bonds, the purchase of additional fire apparatus and the centralizing of the department, the purchase of a storage reservoir and a new pumping engine, the laying of an auxiliary main for the water department, securing a contract for the city lighting system, the establishment of a filtration or chlorinating plant to further the purity of the city water supply and to safeguard the present general good health. As a conclusion the acting mayor thanked members of the council for their support throughout his term of service.

The appointments of the year were unanimously approved by vote. Aldermen Jackson and Beebe were tellers. The appointees are all present encumbents with the exception of the tax collector, Arthur P. Bergeron, replacing Alfred J. Lariviere, who declined the position of city tax collector for the ensuing year for reason said to be due to a cut made last year in the amount of compensation for that office.

Following are the appointments: Corporation counsel, Thomas J. Kelley; inspector of plumbing, William B. Kelley; collector of taxes and assessments, Arthur P. Bergeron; superintendent of streets, John S. Sullivan; superintendent of sewers, John S. Sullivan; supeintendent of water works, Henderson S. Moulton; superintendent of pumping station, Willard N. Bowen; city health officer, Dr. W. P. S. Keating; assistant engineers, Frank M. Lincoln, James Rowan, Thomas Moran; fire police, Lyman Maine, Thomas Kelley, James Moriarty, Joseph Beaulieu, Leo Preue, Edmund J. Peloquin.

Other business included the appointment of Pierre E. Marrott as a supernumerary member of the police department. Resolutions adopted, the alderman by whom they were introduced and the committees to which they were referred were: To make an adjustment of the interest on a sewer assessment to Amos G. Lewis, Alderman Beebe, to the sewer committee; to frame a large map showing the location of water connections and hydrants and have lithograph copies made, by Alderman Buck, to the water committee; to purchase two dozen boots for the fire department, Alderman Larramee, to the fire committee; to secure specifications for sidewalk construction, Alderman Buck, to the street committee; to introduce a bill in the general assembly for the payment of $750 to Acting Mayor Hickey for services, to City Clerk Donohue; for a bill to the general assembly to secure a revision of Section 18 of the city charter, by Alderman Jackson, to City Clerk Donohue; to pay due compensation to the dog warden, John T. Melkie, by Alderman Jackson; authorizing the mayor to borrow the sum of $10,000 to defray current expenses, by Alderman Buck; to replace a silent policeman at the corner of Main and Bank streets with a signal of the mushroom type, by Alderman Leem, to the street committee; to remedy a nuisance caused residents of Pleasant street by the burning of soft coal in the local railroad yard, by Alderman Lewis, to the sanitary committee; to centralize the fire department with headquarters at the Bank street engine house, by Alderman Lee, to the fire committee.

A long discussion led by Chairman Larramee of the fire committee related to matters concerning the betterment of the fire department. Recommendations made by Councilman Larramee were to centralize the department, to purchase a small pumper and a service truck with ladders and to reimburse Acting Lieut. Roger English for his services as an official of the department.

At the close of the session Mayor Hickey on behalf of the board extended Corporation Counsel Kelley the best wishes for bon voyage. Attorney Kelley leaves soon for the first vacation he has taken during the many years of his busy career. He will visit Panama and countries of interest in the vicinity.

Adjournment was taken at 10 o'clock.

FIRE ALARM BELL FAILS TO SOUND RECALL SIGNAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Jan. 12.—A triple bell alarm rung in at 6.30 Monday evening from Box 68, corner of Jackson and Valley streets. As it failed to be followed by the sounding of a recall it attracted considerable attention. A large crowd gathered but found nothing but an ordinary chimney fire which was quickly extinguished with 12 gallons of chemicals. The recall was not sounded due to a minor breakdown in the mechanism of the alarm bell at the Main street engine house. The fire was in a building at 64 Jackson street owned by the Polish corporation and occupied by Alside Cote and family. The Montgomery Hose Co. outfit, consisting of a motor truck drawing an old fashioned chemical wagon, also responded to the alarm. The dangerous possibilities of this piece of apparatus were again manifested when it skidded on the snow and hooked up with a fire hydrant near the site of the fire. Men worked for some time to release it. While the chimney fire was in progress a still alarm came in at Engine Co. No. 1 for a similar blaze at 16 Moulton court in the house owned jointly by Anthony Kudzank and Albert Katarzymie and occupied by the latter. Thirty gallons of chemicals were used here.

JEWETT CITY

The new telephone directories show 445 telephones in the Jewett City exchange, an increase of 76 since the last issue. One name is omitted, that of Mrs. Walter I. Johnson, 164-2. Two names should be added which were too late for printing, George Palmer, 107-3 and Leon Young, 7-5. Through a misunderstanding, Jodoin's market number was not changed and will be the same as printed in the director, 61-5. There are several changes in numbers so that wise subscribers will save time and trouble by consulting the directory before asking for a number.

FINDING ON REGULATION OF MOTOR VEHICLE TRAFFIC

Washington, Jan. 12.—A decision affecting state regulation of motor vehicle traffic over public highways was handed down today by the supreme court in a case brought by the Michigan public utilities commission and others against the Duke Cartage company.

In declaring invalid sections of the Michigan law of 1923, as applied to the Cartage company, which make common carriers of those engaged in motor vehicle transportation for hire over public highways, the court, in affirming a decision by a lower court, held in effect that states cannot compel a private carrier by motor vehicle to engage in public traffic for hire. Maryland and Washington have similar questions at issue before the court.

The Duke Cartage company is engaged under contract in the transportation by motor trucks of automobile bodies from Detroit to Toledo, using in part the roads of Michigan. The effect of the laws under challenge as applied to the Duke company, the court stated, would make it a common carrier and require it to serve all to the limit of its facilities which would be unlawful, because it would prevent the company from using its trucks exclusively to perform its private contracts also would have been required under the provisions to furnish an indemnity bond to insure shippers against loss.

JUDGE DEPRECATES LOW PAY OF POSTAL CLERKS

New York, Jan. 12.—The "scandalous pay" of postal clerks compels them to be dishonest, Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow said today in postponing sentence upon four clerks who pleaded guilty of transferring cancelled stamps at a profit of about $100 to each.

"I have looked into the records of these men," Judge Winslow said, "and find that though they have given from 16 to 30 years service to the government, they now receive salaries of only $1,800 and $2,000.

"I will not send them to prison because they do not belong to the criminal class. I wish some of our welfare societies would look into the troubles of postal clerks instead of attempting to reform habitual criminals."

The men were released under suspended sentences on condition that they return to court on June 1 with proof that they have lived honestly. The defendants were: William Gallagher, 31 years in the service and father of four children; Arno Schaller, 24 years in the service and father of six children; William Huber, 17 years in the service and sole support of a 70-year old mother, and James Connelly, 16 years in the service.

U. S. ATTORNEY CALLS UPON HIS ASSISTANTS TO RESIGN

Boston, Jan. 12.—United States Attorney Harold P. Williams today requested the resignations of his seven assistants to be effective at his convenience. Mr. Williams recently succeeded Robert O. Harris, who was removed from office by President Coolidge.

The new federal attorney for Massachusetts explained that his request was a matter of form. It was said today most of his assistants will continue in office under the new regime and that the majority has already complied with the request.

The assistant district attorneys are John V. Sullivan, Miss Ellen Buckley, Lawrence Curtis, Elihu D. Stone, William J. White, Jr., John W. Schenck and Albert J. Welch. Mr. Sullivan has already been recommended for reappointment.

Mr. Williams had stated when under consideration for the position of federal prosecutor that one of his first acts would be to ask for the resignations of his assistants.

BORAH FAVORS EXTRA SESSION NEW CONGRESS

Washington, Jan. 12.—While the president's agricultural commission continued today to wrestle with the problem of farm relief, Senator Borah, republican Idaho, urged in the senate that there be an early extra session of the new congress to enact legislation dealing with the subject.

Calling attention that farm aid had been a predominant issue in the last campaign, the Idaho senator declared the problem confronting the country if the farmers are to have any permanent relief, is the same as it was before the election.

Betterments in some lines of agriculture, he continued, have been to two causes, the failure of crops in Europe and the Dawes reparations plan. He added, however, that the Dawes plan could not be of lasting benefit unless the amount of reparations to be paid by Germany is fixed at a definite sum.

Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, took issue with Senator Borah that congressional action was necessary.

GIRL'S MEMORY RESTORED BY TUNE FROM HARMONICA

New York, Jan. 12.—A familiar tune from a tin harmonica today restored the memory of a girl who had wandered from home and forgotten her name.

She was found, bewildered, before a police station, and taken inside. While awaiting an ambulance an embarrassed detective picked up a "mouth-organ" taken from a boy delinquent earlier in the day, and began to blow a tune.

The girl brightened at once. She remembered that she was Jennie Muscott and had left her home two hours before to get a loaf of bread. She had wandered more than a mile and was unconscious of her surroundings, she told the detective, until her brother's favorite tune called her back.

CUNARD LINER FRANCONIA BATTERED BY HURRICANE

New York, Jan. 12.—The Cunard liner Franconia arrived today 24 hours late and somewhat battered by the Grand Banks hurricane which last Thursday caught the Lapland and the Franco. The latter ships docked here last Saturday 48 hours behind schedule.

The Franconia put into port with one lifeboat missing, five of her forward ventilators smashed a wooden door on B deck splintered, a huge steel door on the promenade deck buried down, and a steward, Harvey Sandy, with a broken leg.

PENALIZED FOR SELLING "BOOTLET" RADIO SUPPLIES

New York, Jan. 12.—Joseph Haberman of the Bronx was sentenced to the workhouse for theft three months today for having distributed thousands of inferior radio tubes which, manufactured in Newark, N. J., were illegally stamped with the Radio Corporation of America's seal and sold in cartons bearing the name of that company.

The sentence was imposed my Justices Nierbert, Fetherston and Voorhees, sitting en bloc, after the first trial of a "bootleg radio" case in this city.

Distribution of "bootleg" radio supplies has been going on for 18 months, said the prosecutors, and Caberman and his associates sold 30,000 of the falsely labeled tubes. It was estimated that 10,000 such tubes were sold daily throughout the country.

REGRETS RESIGNATION OF SECRETARY HUGHES

Geneva, Jan. 12.—Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the house of representatives, who is in Geneva as the head of the American delegation to the international opium conference, today expressed his regret at the resignation of Secretary of State Hughes.

"I consider the retirement of Mr. Hughes not only a loss to the United States but to the entire world, he declared. "He held the respect and confidence of the people of the world to very extraordinary degree. My relations with him have always been so extremely pleasant that I regret exceedingly his retirement."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Over 800 shares were represented Monday at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Danielson Trust company. The stockholders expressed their pleasure with the very prosperous year their institution experienced during 1924, and over the growth of the bank, which was established in 1914.

The stockholders elected a board of directors that is identical in personnel with that of last year. This board of directors is representative of the manufacturing, industrial and commercial interests of Danielson, other sections of the town of Killingly and communities in the town of Plainfield. It is made up of J. Arthur Atwood, Dr. W. W. Adams of Moosup, Sidney W. Hard, treasurer of the Brooklyn Savings bank; W. Irving Bullard, Frederick A. Jacobs, George H. Call, Herman M. Coulter, N. Lorne Craig, F. E. Bitgood, Angus Park, D. E. Jette, Frank T. Preston, Alfred L. Reed, Everette T. Tillinghast, F. W. Tillinghast, Clifford H. Starkweather and A. Putnam Woodward.

Subsequent to the stockholders' meeting the directors met and re-elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, J. Arthur Atwood; vice president, Frederick A. Jacobs; secretary-treasurer, Clifford H. Starkweather; assistant secretary-treasurer, Harry E. Magoon.

In the town court Monday morning, Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding, Gregory Swirka, of Killingly Center, was found guilty of theft and sentenced to serve 90 days in jail and pay the costs of prosecution. Swirka appealed from the finding, but in default of bonds of $200, was taken back to the county jail at Brooklyn, where he spent the past week in default of bonds while awaiting a hearing of his case.

Swirka was a resident on the Warren farm at Killingly Center, the past year. Misfortune followed Swirka throughout the year, the worst disaster being the destruction of the big barn on the place by fire, late last summer, when it was struck by lightning.

In December Swirka's financial affairs had reached such a state that certain equipment at the farm was, by court order, sold at auction. At the auction, Burton Lewis of East Killingly purchased a cultivator and a mowing machine. When he went for them they had disappeared and Swirka is alleged to have claimed he did not know what became of them. The mowing machine later was found covered with brush and leaves in a secluded section of the farm. The cultivator has not been located. Swirka was found guilty of the theft of the mowing machine and on this count was sentenced Monday.

A trembling dog, with its flesh ripped open about a dozen inches near his hip, excited the sympathy of people who saw the animal here Monday morning awaiting attention by a veterinarian. The dog, the property of Dana Shippee of East Killingly, had been caught, evidently, in one of developed devices being set in territory hereabouts for the snaring of foxes and deer. This case, together with the spreading of a deadly poison along fox trails, has stirred up the interest of officials charged with the enforcement of game laws to a point where it is very likely a searching investigation will be made. Scores of hunters would be glad to co-operate with the officials in an effort to fix the responsibility for snaring and poison spreading and to obtain convictions in the courts. There are certain leads that may be followed in an effort to trace out the guilty persons and the most will be made of these at the earliest possible moment.

At the district meeting of District No. 4, American Legion, held at Hampton, the following members from Leo J. L'Homme post were present: Post Adjt. H. E. Copkins, Service Officer I. A. Warren and Comrades D. E. Burdick and L. Brunet.

Next Wednesday evening there is to be a public installation of the officers of Leo J. L'Homme post and the Ladies' Auxiliary, at the Legion rooms at 126 Main street at 8 o'clock.

The opening exercises and installation of Legion officers will be followed by an intermission at which time a lunch will be served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. After the intermission the auxiliary officers will be installed this to be followed by a short talk by the new state commander, Neil White from New Haven. After speaking there will be the presentation of the Past Commander's Medal to the retiring post commander, Thomas A. Beckett. This is the first public installation of this post and it is expected that all ex-service men and women who can will be present, also the general public has been invited to attend to see what the ex-service men are doing and how they are getting along in this town.

FIRST NATIONAL CHECKS COMING FROM WASHINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Jan. 12.—A despatch from Washington dated Jan. 12, reads: "Checks totaling approximately $567,000 will be mailed depositors in the defunct First National bank of Putnam by the comptroller of the currency tomorrow. This payment will be recognized as the first dividend and represents about 40 per cent. of the total deposits in the bank. No estimate of the size or date of subsequent payments could be obtained at the comptroller's office today. It was said to be the hope of the comptroller to pay 100 per cent. on the deposits but indications are that this is doubtful.

"The office work connected with preparing this dividend has necessitated a delay, as it was hoped that it could have been paid before Christmas. There are many hundred depositors on the list and each check goes through an intricate accounting process before it is finally released to the despositor."

WOOLEN CO. BRINGS SUIT AGAINST RECEIVER COFFIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Jan. 12.—Through its attorney, J. F. Carpenter, the Putnam Woolen Co. has brought suit in the superinor court of Windham county against George M. Coffin, receiver of the First National bank, to recover $41,341.77, the face value of $25,000 U. S. Certificates of indebtedness and $15,000 of Liberty bonds with interest to August 11, 1924, the day that the bank was closed as being insolvent. The writ is returnable the first Tuesday in February, 1925.

The Putnam Woolen Co. alleges that they hold the receipts of G. H. Gilpatric, former cashier of the bank, but that after the closing of the bank the bonds could not be found and that Gilpatric had embezzled them.

The claim was duly filed with the receiver, but December 11, 1924, it was disallowed and rejected by him on the order of the comptroller of the currency.

Plaintiff asks that the claim be paid, or the amount certified to the comptroller to be paid in due course of administration, and that the plaintiff shall receive before the further payment of creditors its due proportion of dividends.

The petition reads substantially as follows, eliminating certain legal verbiages:

To the sheriff of the county of Windham:

By authority of the State of Connecticut, you are hereby commanded to summon George M. Coffin, of New Haven, as receiver of the First National bank of Putnam to appear before the superior court to be held within and for the county of Windham on the first Tuesday of February, 1925, then and there to answer unto the Putnam Woolen company, in a civil action wherein the plaintiff complains and says:

On or about February 11, 1919, the Putnam Woolen Company authorized the First National bank to purchase for its account $50,000 par value United States Certificates of Indebtedness, and on or about March 20, 1919, the Putnam Woolen Company authorized the bank to purchase for its account an additional $50,000 of U. S. Certificates of Indebtedness, for which it paid the bank $100,000, the full value thereof. June 28, plaintiff authorized the bank to sell $50,000 of the certificates, which the bank did, and credited to the accounts of the plaintiff. August 25, 1920, the Putnam Woolen Company authorized the bank to sell $25,000 par value of said U. S. Certificates which the bank did, and gave credits to the account, leaving on hand with the bank $25,000 of U. S. Certificates and the Putnam Woolen Company holds proper receipt of this bank signed by its cashier for this amount, so held by said bank for said Putnam Woolen Company and the coupons on these $25,000 of certificates have been credited by the bank to the account of the plaintiff from time to time when due, from the date of the purchase of the same to and including the coupons due January 15, 1923.

There was due from said bank on August 11, 1924, on account of U. S. Certificates so held, the principal thertof of $25,000, coupons on the same due July 15, 1924, of $593.75, and interest at 4¾ per cent. from that date to August 11, 1924, of $89.06, making a total of $25,682.81 so due said Putnam Woolen Company.

October 17, 1918, the Putnam Woolen Company authorized the bank to purchase for its account $30,000 of U. S. Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, paying by its checks on said bank, the full value thereof; May 16, 1924, plaintiff authorized the bank to sell $15,000 of these bonds which the National bank did, and duly credited the account of the plaintiff, leaving with the bank $15,000 and said Putnam Woolen Company holds receipt for this amount, and the coupons on bonds have been credited to the account of the plaintiff from time to time when due, from the date of the purchase, including the coupons due April 15, 1924, and there was due from said First National bank on said August 11, 1924, to said Putnam Woolen Company, on account of said bonds, the principal thereof of $15,000 and interest from April 15, 1924, to August 11, 1924, of $202.96, and the value of said bonds on August 11, 1924, was, exclusive of interest, $15,450, making a total with interest of $208.96 of $15,658.96 due said Putnam Woolen Company.

August 11, 1924, and to the date of this writ, the said certificates of indebtedness of $25,000 with the coupons, and the said United States Fourth Liberty bonds of $15,000 could not be found by the bank of said receiver as being in the possession of the bank or said receiver, and the cashier of said bank, G. Harold Gilpatric, had embezzled the same.

December 11, 1924, the plaintiff made proper sworn proof of claims for said certificates of indebtedness, coupons, bonds and interest or the value thereof, amounting to $41,341.77 and duly presented said proof of claims to said received of the bank for allowance, and on December 11, 1924, the whole of said claims was disallowed and rejected by said receiver under instructions from the comptroller, and the said receiver duly notified said Putnam Woolen Company of its disallowance and rejection.

During more than eight years prior to August 12, 1924, the said Putnam Woolen Company has kept a large account subject to check with said First National bank of Putnam.

The said Putnam Woolen Company has never received from said bank or said receiver the said United States Certificates of Indebtedness or said United States Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, or the said coupons or said interest, amounting in all to $41,341.77, as set forth in its said claim, nor has it received the value thereof.

Your applicant claims:

That the said receiver do recognize the said Putnam Woolen Company as a creditor in the matter of said claim; and that he shall pay the said claim of forty-one thousand three hundred forty-one and 77-100 dollars $41,341.77, or certify the same to the comptroller to be paid in due course of administration, and that the said Putnam Woolen Company shall receive, before the further payment to creditors, its due proportion of dividends pro rata with those already paid to the creditors of the bank, with interest thereon.

WESTERLY

The death of Mrs. Wealthy T. Sheffield Sisson, 82, occurred Monday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock at her home, 27 Liberty street, Pawcatuck, after an illness of about seven weeks. She is survived by a son, Amos, and a younger sister, Miss Nancy A. Sheffield, with whom she made her home. Her husband, James Sisson, died about fifty years ago.

Recorded at the office of the Westerly town clerk are the following transfers of real estate:

Jan. 6—William McGinn to Town of Westerly, a lot of land with dwelling on the east side of the Pawcatuck river, near the Foster farm.

Thomas Gaccione and wife to William McGinn and wife a lot of land with dwelling house and improvements near lands of School district No. 14.

Theodore W. Wilkes to Rhoda M. Wilkes, his wife, an undivided one-half interest in a parcel of land with dwelling house and improvements on the south side of Cross street.

Jan. 8—Michael Juliano ro Frances M. Guiliano, his wife, an undivided one-half interest in a tract of land with buildings and improvements.

Arrested by Officer Robert M. Kessel, George Carney who was taken in on Canal street on an intoxication charge, was found guilty in a special session of the Third district court, and paid a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $7.80.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown reported Monday that the Nash touring car 449-292 Mass. found in front of the P. H. Opie store on High street New Year's eve, supposed to have been abandoned by store looters in East Greenwich and Wakefield, R. I., remained unclaimed in the Rhode Island garage.

This (Tuesday) evening Granite City Camp, No. 9159, Modern Woodmen of America and Elm Tree Camp, R. N. A., will hold a joint installation in the rooms of the Woodmen. Past Consul J. A. Church is to act as council assisted by past council George K. Healy as escort and Mrs. Mary E. Jenerson, state deputy, of Providence, assisted by Miss Charlotte Clark of the local camp, as ceremonial marshal. will install the officers in the Royal Neighbors. The meeting is open to members and their friends.

Miss Rose Montalto and Edward P. Lallo, both of Westerly, were united in marriage Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., Fr. Bruno also celebrated the nuptial mass which followed the ceremony. The wedding marches were played by Mrs. James McMahon.

The bride was attended by Miss Julia Turano, cousin of the groom. Peter Turano, also a cousin of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Minnie Turano, Mary Montalto and Rose Naccarato, Miss Mary Pellegrino the groom's cousin, was flower girl and Master Patsy Manfred, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. The ushers were Joseph Salimeno, Frank Castagnaro and Joseph Scuico.

The flower girl was dressed in yellow crepe de chine and carried a basket of roses.

Following the ceremony at the church a breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 40 Pierce street.

In the afternoon a reception and dance was held at the town hall. Many guests were present, including visitors from New York, Boston, Springfield, and Providence. The music for dancing was by Greeley's orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Lallo will make their home at 35 Pierce street.

Police Officer C. Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck was called on Monday morning to investigate the collision near Solomonville, on the Westerly-Stonington road, between a Cadillac automobile driven by Henry I. Teynolds, of Wickford, R. I., the auto-truck of Joseph C. Lee of Pawcatuck and the automobile to Richard W. Herman of Stonington which was parked by the roadside. When the brakes were applied on the Cadillac car it skidded across the slippery highway and struck the automobile of Mr. Herman and beside breaking its own bumper bent the fender of the standing automobile. The Lee truck was also hit but no damage was done or was there any injury to the several men who were in the truck on their way to harvest ice from the Lee pond.

The fifth snow storm of this winter began in Westerly Monday morning about 5 o'clock and continued intermittently during the day. Most of the snow fell in the morning, but being light was blown about. The weather moderated in the afternoon when a small sleet storm was in progress but this did not last long. The covering of snow whitens the ground but that is about all.

Monday morning the death occurred of Mrs. Ida E. Chesebro, 70, widow of Horace H. Chesebro, and a resident of Westerly for over 50 years. She died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene E. Lanphere, 31 Granite street. Mrs. Chesebro had been in failing health for the past year. She was born in Mystic, Conn., Oct. 10, 1854, the daughter of Henry and Lois Brooks Brightman. In 1873, she married Horace H. Chesebro and they came to Westerly to make their home. Mr. Chesebro died in April, 1905, and for a number of years Mrs. Chesebro made her home with her daughter.

She was a member of the First Baptist church of this town.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Lanphere she is survived by a nephew, Edgar S. Brightman of Newton Center, Mass., and a granddaughter, Miss Mildred C. Saunders of Westerly.

Joseph Bookataub of Pleasant St., Westerly, was aquitted in the Sixth district court, Providence, before Acting Judge Nathan M. Wright, in civil session, last week end of the charge of negligence in the operation of an automobile, the case being C. Frank Teardon of Providence vs. Bookataub of Westerly. GALES FERRY

Is the World Growing Better? was the theme of Rev. George Smith Brown's sermon, in the Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday morning. Matt. 13.33. "The Kingdom of Heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took and put in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened." Rev. Mr. Brown proved that the people of the world today are better than in the earlier centuries and that the need of the world is for men and women, who have time. The offertory anthem was Christ and His Love —(Babriel). Among the notices was the January meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society to be held at the home of the vice president, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt this (Tuesday) afternoon.

At the Sunday school at noon, with the superintendent, C. E. Colver, in charge, the banner classes, in offering was Miss Jennie G. Perkins' and in attendance, Rev. Mr. Brown's, Mrs. C. E. Colver, D. C. Perkins, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt and Miss Laura McGiness.

Miss Gertrude Allen was the leader, of the evening Epworth League service, the topic, New Minds in an Old Land. Special music by the men's chorus was Shadows and by the junior girls The Name So Dear. At the preaching service Rev. Mr. Brown spoke from 1 Cor. 13.

A social hour followed the Sunday evening service and the men's class served sandwiches and coffee. At a meeting of the Sunday School board $25 was voted toward the pastor's salary.

Prof. and Mrs. C. E. Dimock were at home Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in their new home at Gales Ferry, to friends from New London.

Nelson Parker and party, Rev. Geo. S. Brown, Walter T. Clark, Winthrop Hurlbutt and J. E. Norman, motored to Storrs in Mr. Parker's car Friday evening to witness the basketball game.

SELECTING ATTORNEY GENERAL

Political efforts were brought to bear to prevent the selection of Charles B. Warren as the head of the Department of Justice by President Coolidge. The delegation in congress from Michigan, Mr. Warren's state, didn't want him named. They maintained that it would not suit politically to have him become the next attorney general, so that fact was brought to the president's attention. There was nothing the matter with his ability and nothing that could be brought up against his character, but he just didn't fit in with the political scheme among certain of the Michigan delegation and Senator Couzens sought to prevent the appointment.

When it comes to picking the official family of the president, it is to be realized that the responsibility rests upon the president himself. Much depends upon his choice and it is to be expected that he will surround himself with men who meet his requirements. That is of course what the president has done in naming Mr. Warren. If the Michigan delegation could point out anything that the president did not know and which would be a serious handicap to the administration it was its duty to inform him. That being done, its responsibility was discharged. If on the other hand it desired to urge the availability of another no great harm was done, but it remained for the president to make his own selection.

In the choice of Charles B. Warren for attorney general there has been named a man who has had a laudable career as a diplomat, a lawyer of unquestioned ability, and if it is urged that he has not held elective office and does not play with the politicians so much the better for that only emphasizes his fitness for the important post he will be required to administer.

President Coolidge has chosen a man in whom he has confidence. He is fully in touch and fully in sympathy with the republican platform and the Coolidge policies. He has been picked for his ability and fitness and not political reasons.

THE WORLD COURT.

In view of the time limit on a short session of congress there has been no certainty that the world court issue would be brought before the present session of congress, but the introduction of a new resolution by Senator Willis of Ohio favoring adherence to the court with certain reservations interest centers about what the foreign relations committee may do with it and the others dealing with that subject which it has before it.

It is nearly two years since the resolution in keeping with the Harding recommendations was offered. The committee has as yet made no report. Whether it will do so this week, even to the extent of bringing the question before the senate for discussion is now awaited.

Endorsement has been given to the world court idea as advocated by President Harding by the platform of the republican party adopted at Cleveland. The reservations, which were drawn up by Secretary Hughes, set forth that this country acknowledges no legal relation with the league of nations, that the United States should participate upon similar terms with other nations in the selection of judges and that a fair contribution to the expenses of the court should be determined by congress.

In the Willis resolution there has been added another reservation suggested by Senator Borah to the effect that this country is not to be bound by advisory opinions handed down by the court at the behest of the league of nations.

Whether the effort to get the matter out of the foreign relations committee succeeds this week, the desirability of getting the question fairly and squarely before the senate must be appreciated. It may not be of such importance as to force it to occupy the attention of the senate to the exclusion of other business, but there's no reason why it shouldn't be brought out into the open with or without recommendation and be ready for the next congress even if this one cannot dispose of it.

TESTING DIRIGIBLES.

Are we coming to a period of commercial competition with dirigibles? This might be indicated by the plans of the British to put into operation between England and Australia two huge airships, which are twice as large as the Los Angeles and which can carry twice as much. It is also indicated by the talk which has been indulged in in this country to the effect that airships much larger than the one we recently brought from across the water might be constructed for commercial uses between this country and Europe.

How far such a move may be in the future will depend to a large degree upon the result of the experiments made with the two dirigibles owned by this country and by the two larger ones which have been constructed by the British. Tests will be watched with interest. Careful attention will be given to the costs and profits in the carrying of cargoes by such ships, while special concern will be given to the risk that is involved in the commercial operation of such airships.

There always has been and there always will be a big element of uncertainty in connection with the big aircraft which depend upon inflammable gas to sustain them in the air. It is a big advantage which this country has in this respect since the costly, but noninflammable, helium gas appears to be available only in this country. It costs more to inflate with helium than it does with hydrogen but considering the amount that is at stake in such a craft the importance of the gas which is not liable to explode over the easily lighted hydrogen needs no special emphasis.

Just what the future of the dirigible is may be better understood after some of the tests that promise to be made in the not distant future are concluded. Uncle Sam has devoted less attention to this type of aircraft than have others but some telling experiments can be expected with the Los Angeles and the Shenandoah though they do not have the rating today of being the largest ships of the kind in the world.

WORTHWHILE FILMS.

From time to time there has been a nationwide demand for better films. It has been urged that conditions in the motion picture business be bettered, and that pictures of a higher order, which would have no detrimental effect upon the youth, be provided.

As one of the results of the conditions, the desire to avoid censorship and the recognition of the need of cleaning house and getting the business on a better basis the organization known as the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America was formed and Will H. Hays was called upon to become its president and told to carry out the necessary housecleaning.

Mr. Hays has been at work with good results for the past few years. He faced no easy job and he has encountered some hard problems, but he has held steadfastly to his task without wavering. But in one of his recent communications it is interesting to note his reference to the inadequate public support of worthwhile films.

Public support is one of the things that determines the picture business to a large extent. The excuse for some films which have been considered undesirable is that they met the demands of the public, or they were put forth for the purpose of giving the public what it wants.

To a large degree the attitude of the public towards films can be determined by the patronage. If there is a demand for worth while films by the film lovers it is reasonable to expect that they be patronized. If it is the films which are rated among the worth while that get the business what is going to be the inference of the film producers and the picture houses?

SET THE RIGHT EXAMPLE.

Down in Washington, among other cities to the south, they have been having some large snowfalls. The result has been that there have been walks to shovel and, as is too common in most cities, there has been the disposition on the part of some of the residents to neglect the clearing of a path for pedestrians.

While attention has been called to this situation in Washington it has not gone unnoticed that while householders seemed a bit negligent in regard to their walks it also extended to the government for either the walks were not half cleared or else those in front of public property were not shoveled at all. Under such circumstances it is not surprising that the advice should be offered that Uncle Sam should not overlook the force of the good example that goes with cleared sidewalks.

Now true this is in every community. Critics are always ready to point out where the city has fallen down or failed to do what it requires of the individual. That may not be a good and sufficient reason for everyone neglecting the walks, but the good impression that comes from the early and thorough cleaning of sidewalks when done by the municipality has its effects. It serves as a reminder to others that they are remiss in their duty, that the good example set by the community in opening paths in front of public property and across streets is worthy of emulation. It is in the doing of what ought to be done that the community should given encouragement. There is no need of setting examples regarding negligence.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—It's been a week of tilts and scrimmage in the senate. There have been party splits and back-biting on both sides, with taunts and "Sic 'em Tige," method used regardless of party. The regular republicans held together, but the insurgents on that side and the democrats across the aisle did more than their share to keep the ball rolling.

The democrats aired more than a line full of family quarrels, the insurgents put up their backs and showed fight against the republican practice "turn the rascals out of the party" attitude and there were plenty of side scraps besides. The liveliest battle of words was on the democratic side of the chamber when Dial flayed his party for their pre-election attempts to besmirch the republican administration of Harding, and when Floor Leader Robinson, whose temperament is of the true Arkansas fire-eater sort, assailed the meek but persistent Senator Bruce of Maryland, for criticising the course of the democratic party in its allegiance with the radical element in the last election. "There is no room in the same party for La Follette and myself" said Bruce in reply to a Robinson taunt. Then Robinson came back with something about the methods of "an old woman." "Well," said the calm, dignified senator from Maryland, "I don't much mind being called an old woman for we are told old women are always good women." Back chirped Robinson. "I didn't call you an old woman, even if you are one and like all women are determined to have the last word." That settled it, for as Bruce held the floor in his own right, he had control of the situation.

The incoming of Senator Bingham into the senate marked a political advancement that made even the hard boiled politicians take notice. In the space of less than 48 hours Mr. Bingham was serving as lieutenant-governor of Connecticut as governor of that state and as United States senator. Moreover Mr. Bingham had previously made an enviable record as professor at Yale, explorer and writer for the National Geographic Magazine and lieutenant colonel in the army, with honorable service in the aviation section of the service.

Yet with this record behind him the new senator from Connecticut takes his honors serenely and even admits with a pleasant laugh that he didn't know the game when he prematurely took his oath of office in Connecticut immediately after resigning from the governorship. "I've got to learn the ways of the senate" said he, while he waited to take oath before the president pro tempore of the senate. Senator Bingham then explained that in the various offices he had held through promotion in the army, he had taken oath wherever he chanced to be, as it was the proper thing to do, he knew that President Coolidge took oath as president up in the little Vermont town, and it didn't occur to Bingham that it was not his duty to assume the responsibilities of his new office the moment he was free to do so, and for that reason, not to hurry up events, he went before what he supposed to be a proper official and took his oath as senator. The practice and rules of the senate make such an oath no value so the senator reached to the rostrum with Senator McLean of his state, and took the oath under suitable circumstances, Friday noon. But there was a slight delay, amounting to fully forty minutes, when the two Connecticut senators cooled their distinguished heels in the background, for with unprecedented senatorial discourtesy, Senator Norris of Nebraska refused to yield the floor long enough for the new senator to be admitted to that body. It was a breach of courtesy which the most experienced of senators may never before occurred—and it was stoutly criticized by both parties, McLean and Bingham being seemingly the least disturbed by the incident. Senator Bingham received first class committee assignments being position on military affairs and post offices, both being major committees.

We read of the retirement of Justice McKenna from the United States supreme court and that he is filled that exalted position with dignity and wisdom for 28 years. But the statement of fact gives but little idea of the dramatic scene that marked his actual departure from the supreme bench. The court room, with its colonial fittings and crimson velvet hangings was crowded, and on the bench sat Chief Justice Taft flanked on either side by the associate justices, one of whom was Justice McKenna.

The morning business went along as usual but when the noon hour for recess was reached Mr. Taft rose and read the resignation of Mr. McKenna, together with the president's acceptance of it. Then Mr. Taft, with eloquence, power and marked personal feeling pronounced one of the most perfect eulogies the walls of that old room has ever echoed. When it was ended Justice McKenna responded with great feeling, touched by the sincerity of the tributes of the full bench; standing there, with his arms heaped with great red roses, fairly thrust upon him, his black silk robes hanging from his 82-year-old shoulders, yet upright and sturdy, his abundance of snow white hair glistening with the light from the stained glass windows. The chief justice, the full bench, the entire audience stood throughout the ceremony. As he finished his response, court ushers, pulled silken cords, and the crimson hangings covering the entrance to the room parted; and through that broad door walked Justice McKenna, alone, no longer a member of that great tribunal. Then the crimson hangings were again drawn together and the picture faded. The retiring justice held himself completely in check, but there was scarcely a dry eye in the room, when the dramatic scene ended.

The selection of Attorney General Stone to fill the vacancy on the supreme court bench is especially pleasing to the rank and file of republicans here. A number of leaders who know Stone and his record say he is preeminently the man for the place. Stone takes his rapid advance in politics and legal status calmly but quite seriously. A week or so ago I saw him talking and laughing heartily with a group of men at the white house offices, entering unreservedly into the fun that was going on. Today, at the same place, he wore an air of quiet dignity that was not in the least "toploftical" as old Senator "Gum Shoe Bill" Stone used to say, but which seemed to be quite in keeping with the dignity of his new appointment. Stone is of medium height, perhaps a bit taller, stout, but not over fat, with ruddy complexion and clear eyes that look you straight in the face. At present he wears a soft light fedora hat, whether or not he will change it for a more formal type of headgear after he sits on the bench, is a matter of speculation. Most of the supreme court justices wear derbies for informal use.

From the progressive or insurgent point of view but little if anything can be gained this winter by obstruction methods. The regulars evidently control congress and Senator La Follette with his family intend spending the remainder of the winter in Florida. Senator La Follette does not expect an extra session this spring, nor do the democrats desire one. Coupled with the determination of the president not to call such a session except under some unforseen emergency, it looks like an eight months recess. The senate will go into session noon March 4th to confirm nominations made by the president but that is expected to last but a few days, then the legislative shutters will be put up and fastened and the congress go into eight months of inactivity.

President Coolidge is conducting those little intimate breakfast parties undisturbed by jibes of insurgents who have not been included. He is making them non-partisan to a degree, sometimes including democratic leaders. The president enjoys Senator Underwood and other democratic leaders, and isn't to be frightened off by taunts of the envious. He does not barter with them, but when it comes to social attentions, the president evidently proposes to use his personal preference regardless of partisanship.

Washington weather for the past three weeks can be best depicted, quoting the vividly worded description "First it blew then it snew; then it frin, and then it thew." That tells the story.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Some Changes in Law

Reduction of the income tax was effected by the revenue act of 1924. A rate reduction, however, was not the only benefit afforded by this legislation. Increase in the exemption for married persons and heads of families, a 25 per cent. reduction on "earned income," and other changes are of immediate interest to every tapayer. As an aid, therefore, in the preparation of income tax returns for the year 1924, the bureau of internal revenue has prepared a series of articles on the new act and the regulations governing its administration, of which this is the first. The salaried man, wage earner, professional and business men—in fact every class of taxpayer—will be fully informed of their requirements and privileges. Taxpayers are advised to preserve these articles as a guide in the making of their returns.

Returns are required of every single person whose net income for 1924 was $1,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more and of every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $2,500 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more. Divorced or married persons separated by mutual consent are classed as single persons. Married persons living together are required to file a return if their aggregate net income was $2,500 or more or the aggregate gross income was $5,000 or more.

Husband and wife living together may include the income of each in a single joint return, or each may file separate returns showing the income of each. Where a joint return is filed the tax is computed on the aggregate income and all deductions and credits to which either is entitled is taken from such aggregate income.

If a wife does not file a separate return or join with her husband in a return the husband is required to include in his return all income received by the wife in payment of wages, salary, or from the sale of products of her labor. In the returns of married persons must be included also the income of dependent minor children.

It should be remembered that a husband and wife living together need make no return unless their aggregate net income for 1924 was $2,500 or more or the aggregate gross income was $5,000 or more. Last year returns were required of such married persons whose aggregate net income was $2,000 or more.

A BURGLAR'S SCARE

"I didn't expect to see you so soon," said Mrs. Simmons as she welcomed her niece with a cup of tea. "I thought you were so in love with the woods in the early fall that you would not come back before November at the earliest."

"I intended to stay up there until Thanksgiving time," said her niece, with a laugh. "George had a long leave of absence on account of some merger or something and we had planned a beautiful time. However, the firm called him back to go on a long trip and I was up there all alone for a week."

"Gracious!" exclaimed Mrs. Simmons. "I am afraid I shouldn't have the courage to stay up in the woods alone with a child for a whole week. You must have been frightened."

"No, I had to wait to get back to the city for that," said her niece, as she reached for a slice of lemon. "Of course when I say I was all alone I mean as far as social friends were concerned, for there was a man with his wife living across the road and the village was only a mile away.

"It isn't anything to be in the woods nowadays when you have a telephone and a radio and a car. You ought to hear some of the tales the people up there can tell about the days when there were wolves and even Indians prowling around. I just enjoyed it and reveled in the autumn colorings.

"It was only when it grew cold that I decided to close up the house and come back. I don't mind ordinarily cool weather up there, but the morning it snowed I thought it was a little chilly for the baby, and so I packed up and started off without telling anybody.

"George's letters were slow getting to me and when I left I didn't know where he was, so of course I couldn't write him."

"I should think you'd have been glad to get back," said Mrs. Simmons. "The safety of your own little house must have been a comfort to you after those days and nights up there alone."

"It did seem sort of cozy when I first came in," admitted her niece, "especially after I had opened up the windows and aired out the place and then started the grate fire so that at least one room would be warm enough for the baby until I got hold of the furnace man. But that night I had a burglar and I shall not soon forget the scare of it."

"A burglar!" exclaimed Mrs. Simmons. "You poor dear! Why didn't you telephone for me?"

"If I could have phoned for you I could have gotten the police station," laughed her niece. "But when there is a burglar in the house you can't do a great deal of telephoning. It must have been about 2 o'clock when I was awakened by a noise downstairs and I sat up in bed and listened. I could hear somebody walking around and not trying to be quiet, as I suppose he thought the house was empty. He was smoking one of George's cigars, because I recognized the aroma of the tobacco, and I think he went out to the icebox foraging for something to eat. There wasn't very much there, because the baby and I had eaten up almost everything I had bought on my way from the station, so I guess he was disappointed.

"I heard him go to the silver drawer and rummage around looking for things of value. Of course, when we went away we put all our silver in the bank, but there were some plated things left that I could hear him handling. Once he stubbed his toe on something and I heard a smothered exclamation that would have been funny if I hadn't been so scared. I was shivering from head to foot and my teeth chattered so that I could hear them."

"You poor child!" exclaimed Mrs. Simmons. "What an experience!"

"Oh, really it wasn't half bad as long as he stayed downstairs," said her niece. "It was when he began to come up that I was terrified. I got out of bed softly and closed the door, but the baby had lost the key of it once, and, of course, I couldn't lock it. So I picked up a chair and I stood waiting to throw it at him.

"Just then the burglar began to whistle that crazy banana tune and I screamed and fell in a heap on the bed. It was George come back unexpectedly, and not knowing I was there he was scared to death when he heard my shriek at his favorite tune!"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Proposed Twentieth Amendment

Mr. Editor: In your issue of the 8th inst., I see the Willimantic chamber of commerce and the local D. A. R. voted against the proposed child labor amendment to the Constitution. How simple.

Few, if any of the children of these people will go to work in a cotton mill, or anywhere else under 14, 16 or 18 years of age; to say nothing of working in mines, canneries, mills, cotton and beet fields, etc., under 10 as they do in many parts of the country for 11 and 12 hours a day. What physical or mental chance in life have these prospective citizens?

Massachusetts and Connecticut have very good child labor laws. Many states have not, and the labor of our states has to compete with the cheaper labor of the other states. I know a manufacturer who tells me that he would rather do business in Rhode Island than in Connecticut because there he can work women and children night and day and he cannot do so in Connecticut. We need federal control in order to equalize the conditions and thus protect all the children and workers.

The child labor amendment is what every properly drawn constitutional amendment ought to be, a grant of powers that the legislature may exercise at its discretion.

An amendment prohibiting all child labor under 18, or 16, or ten or eight, might decently be opposed as impairing the liberty of parents and undermining the home. But the charge that the child labor amendment as it actually stands attacks liberty and the home is absurd. And where it is used by interested parties to preserve their privilege of exploiting child labor, it approaches the utmost limit of propagandist effrontery.

That congress will pass right away as good laws as we have in Connecticut is doubtful. But it is a move in the right direction. In time congress might forbid children under 18 to work in mines, white lead works, match factories or other specially dangerous places but that is in the future.

Yours truly,

ALBERT BOARDMAN,

P. S. A tricky socialist who has worked for woman's suffrage and workingmen's compensation laws and is proud of it.

1924—William J. Bryan named Dr. A. A. Murphree, president of the University of Florida, as his choice for the Democratic nomination for president.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Brigadier General Lord Thomson, who has been overwhelmed with invitations to speak at public gatherings since his arrival in America, was secretary of state for air in the Ramsay MacDonald cabinet. He is probably the most distinguished of the many British soldiers whom the great war brought over to the ranks of labor. Near the close of the conflict he resigned his military commission, and has ever since been an active worker for the Labor Party. In 1920 he accompanied the Labor Commission to Ireland as military adviser and three years later he went to the Ruhr on a similar mission. Lord Thomson, who was made first Baron of Cardington last year, is the son and grandson of distinguished British soldiers. He himself began his military career at the age of nineteen and saw his first active service in 1896. In 1918-19 he served on the supreme war council. He is much interested in the commercial development of aircraft and will make at least one address on this subject while in America.

Barnum Often Was Wrong

Son of a tavern keeper at Bethel, Conn., Phineas T. Barnum was apt at school, but early in life went to work as clerk in a Bethel store, and out of his small salary paid for his clothes.

Only 15 when his father died so poor that the boy had to be trusted for shoes to wear to the funeral, Phineas found another position at $8 a month and board. Going to Brooklyn, N. Y., to clerk he was stricken with smallpox at 17. Soon afterward he opened a saloon there and sold out at a big profit.

Utilizing part of his grandfather's carriage house in Bethel, he opened a produce store with only $1.25 capital and later sold lottery tickets with agents in many towns. Then he married.

His articles during a political campaign were rejected by the newspaper and he started The Herald of Freedom at Danbury. The circulation boomed, but he was sent to jail for libel, then sold the paper and ran a boarding house in New York.

At 25 he borrowed $100 and bought Joice Heth. "Aged 161, who formerly belonged to George Washington's father," and put her on exhibition. Receipts ran to $1500 a week, but the negress died within a year. Next he toured with an acrobat and had to pawn his watch in Washington, D. C., to get home.

Soon afterward he obtained control of the American Museum at New York and made a fortune then exhibited General Tom Thumb, a dwarf, and added to his riches. The Swedish Nightingale netted him $535,000. Then he lost everything, at 46, in the failure of the Jerome Clock Company.

By exhibition a whale, found stranded on Long Island, he was able to pay his board bills. He borrowed $5000 and toured Europe with Tom Thumb, and lectured, then regained control of the American Museum. It was burned. He rebuilt it and again it was destroyed. He was elected to the Connecticut legislature, retired from business and ran for congress but was defeated.

At 60 he organized Barnum's Circus. It was a success but soon was destroyed by fire. He started another, toured the world with it, was elected mayor of Bridgeport, Conn., and a member of the Connecticut assembly, and at the time of his death was rich and famous.

ECLIPSES

Washington, D. C., Jan 12—While an army of astronomers are cleaning and adjusting their long-named instruments in preparation for taking observations of the solar eclipse later this month, it is interesting to note that the same lively interest in such astronomical phenomena has been displayed by the human race in all ages and in all lands.

Before the dawn of astronomical science eclipses of the sun and moon aroused superstitious alarm and inspired all the primal races with awe. Among the ignorant an eclipse excited the same apprehension and dread experienced on the occasion of an earthquake, a volcanic eruption or a thunderstorm or a cyclone.

In the infancy of the human race the earth was supposed to be at the center of the universe and that sun, moon and stars revolved around our globe at a certain fixed distance. Not even seers and philosophers of ancient times understood the mechanism of the celestial world.

The early races of men worshipped the sun and regarded his extinction by an eclipse as the work of a demon or the wrath of an unknown and superior god, or of a gigantic monster. Sun worship was prevalent among the ancient Egyptians, Phoenicians, Persians, Assyrians and Hittites. All of these nations used the winged disk as their emblem of the sun god. The Egyptians worshiped animals for the most part, but the Semitic religions were based upon reverence for astronomical objects. Superstitution and ignorance went hand in hand on the occasion of an eclipse and so created the most appalling apprehensions.

In India the dragons Rahu and Ketu were held responsible for the suffering endured by the sun and moon at the time of an eclipse. An English missionary in India tells the following story by which the Hindu masses today explain an eclipse.

"Vishnu the Preserver commanded that the ocean be churned, to get the ambrosia required by the gods to overcome the demons. The churning stick was a mountain, and the churning rope was a serpent. From the sea of milk which resulted from the churning came butter, but there also came a blue poison. Shiva, the god of destruction, swallowed the poison and held it in his throat. The physicians of the gods brought a golden cup brimming with ambrosia, some of which Rahu, a famous demon, managed to get; but before it got past his throat Vishnu threw a discus and cut off Rahu's huge head. The ambrosia drunk had, however, made his head immortal, so it soared to the sky. Since then it has followed the sun and the moon with open mouth and when it swallows either there is an eclipse."

The most notable eclipse recorded in history and the one most frequently mentioned in literature and among scholars was that of the sun at the time of the battle between the Lydians and Medes, May 28, B. C. 585. The battle was suspended and peace was made through the good offices of Thales.

The most important eclipse, however, in the history of mankind occurred in A. D. 840, and which caused the death of Emperor Louis. The three sons promptly engaged in a war among themselves, which tore the country to pieces. The war lasted three years and ended in the treaty of Verdun, whereby France, Italy and Germany were carved out of Charlemagne's vast empire. This was the beginning of the three countries named.

The first eclipse observed in England occurred February 15, A. D. 538, and is mentioned in The Saxon Chronicals. Columbus made good use of his knowledge of eclipses among the savages.

An effort to escape capture after staging a hold-up in a downtown restaurant, New York, several gunmen, heavily armed, shot their way to the street, wounding a woman, who is part owner of the restaurant, and a street cleaner at work.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Getting Policeman Dog's Help

"Hello, Mr. Bear!
Are you there, are you there?"

shouted Mr. North Wind down the chimney of the Cosy Cave House all of a sudden. Dear me, he blew so hard that he closed with a bang the Big Blue Book which the little rabbit was reading.

"Dear me," cried the bunny boy, "now I've lost my place."

"Never mind," answered the Big Brown Bear. "I'll go out to the woodshed and look in the barrel. It's full of lollypops. Want a dozen or two, or maybe three?"

He smoked out to the woodshed

"I'll go with you," shouted the little rabbit hopping off the three-legged stool. "Maybe you can't carry three dozen all by yourself."

"You're very con-sid-er-ate," (which means careful of other peoples' feelings) exclaimed the old bear with a smile, such a little smile that the bunny boy never saw it, and opening the back door, he ambled out to the woodshed followed by the little rabbit. But, Oh dear me! Imagine their surprise when they found no barrel there. No, sir, not even a bo—

"Who could have stolen it?" growled the Big Brown Bear opening the door, the creaky old door at the back of the shed, and peering about. The snowstorm had covered all footprints. Yes, it was lucky for the thief who had stolen the barrel.

"Dear, dear, dear, Oh dear," growled the Big Brown Bear, "I don't believe I have any more today. I shipped the whole crop down to the Three-in-One-Cent Store before Thanksgiving. Gee Willikins, I'm mad clean through. Who could have stolen the barrel. I'd like to know?"

"Let's call up the policeman Dog," suggested the little rabbit. "Maybe he can find out."

"Good idea," answered the Big Brown Bear, rambling back into the Cosy Cave House.

"One, two, three, Quickerty Quick, Policeman Dog and His Hickory Stick" shouted the angry old bear over the phone just like that, fast as the wind that blows off your hat.

"What's the matter? Why this clatter? Did the pitcher hit the batter?"

asked the kind Policeman Dog, forgetting for the moment that the baseball games were over and that snowballs were now in season

"No, no, NO, three times," answered the Big Brown Bear. "Something worse. My barrel of lollypops has been stolen!"

"Thunderation!" exclaimed the good Policeman Dog. "Let me scratch my ear and wag my tail. Maybe I'll guess who did it." The next minute that brave protector of law and order in Rabbitville shouted back over the wire, "I've guessed who as sure as my uniform is blue."

"What's his name?" asked the impatient old bear with a deep, angry growl. Give me his name."

"Mr. Wicked Wolf," answered the Policeman Dog. "I was walking past his house only yesterday and saw dozens of lollypop sticks on his front lawn. That's good proof. Maybe we can find the barrel in his cellar." And in the next story

INGROWN NAIL
Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.
A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

Stomach Remedy A Fast Seller

DARE'S MENTHA PEPSIN

Six Thousand Bottles Sold in One New Jersey Town Last Year. Lee & Osgood Co. Declares Money Back If One Bottle Doesn't Make Any Stomach Sufferer Rejoice.

At last the way has been found to combine Pepsin with other corrective stomach agents so that it will do the most good in the shortest possible time.

Why bother with slow actors when one dessertspoonful of this splendid and pleasant liquid remedy will cause gas, bloating, heaviness, acidity, heartburn or any upset condition of the stomach to speedily vanish.

And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with indigestion or any stomach misery when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

But there is more to say about this remarkable remedy — something that will interest thousands of despondent people.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin not only quickly relieves stomach distress, but it also conquers stubborn indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis, and puts an end to dizziness, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness and despondency which distressing troubles are nearly always caused by chronic stomach disturbance.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin is pleasant to take, has a delightfully refreshing taste and after it has put your stomach in a clean and healthy condition, just notice how much better you look and feel, for besides correcting stomach disorders this supremely good remedy that Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere guarantee, is a fine tonic that builds you up and makes you work with vim, eat with relish and sleep soundly.

DOES YOUR TONGUE TELL?

Is Your Tongue Sweet and Clean, or Is It Coated and "Fuzzy"?

Take your hand mirror, look at your tongue, for your tongue is the barometer of your health.

The common cause of coated tongue and offensive breath is bad digestion, biliousness and constipation. Take Beecham's Pills at once. They will clear off the tongue by toning the stomach, stimulating digestion, activating the liver and restoring complete and regular evacuation of the poisonous wastes.

Beecham's Pills are harmless, gripeless and non-habit-forming. Being purely vegetable, they act with Nature in setting right the organs of digestion and elimination. Good for man, woman and child. Small, easy to take.

OBITUARY

Arthur S. Winchester.

Arthur S. Winchester, 87, for 21 years a resident of the Mohican hotel, at New London, died early Sunday morning.

Although he lived at the Mohican, Mr. Winchester had retained his residence in Windham where he was born May 23, 1838. His father was a member of the Smith and Winchester Manufacturing Corp., at that time, engaged in the manufacturing of paper machines.

After receiving his education at Dentor Hall's school at Ellington, he entered his father's office at Windham. After a few years he removed to Boston as an employe of the Hartford Steam Boiler Insurance Co. Several years later he became president of Sharps Rifle Co., of Bridgeport. While he was there, the first magazine gun was invented by Mr. Lee. The Lee Arms Co., was then organized and established itself in New York, Mr. Winchester being manager and treasurer.

Representing the company, he spent five years in England and on the continent, seeking to introduce the Lee gun in military leaders. He sold to the British government the right to use the Lee patents in connection with their own Metford gun, the Lee-Metford gun being still standard and in use in Great Britain.

He was married in 1878 to Annette P. Osgood of Norwich, who died in 1880. There were no children. With his one brother, F. Clinton Winchester, he had since made his home at the Mohican hotel.

He was a man of high ideals, of unusual courtesy, interested always in every item of world progress, generous to all good causes and a life-long worshipper in the Protestant Episcopal church. He was a member of St. James' Episcopal church of New London.

Mr. Winchester was a member of Eastern Star lodge of Masons, Trinity chapter, Royal Arch Masons, Olive Branch council, Royal and Select Masters and St. John's Commandery, Knights Templar, all of Willimantic.

Clarence B. Sears.

Clarence B Sears, known affectionately for many years as "Pop" Sears to patrons and employes of the Central Vermont road, died Sunday in Preston. He was a railroad engineer. The body was shipped at 1.30 o'clock Monday to Benington, Vt., under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Mr. Sears leaves his parents in Bennington and a brother whose location is unknown.

Frank M. Ensworth

After being in poor heath for several years, seriously ill since Christmas, Frank M. Ensworth died Sunday at his home in Framingham, Mass.

Mr. Ensworth was the son of Andrew and Laura Ensworth and will be remembered by older residents of Jewett City, where the family resided until about 30 years ago. His father was the son of Whitney and Charity Howe Ensworth, Andrew Ensworth died in Framingham last July and is buried in Packerville cemetery, Packerville being the home of the Ensworth family for many years.

Since leaving Jewett City Mr. Ensworth travelled in practically all countries of the world. For some years past, he had owned the Kendall Hotel in Framingham, Mass., where he made his home with his family.

He is survived by his wife and daughter, the latter a graduate of Smith college, his mother, all of Framingham and a cousin, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn of this city.

NORWICH COURT-HOUSE CLOCK FAITHFUL MONITOR 50 YEARS

The town clock in Norwich Court House will get frozen up in a storm, occasionally, or for some other good reason will suspend striking for a day or two, and hundreds within the sound of its bell will begin to protest.

But this big Howard clock has certainly earned a short rest now and then. For fifty years it has told time in the high tower since it was brought from Boston to complete the handsome county building.

Every Saturday and Monday it is wound and looked over by John A. Ferguson who sees to it that it is strictly accurate. During the past week although the clock continued to tell the time it stopped striking; but this was not the fault of Mr. Ferguson. In company with Janitor Joseph J. Fields of the court house the big clock was examined when it was found Saturday that the big striking weight had been caught in its close track due to some slight warping of the wood. As soon as this trifling obstruction was remedied the clock began to sound the hours as usual. There is a heavy weight for the dial of the clock and a separate one for the striking.

Probably there is no other public timepiece in Eastern Connecticut which is so constantly consulted as this sightly clock; and when it continues marking off each twelve-hour period day and night as it has so faithfully for over half a century it is helping to make thousands in the families of the town not only punctual but happy and content.

REV. ALEXANDER TANSKI IS APPOINTED TO WALLINGFORD

Rev. Alexander Tanski, assistant pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, New Britain, has been appointed pastor of the Church of Sts. Peter and Paul, Wallingford. He will resume his new station this week Father Tanski, a native of Terryville, was ordained by Right Rev. John J. Nilan in 1918 and since then has served as curate in Waterbury and Norwich as well as in New London.

A man talks to amuse others, and a woman talks to amuse herself.

GRAND OFFICERS MAKE VISIT TO NORWICH ODD FELLOWS

Grand Master James Cooper of Mystic and Grand Secretary William Hutchinson of New Haven, with other grand officers of the Connecticut Odd Fellows made their official visitation to Norwich lodges Monday evening.

Members of Uncas lodge, No 11, Shetucket lodge, No. 27 and Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, I. O. O. F., were present to welcome the distinguished guests. Noble Grand Carlton Bowers of Uncas lodge opened the meeting and welcomed the visitors to Norwich after which Grand Master Cooper and other state officials spoke on Odd Fellowship and concerning Fairview, the Odd Fellows National home at Groton.

During the evening there was entertainment, musical selections being rendered by Milton Osborn's orchestra. Readings by Archie Parry and a group of solos by Miss Charlotte Fowler were most pleasing. Following the meeting dancing was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

The committee to prepare entertainment and provide refreshments compfised Fred Amburn, Walter Kelly, Frank Greene, Howard Bishop, Edward Smith, Mrs. Ella Stapleton, Mrs. Florence Maynard and Mrs. Gene Evans.

HUMORIST AND ORCHESTRA ENTERTAIN BROTHERHOOD

Bert Spears of Boston, the well known humorist, and the Riverside orchestra, an eight-piece colored orchestra, furnished the entertainment at the regular monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church Monday evening at the Community house. The meeting was one of the largest attended in the history of the Brotherhood, approximately 200 diners being present when the monthly supper was served at 6.30 o'clock by the women of the church. A roast pork menu was served. Gaily decorated paper hats were provided for all present.

At the close of the supper Walter F. Lester, president, called a brief business meeting. The reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was omitted. Mr. Spears, the speaker of the evening, and Charles F. Wells were delegated a committee to convey the thanks of those present to the ladies for the excellent supper. Four new members, John Buchanan, Earl Whitehead, Warren E. Wilcox and Alex Pasnik were voted into membership.

H. M. Lerou, chairman of the lecture committee, announced that Dr. Ditmars will be the speaker at the next number in the Brotherhood course. Although he may be a stranger to Norwich, he is no stranger to the state, said Mr. Lerou. This will be one of the leading lectures in Norwich this year, he said. It will be illustrated by moving pictures.

President Lester called attention to the fact that the third number in the lecture series is set for Friday evening, Feb. 13th. The regular meeting night of the Brotherhood would ordinarily occur the Monday previous. He made the suggestion that the regular meeting be combined with the lecture to be held Feb. 13th.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the church, spoke very highly of the speaker secured for that night, I. V. Moldenhauer, of Albany, N. Y., Rev. Mr. Abbott suggested that the ladies be invited to attend the supper that night in the banquet rooms and that after the supper adjournment be taken upstairs to the lecture. The meeting voted to change the date of the next meeting from Feb. 9th to Feb. 13th.

Will L. Stearns was presented to the gathering as the honor guest at the supper, Mr. Stearns having been accorded this honor through winning the pie eating contest last year.

At this point in the meeting E. V. Ross, secretary of the Brotherhood, sprang a pleasant surprise on the gathering when he had ushered into the banquet room the Riverside orchestra, eight colored players, all local men. Charles F. Wells introduced the orchestra as the "Chlorinated Chorisers from the Waterworks." This drew laughter and applause. The orchestra provided a delightful program and in addition to the instrumental numbers there were vocal numbers by Al Perrin, a member of the orchestra, and selections by a quartet made up of members of the orchestra.

The musicians were given a big hand and a rising vote of thanks, after which President Lester presented Bert Spears. It was Mr. Spears' second appearance in Norwich. His Irish, Jewish and Dutch jokes, humorous recitations and impersonations kept the audience in laughter throughout the hour he was on the platform. As his closing number Mr. Spears turned from the humorous to the serious and gave a recitation on Appreciation.

The meeting came to a close about 9 o'clock.

HOME CHAPTER ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1925

The annual business meeting of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters was held Monday afternoon, at the Johnson Home, the leader, Mrs. William E. Manning presiding. The meeting opened in the usual form, one new members being admitted and one new name proposed.

The annual reports were submitted by the leader and officers, showing the chapter to be in a prosperous condition.

The officers for 1925 are as follows: Leader, Mrs. William E. Manning, assistant leader, Mrs. Charles R. Cross; recording secretary, Mrs. Alfred W. Davis; Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Fred N. Clark; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert R. Branche; flower committee Miss Lizzie Ortman, membership committee, Mrs. William R. Balcom; Work committee, Mrs. Neville Bliss; entertainment, Mrs. Charles H. Marsh; Silver Cross, Mrs. Robert Cochrane; first directress, Mrs. William H. Whiteman; auditors, William E. Manning and William R. Balcom.

The nominating committee which presented the names of the new officers was: Mrs. Earle Christman, Mrs. Edwin Lathrop, and Mrs. Albert Boardman.

At the close of the meeting tea and wafers were served. There was a good attendance.

SEVERELY INJURED WHEN HIT BY MOTOR TRUCK

Charles H. Gevers of 15 Fourteenth street, an employe of the Norwich gas and electric department, is confined to his home with severe injuries received last week when he was hit by a truck of the Bond bread Co. Gevers was at work on a pipe cutting machine in front of the gas and electric office on Shetucket street, when the driver of the truck backed it without seeing Gevers, who heard a warning shout in time to jump but not soon enough to avoid being hit and knocked down. The injuries to Gevers required the attendance of a physician.

COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF CONNECTICUT CONSISTORY

At a special meeting of Connecticut Consistory, S. P. R. S., at the Masonic Temple Monday evening, Charles L. Stewart was elected commander-in-chief. The retiring commander-in-chief is E. Allen Bidwell.

Postponed Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the tax analysis committee which was to have been held Monday evening at the assessors' office was postponed and will probably not be held until next week.

PLANNING FOR BALTIC SKATERS TO RACE

Four Baltic young men have gotten together and are working with an effort to revive the old-time custom of holding skating parties on the Shetucket river. A number of years ago Baltic had some of the fastest skaters in eastern Connecticut and the Shetucket was the scene of many a fast race. A few years ago horse racing on the ice was the favorite winter sport in Baltic, and horsemen came from surrounding towns and cities to enter their trotters and pacers in the speedy events held on the Shetucket. Arthur Roy, the village blacksmith of Baltic, was a leader in the races. He owned "Stepping Boy," a fast trotter that he drove to victory in a series of races. On Saturday afternoon A. J. Baril of Baltic, an exceptionally fast and fancy skater, was scheduled to meet Fox Filliatrault, also of Baltic, in a two-mile race on the Shetucket. During Saturday morning Mr. Filliatrault in stepping from his automobile slipped and wrenched his ankle and was unable to contest honors with Baril. This race is booked to take place in the near future.

The racers will start from a point about 100 feet north of G. A. Cote's icehouse and continue to the mile line, thence southerly and return to the starting point. As an inducement to the young women of Baltic to become interested in the movement, Baril and Filliatrault have entered into an agreement whereby the loser will upon crossing the tape present a five-pound box of chocolates to the prettiest girl standing on the ice. Baril has the speed. Filliatrault is known as a coming boy on the steel runners. It is expected that a large crowd will witness the race. A Baltic young woman will act as starter and timekeeper.

HARTFORD LANDLORDS ARE BIGGEST RENT BOOSTERS

Rent paid by wage earners in Hartford for houses of four or five unheated rooms and a bath showed an increase during the fourth month period from March to November, 1924, the largest for any of the 177 cities of the country surveys, according to a report made in Washington by the national industrial conference board.

Hartford's rent advance was in the range of from 11 to 20 per cent. In the east 18 cities reported increases during the four month period, twelve decreases, and the other thirty-two cities in the eastern section showed no change.

"Rents paid by wage earners for houses of four or five unheated rooms and a bath in the United States as a whole averaged 84 per cent. higher in November, 1924, than they did in the summer of 1924," says the board.

"Rent of such houses reached a peak in July, 1924, between which date and November they decreased 1.1 per cent. leaving, however a net increase of 2.2 per cent. for the twelve months ending November, 1924.

WILL BE IN COURT AFTER HOSPITAL DISCHARGE

Ignats Charlie of Franklin is a patient at the Backus hospital after an operation for a ruptured ulcer of the stomach received in an automobile collision last week on a road in Franklin. The other machine was driven by George Brown, son of Charles Brown of Yantic.

Charlie received a broken rib also in the accident and went to the hospital for treatment for that. He was to have been presented in the Franklin town court to answer to charges of failure to yield half of the road, operating under a 1924 license and pulling a knife on Brown after the accident, but when the time set for the court hearing came Charlie was in the hospital because of the ulcer trouble. He will be presented in court as soon as he is out of the hospital. He is under $200 bonds for appearance in court.

PETTIS RETAINS LEAD IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

H. H. Pettis retained his lead, but E. Peckham lost second place to Parker in the second night's play of the tournament at the West Side Pinochle club Monday evening. The individual scores for the evening were as follows:

Parker 7,275, E. Peckham 6,955, Lewis 6,905, Pettis 6,770, Bailey 6,228, C. S. Peckham 6,215, Pendleton 6,115, J. Jordan 6,105, A. Jordan 6,085, Underwood 5,965, Boynton 5,960, Schuler 5,465.

The standing to date:

Pettis 14,880, Parker 14,625, E. Peckham 14,345, Lewis 14,020, Pendleton 13,415, Bailey 13,205, A. Jordan 13,185, C. S. Peckham 13,160, Underwood 13,070, Boynton 12,375, Schuler 12,065, J. Jordan 12,055.

Band Rehearsals Proceeding.

Rehearsals for a concert programme are being held weekly in Steiner hall by the Royal Italian band under the direction of Professor Pasquale Puca, who is full of enthusiasm over the plans for the future. With the interest taken in the band by Edward Connelly and owing to his voluntary promise to become the soloist of the band, a new life and a new spirit is manifest in the organization and anyone of the musicians are sparing neither time nor effort in the rehearsals. Frank Rinella, the president of the organization, said that it is contemplated to give a concert in Westerly, but as the opera house in which the concert was to be held was recently destroyed by fire, another location there would have to be secured.

Chlorinated Water Will Chase Colds

A Norwich physician who heard a citizen complaining of the chlorinated water which he was obliged to drink from the city pipes remarked that the city might find something to be thankful for in it to there would undoubtedly be fewer colds in the city this winter because of the therapeutic value of the chlorination.

Store Managers Exchanged

A change in managers between the Woolworth stores in this city and New London went into effect Monday, having been ordered several weeks ago. J. H. Wallace went from the Norwich to the New London store and Glenn Matthews came here from the New London store.

GRACE CHURCH INVITES RECTOR TO REMAIN

The annual meeting of Grace church parish at Yantic was held Monday evening with a good sized attendance and was called to order by one of vestrymen, C. P. J. Vanderwaart. The supply committee, which had been appointed following the resignation of the rector, Rev. R. B. Day, last August, was ready to report, but before their report had been given, a motion was made and was immediately passed that Mr. Day be reinstated as rector. At the time his resignation was presented it was accepted to take effect on Nov. 1st as Mr. Day expected to go to Brazil, but his plans changed and he had continued to serve the church where he was highly thought of and there was much regret at feeling that he was not likely to remain with them.

Following the vote to reinstate him as rector, Dr. Day took charge of the meeting and the annual reports were heard from the treasurer, the Woman's Guild, the Woman's Auxiliary, the Girls' Friendly Society and the Sunday school, all of which were accepted.

Officers were elected as follows: Wardens, Walter G. Hitchen, Herbert M. Hitchon; vestrymen, C. P. J. Vanderwaart, C. E. Carpenter, W. E. Manning, H. J. Gibbs, Edward Snow, Dr. Lillian Lynes, Mrs. C. B. Harvey, Charles B. Carpenter, Fred M. Manning, R. V. Congdon and E. Allen Bidwell; clerk and treasurer, E. Allen Bidwell; delegates to diocesan convention, W. G. Hitchen, C. P. J. Vanderwaart; alternates, E. Allen Bidwell, R. V. GAVE SHORT PLAY AT SOCIAL EVENING

The G. G. G. class of the Central Baptist Sunday school met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. C. C. Glidersleeve, 29 Lincoln avenue. The girls masqueraded as children and were entertained by a short play called suitors. The cast comprised the following: The Girl, Miss Emily Gallup; The Maid, Miss Alma Carpenter; the suitors, Eou, Mrs. Lila E. Allen; Cy, Miss Edith A. Ellis; Dan, Mrs. Esther Wadsworth; Bob, Miss Crayton Whitney.

Refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, animal crackers and lollypops were served.

FUNERALS

David Gorman

There was a large attendance at the funeral of David Gorman, held Monday morning at the funeral parlors of Cummings & Ring, Main street, and the floral tributes were beautiful.

Requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church by Rev. John J. Reilly. Prof. Frank L. Farrell was at the organ during the mass and at the offertory Mrs. Farrell sang Pie Jesu. For the waiting hymn she rendered Lead Kindly Light. The body was sent to Calais, Me., Monday afternoon on the 2.47 train, a brother, Joseph Gorman, accompanying the body to that place.

Mr. Gorman died in this city Sunday after an illness of about one week. He had been visiting with his brother, Joseph Gorman, 263 Yantic street, and while here fell down stairs suffering a broken neck. He was taken to the Backus hospital but was beyond aid.

He was born on Prince Edward Island, 56 years ago, coming to this country when a boy. He had lived for several years in Dayville, Conn., where he was employed.

Mrs. Charles W. Hopkins

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles W. Hopkins were held Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from the parlors of Henry Allen & Son Co., Main street, relatives and friends being present from Seymour, Hartford, Boston and other cities. There were many beautiful floral pieces.

The service was conducted by Rev. William H. Bath, assisted by Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in the family lot in Yantic cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Bath and Rev. Mr. Graham. Friends acted as bearers.

Leverett T. Pitcher

With relatives and friends present Monday afternoon the funeral of Leverett T. Pitcher was held at 1.30 o'clock from his late home at 72 Division street. The service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. The Odd Fellows service was conducted at the grave in Yantic cemetrey by Carlton Bowers and George F. Amburn of Uncas lodge. Rev. Mr. Abbott reading the benediction. The bearers, all members of Uncas lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., were John F. Amburn, James Smith, Louis Walz and A. E. Fowler. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

Mrs. Charles S. Caswell

Mrs Ella (Brown) Caswell died Saturday at the Old People's home No. 26 Jefferson street Hartford. She was born in 1845 in Orient, Long Island, a daughter of the late Edwin P. and Martha (Brewer) Brown. Her husband Charles S. Caswell, was a marketman in Hartford, thirty-five years. She leaves a son, Charles H. Caswell of Willimantic; a granddaughter, Miss Lois Caswell of Willimantic; three sisters, Mrs. George L. Edwards of Orient, L. I., Mrs. Minnie Howe of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Virginia Shaw of Los Angeles, Cal., and a stepdaughter, Mrs. George W. Ripley of Glastonbury. The funeral was held at No. 36 Jefferson street Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Willis H. Butler, pastor of the Asylum Hill Congregational church, conducted the service. Burial was in Mountain View cemetery, Bloomfield.

WEDDING

Boyd—Barron

Miss Catherine Barron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barron of Corning road, and Robert Boyd, son of Andrew and Annie Moran Boyd of 29 Fifth street, were united in marriage Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, the service being conducted by Rev. Peter Sroka. Relatives and friends of the couple were in attendance.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns and beautiful flowers and the music for the service was in charge of Mrs. Healy, organist of the church. The bridesmaid was Miss Annis Karvis and the best man was Joseph Barron, brother of the bride.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white canton crepe trimmed with shadow lace, with tulle veil and her shower bouquet was of bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of peach colored canton crepe and carried a bouquet of roses and carnations.

Following the wedding, breakfast was served and a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 25 guests being present.

The bride received gifts of silver linen, cut glass, china and other articles. The bridal gifts included a string of pearls to the bridesmaid and gold cuff links to the best man.

After a honeymoon to be spent in Palmer, Mass., New Bedford and other places Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will return to Norwich to reside on Corning road. The groom is employed as a mason in this city.

DENIES MOTION TO SET VERDICT ASIDE

A motion to set aside the verdict in the suit of Mary E. Robinson vs. William L. McNeely, both of this city, has been denied by Judge G. E. Hinman before whom the case was recently tried in the superior court. A jury gave a verdict for about $1,100 in favor of the plaintiff.

Judge Hinman has awarded judgment in favor of the plaintiff of $835 and costs in the case of Thomas W. Corcoran vs. Walter C. Tanner in a memorandum of decision filed with Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court.

Judge Hinman overrules a demurrer by memorandum of decision in the case of Adeline Palmer Lee vs. Harry M. Lee, both of New London. Mrs. Lee entered the demurrer some time ago.

TOTOKETT MILL POSTS ANNOUNCEMENT OF CUT

Notices were posted at the Totokett mill at Occum Monday that the mill would at once begin operation on a 48 hour schedule and that, beginning Monday, Jan. 19, there would be a cut in the wage rate. The amount of the cut was not stated. The mill employs 225 on an average and it is believed the cut will be about what other cotton mills in New England will put into effect for their operatives.

BEER RUNNER CAUGHT BOUND FOR NEW LONDON

Frank Brennan of Waterbury was fined $200 and costs in town court at East Hartford Monday morning on a charge of transporting liquor. He was arrested early one morning last week and search of his auto disclosed several cases of Canadian beer. He said he was bound for New London.

NORWICH TOWN

Herbert L. Yerrington of Peck's Corner spent several days last week in South Vernon and Springfield, Mass., also in Hartford. Mr. Yerrington went to South Vernon especially to visit his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Yerrington, of Northfield, who have closed their home for a few weeks and are recuperating at a hotel there, both having been indisposed. In Springfield, Mr. Yerrington was the guest over Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Avery Kay, former Norwich residents. Thursday was spent in Hartford on business, he returning home that night.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Selley and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kinney of Providence motored to Norwich Town Sunday and were guests at the home of Mrs. Kinney's brother-in-law and sister. Mr. and Mrs. David M. Dean; also visited at the home of Mr. Kinney's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Kinney, of Town street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gremley and little daughter Mildred were motor guests Sunday afternoon of Mr. Gremley's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gremley, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd, of Mystic, when a call was made at the home of Mrs. Brainerd's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb.

When the first meeting for 1925 of the Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society is held Wednesday afternoon in the Congregational chapel, a feature will be news from Miss Gertrude Avery of Ahmednagar, India.

The postponed meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church is to be held Thursday afternoon with the president, Mrs. J. B. Aldrich, at the parsonage.

At the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning Rev. James B. Aldrich preached from Isaiah 30: 31. For through the voice of the Lord shall the Assyrian be beaten down, which smote with a rod. In the evening Rev. Mr. Aldrich's text was Luke 23: 34, Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do; and thereparted His raiment, and cast lots. Miss Florence M. Brown was the leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service which preceded the evening sermon. The topic was How to Read the Bible Helpfully. Psalms 19: 7-14; Matthew 7: 24-29.

Authority of Jesus was the theme at the Sunday morning worship of the First Congregational church when the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, spoke from Matthew 7: 29, For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes. The topic of the Congregational midweek prayer service Thursday evening will be What Do I Believe About Christ? Philippians 2: 1st to the 8th verse. At the close of the service there is to be a meeting of the church corporation.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

WENDELL MAY BE CHOSEN TO SUCCEED FISHER AS HARVARD FOOTBALL COACH

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 12.—The report that Percy Wendell, former All-American fullback, recently coach at Williams and now under contract with Lehigh University, would be sought as head coach at Harvard for the 1925 season was circulated late today after Fred W. Moore, graduate treasurer of athletics, had denied that Charles D. Daly, former Harvard and Army quarterback, had been selected for the position by the graduate advisory football committee. While no official statement was forthcoming as to the status of Robert T. Fisher, head coach of the Crimson for six years, it was generally accepted in Harvard athletic circles that the Fisher regime was over and that a new coaching administration would be inaugurated with the next football season.

Members of the advisory football committee whose meeting in Boston last night gave rise to the rumors of Daly's selection, maintained silence today leaving Major Moore's statement to stand as the official Harvard pronouncement. Well informed members of the Harvard athletic association admitted, however, that there was a strong desire to obtain Wendell's services, and that if he came to Harvard he would be surrounded with a graduate staff of unusual ability.

Leo Leary would head the strategic staff, it was said, with Charles Crowley, who assisted Percy Haughton at Columbia, directing the varsity ends. Plans for the backfield and line coaches are incomplete, the reports said, but will be decided within two weeks.

Wendell, who made a record as coach during his four years at Williams, has signed a contract to coach Lehigh elevens for three years. This contract calls for $10,000 a year, it is understood. When Wendell accepted the offer, it was with the understanding that he would be released if called by Harvard, according to reports published at the time.

Fisher refused today to confirm or deny reports that he had resigned. His arrangements with Harvard athletic authorities has been on a year to year basis and he had not been appointed for 1926.

"A man cannot resign from a position to which he has not been appointed," he said.

In his statement denying the report of Daly's selection as head coach Major Moore said:

"While the Harvard football advisory committee has been instructed not to issue any information regarding its deliberations before reporting to the committee on the regulation of athletic sports, I feel that the circumstances warrant a statement today.

"The story printed in a morning newspaper today is not true. The football advisory committe has no expectation that Charles D. Daly will be head coach next fall. Further information must be obtained from the Harvard athletic committee, because that is the body to which the football committee will make its recommendations."

Malcolm J. Logan of Brockton, chairman of the advisory committee, declined to comment on the situation, and other members of that body followed his example. Marion A. Cheek, 1926 football captain said:

"We have discussed almost every coach in the United States. Nothing has been settled yet by the committee This information about Daly is just a newspaper story. Why should the newspapers pick on Daly, I should like to know?"

While there have been persistent rumors since the close of Harvard's disastrous 1924 season that Head Coach Fisher was to retire, the developments of last night and today are taken by Crimson sport followers as the first definite intimation of a new coaching regime. Fisher, who was captain of Harvard's 1911 team, succeeded Percy Haughton as head coach in 1916. His team won their objective games with Yale in that year, and the three following, but met with crushing defeat in 1923 and 1924.

CHAPMAN TECH PLAYS BACON ACADEMY TONIGHT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 12—Chapman Tech faces two contests during the week with the first game taking place at the school auditorium on Tuesday evening with Bacon Academy five of Colchester the opponents. The second game of the week will find the Red and Black five away from home, with Willimantic the scene of the invasion, where Windham High will be opposed.

There is little doubt that Bacon Academy will make the Tech team extend itself in order to win. The recent victory against Killingly sends Tech stock soaring into new elevated planes, with prospects looking bright for another Eastern Connecticut championship if Windham High can be disposed of on Friday. A strong attempt will be made to gain an early decision over the Windham five, and thus gain an early advantage over team.

The lineup for Tuesday evening against Bacon Academy will be the same which sent the Killingly five down to a defeat.

BULKELEY TO ELECT BASKETBALL LEADER TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 12—The opening of the new week brings about another knotty problem at Bulkeley. Another week of hard basketball faces the Orange and Black court men with three games being scheduled. The first of the three contests will be played at the state armory at 8 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon with the Marines from the Submarine Base furnishing the opposition. The second game of the week will be on Friday with the team again taking to the road. This time Deep River will be invaded with hopes of bringing back a victory doubtful. Hartford High which comes to oppose Bulkeley on Saturday at the state armory, will be the final team seen in action this week.

Besides playing the three games outlined above, the Bulkeley players will assemble for an important matter on Tuesday afternoon after the game with the Marine team terminates. A captain will be elected, and there is much discussion locally as to who will be given this honor. The contest with the Marine five marks the fifth contest of the season, and true to his promises. Coach William R. Canty will hold the election as it was decided upon before the season got under way. Every member of the Bulkeley team who can be classed a regular, has acted in the leader position to date. True qualities of a player under fire as well as in other respects will give the players a chance for their choice to be a good one.

Six men will be eligible for the open captaincy. Of these players, Graves, Watterson and Vogt stand most prominently. The other players eligible to vote are Parisi, Harris and Sheflott. The six players named have participated in all four games thus far played by the Bulkeley team and are eligible for the open captain's position as well as eligible to vote for the selection of a player to this position.

SHENECOSSETT CLUB AFTER STATE GOLF TOURNAMENT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 12—Local golf enthusiasts are hoping that the 1925 state championship golf matches will find the Shenecosset Club links at Eastern Point being favored for the annual championship matches. But with several other cities vieing with the Shenecosset club to have the matches take place at their respective courses, the selection for the course will be from a varied and large field this year. The Eastern Point club has offered its course for the occasion and weather the offer will be accepted or not lies with delegates of the 31st annual meeting of the United States Golf association, which convened at New York.

This state sends several delegates to the meeting, and the representative from this section of the state is J. P. T. Armstrong, general manager and assistant treasurer of the Corticelli Silk company. Mr. Armstrong will offer the use of the Shenecosset golf course for the meet and the ultimate outcome of this meeting is hoped will favor the local links for the matches.

The Shenecosset links have been favored for two years, the state tournaments being held in the year's 1922 and 1923 at Eastern Point. Last year broke the supremacy of the Groton links and a club up state was favored for the staging of the matches. Bridgeport, Greenwich, New Haven and several other cities are offering their courses for the matches and a selection is not expected to be made until after a long debate.

Other Connecticut delegates at New York besides Mr. Armstrong are as follows: Robert T. Vanderbilt, Fairfield club; Frank J. Reynolds, Hartford; Charles Groves, Brooklawn (in Bridgeport); J. W. Curtis, Greenwich; William H. Race, Highland (Meriden); C. C. Elwell, Jr., New Haven and Robert D. Pryde, Race Brook (New Haven).

The invitation tournaments which featured both the men's and women's championships saw some fine golf matches take place last summer at the Shenecosset, with Frederick Knight of Philadelphia winning the championship from Thomas W. Palmer and Miss Glenna Collett sent Mrs. Dorothy C. Hurd down to defeat. These matches together with the fine course will find the local links being given consideration before the selection is made for a course for the meet.

NURMI TO TRY TO BREAK SEVEN RECORDS

New York, Jan. 12.—(By The A. P.)—Paavo Nurmi will put his remarkable speed and stamina to its greatest tests this week when on successive nights he will attempt to lower seven world's indoor records in two races at New York and Chicago.

Twice before, at the Olympics and again a week ago at Madison Square Garden, the phantom Finn demonstrated his ability to run two record-breaking races within less than two hours of each other. Even these performances, however, will be eclipsed if he is successful in smashing any records here Thursday night, taking a 21-hour train ride to Chicago and then racing to victory and new records again there Friday night against Joie Ray and other stars.

Nurmi is slated to run 2,000-metres, or slightly less than two miles, at Madison Square Garden Thursday in connection with the National Junior Indoor championships. On his way to the finish, he will be clocked at the mile and a half and mile and three quarters marks. At Chicago he will run a mile and three-quarters and be clocked also at the mile, mile and a quarter and mile and a half posts.

The Finn's race here is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., after which he will hustle to a train at 10:10 for Chicago, arriving there at 8:30 the following night and providing just enough time for him to hop to the Illinois A. C. games and don a track suit.

LANE AND JOHNSON BID FOR VERNON FRANCHISE

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—Reports that H. W. Lane, former owner of the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast Baseball league, and Walter Johnson, the veteran pitcher of the Washington club of the American league, were bidding against each other for the Vernon club franchise, were in circulation here today. These reports were coincident with a session of directors of the Coast league to discuss a 1925 playing schedule and other league matters.

Lane, while denying that he held an option on the Vernon club, said that either he or Johnson would get the franchise, according to the highest bid made.

The club owners and directors voted to play a post-season "Little World's" series with the American Association.

The agreement which will be drawn at tomorrow's session probably will extend over a period of five or ten years and will include the International league in case that organization cares to participate.

MAY MUY TWENTY HORSES FROM BELMONT STABLE

New York, Jan. 12.—Reports today that twenty of the late Major August Belmont's racing thoroughbreds, including Ladkin, conqueror of Epinard, would be sold to N. Averell Harriman, young financier and sportsman, were met with a statement that no further transactions concerning the Belmont stock had taken place.

No denial, however, was made of the report that Mr. Harriman would purchase the horses for approximately $250,000. He was said to have inspected the thoroughbreds yesterday at their Belmont Park quarters as a preliminary to completing negotiations.

FOOTBALL STARS OUT FOR NOTRE DAME BASKETBALL

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 12.—The Notre Dame basketball squad has been strengthened by the addition of several members of the university's championship football team. Elmer Layden, football fullback, who was one of the famous "Four Horsemen" and who is also a stellar track man, came out for varsity basketball for the first time this afternoon.

Wilbur Eaton, football end, who is also a track man, likewise donned a basketball suit. Noble Kizer, basketball captain and guard on the football team, and Clem Crowe, another end on the eleven, joined the team last week.

Jellow Jackets Win.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 12.—The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets defeated Duluth in a western wheel U. S. Hockey association game tonight by a score of 5 to 0.

ALL-MIDDLETOWN FIVE TO OPPOSE ARMY-NAVY QUINTET THIS EVENING

The basketball fans of Norwich and vicinity will have an opportunity to see one of the state's leading quintets in action when the All-Middletown five meets the Army-Navy quintet in the Parish hall tonight.

The hoopsters from mid-state boast of having one of the greatest teams that has ever represented Middletown, and incidentally, one of the premier aggregations of the state, as their record of 31 victories and six defeats in the past two seasons will show. The team has defeated the Dixies, champions of Hartford, Endies of Meriden, Bristol, (which team defeated the local five several weeks ago) Company G of South Manchester and the Hartford Kaceys.

In the Middletown lineup will be found men who are known throughout basketball circles during the past few years. McCabe, at one time leading scorer for the Hartford Kaceys, and Murphy, former Colgate university captain and star, will play the forward positions. "Lanky" Spear will take care of the pivot position. "Butsy" Sturm, former guard extraordinary of the Springfield "Y" and Jack Keating, formerly of Trinity college will be in the guard berths.

The Army-Navy five after their decisive victory over the Sub Base quintet last week appear to have hit their old stride and are out to take a big fall out of the fast visiting team. They will present the same line-up as last week; Belair, Murphy or Harris forwards; Mills at his old position at center; the Coleman brothers and Coach Denny Murphy in the back court. "Eddie" Murphy, a youngster at the game but with plenty of talent although lacking in experience will act in the utility role.

The preliminary game between the Jewett City Speed Boys and the Army-Navy Seconds promises to be a humdinger as Jewett City was always one of the locals' bitterest rivals and the younger players are out to keep up the reputation. The game is called at 8.15.

GIBSON TO COACH THE CUB PITCHERS

Chicago, Jan. 12.—George Gibson, veteran catcher and former pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today became coach of the Chicago Cubs, succeeding Oscar Dugey, who was unconditionally released.

Gibson, a student of the "old school" started his baseball career with the Buffalo club in 1903. He joined the Pirates in 1904, remaining for eleven years. While with the Pittsburgh club he established a major league record for catching consecutive games. This record of 150 games stood until Ray Schalk of the White Sox took the honor by back-stopping in 151 contests.

Gibson went to the New York Giants in 1917 and 1918, but was sent to Montreal the folowing year. Pittsburgh claimed Gibson as manager in 1920 but in 1922 he was succeeded by William McKechnie.

The new coach the following season coached the Washington Senators under the management of Donie Bush Last season Gibson spent his time hunting and fishing.

President Veech said he believed Gibson's experience will be invaluable in developing the young twirlers on the Cubs roster.

KAPLAN MAY FIGHT EUROPEAN FEATHER CHAMP

New York, Jan. 12.—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., is to receive a chance to make his featherweight championship a true world title, it was learned today. Kaplan will be matched with Edouard Mascart, of France, who holds the European crown.

Tex Rickard plans the match as one of the last attractions at Old Madison Square Garden, which almost has completed its part in history, with a date in late March or April probable. The work of wrecking the garden will start May 6.

Kaplan has expressed a willingness to meet the man from France in a title contest. Mascart recently challenged Johnny Dundee, whose relinquishment of the crown started the tournament in which Kaplan obtained his laurels, but the little Italian clung to his promise to stay out of the featherweight division and brushed aside the defi.

SOMEBODY'S GOING TO GET A FREE SUPPER

From all accounts two knights of the razor and clippers who ply their art in Joe Normand's tonsorial emporium on the Square are due to sit down to a bountiful turkey supper next Saturday night at the expense of two brother knights. Just which two are to be hosts and which two guests is uncertain but the bowling match Saturday night will determine.

For the past week all that has been talked about in the shop is bowling, bowling, bowling, morning, noon and night. It has become a mania with the welders of the shining blade until on Monday Joe Normand and George Lambert came out with the flat declaration that they would challenge Charlie Belloni and Emile Laurencelle to a three string match. The challenge was accepted and the stakes were named as a turkey supper. The match will be rolled next Saturday evening after the boys have completed their labors.

EXHIBITION VOLLEYBALL GAME AT "Y" WEDNESDAY NIGHT

An interesting "battle" will take place in the "Y" gym Wednesday night, when the volleyball team representing the Senior gym class will meet the Cadillacs, the leading team in the business men's volleyball league. Volleyball has become one of the most popular activities among the groups at the association and a team will be organized later to enter the spring state volleyball championships. The game Wednesday night will be free to the general public and will begin promptly at 7:30.

Romero Matched With Weinert

Boston, Jan. 12.—Quintin Romero, Chilean heavyweight, will meet Charley Weinert, Newark, N. J., boxer in Boston, February 16, in a ten round bout, it was announced today. The bout, previously set for January 27 was postponed at Romeros request.

Siki is Matched Again

San Antonio, Tex. Jan. 12.—Battling Siki has been matched to meet Sonny Goodrich, local negro light heavyweight in a 12-round bout here January 20.

LINDLEY FRACTURES BONE IN HIS RIGHT HAND

New Haven, Jan. 12.—Al Lindley, stroke in last year's championship Yale crew and left defense on the Yale varsity hockey team, fractured a bone in his right hand in the hockey game with Princeton Saturday. It became known today. Lindley was in collision with a Princeton player during the game but did not know until today that he had been injured. An X-ray of the swollen hand today, however, disclosed that a bone at the base of the little finger on the right hand was fractured. It is expected, however, that Lindley will be able to play in the game against Harvard Saturday.

TO LENTHEN DISTANCE OF SPECIAL RACE

Chicago, Jan. 12.—At the request of Paavo Nurmi, Finn runner, who will meet Joie Ray and Willie Tittola in a special match race under the auspices of the Illinois Athletic club Friday night, it was announced yesterday the distance will be one and three fourth iles instead of one and and fourth miles. Nurmi it was announced, intends to break not only the one and one fourth mile record but the one and one half and the one and three fourth mile records. All these records now are held by Ray.

SPORTING NOTES

Shreveport of the Texas League, has obtained Pitcher H. F. McCall from St. Joseph of the Western League.

It is rumored around the Western League that should Jim Crawford, president of the Tulsa Club, be unable to get George Burns, recently released by Cincinnati, to manage the Oilers, he will place Lyman Lamb, had-hitting outfielder, in charge of the team.

President W. F. Knebelkamp of the Louisville Club has gone on a mid-winter vacation trip to Vancouver, British Columbia.

President John Heydler of the National league, is said to be negotiating with the head of the Pacific Coast League for the services of John Rearden, picturesque umpire from the Golden West, who will be popular with the Boston fans, because of the fact that he sports the nickname of "Beans." Rearden is a native son of Los Angeles. After umpiring four years in the Canadian League he was signed for services in the Coast circuit, where he proved one of the most capable handlers of the indicator.

San Francisco possesses the only municipal tennis stadium in America.

Persimmon is a favorite wood for gold club heads, and straight-grain hickory for shafts.

Louisville has the largest concern in the world engaged exclusively in the manufacture of baseball bats.

Nearly season attendance records point to a banner year for the basketball teams in the Western Conference universities.

Hitting 1095 consecutives bull's eyes with a .22-caliber rifle at a distance of 50 feet, is a remarkable record of a schoolboy marksman of Fresno, Calif.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has 230 colleges under its jurisdiction.

Last season, for the first time in five years, no American league club batted .300 as a team.

Bill Speas has been signed to again manage the Cedar Rapids team of the Mississippi Valley League. It will make the fourth consecutive year that Speas has managed the club, a record extraordinary in Class D circles, where managers are signed one day and released the next.

St. Joseph has signed Robert Pruett, brother of Hub Pruett of the St. Louis Browns. Robert is a right-hander who was recommended by Ralph Minetree, Saints' catcher, who saw Pruett pitching for a semi-pro team at Senath, Mo. He is 19 years of age, weighs 185 pounds and stands five feet eleven inches.

Dazzy Vance, star hurler of the Dodgers, who has been wintering in Anaheim, Cal., has already left for Clearwater, Fla., the spring training camp of the Brooklyn team. He plans to get the jump on his brother pitchers in the matter of condition.

Charges of perjury against Joe Jackson of the Black Sox growing out of testimony in his suit for breach of promise against the Chicago Americans, have been dismissed in Milwaukee.

Hanford, Cal., will be the training site of the Kansas City team of the American Association. It had been known for some time that the Blues would return to California, but the place they would go to had not been decided.

Cozy Dolan, expelled coach of the Giants, made all of the big league meetings. He was in New York, and when the joint session was held in Chicago bobbed up in the Windy City "I have nothing to say," was his answer to all questions concerning his presence.

Colorado has more than 500 lakes and more than 6,000 miles of streams in which there is trout fishing.

Plans are making in Denver to stage the annual Colorado state bowling tournament during the last week of March.

Denver's leading woman bowler is Mrs. Margaret Taylor, a telephone operator, who has an individual average of 173.

Trinchera ranch, comprising 237,000 acres in Colorado, is said to be the largest private game park in the world.

The first world's championship skating tournament for women was held at Davos in 1905, and was won by Mrs. Syers of the Figure Skating club, London.

Coach Steve Harrick will take the wrestling squad of West Virginia on a trip west at the end of February for a meet with Iowa State College.

So popular is the game of hockey in London and its vicinity that many of the leading clubs are represented by teams in three or four different leagues.

The Intercollegiate Lacrosse League plans an organized campaign with a view to making lacrosse one of the leading spring sports of American colleges.

The National Amateur Skating Association of the United States was formed in 1886 and was followed two years later by the organization of the Amateur Skating Association of Canada.

Louis (Kid) Kaplan, the new [illegible] featherweight champion, held the featherweight and junior light championships of New England before he started on the trail of the world's title.

Since the Intercollegiate Basketball League was started in 1901 the most successful teams have been those of Yale and Pennsylvania, which have six championships each to their credit.

Johnny Myers the Finnish athlete who holds the world's javelin record, has taken up residence in San Francisco and in future will compete under the standard of the Olympic Club of that city.

Rogers Hornsby, champion batsman of the National League, is decidedly modest about his swat achievements. When Hornsby again showed the way at the bat in 1924, making the fifth time in succession he had led the National League, he set a new record for the organization. Hornsby's many batting feats of last season make him stand out as one of the super batsmen of all time in baseball. To which he merely says: "The pitching hasn't been so good the last two or three years. When the twirlers get going again it isn't going to be easy to turn in 400 averages."

Ollie Chill has been re-engaged as an umpire in the American Association. He has turned his signed contract over to President Hickey.

With the population of less than 12,000, Kingston, N. C., will have the distinction of being the smallest city in the country with a Class B baseball club. The town has been included in the Virginia league circuit for next season.

Tom Turner, president of the Portland Club, announces the acquisition of Johnny Jones, shortstop, from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Whether the deal was by cash or trade Turner declined to say.

Blake Harper, owner of the Fort Smith Club of the Western Association, has been besieged with requests from would-be managers since he disposed of Runt Marr. Denny Smith in 1908, when that town was in the Arkansas State League, has sent in his application. Among others who would like the job are: Mike Pendergast, former National, Western and Federal League pitcher, and Rub Perdue, former major league pitcher and one year manager of Nashville.

Pat Duncan, outfielder, purchased by Washington from the Cincinnati Reds in November, did not linger long on the Washington roster, having been sold to the Minneapolis Club. It was a straight sale, Washington getting no option on a Minneapolis player in the deal. Duncan's sale leaves Washington Club with six outfielders, Rice, Goslin and McNeely, the regular garden combination in the latter part of the 1923 season; Leibold, Matthews and Carlyle.

NEW LONDON CITY COUNCIL HEARS PLANS FOR DAY OF THE ECLIPSE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 13—The city council held a session of half an hour this evening, but the business transacted was largely of a routine nature though of public interest. There were half a dozen applications for permission to build, but there was only one application for the construction of a residential building, that being for a two-story cottage which J. A. St. Germain desires to erect. Jeremiah Twomey gave notice that he intends to remodel the front of a building on Bank St., just below Golden and asked for permission to make the alteration. He has already begun work on the job. Mr. St. Germain also asked to erect a gasoline station at Jefferson avenue and Garfield avenue. There has been a station there in the control of the Standard Oil company, but that corporation desires to quit and Mr. St. Germain will take up the proposition that was accorded the oil company.

The city manager asked for authority to contract for oil and greases for the water and sewer department and for the automobiles the city owns and operates. He is to buy 500 or 600 gallons of oil from the Weadol company and about the same quantity from the Gulf company. The greases will be contracted for through the Gulf company. It was voted to purchase a pump from the Worthington company at $2314. Other bids were made to supply the needs of the city, including one from Norwich, but that bidder did not receive the contract. The pump is a triplex plunger.

The Connecticut Power company, through Manager Bird communicated relative to the use of street lights during the total eclipse of the sun, the 24th of January. The eclipse will be total in New London about 9 o'clock in the morning. The period of obscurity is about an hour prior to the total obscurity and also following that unusual phenomenon. For a period of a few minutes there will be total darkness, but in order that the phenomena may be most effectually observed it is proposed not to turn the lights on and it is to be requested that the store window lights shall not be made use of. This necessitates warning to those who use vehicles during the few minutes during which the city will be in darkness. The recommendation of the power company was adopted and there will be no lights to illuminate the way unless absolute necessity should present itself, and that is not anticipated. A communication from Prof. Brown of Yale, who is imparting information as to the phenomenon was read. Its suggestions will be carried out by the power company and by the citizens in so far as they can be adopted.

An ordinance proposing the issuance of public improvement bonds to the extent of $175,000 and waterworks improvement bonds to the amount of $125,000 was introduced, but was not read at the meeting pending submission to the finance committee of the council. Councilor Scott desired to have the ordinance read for the first time at the meeting tonight, but he was out-voted in this regard and the suggestion of the city manager was adopted and the reading was deferred.

Councilor Woodruff reported progress on the matter of extending Huntington street and Crystal avenue.

Councilor Fox made inquiry as to what was being done in the matter of the investigation that was intended to increase the efficiency of the police department, disclaiming that he intended to pry into the matter of the committee business; he was informed that progress was being made and that the hearings by the committee were to continue a while yet.

A petition for the extension of Saunders street was presented and referred to the planning board for a report. The extension proposed is 120 feet.

Lawrence Brockett and James Barron, who propose to lease what is known as Happy Day Island at Ocean Beach, were granted an informal hearing to explain their scheme to the council from blueprints which they produced. It is proposed to bridge the island and the beach mainland and to produce there a public resort that will provide both amusement and recreation for the public. Maurice Poussner, who conducted a theatre here for a while and who is understood to have theatres elsewhere in Connecticut, was at one time negotiating for the lease of the island and the establishment of a resort there during the summer season, but his scheme is supposed to have fallen through. He had an elaborate plan, but the council placed rigid restrictions on his lease and it was not perfected.

Tony DeLaura, of Shaw street, and Mrs. Morris Mallove and infant daughter of Denison avenue, patients at the Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

In the Groton town court this forenoon, Joseph McFee of Groton park, was fined $100 and costs, the latter amounting to $10.15, by Judge Cornelius C. Costello of the charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell. McFee was unable to pay the money, so the case was continued one week in order to permit McFee to obtain the cash. McFee was arrested Dec. 31, by state police officers following a brawl at the McFee home, in which George Whitney figured. The latter was arrested charged with assaulting McFee. Whitney's case, however, was disposed of by nolle as there was insufficient evidence to warrant the prosecution of the accused.

The cases of Mrs. Ruth Hewitt and Sadie Sabor, of Morse avenue, Groton charged with maintaining a house of ill fame, were continued a week. The two women were arrested a week ago. following the Hewitt house being raided by state police officers.

The cases of Milton Lamb and George Hunt, charged with violation of the hunting laws in not having licenses, which have been continued several times were again continued a week.

M. C. Bulsh, of Monument street, Groton, charged with violation of the automobile law, was given the minimum fine for the offense, $25 and costs after Bulsh had pleaded guilty. Bulsh was arrested by Patrolman Edward Morgan, Dec. 30, when the accused was detected operating an automobile carrying a Wisconsin license.

The funeral of Frederick L., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Rogers, 27 Moore avenue, was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio Chase, pastor of the Montauk avenue Baptist church. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

Josiah B. Keeney returned to New York Sunday after having made a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Keeney, 15 Williams street.

Edward S. Doten, 56 Pacific street, is spending a few days in New York.

Mrs. Hattie M. Hanover, 68; wife of Henry U. Hanover of Eastern Point road, Groton, died early this morning at Home Memorial hospital where she had been under treatment about two weeks. She is survived, besides her husband, by three daughters, Misses Belle and Aurilla Hanover of Groton, and Mrs. Thomas Dunn of Scranton, Pa., a brother, Philip Putnam of Stowe, Mass., and a sister, Mrs. Abbie Brown, Otis, Col.

Morris Lubchansky, 77 John street, was arrested late this afternoon by Traffic Officer John Courtney, charged with violation of the city traffic ordinances and was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning. Lubchansky persisted in driving a team on the left side of the highway in the traffic zone on State street.

The home for the sheltering of the city's homeless on North Bank street, is now open. The second floor of the building, adjoining the former E. P. Learned mission property, which was leased several weeks ago by the mission, has been put in condition to shelter the strangers. Cots to accomodate about 30 and a large and complete kitchen have been installed. No vagrants will be housed at the mission corner of Main and Federal streets.

Sergeant Nelson Smith resumed police duty today after having been confined to his home, Rogers street, several days by a severe cold.

When the annual meeting of the Holy Name society was held in the gymnasium of the Catholic Diocesan Bureau, Jay street Sunday, the following officers were elected: Spiritual Director, Rev. Dr. T. M. Crowley; Chaplain, Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan; President, William T. May; Vice President, F. J. O'Connor; treasurer, John D. Burns; Secretary, Peter J. Eshenfelder.

Mrs. Harold Baker and infant son, of Fishers Island; Mrs. Frederick Leeds and infant son, Groton; Mrs. Benjamin Putnam, Hadlyme; Antonie Crocker, Shaw street; Mrs. Cyrus Dixon, Colchester; Wolf Sulkowvitch, 27 West Colt street; John Sullivan, Union street; Charles Glassenberg, Squire street, and Miss Catherine Moriarty, of Montauk avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated Hospital, were discharged today.

Louis L. Smith, 22, died Sunday at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Frederick MacQuaflin, 100 Howard street, after an illness of about six months. He is survived, besides his mother, by a brother, Sidney Smith, of Greenport, N. Y. The funeral was held this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Smith's mother, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. The body was forwarded to Riverhead, L. I., for burial tomorrow. Mr. Smith's father and brother were drowned in Long Island sound several months ago when the motor launch in which they were making a trip foundered, their bodies never having been recovered.

Adam Lakewsky has sold a house and lot, corner of Connecticut avenue and Pleasant street, to Simon and Tephilla Renowsky.

It became known today that Patrolman Dennis Murphy, one of New London's "finest," had recently become a benedict for it developed that he had married Miss Marcia Bowes, of New York. The ceremony was performed Dec. 29th by Rev. J. Rockwell Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, at the residence of the clergyman, and without witnesses. The couple are now making their residence on Prospect street.

Patrolman John Figley has resumed duty after having been confined to his home, Williams street, a week by an attack of grip.

Fire late last night threatened to destroy the two-and-one-half story wooden structure, 47 Main street, occupied by Thomas Hamrah, confectioner and grocer, on the ground floor and as a lodging house on the upper two floors. How the fire originated is not known, but it is believed that it started from spontaneous combustion, or from an overheated chimney igniting inflammable matter.

Occupants of the rooms above the store were awakened from their slumber with difficulty and several of them were forced to leave the burning building and enter the streets in scanty clothing.

The fire was discovered by passers-by and was burning briskly well to the rear of the store and within a short distance from the chimney. An alarm was rung in from Box 25, corner of Main and Federal streets, summoning the major portion of the city's firefighting machines. When the firemen reached the place the rear of the store was all aflame and the fire had communicated to the rooms above, following the partitions. Clouds of smoke entered the rooms of the lodgers and Patrolmen Edward Daniels and Eugene Sullivan, who were in a restaurant nearby, went to the rooms of the lodgers and aroused them in time to permit their leaving the building in safety.

The flames were attacked with chemicals, but it finally became necessary to stretch several lines of hose to the burning building and it was an hour before the flames were subdued.

Judge Prince, in the police court this morning applied the local lash to two drunks. He fined them, which is the punishment inflicted before a jail sentence is imposed to make such offenders realize that they must conform to laws and respect the rights of others to travel the streets unmolested. One of the accused is a young man of respected parents. He has been arrested many times and has been the cause of great expense to his father. His card at the police station shows he has been in the custody of the police many times and occasionally for offenses much more serious than intoxication. He is a member of a fire engine company and association there is believed to have led him from the paths of sobriety in recent years. He received his warning today and when next he comes before the police court he is very likely to get a passport that will take him to Franklin street for a stay.

A second offender was a fellow so drunk that he didn't realize that he was endeavoring to get into the house of a colored woman on Atlantic street through a window. He was driven away from that place and then went to a house on Federal street where he attempted the same proceeding. He drew a fine of $10 so that his vagaries cost him $20.

A fellow who strolled into town late Saturday appeared soon after at the Learned Mission in a condition of intoxication that led to a complaint to the police. He was taken into custody and this morning was allowed to get out of town. He declared that he "had work," but could not explain why he left it and came to New London. He said his latest employment was harvesting ice.

New London had its first snowstorm of the winter today. About Christmas time there was a sprinkling of snow, but it did not reach the proportions of a "storm."

DR. LOUIS M. ALLYN'S CASE NOLLED IN GGROTON COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 13—Dr. Louis M. Allyn, well known Mystic physician, was in the Groton town court this forenoon charged with assault and battery upon Thomas Perry, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Perry, Mystic. Judge Cornelius C. Costello and Prosecuting Attorney Warren B. Burrows, political opponents of Dr. Allyn, did not appear but Associate Judge C. Tyler Landphere and Assistant Prosecutor Charles F. Willard, tried the case. As the Harvey boy's father and sister desired that the complaint against the physician be withdrawn, in spite of the protest of the mother that Dr. Allyn be prosecuted and after considering other features of the case, Judge Landphere ordered a nolle entered.

Dr. Allyn was represented by counsel. It was alleged that a week ago the physician struck the Perry boy after the latter is alleged to have struck the physician's daughter on property owned by Dr. Allyn. It was charged that the Perry boy had made it a practice to strike children younger than himself and that Dr. Allyn had previously ordered hte boy to keep off the Allyn property where the physician maintains a pond on which children may enjoy skating.

Dr. Allyn denied that he had struck or kicked the Perry youth, but he admitted that he took hold of the boy to lead the latter to the Perry home after the latter is alleged to have hit the physician's daughter.

SCHEDULE FOR RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

Boston, Jan. 12.—Members of New England National Guard units and others who enroll for training in the reserve officers' training corps, organized reserves and citizens' military training camps next summer, will be assigned to duty in camps at regular army posts throughout New England, according to an announcement by Brigadier General John D. Barrette, commanding the First Corps Area. This is a departure from the practice of former years, when the bulk of New England's military were given their training at Camp Devens. This camp, it was announced, will continue to be the big training center of New England, although the activities there will be on a smaller scale. Brigadier General Malvern-Hill Barnum, commanding the 181st United States Infantry Brigade, will be in command at Devens this year.

The citizens' military training camps will be held this year at Fort Ethan Allen, Burlington, Vt.; Portland Harbor, Maine; Fort Adams, Newport, R. I.; Camp Devens, and at Fort Terry, off New London, Conn. Five hundred of the 2500 students in infantry and basic courses, while 500 more will be trained at Fort Ethan Allen in the cavalry and basic courses and, probably, the advanced field artillery. It is possible that 200 students from the Second Corps Area, New York, also may be trained there. Four hundred students will be trained at Fort Adams and 280 at Fort Terry, the latter to specialize in anti-aircraft artillery. About 1200 students will be trained at Camp Devens in the infantry, engineer and basic courses. As in former years, these camps will be held during August, that is with the exception of Fort Adams, which will conduct its citizens' military training camp during July.

Although plans for the New England National Guard units have not been completed, it was announced that the 26th division, Massachusetts, will encamp at Devens from July 11 to July 25. The 191st Observation Squadron, Air Service, Massachusetts National Guard, will be trained at Langley Field, Va., while the 118th Squadron, Air Service, Connecticut, will go to Mitchel Field, New York. The Maine National Guard Coast Artillery regiment will have its camp at Portland from July 10 to July 24.

Other national guard camps will be held as follows: 242nd Connecticut Coast Artillery, 243rd Rhode Island Coast Artillery, 246th New York Coast Artillery and 241st Massachusetts Coast Artillery, all at Fort H. G. Wright, New York; 240th Maine Coast Artillery, at Forts Preble and Williams, Maine; 197th New Hampshire Coast Artillery, at Rye Beach, N. Y., and 211th Massachusetts Coast Artillery at Fort Terry, N. Y.

As in the case of the National Guard, the camp schedules of the organized reserves have not been worked out in detail but it was announced that one or two regiments of the 61st Cavalry division, New York, will train at Fort Ethan Allen, from June 3 to 18 and that units of the 153th Cavalry Brigade of New England, will train there at a later date.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The Norwich & Worcester road increased its earnings 25 per cent in 1850 over the corresponding time in 1849, total income for the year going to $240,000.

Other items of general interest taken from the columns of the Courier in 1850 are in part as follows:

Tuesday, January 8, 1850—At a recent celebration in Brooklyn of the 229th landing of the Pilgrims, there were present a lady from Connecticut, who was the fifth descendant of Gov. Bradford and a gentleman (Chancellor Walworth) descendent from Mary Chilton the first female who leaped on Plymouth Rock.

The steamer Angelina, Capt. A. Lovell, is making her regular trips from Norwich daily at 8 a. m., for Gales Ferry (Palmer's Landing) and New London.

There is interest in the numerous petitions presented in the senate by Mr. Davis of Massachusetts for the abolishment of flogging in the navy. News from the house shows they are still balloting for clerk, the last vote giving Forney 107 and Campbell 94 votes, with 19 scattering.

News from Athens, Ga., contains the report of the death of Daniel Hale, aged 119 years. He leaves a son aged 76 years, a granddaughter 44 years and a great granddaughter 22 years.

Thursday, January 10, 1850—A whole column in the Courier is given over to a discussion, some of it from other papers, whether or not 1850 is in the last half of the 19th century. Many papers claimed that 1850 was the last half of the 19th century while writers for the Courier took the view that the last half of the 19th century would not be reached until the end of the year 1950. The argument seems to have been nationwide as many papers are mentioned in the article.

The Plymouth church at Brooklyn, N. Y., was opened Sunday for divine worship by Henry Ward Beecher, the pastor. Members joining the new $36,000 church came from Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian and Dutch reform societies.

Discussions of the slavery question continue to arise interest in congress. Mr. Phelps of Vermont handed the hot heads of the south a thought when he said that the government would also protect itself if any state went as far as treason.

Saturday, January 12, 1850—The earnings of the Norwich & Worcester road for the month of December were as follows: Through travel, $1,044.71; local travel, $5,444; freight, $10,677.96; mails, etc., $1,078.86; total, $17,646.02. These figures showed a gain over the same period in 1849 of $3,638.97 or 25 per cent. The total reciepts for the year were about $240,000.

A person writing under the name of Norwich asks why no one has bought up the rights of water power along the Shetucket river from Manning's bridge to Lathrop's bridge, where, he writes, there is a ninety-six foot fall unoccupied. The writer advocates the harnessing of this power, which he says will aid in keeping the Thames river free from ice and increase the permanent water supply at Greeneville.

A writer under the initial G has written to the Courier stating that the year 1850 is indeed the last half of the 19th century, disputing the stories of many other writers. His argument seems to clinch things and takes over a column and a half of hand set type.

News from California tells of new strikes being made there, also that free trade exists on the isthmus. The steamship Alabama brought $50,000 in gold and its passengers brought back fully $200,000 more. Prices are high in California, heavy boots selling at $96 a pair and vegetables are also high. Carpenters there who have been receiving only $12 a day have struck for $16 a day and are likely to get it as building is booming in the state.

TO VOTE ON THE UNDERWOOD MUSCLE SHOALS BILL TODAY

Washington, Jan. 12.—The fate of the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill will be known tomorrow, when the senate will vote on the Jones substitute to create a commission to make recommendations to congress for disposition of the project.

If the Underwood bill successfully hurdles this substitute, introduced by the republican whip, senate leaders generally agree that its passage will be assured. The Alabama senator was confident tonight that his bill would pass.

The situation was clarified late today when Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, leader of the opposition to the Underwood bill, asked for unanimous consent to vote on the Jones amendment not later than 3 o'clock tomorrow and to limit debate to 10 minutes for each senator.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, raised the point of no quorum, and rather than have a quorum call at that hour, Senator Norris announced he would renew his motion when the senate convened tomorrow. The Washington senator said he had no objection to the motion but thought a quorum should be present when a unanimous consent agreement was sought, and Senator Jones declared he would agree to the motion.

If the Jones substitute is defeated, senate leaders plan to push the Underwood bill to a final vote before adjournment, although Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, intends to re-submit his amendment which would provide for government operation of the plant at full capacity for the manufacture of nitrogen for explosives and fertilizer.

CHARGES BY SECRETARY OF POSTOFFICE CLERKS

Washington, Jan. 12.—A charge that the post office department is denying employes the benefits of sick leave and the eight-hour law, and is coercing them in other ways, was made today by Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, who requested Representative Nolan, republican California, to ask for an investigation.

In New York he said, the eight-hour law has been abandoned in some divisions and in Chicago, "constant espionage" is kept up, driving men to speed up "to the limit of human endurance."

"Men active in the recent wage campaign," the statement said, "have been third-degreed and coerced. Several have been dismissed."

He contrasted this with "the action of the department in calling to Washington inspectors and supervisory officials to lobby in violation of the department's cost ascertainments report."

INSISTS THAT HE COUNTED OUT TAMMANY CANDIDATE

New York, Jan. 12.—George Rosken, self-styled principal of a "school for ballot fixers," stuck to his guns today when it was intimated to him that he had fabricated his story, told last week in the form of a confession that he had "counted out" Dr. William I. Sirovich, Tammany candidate for congress in the interests of Nathan D. Perlman, republican, last November.

"Just open the ballot box," Rosken was reported to have told the incredulous grand jurors before whom he appeared today for the third time.

"Examination of the ballots will prove the truth of my story."

Asistant District Attorney Pecora said the ballot box question—from a polling place of the Fourth Congressional district, which Congressman Perlman represents—would be before the grand jury next Wednesday.

Important to all Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

GERMAN COMMENT ON RESIGNATION OF HUGHES

Berlin, Jan. 12.—The German press carries much American, Paris and London comment on the resignation of Secretary of State Hughes and the appointment of Ambassador Kellogg as his successor. The newspapers refrain, however, for the most part, from expressing any opinion of their own.

The Vossische Zeitung says "The change in the state department does not signify any unusual change in the cautious watchfully waiting policy of the United States thus far observed."

The probable reason for Mr. Hughes' decision is ascribed by the Vossische to the fact "that Hughes, whose intransigeant attitude toward Russia is known constitutes a hindrance to the joint company policy of England toward the new Russia."

The Deutsche Tageszeitung, a pan-German organ says: "Hughes was undoubtedly no friend of Germany's. Nevertheless, a certain improvement in America's relations with Germany were achieved under his administration." This newspaper also credits the secretary of state with "a certain consolidation of European affairs."

The Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung declares that "the resignation of Hughes is a noteworthy event of the greatest importance to international relations."

Germania, the organ of Chancellor Marx, is of the opinion that the resignation of Mr. Hughes was due to the difficulties surrounding America's European policy. Lauding the record of the secretary of state, Germania continues:

"Hughes' name will stand beside that of Dawes as that of the American who was connected with most essential progress on the difficult field of European complications. This achievement will remain his, however one may think about the personal authorship of the Dawes plan."

COMPLAINT OF MONOPOLY IN RADIO EQUIPMENT

Washington, Jan. 12—Hearing on the complaint against a number of companies alleging conspiracy to restrain competition and creat a monopoly in manufacture, purchase and sale in interstate commerce of radio and other electrical devices and apparatus, will be started by the federal trade commission March 18 at New York.

The defendants named in the complaint are the General Electric company, American Telephone and Telegraph company, Western Electric Company, Inc., Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, International Radio Telegraph company, United Fruit company, Wireless Specialty Apparatus company and the Radio Corporation of America.

The complaint also charges in substance that the respondents "have combined and conspired for the purpose and with the effect of restraining competition and creating a monopoly" in domestic and transoceanic radio communication and broadcasting.

The commission, in announcing today the date for beginning the taking of testimony in the case, said the hearings would be conducted by Edward L. Smith, of its legal staff. The companies it was added, will be represented by attorneys

Broadway Theater

The psychology that lurks behind the spotted fern, the enameled phonograph on the brocaded velvet portieres, the true spirit of the "newly rich" home, was transcribed to the screen in Hobart Henley's Universal-Jewel production of The Turmoil, Booth Tarkington's American classic, coming Thursday to the Broadway theater.

The casting of the characters of the novel required weeks, for they are such "living" types that careless casting would have been inimical to proper translation of the Tarkington idea into screen images.

zHenley, as shown in another Tarkington story, The Flirt, and in The Flame of Life, The Abysmal Brute and the recently completed A Lady of Quality, inclines toward a perfect presentation of thoughts as well as action in the picture. Psychology he holds more important than anything else.

and that of Charles B. Warren to succeed Mr. Stone, was referred to a sub-committee.

ELEVEN ESKIMOS TO BE BROUGHT TO THIS COUNTRY

Washington, Jan. 12.—The 11 Eskimo survivors of the ill-fated Wells expedition to Wrangel Island, in the North Pacific, will be brought to this country by the American Red Cross.

Deported from Russia, where they had been taken by a soviet ship, the Eskimos were denied admission to China, and the United States government found it had no funds available for their return to American soil. The state department referred the case to the Red Cross, however, which announced today that it had appropriated $1,600 to bring them from Vladivostok to Seattle.

FOUR U. S. DESTROYERS ORDERED TO SHANGHAI

Manila, Jan. 13 (By the A. P.)—The United States destroyers Tracy, Smith, Thompson and John D. Edwards, of the Asiatic fleet, left for Shanghai today as a result of the fighting reported there between rival Chinese factions.

Other warships are under orders to proceed to the Chinese port in the event of their services being required there.

REDUCE YOUR FAT WITHOUT DIETING

Years ago the formula for fat reduction was "diet"—"exercise." Today it is "Take Marmola Prescription Tablets." Friends tell friends—these friends tell others. They eat substantial food, live as they like, and still reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise, starvation diet and absurd greases and salves. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar for a box, or if you prefer you can order direct from the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Of great interest to the Norwich public will be the appearance of Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars in the Community House on Friday evening, January 16th, nder the auspices of the Brotherhood of the United Church.

Dr. Ditmars is the curator of mammals and reptiles at the New York Zoological park, and author of The Book of Nature.

He is recognized and acknowledged to be the world's greatest athority on animal life.

During the last two years he has gathered a remarkable collection of motion pictures, showing wild creatures at work and play, which he uses to illustrate his lectures.

In the pictures are included animals of many types, interesting species of snakes, lizards and other reptiles, a wide variety on insects and fish of all kinds.

His animal pictures range from the largest elephants down to the smallest monkeys.

Much painstaking care is required to photograph various animals and reptiles, some of which are extremely dangerous to approach. A nine-foot cobra, for instance—India's most deadly snake — struck repeatedly at the camera, the scene being reproduced.

With his intensely interesting narrative of animal traits and the life of the wild, Dr. Ditmars presents a variety of fascinating scenes in which instruction and amusement are delightfully blended.

These wonderful motion pictures have shown in the greatest photoplay theaters of America and Europe, where they have delighted large audiences. At the Strand, New York, finest photoplay theater the Ditmars pictures ran continuously for eight months breaking all records of this class.

Tickets for this illustrated lecture are on sale at The Cranston Co., Broadway. Tickets $1.00 for adults. For children 35cents. Tax exempt.

Breed Theater

Mae Murray has done it again. She has scored another real triumph in Circe the Enchantress, her new Metro-Goldwyn starring picture, which will be shown for the last times at the Breed today.

Circe the Enchantress was written especially for Miss Murray by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, author of The Four Horseman of the Apocalypse and other famous novels, and it supplies her with one of the best stories in which she has ever appeared.

Ibanez has based the story on the mythical goddess, Circe. This episode of the picture has been transferred to tehscreen in a very colorful way and is an interesting novelty as well as furnishing a foundation for the real story that follows.

In the real story Miss Murray portrays the part of Cecile Brunne, who is a modern Circe until she meets one man who fails to succumb to her charm. From this point on it develops into a fast moving romance such as Ibanez only can develop and in which Miss Murray is at her best.

Robert Z. Leonard, who directed Circe the Enchantress, deserves credit along with Miss Murray and Ibanez for the manner in which he has handled the picture.

The supporting cast for Circe the Enchantress includes James Kirkwood, William Haines, Charles Gerard, Gene Cameron, Thomas Ricketts and Lillian Langdon. The photoplay was made by Tiffany production of which Mr. Leonard is director general and M. H. Hoffman is general manager.

The Pathe news, Hodge Podge and a Fox Imperial comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Broadway Theater

They came, they saw and were gratified. It is certainly an exceptional treat that the management of the Broadway is offering the Norwich theatergoers this week. Not only will you see something different on the stage, but a great picture that we wish every mother and father in Norwich could and must see.

Marty Dupree and Her Musical Follies lived up to its well established reputation. They were a big hit. The same cast of Norwich favorites, held sway again over the crowded houses of yesterday as they did a year ago. The cast of seventeen includes Beatrice Brohan, the boob comedian and Frank Murray, the famous French comedian. The show is beautifully staged. It is resplendent in a galaxy of bright fun, music and dancing with a happy chorus of youthful, vivacious and accomplished maidens.

All we need to say is this about the photoplay Broken Laws.

If you take pride in Motherhood, see this picture! If you find joy in Fatherhood, see this picture! If you are alive to the greatest tonic of the age see this mighty photodrama! A tremendously dramatic and thrilling story that will furnish you the biggest evening's entertainment you have had in a long time!

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS CLOSED STRONG

New York, Jan. 13.—Higher call money rates brought about some irregularity in today's early stock trading, but the general list soon swung upward under the leadership of United States Steel common, which crossed 125 to its highest price since 1917. Total sales slightly exceeded two million shares.

The unexpectedly large increase of over 70,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, which was not announced until after the market closed Saturday, brought a large volume of buying order into that issue, which opened 1-4 higher at 124 1-4. Many traders had expected a larger initial advanced with the result that heavy profit-taking and bear selling came into the market, forcing the stock off a point from its early high. All offerings were well absorbed, however, and steady accumulation by powerful financial interests soon sent the price to 125 3-8 where it closed.

Unexpected strength also developed in some of the motor issues with buying influenced to some extent by the impressions obtained at the automobile show here last week. General Motors opened with a block of 6,800 shares at 70, up 1, and later extended its gain to 73 1-8, closing at 73 for a net gain of 4 points on the day. Nash Motors continued its sensational advance by touching a new top at 220 1-2, a net gain of 10 1-2 points, in further reflection of the increased dividend payments. Fisher Body soared 20 points to 280, and then fell back to 272. Other strong spots in the automotive group were Bosch Magneto and Stewart-Warner.

Oil shares also developed a sudden burst of strength and activity with Mariand the leader in that group, climbing nearly four points to 44. Trading in this stock was stimulated by reports that strong banking interests would soon exercise an option to purchase a large block of the shares. Indications that earnings of the Pan-American Petroleum Company would be substantially higher in 1925 than last year, brought a moderate advance in these issues. Sinclair preferred moved up 2 1-8 points to 84 5-8 and Skelly Oil advanced 1 1-4 to 25 1-2.

Missouri Pacific preferred was one of the leaders in the railroad group, responding to the announcement of Chairman Williams that 1924 earnings on the stock this year would be approximately $9 a share, compared with 16 cents a share in the preceding year. Recent improvement in the financial position of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad, coupled with reports that the company was preparing to make interests payments on some of its bonds, lifted the preferred stock three points to a new high at 60. Profit taking retarded the upward movement in other rail issues.

Money rates stiffened slightly, call loans renewing at 3 per cent, and holding at that figure all day, as loans were called to bolster up the reserve of banks after the deficit shown in last week's clearing house statement. The demand for time funds was light, with only small amounts available at less than 3 3-4 per cent. and with longer term accommodations quoted at 4 per cent. Commercial paper rates ranged from 3 3-4 to 4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were firm, although sterling failed to make further headway in its approach toward par. After selling above 4.79, it closed slightly below this figure, showing little change for the day. French francs moved up slightly to around 5.27 cents, but Dutch guilders continued to declines.

BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 13.—Renewed buying of railroad bonds on a large scale featured today's active bond trading, which expanded under the influence of continued time money rates and a growing reinvestment demand. Total sales exceeded $20,000,000, placing the session in a class with some of last year's largest daily market.

A sharp rally in the new Denver and Rio Grande General 5's which carried the price up almost 5 points to a new high above 66, followed reports that the company was preparing to pay interest on the issue, which is cumulative from February 1, 1924. Other bonds and certificates of the road also scored substantial gains.

Demand for other railroad liens embraced Delaware and Hudson convertible 5's which moved up two points; Peoria and Eastern income 4's, Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 5's, Pennsylvania General 4 1-2's, Atchison General 4's; Atlantic Coast Line 4's, and Norfolk and Western Consolidated 4's.

Trading in the local traction issues was stimulated by reports that the reorganization plan of the New York Railway company would go into effect within a month. The company's 4 per cent. certificates moved up to a new high at 47 7-8 carrying with them the issues of the other transit lines. Federal Light and Traction 7's extended their recent remarkable gains by 3 points and Commonwealth Power preferred advanced 4 point.

Sinclair 6 1-2's, gained 1 5-8, led an upward movement in the oil bonds which was in line with a spurt in the stocks of these companies.

The 3,000,000 loan recently negotiated for the City of Saarbrucken soon will be offered in the form of 10 year 7 per cent. bonds. Offering of $15,000,000 Public Service Electric and Gas Company 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock is being made at a price of $95 a share.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Since the beginning of the new year Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton has issued eight permits for new buildings, in the city. These permits include two new dwelling houses, one for Louis Simpson on Slater avenue and the other for Michael Levine on Williams avenue, the others being for garages and additions to present buildings.

Building progress during the past week has slowed down to some extent due to the cold weather and the unsettled conditions at the present time. However, a good amount of work has been done on local projects and several jobs are well along. At the Sellas block on Franklin square good progress has been made on the new building, the foundation is completed and the steel work for the first floor is practically laid with the work starting on the walls.

To Louis Rappaport to erect a frame garage at 207 West Thames street. The garage is to be 20x16 feet, with cement foundation and floor.

To C. Meyer to erect a frame veranda to the present house at 21 High street. The veranda will be 5x18 feet.

To Fowler and Rathbun to erect a frame garage at 12 Slater avenue for Louis Simpson. The garage will be 12x18 feet with cement foundation and floor.

To Fowler and Rathbun to build a frame house at No. 12 Slater avenue for Louis Simpson. The house will be 24x28 feet, two stories high with stone and cement foundation. It will be built in Dutch colonial style, with side porch. The interior will be furnished in hardwood and plaster. The exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles.

To Mrs. N. J. Casey to erect a 2-car garage on Freeman avenue. The garage will have a cement foundation and floor.

To P. F. Sweeney to erect a frame house on Williams avenue for Michael Levine. The house will be 26x35 of the bungalow type. The foundation will be of stone. The exterior finish will be in shingles and clapboards. On the interior the walls will be finished in hard plaster and the floors will be of hard wood.

To John Garaka to add to present frame garage on South street.

To Walter S. Pianka to erect a frame garage on Rock street. The garage will be 18 by 28 feet with cement floor on foundation.

New London

Architects have been invited to submit plans and specifications for a two-story school building on the Mercer street site. The building will be arranged for 18 classrooms, a combined lecture hall, study hall and gymnasium, capable of seating at least 500 persons, a general workroom, principal's office, teachers' room, store room, boiler room, toilets, etc. It is to cost more than $140,000. Proposals will be received by the New London School Board, F. W. Edgerton, secretary, and must be in the hands of the board not later than January 19, 1925. Further information may be obtained from Warren A. Hanson, superintendent of schools, Municipal Building.

The city council has authorized City Manager William A. Holt to obtain bids for approximately 3,600 feet of iron fencing to be used at the Old Town Mill pond, Williams Park and Lake Konomoc. About six gates will be required for the work under contemplation.

The permit has been issed for an addition to a dwelling on Broad street for A. B. Nichols. The addition will be designed for store purposes. It will be 16x43 feet, of concrete block construction, one story high. There will be a plate glass front and other improvements.

The contract has been awarded for a cottage for Joseph R. Sylwartz on Bentley avenue. The dwelling will be 20x40 feet, and will be provided with the usual improvements. It will be of frame construction.

The foundation has been completed for the garage which Nicholas Sammarora is building on Shaw street. The owner is in charge of the construction work. The building will be 45x50 feet, of stone, steel and frame construction. The cost will be about $5,000.

Building Permits

A. B. Nichols, addition, Broad street, $800.

Nicholas Sammaratora, stone garage, Shaw street, $5,000.

Joseph R. Schwartz, frame cottage, Bentley street, $3,500.

Number of permits issued for the week, 4; estimated cost of buildings, 19,500.

Niantic

The board of directors of the State Farm for Women at Niantic, will seek an appropriation of about $106,000 from the incoming legislatre for the construction of three cottages at the farm. The plans will call for the construction of two cottages housing 12 girls each, with two offices, and one cottage for 25 girls and three offices. The State Board of Finance, which is considering the matter, has suggested that the buildings be built of brick.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 13 sales of real estate as compared to 5 sales for the corresponding week in 1924. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $15,400 and $19,750.

There were 5 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, one-half the number of sales for the week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $10,750 and $38,000.

State Building Permits

While the first week of the new year rarely shows any great amount of building permits issued the first week of 1925 is no exception, and the totals for the week are exceptionally small. In the week just ended there were granted 109 permits for buildings costing $823,300, against 188 granted in 1924 in the same week, for buildings costing $714,540, and 74 in 1923, the buildings costing $203,068.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn.

Thousands who have piles have not do the same for you.

Learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine, taken internally, that is now sold by druggists generally. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 95 per cent., and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands of people, and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

CURB MARKET

New York, Jan. 12.—Profit-taking unsettled curb market trading today, although individual stocks showed pronounced strength. The oils were the strongest group, while several radio shares and the public utilities yielded to liquidation.

The new Fisher Body shares "when issued," bolstered by the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of $1.25, scored a marked gain, touching 8, but later fell off on realizing and closed at 68 1-2, for a net advance of 4 points.

Several of the oils advanced to higher ground, South Penn Oil gaining 3 points, Prairie Oil and Gas 1 1-2, Ohio Oil 1 1-8, and Imperial of Canada 1 1-4. Losses in this group were chiefly fractional, Prairie Pipe yielding a point.

Heavy buying of Freshman Radio featured the radio list but early gains were reduced by profit taking. Dubilier advanced 2 points and Thermiodyne 1 1-8. Others lacked resistance to realizing sales.

Nickel Plate common shares sold off a point. The industrials with the exception of Duz corporation, which gained nearly 3 points, managed to hold their ground, while American Gas and Electric lost 3 3-4, and American Power and Light declined 1 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Accelerated by an unexpected big decrease of the United States visible supply of wheat and by a lively demand for domestic millers, the wheat market today climbed to the highest price yet this season, May delivery touching 186.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong at 7-8 to 4 1-4c net advance, May 134 3-4 to 135 and July 156 1-8 to 156 1-4. Corn finished 7-8 to 1 5-8c up, oats varying from 1-8c off to 1-4c gain, and provisions 7 to 27c higher.

With the domestic stock of wheat showing a reduction of more than 4,450,000 bushels in the last week, closing prices were at the day's topmost level.

Even before the visible supply figures were out, there was persistent general buying based largely on reports that millers had paid $2 a bushel and over for immediate wheat delivery at Omaha, St. Louis, Minneapolis and Toledo. In addition to the milling demand, there was evidence that considerable export business was in progress. Besides, advances were at hand that wheat stocks in Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Vienna would soon be exhausted.

Corn sympathized with wheat strength notwkhstanding a liberal increase of the corn visible supply. Oats were sluggish in the absence of any important call from shippers.

Provisions reflected upturns in the value of hogs and corn.

CONJECTURE CONCERNING DIPLOMATIC CHANGES

Washington, Jan. 12.—While Washington puzzled with reports of further impending changes in high administration circles following the unexpected announcement Saturday of the resignation of Secretary Hughes, evidence increased that in White House circles no more cabinet changes were expected for March 4, except in the selection of a secretary of agriculture to succeed Howard M. Gore, who will at that time become governor of West Virginia.

At the same time it was apparent that President Coolidge was keeping his own counsel and, even in the matter of selecting a successor to Ambassador Kellogg, at London, when the latter comes to Washington to succeed Mr. Hughes, was consulting, if at all, with a very few.

There was a growing belief, however, that the appointment to London of Alanson B. Houghton, now ambassador to Germany, was the strongest possible.

The president, it is understood, holds Mr. Houghton in high regard both officially and personally, and feels that he would in every respect be an admirable representative of the United States at the court of St. James. If he should be appointed to the post, what further changes in the diplomatic service that would lead to, in the belief of officials, is a question too remote at this time for definite discussion.

As these discussions proceeded, the senate took a further step toward confirmation of Attorney General Harlan F. Stone as associate justice of the supreme court and of Charles Beecher Warren, of Michigan, as attorney general. Both nominations were sent to the capitol last week and that of Mr. Warren was referred today in regular course to a sub-committee of the judiciary committee. Senators said there was no suggestion of opposition to Mr. Warren.

The nomination of Mr. Stone was approved by a sub-committee, but the full judiciary committee deferred final action as it when Senator Overman, democrat, North Carolina, declined to join with the majority of the sub-committee and insisted on further inquiry into the court proceedings brought by executors of the estate of J. Pierpont Morgan against James A. Ownbey, of Colorado. Mr. Stone was of consel for the exectors in that action and Mr. Ownbey was protested against the nomination.

NICARAGUA WOULD RETAIN THE AMERICAN GUARD

Washington, Jan. 12.—A formal request from the Nicaraguan government for retention in Managua of the American guard, comprising about 100 marines, has been received by the state department and is understood to have laid before President Coolidge.

The note, asking that the marine detachment be kept on duty in Nicaragua and not withdrawn this month, as planned, was forwarded there through the American legation at Managua. It is said to present a strong plea that the marines be allowed to remain there for an indefinite period. It had been the intention of the Washington government to withdraw the marines as soon as the new administration there took office this month.

SAFE FOR CHILDREN

Mothers everywhere demand a reliable cough remedy free from injurious narcotics. Supplying this demand for fifty years made Foley's Honey and Tar Compound one of the largest selling cough medicines in the world. Children like it. "My little boy had a very bad cough, and after he used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound he got relief at once," writes Mrs. Van Bells, Penroy, Mont. Refuse substitutes. Lee & Osgood Co.

POETRY

IT SNOWS.

"It snows!" cries the schoolboy. "Hurrah!" and his shout
Is ringing through parlor and hall,
While swift as the wing of a swallow, he's out,
And his playmates have answered his call;
It makes the heart leap but to witness their joy;
Proud wealth has no pleasures, I trow,
Like the rapture that throbs in the pulse of the boy,
As he gathers his treasures of snow;
Then lay not the trappings of gold on thine heirs
While health and the riches of nature are theirs.

"It snows!" sighs the Imbecile, "Ah!" and his breath
Comes heavy, as clogged with a weight;
While, from the pale aspect of nature in death,
He turns to the blaze of his grate;
And nearer and nearer, his soft-cushioned chair
Is wheeled toward the life-giving flame;
He dreads the chill puff of the snow-burdened air,
Lest it wither his delicate frame;
O! small is the pleasure existence can give
When the fear we shall die only proves that we live!

"It snows!" cries the Traveler. "Ho!" and the word
Has quickened his steed's lagging pace;
The wind rushes by, but its howl is unheard,
Unfelt the sharp drift in his face;
For bright through the tempest his own home appeared,
Ay, though leagues intervened, he can see;
There's the clear, glowing hearth, and the table prepared,
And his wife with her babes at her knee;
Blest thought! how it lightens the grief-laden hour,
That those we love dearest are safe from its power!

"It snows!" cries the Belle. "Dear, how lucky!" and turns
From her mirror to watch the flakes fall.
Like the first rose of summer, her dimpled cheek burns,
While musing on sleigh ride and ball;
There's are visions of conquests, of splendor, and mirth,
Floating over each drear winter's day!
But the tintings of Hope, on this storm-beaten earth,
Will melt like the snowflakes away;
Turn, turn thee to Heaven, fair maiden, for bliss;
That world has a pure fount ne'er opened in this.

"It snows!" cries the widow. "O, God!" and her sighs
Have stifled the voice of her prayer;
Its burden ye'll read in her tear-swollen eyes,
On her cheek sunk with fasting and care.
'Tis night and her fatherless ask her for bread,
But "He gives the young ravens their food,"
And she trusts, till her dark hearth adds horror to dread,
Poor sufferer! that sorrow thy God only knows!
'Tis a most bitter lot to be poor, when it snows!

TWO WINDS BLEW.

Two winds blew at me;
One from hills and one from sea,
Tugged and pulled and blew at me,

The hill wind said, "Climb, climb!"
The sea wind: "Seek a far-off clime,"
But I did not sail or climb.

I went to neither hill nor sea;
But still the two winds pulled at me,
Lashed and whined, and clutched at me.

And the ground at my slow feet, silently
Waited and did not tug at me.

And there, Life done, still quietly
I laid me down and answered free
The ground that never called to me.
—Mary Carolyn Davies, in Boston Transcript.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Wifey—I made this cake all by myself, dear.

Hubby—Well done, love. But—er—who helped you lift it out of the oven?—Life.

Doctor—Well, John, how are you?

John, I be better than I was, sir, but I hain't as well as I was before I was as bad as I be now.—Everbody's Magazine.

Judge—I understand that you prefer charges against this man.

Grocer—No, sir! I prefer cash and that is what I had him brought here for.—Judge.

Prof. I'll not go on with the lecture until the room settles down.

Stude (whispering from the front row)—Better go home and sleep it off old man.—University of Wisconsin Octopus.

Sam—Jones is the proud father of a girl.

Hamm—When was it born?

Saturday morning.

Just like a woman to show up on pay day.—Judge.

Mr. Newlywed (at dinner)—Dear, what king of a pie is that?

Mrs. Newlywed—Rhubard, darling.

Mr. Newlywed—Well, why did you make such a large one?

Mrs. Newlywed—Because I couldn't get any shorter rhubard.—Lehigh Burr.

They tell me that Crimson Gulch is going to protest against the high taxes.

"No," answered Cactus Joe. "The taxes don't bother us so much. What we're peeved about is the way Mesa Bill who runs the Palace hotel, keeps raisin' the amount of rake-off on the poker game."—Washington Star.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The first man to use electric lights on the American stage was Bolosey Kiralfy, a veteran theatrical producer, who introduced this manner of lighting more than fifty years ago in his first New York playhouse. He was assisted by Thomas Edison, who has among his cherished possessions a memento of that show on which appears: "Novel electric effects by the Edison Electric Light Company, under the personal direction of Mr. Thomas Edison."

In order to make important connections at Winnipeg, a special train was recently operated over the Canadian Pacific from Broadview, Saskatchewan to Winnipeg, Manitoba, a distance of 248 miles, in four hours six teen minutes, or an average speed of 61.8 miles an hour. The run from Broadview to Brandon, a distance of 130.9 miles, was made in two hours twenty minutes or 56.1 miles an hour, and the run from Brandon to Winnipeg, a distance of 132.1 miles, was made in one hour fifty-five minutes, or an average speed of 69.4 miles an hour.

He was a beggar and he sat in a subway entrance in New York with a bundle of pencils, a wooden leg and an idea. He had his wooden leg painted and polished and in it was cut a slot large enough to receive a nickel. A goodly number of people who came along stared at the slot abstractedly and slipped a coin in it. "It's better than a tin-cup," said the beggar. "People in this town have got in the habit of putting money in slots, with subway turnstiles, gum and scales, weighing machines and so forth. I get more than I used to."—Boston Globe.

COLLAR MANUFACTURERS REACH AN AGREEMENT

New York, Jan. 12.—The Phillips-Jones corporation, sole license for the manufacture of the Van Heusen collar, announced today that nine collar manufacturers, including Cluett, Peabody & Co., and Earl & Wilson, had come to an agreement with the corporation permitting them to make the two-piece collar on a royalty basis.

The corporation some time ago brought suit against Cluett, Peabody & Co., and Earl & Wilson, alleging patent infringement. Federal Judge Learned Hand authorized an injunction to restrain further violation of the corporation's rights. The defendants appealed.

"Pending the appeal," said the corporation's statement "negotiations ensued for the purpose of rendering further litigation unnecessary. Several other collar manufacturers who had participated in the defense of these actions came into the negotiations, which have now ripened into a contract. By its terms nine manufacturers * * * acquiesce in the decree of Judge Hand, the validity of the patents is acknowledged, a substantial payment is made to Phillips-Jones corporation for damages, licenses are granted to the defendants for the manufacture of the two-piece collar on a royalty basis, and the Phillips-Jones corporation retains for itself the exclusive right to manufacture the single piece and weakened fold collars, and is to have sole right to use the name Vanheusen."

WALLEN BEARER OF VOTE FOR COOLIDGE AND DAWES

Hartford, Jan. 12.—Theodore C. Wallen, legislative man for the Hartford Courant, had the surprise of his newspaper career this afternoon. He had gone to the capitol to obtain a story on the meeting of the presidential electors. On entering the office of the secretary of state an attractive looking document was thrust into his hand and he was told to go to Washington as bearer of the vote of Connecticut for Coolidge and Dawes.

Mr. Wallen protested that he did not want the place, had not thought of it, and no time to spare and would not accept. The electors and others congratulated Mr. Wallen and all departed to be guests of Secretary Palotti at luncheon.

Mr. Wallen recovered from the surprise and followed the electors. At the hotel he was told he could not resign. Mr. Brooker would not listen to his plea to accept the resignation, and when Mr. Wallen said he could not go he was told that there was a stiff fine imposed upon failure to carry out orders.

So Mr. Wallen had to make the best of the situation and will leave tonight for the enational capitol and then hustle home to be ready for reassembling of the general assembly Thursday.

GENERAL ORDER BY HIGH COMMISSIONER OF MORROCO

Paris, Jan. 12.—"I am every day more convinced that surprise attacks are much less due to the enemys cleverness than to our incapacity and negligence," were the opening words of a general order just issued by Premier Primo De Rivera, high commissioner of Morocco, according to the Madrid correspondent of The Temps.

General De Rivera's order, it was stated, threatened his commanding officer with severe penalties if they allowed themselves to be surprised by the rebellious Moorish tribesmen.

The Madrid dispatch adds that General De Rivera is soon to leave Morocco and that the high commissionership was offered to General Vallejo, who refused the position. It was said that General Barrera was now being considered.

NEW YORK'S TOWN HALL NOW FREE OF DEBT

New York, Jan. 12.—New York's town hall, erected for civic uses under the auspices of the League for Political Education, was declared free of debt today when Robert E. Simon, chairman of the building committee, burned on the property two mortgages totalling $800,000.

More than $1,000,000 had been expended in the structure, Mr. Simon reported, of which $600,000 was given by an anonymous donor, and the remainder contributed by 3,000 persons, some of whom gave as small a sum as 50 cents.

BINGHAM AND BRANDEGEE FAR DIFFERENT TYPES

It is typical of the extremes of joy and sorrows evident in the life of the National Capital that the new Senator from Connecticut has been welcomed just as the dreary process of auctioning the household treasures of the deceased Senator from the same state had ended, says the Washington Sunday Star. Characters more divergent than the late Frank Bosworth Brandegee and his successor Senator Hiram Bingham can scarcely be imagined. One came from old New England stock, and his career was environed by the staid traditions of his people, and he centered his life and its interests amidst the scenes in which he and his family had been born. Senator Bingham writes himself as an "explorer," and he often describes himself as an adventurer, and in the meaning of having many romantic and thrilling incidents he well fills the term. Not for many years has the grave senatorial body boasted such a blithe and picturesque figure as the recent lieutenant governor of Connecticut.

Like Mr. Brandegee, Senator Bingham calls New London his home, but it is an adopted home and was the result of his marriage in 1900 to Miss Alfreda Mitchell, who comes of a family long rooted in the soil of that lovely resort on Long Island Sound as much as the fact that he had been a professor at Yale since 1915. His family is robust Massachusetts stock, and his mother, who was Minerva Clarissa Brewster, was a descendant of the mighty elder of Mayflower fame. His father, Rev. Hiram Bingham was among those who went to what was known as the "Sandwich Islands" in the early 70s, when King Kalakaua was so familiar a figure in this country. It was in Honolulu, in late November, 1875, that Connecticut's new Senator was born, and there he lived until of an age to go to college, when, following the family tradition he matriculated in Yale. But he studied for two years in the University of California, and also in Harvard, and then, feeling himself prepared for what he had chosen as a profession, he accepted the chair of history and politics in Princeton. His career began just as Woodrow Wilson's sent of learning was about to terminate. But teaching was far too prosaic a calling to claim his undivided attention and the next few years find Prof. and Mrs. Bingham penetrating the equatorial lands and exploring the famous military route followed by Bolivar when he planned his campaigns to throw off the Spanish yoke. Becoming absorbed in Spanish-American history and geography, Mr. Bingham spent several years in Buenos Aires and Rio, and then accepted the chair of Latin American history and diplomacy established by Albert Shaw at Yale.

Senator Bingham has during all these years come to Washington on various missions and he and Mrs. Bingham will begin their official amenities with the pleasant sense of knowing their guests quite well. The Senator was a delegate from this country to the first Pan-American congress, held in Santiago de Chile in 1908, Elihu Root was Secretary of State and it was during the preliminaries leading to this epochal event that the Connecticut scholar first met M. Jusserand, and the two became more than ordinarily friendly. He had accepted a place at the banquet board to honor the eminent French diplomatist before his election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Brandegee was assured.

In Peru few Americans are held in higher esteem than Hiram Bingham, and when he and Mrs. Bingham visit Lima all manner of social honor is showered on them. The Senator was the director of the successful expedition sent from Yale in 1908-9 to explore the ruins of the Inca empire, and which established the identity of the last Inca capital, Vitcos.

Mrs. Bingham comes to Washington with an unique experience of social life in many parts of the world and with the reputation for tact and poise for which the well born New England woman is noted. Her distinguished husband, with characteristic enterprise and valor, was at the outbreak of the World War among the first flyers to prepare to train others, and for two years Capt. Bingham, as he was then, lived in Miami and was an aviation pilot, later becoming a major in

TAFTVILLE AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

Election of officers was the principal business conducted at the meeting of Peter Gallon Post, No. 104, American legion, held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in its new rooms on Merchants avenue, Taftville. There was a large attendance at the meeting which was in charge of Thomas P. Sears, commander.

The officers elected for the coming year were: President, Thomas P. Sears; (re-elected) first vice commander, Andrew LeBlanc; second vice commander, Leon Moelleur (re-elected); adjutant, Ralph Malo; treasurer, Stanislas Benac (re-elected).

Other business transacted was the voting to hold the meetings of the post the second and fourth Mondays of the month and to put on the war picture, Lost Battalion, in a local moving picture house in the near future. It was also announced that a district meeting will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Taftville and it is expected a large number will turn out.

District Adjutant Harry House of this city was present and made a few timely remarks relative to the American legion and expressed words of encouragement to the local post. The post has 39 members with a large number of members signed up.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served by the refreshments committee and a social time was enjoyed. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening the 26th.

Mrs. G. W. Avery has returned to her home at Smith's Corner, having visited for a week with her sister, Mrs. William Snyder of Ledyard.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL AND SANATORIUM ASK APPROPRIATIONS

Total appropriation of $297,000 asked by the Norwich state hospital and $162,400 asked by the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium are included in the aggregate of $48,130,856.50 which the state board of finance has asked from the state legislature. The total requests exceed the total available receipts by $589,356.50. Included in the total appropriations asked for is the sum of $9,732,556 for new construction, equipment, acquisition and new projects.

Provisions of $32,398,300.50 was asked of the board for the maintenance of state institutions for the two fiscal years, closing June 30, this year, a rate of $45,751 per day. This figure has been pared off more than $3,000,000 by the board, however, which asks $31,380,905 for maintenance appropriations.

Four million dollars is asked for state highways. This is the largest item in the total of $9,732,556, for new work, and is $1,600,000 more than was asked by the department last year. The Mansfield state training school comes second high in its request for $1,324,060 and the state board of education wants $893,746.

Appropriations asked for institutions within New London county total $744,400. This is exclusive of such as highway work, which affects New London county as other counties in the state and other items which have a bearing on the state as a whole.

Tuberculosis Sanatorium

From the tuberculosis commission is a request in behalf of the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium for a new infirmary for women, $60,000; employes' building $38,400; and administration, X-ray and laboratory building, $60,000; total $162,400.

Norwich State Hospital

For the Norwich state hospital for the insane is asked: For completion of ward building, $75,000; repairs to reservoir $35,000; building for bake oven, electric ovens and rearrangement of kitchen $24,000; purchase of Davis property $9,500; improvement of same, $5,500; road between institution property and Hallville $50,000; greenhouse and improvement of roads and grounds $20,000; power house improvements, $30,000; farm improvements, $12,000; permanent improvements, including painting walls, repairing roofs, gutters, wire guards and new lock and key system $18,000; additional appropriation for purchase of farm for which $9,000 appropriation was made two years ago, $3,000; Seagrave pumper fire engine $7,500; total $297,000.

State Pier

An appropriation of $10,000 is asked for repairs of the state pier at the port of New London. This coming under the head of New London State Terminal, is one of the smaller provisions asked.

State Farm for Women

Appropriations for the state farm for women at Niantic are asked as follows: For two cottages each to accommodate 13 inmates and two officers, $43,000; sewage disposal, water, electric light and telephone service, roadways, grading and walks, furniture and supplies, $27,000; one cottage for 25 inmates and three officers $25,300; improvements as above for this building, $8,000; watermains to cottages, $2,500; coal pocket and wood shed, $1,200; building for storing farm machinery $2,000, total $106,000.

Mystic Oral School

The Mystic Oral School for the Deaf asks for heating plant for new dormitory $10,000; equipment for new dormitory $50,000; new main building, $100,000; barn, $5,000; total $165,000. The first two items will be recommended for prompt action by the legislature.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE FOR FARM BUREAU NAMED

At a meeting of the board of directors of the New London county farm bureau, the following executive committee for the year was named:

President, Imbert Fellows, Norwich; first vice president, E. L. Waterman, Bozrah; second vice president, Mrs. Eugene M. Wood, Stonington; secretary, Arthur H. Davis, Waterford; treasurer, W. W. Service, Preston. Other members of the board are: Milton Beckwith, Franklin; Mrs. E. L. Waterman, Bozrah; Mrs. H. C. Leland, Waterford and Mrs. F. L. Kanahan, Lisbon.

Through the New London County Farm Bureau, Walter T. Clark, agent, a meeting of the Young Farmers' club will be held Jan. 20, at the Lebanon high school auditorium. Paul L. Putnam of Connecticut Agricultural college, will give an illustrated talk on "Diversity on the Dairy Farm."

Miss Gladys E. Stratton of the Farm Bureau Extension Service, held a meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. R. J. Whitman in Groton, where one of the extension groups mapped out a programme for the coming year.

Household management, fireless cookers, reseating chairs, weaving rugs, clothing project, furnishings for clothing, millinery, nutrition project, supper dishes

Meetings will be held in various districts throughout the county where reed work will be done as follows: Jan. 20, Ledyard; Jan. 22, Hamburg; Jan. 23, 29, Goshen; Jan. 23, 30, Stonington; Jan. 27, Preston City; Jan. 28, North Stonington. Miss Gladys E. Stratton will have charge of the meetings.

BRANDEGEE AUCTION SALE BROUGHT AROUND $40,000

Fiction, court records and history including rare volumes and choice paintings, were sold in Washington in the concluding sale of the effects of the estate of Senator Frank B. Brandegee.

Justice J. Harry Covington purchased a rare edition of the "Cambridge Modern History" and the works of Alexander Hamilton among other book purchases.

Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes, Jr., bought a painting entitled "The Garden Party," attributed to Lancret, for $200, as well as a picture, "Galleys in Harbor," by an unidentified artist, for $90.

A set of United States Supreme Court reports, in 256 volumes, was sold to R. P. Reeder of the Department of Justice for $281.60. A history of Virginia, by Howe, and sketches of North Carolina by Foote were sold to E. H. Daniel for $20, while sketches of Virginia by Foote went to Mrs. Ben Johnson for $11.

On the whole, according to connoisseurs, the sale has been one of the most interesting held in Washington in recent years. The subject matter was variegated and well selected, and the bidding was spirited and marked with keen competition throughout. Between $30,000 and $40,000 was raised by the sale.

CHANGE IN PARKING RULES ON WATER STREET

Automobile drivers who have been accustomed to parking in Water street, between Shetucket and Market, with their machines backed into the curb, found red tags on their machines Sunday night with directions to report at police headquarters.

When the taged drivers came to the police desk, they were instructed that parking in this Water street location was to be parallel to the curb in the future, and that machines would not be allowed to be backed or headed into the curb for parking.

This change will still further limit the available parking space in the center of the city as only half the number of cars can be parked parallel to the curb than if they were backed in. It will probably cut out parking space for about 25 cars. As this one-way section of Water street has a good wide place outside the traveled portion of the street, it is not apparent why such an adaptable parking place has its capacity cut down by the regulation against head-on parking.

Scouts of the various Norwich troops, accompanied by Scout Executive F. A. Benton went to the public skating pond at East Great Plain, Monday afternoon after schools had closed and before dark had swept practically all the snow from the pond.

An appeal was made to Scout Executive Benton by Paul A. Brown, president of the West End Community association, and the response was quickly made in the form of service by the scouts.

Many people enjoyed skating there during the afternoon and evening the pond being comparatively free of snow.

MAKES REPORT ON NORWICH WATER SHORTAGE

A general review of the water shortage situation in Norwich and the increased fire hazard because of it is given in a report made for the National Board of Fire Underwriters by Major J. H. Howland, one of the board's engineers, who made an investigation here on Dec. 11.

Major Howland's report is as follows:

This city was visited in consequence of a reported shortage of water for the purpose of reviewing the existing conditions, noting the remedial measures taken and discussing the urgent need of a more adequate and reliable water supply.

Reservoir Storages.

An inspection of the supply works during the forenoon of Dec. 11, showed the conditions to be as follows:

The Stony Brook supply main at the Venturi meter house was shut off and no supply from this source had been delivered to the city since Nov. 13. The water level in Stony Brook reservoir was 19 feet below the old millway, thus indicating an estimated storage of 48,000,000 gallons. The work of grading and riprapping the Stony Brook dam which has been raised 5 feet, is nearing completion, thereby providing for a full reservoir storage of 488,000,000 gallons.

Fairview reservoir was down 16½ feet below the overflow, equivalent to a storage of about 111,000,000 gallons, and the Meadow Brook reservoir was empty.

It is seen that on this date the aggregate storage in these three reservoirs was close to 159,000,000 gallons or approximately 16½ per cent. of the full combined capacity.

The total rate of flow into these reservoirs was estimated by the superintendent at less than a million gallons per day.

Emergency Provisions.

The city has purchased an emergency team privilege of drawing upon Tadmo Pond, which is said to contain 25,000,000 gallons in storage, and Trading Cove brook with a combined drainage area of approximately 7 square miles. A 3-phase 440-volt 150 H. P. induction motor direct connected to a Lawrence centrifugal pump, with a rated capacity under a total head of 225 feet of 2,000,000 gallons per day, has been installed at elevation 61 on the bank of Trading Cove brook close to the Stony Brook supply main and above the Venturi meter house. A 4,600-volt overhead power line, with outside pole transformers, from the plant of the Norwich Gas and Electric department, is about to be connected into the pump house; the latter is in progress of construction and is a small brick building with concrete floor, metal frame windows and joisted asbestos covered roof. A 12-inch discharge pipe is connected into the Stony Brook supply main about 75 feet distant.

It was stated that this pumping unit could, if necessary, be connected up and operated in two or three days.

The department has improved every opportunity to curtail the use of water through press notices, shutting off service to the state hospital hydraulic elevators and other less essential fixtures, prohibiting sprinkling and putting on a large corps of waste prevention inspectors.

Rainfall.

The total recorded rainfall for the 11 1-2 months ending Dec. 11, 1924, was 31.32 inches or approximately 30 per cent. less than the average annual rainfall for the past 50 odd years. For the year ending April 1, 1924, it was 41.93 inches, 2.6 inches less than the yearly average.

As water was wasting over the reservoir spillways this last May, it is evident that the consumption with six months of moderately low rainfall seriously depletes the reserve storage.

Consumption.

For the four months ending October 30th last, the average daily consumption as given in the records of the superintendent, was 4,502,000 gallons, and for the month of October reached the maximum daily average of 4,817,000 gallons. Due mainly to shutting off the Stony Brook supply the discontinuance of service to the state hospital lack of sufficient pressure to supply consumers on the hilltops and to waste prevention inspections it is estimated that the average daily consumption for the past months has decreased to about 4,000,000 gallons.

Pressures.

As indicated on the city hall gauge the average day pressure in the principal mercantile district were fully ten pounds below normal. There was no water at a number of hydrants, thereby seriously affecting fire department operations. The urgent need of opening the Stony Brook supply main at the earliest possible date is very apparent.

Conclusions.

The restricted capacity of supply mains and lower pressures incident to this water shortage has necessitated less dependence upon direct hydrant streams in high value districts, has decreased efficiency of automatic sprinkler equipments and has required increased response of fire department apparatus to the higher residential sections.

For more than 20 years the necessity of a more adequate water supply has been made strikingly apparent by experiences similar to the present shortage at fairly frequent intervals. The dependable yield from the present supply works exclusive of the temporary provisions in connection with Trading Cove brook, is estimated at 3,000,000 gallons per day, which is only two-thirds of the average consumption demands.

The additional drainage area and storage obtained with the Stony Brook development 12 years ago has proven decidedly inadequate to meet the increased demands due to the growth of the city and township.

With additional pumping capacity available in connection with Trading Cove brook and the probability of increased rainfall usual to this season of the year, it is expected that the worst of the present shortage is over. Members of the board of water commissioners were however very much disturbed over the existing situation. Consulting engineers are at present devoting their efforts solely to meeting the present emergency after which it is the intention of the board to have a thorough investigation made and recommendations submitted to provide a more adequate water supply at the earliest possible date.

PROMISES $100,000 WORTH OF NEW BUILDING HERE

At lease $100,000 worth of building in Norwich will start at once, giving employment to countless workers, as well as increasing the business of merchants and artisans, says a notice sent to its members by the Norwich Building & Loan Association, if the association is successful in securing more members in launching its 20th series of shares. This extensive home building programme is all ready to go ahead through the co-operation of the building loan association which offers $55.56 in profits in 12 years on an investment of $1 per month. When the annual meeting of the association is held next week, it is expected there will be an encouraging report of the early response that has been made to the offering of the 20th series of shares.

TEACHER LOSES SUIT AGAINST GROTON DISTRICT

Decision in favor of the First School district of Groton was given in a memorandum decision handed down Saturday by Judge Charles B. Waller of the common pleas court in a suit by Miss Julia Sawyer of Groton against the district.

Miss Sawyer, a teacher in the Groton Heights school, was discharged during the early part of the school year. She sued for salary for the remainder of the fiscal year, and based her suit on a verbal contract alleged to have existed between herself and the committee for the district.

STATE'S HEALTH IN 1924 MADE SATISFACTORY SHOWING

The year just closed has made a satisfactory showing in many respects so far as the occurrence of communicable diseases is concerned, says the weekly bulletin issued by the Connecticut State Department of Health. Continuing, the bulletin says:

Fewer cases of cerebrospinal meningitis, diphtheria, influenza and typhoid fever were reported during 1924 than during any other of the past five years. Compared to 1923, chickenpox, epidemic encephalitis, measles and whooping cough also showed a decrease in number of cases reported.

These decreases have been in actual number of cases. If considered as rates in relation to the increasing population of the state the decreases will be still more marked.

The most notable increase in number of cases has occurred with reference to scarlet fever, 5858 being reported in 1924 as against 3872 in 1923, and 4028 for 1920 as the next highest number for the five year period. While scarlet fever has been prevalent the disease has been generally mild in character.

The 120 cases of poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis reported for 1924 indicates a greater incidence of this disease than for any other of the past five years. The cases for the most part were sporadic in character, there being no distinct outbreak in any one community. The third disease to show an increase for the past year is mumps 3549 cases of which were reported is more than double the number of cases reported in 1923.

MILK CAN BE CARRIER OF SCARLET FEVER GERMS

Scarlet fever germs are carried in milk is the caption of an article which appears in the weekly health bulletin issued by the State Department of Health. The article says:

The unusual incidence of scarlet fever in Bristol during December has been definitely shown to have resulted from milk-bourne infection. Out of 127 cases reported up to December 30th, 98 were users of milk from one supply. This supply comprised about 300 quarts per day as against a total supply for the city of approximately 10,000 quarts per day.

With nearly four-fifths of the cases associated with less than one-thirtieth of the milk supply for the city, it appears certain that the disease germs were carried by milk from the one route. The explosive character of the outbreak also points to a common vehicle for carrying infection. On December 16th, 17 cases were reported as against 2 cases the day before. The number remained high for one week and fell back to two cases again December 23. During this week the numbers ranged from 9 to 19 per day totaling 103 for the week. Thus the unusual incident began on the 16th and ended on the 22nd and accounted for about four-fifths of the cases occurring during the entire month. The other fifth would not be an unusual number for a city the size of Bristol.

Milk bottles from two or three houses where scarlet fever existed had been collected by the drivers on this milk route before the cases of scarlet fever were recognized. One of the drivers on the route came down with scarlet fever and kept at his work as long as he felt able. Thus it appears entirely possible that this driver may have contracted scarlet fever by handling infected milk bottles and then infected the milk supply before he knew that he had the disease. It is possible also of course for a milk supply to be infected by bottles from an infected house either with or without the driver himself becoming infected.

Win Reserve Commissions.

Thirty-four New England men became officers in the organized reserve, the army of the United States, during the past week, according to the weekly list made public by Brigadier General John D. Barrette, acting corps area commander. The new officers include John D. Harvey, Groton, Conn., second lieutenant air service.

CRESCENT FIRE ARMS POSTS SHUTDOWN NOTICE

The Crescent Fire Arms company in the Industrial building closed down Monday for an indefinite time, notice of the closing of the plant having been posted early in the day. The notice stated that the employes would be subject to call at any time, but the limit of the closing period was not mentioned. Employes of the finishing department are still at work although all other departments have been closed.

SPOKE TO MEN AT RICHMOND RADIATOR CO.

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts delivered a message to the men of the Richmond Radiator Company, Monday at the noon hour, taking for his subject, Things New and Old.

The following is a brief digest of what was said: Long ago a brilliant man remarked that "Old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." These words were spoken of man whose attitude towards life in general is changed by coming into contact with living spirit. Under the inspiration of a new enthusiasm old ideals, manners, customs, prejudices and viewpoints are changed into something stronger, better. The things that once furnished him him in servitude no longer. Many things things that once furnished him entertainment and pleasure now seem to be thin, poor and unsatisfying.

This idea applies to a wide area of life. The speaker showed that the words "old" and "new" could not express any sense of value of the things they qualified; a thought which he amplified thus:

1—We ought to have the moral courage to turn down those old things that continue to be an injury to mankind and an insult to God. He mentioned four things, the drink habit, war, slavery and what is harsh and outworn in theology.

2—Put forth every effort to retain whatever in the past is worthy. He mentioned a mothers love; a father's sacrifice—prayer—and the spirit and teachings of Jesus.

3—Don't be afraid to turn down new things if your judgment condemns them as useless. Here he mentioned many of the silly fads of the day.

4—Indorse every new thing that has a right to live.

HOUGHTON TO BE AMBASSADOR TO THE COURT OF ST. JAMES

Announcement Made at White House of the Appointment of Alanson B. Houghton, Now Ambassador at Berlin, to Succeed Ambassador Kellogg at London—White House Also Announces That the Retirement of Secretary Hughes Involves No Impending Change in the Administration's Foreign Policy.

Washington, Jan. 13. — President Coolidge made another rearrangement today in the cabinet-diplomatic organization he will take with him March 4 into his elected term of office by selecting Alanson B. Houghton of New York, now ambassador to Germany, to succeed Ambassador Kellogg at London.

The transfer of Mr. Houghton to the London post, the ranking assignment in the diplomatic service, was formally announced by the White House after the ambassador had advised the president he would accept the new appointment and after the British government had informed the state department that Mr. Houghton would be persona grata in London.

The selection of Mr. Houghton was a further development in the rapid succession of official changes that began Saturday with the announcement that Secretary Hughes had decided to retire March 4 and that he would be succeeded by Ambassador Kellogg. Who will take Mr. Houghton's place at Berlin has not been decided, but because of the importance of the post the vacancy there probably will be filled before March 4.

The changes in the state department involved in the resignation of Mr. Hughes and in the agriculture department due to the retirement of Howard M. Gore to become governor of West Virginia on March 4, however, are the only ones that Mr. Coolidge now expect in his official family. The president is willing to acknowledge, though, that the rapidity with which changes have come in the past week has shown that no prediction can be made with certainty.

The possibility of a change in the labor department was removed today when Secretary Davis advised the president that he had reconsidered his intention to retire March 4, as expressed to the executive shortly after the November election, and would remain in the office to which he was named four years ago by President Harding.

Mr. Davis gave up his work as director-general of the Loyal Order of Moose to enter Mr. Harding's cabinet, and last November informed President Coolidge the order was calling on him to return to these duties. The president expressed to Mr. Davis a desire that he remain at the head of the labor department, and today he informed the president he had decided to accede to his desire. The decision was hailed with satisfaction in a statement later issued by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Having determined on Mr. Kellogg as a successor to Secretary Hughes, selected Charles B. Warren to take the place of Harlan F. Stone as attorney general and anticipating no further resignations, Mr. Coolidge now finds himself free to give more thought to the choosing of a successor to Secretary Gore.

The new secretary of agriculture will be an expert in marketing, as the view of Mr. Coolidge is that the farmers of the United States today do not need aid in increasing production so much as they need assistance in marketing their products at a profit.

Several names are under consideration and Mr. Coolidge still hopes to make a selection in time to give the new secretary opportunity to become acquainted with the workings of the department by serving for a time as assistant secretary before Mr. Gore retires.

The nomination of Mr. Houghton probably will not be sent to the senate prior to March 4, as Mr. Kellogg will retain his commission as ambassador to the Court of St. James until he assumes the state department secretaryship.

Unofficial discussion of a successor to Mr. Houghton at Berlin has brought mention of Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, former under-secretary of state and now ambassador to Italy. Ogden H. Hammond of New Jersey has been recommended to the president for appointment to a diplomatic post, and the feeling in some quarters that the United States should continue to be represented at Berlin by a business man of the type of Mr. Houghton may lead to his consideration.

WILL BE NO CHANGE IN FOREIGN POLICY

Washington, Jan. 13—A white house pronouncement was made today to dispel any impression that the retirement of Secretary Hughes from the cabinet involved impending changes in the administration's foreign policy.

President Coolidge sees no reason to alter the general course he has been pursuing with regard to foreign relations. While he expects that American foreign policy will develop and enlarge to keep pace with the march of world events, there is no prospect that the principles governing the attitude of the Washington government on specific questions will be subject to change during the administration.

The president has been more familiar with the details of the nation's foreign relations from day to day since he took office than he has been with the specific problems of governmental departments having to do with domestic matters. Secretary Hughes, it was pointed out at the white house, has consulted his chief with regard to every decision of importance it was necessary for the state department to make, the president being charged directly under the constitution with the conduct of foreign relations, and this practice will continue after Ambassador Kellogg succeeds Mr. Hughes.

White House comment on the subject was prompted in part by published suggestions that some change in policy toward Russia was to be expected after Mr. Hughes' retirement from the cabinet. On the contrary, it was said, the president's attitude with respect to Russia remained precisely what it was when he addressed his first message to congress in 1923, and when Mr. Hughes explained that policy at considerable length to a delegation which visited him to urge recognition of the Russian soviet government.

Mr. Hughes outlined at that time a number of conditions that must be met before the Washington government could give serious consideration to granting diplomatic recognition to Russia. These had to do, not with the form of the Russian government, but with its external relations, such as repudiation of debts, confiscation of the property of foreign nationals in Russia, and similar actions.

President Coolidge, in his 1923 message, expressed hope that developments would permit recognition and the return of Russia to the family of nations. It was explained today, however, that the hope for progress in Russia was slow to materialize and that the time when diplomatic recognition could be granted was not in sight.

It was said today that President Coolidge had personally examined all the correspondence exchanged between the state department and Ambassadors Kellogg and Herrick and James A. Logan, Jr., at Paris, during the negotiations which are expected to culminate tomorrow in ratification of an agreement for allocation of Dawes plan proceeds from German reparations.

Mr. Coolidge was represented as regarding the settlement reached on the question of American claims as fair, although not all that the Washington government could have wished. The essential point, in the view of the White House, was that the justice and legality of the American claims should be recognized, and it was pointed out that this was accomplished.

HOUGHTON NOTIFIED OF HIS APPOINTMENT

Berlin, Jan. 13 (By the A. P.)—Alanson B. Houghton, the American ambassador, found official notification that he had been selected to succeed Frank B. Kellogg as ambassador to Great Britain awaiting him this morning and he immediately cabled his acceptance to Washington.

News of Mr. Houghton's appointment first reached the press and official quarters through Washington despatches this afternoon and while it was not wholly in the nature of a surprise, the departing ambassador was promptly plied with congratulations and expressions of regret from his numerous professional and personal acquaintances. His immediate plans have not yet matured, although it was announced that he will return to the United States before assuming the London Post.

The shift of American ambassadors abroad and the new lineup in the Coolidge cabinet continue to be featured in the day's news, and are also liberally discussed in political circles which lay stress on the future attitude of the United States towards Russia and European economic issues.

Senator Borah's alleged statement with respect to the urgency of fixing the amount of Germany's ultimate indemnity and his attitude on the Dawes plan arouse considerable interest here.

CHANCELLOR LINDLEY WAS REINSTATED BY GOV. PAULEN

Topeka, Kansas., Jan. 13.—(By the A. P.)—Chancellor Lindley of the University of Kansas, ousted by the state board of administration under the regime of Governor Jonathan M. Davis two weeks ago, today was reinstated by the board under Governor Ben S. Paulen.

The order of the board adopted in Governor Paulen's office late today, makes Mr. Lindley's appointment effective today and rescinds the appointment of W. L. Burdick, who was raised by Governor Davis from vice chancellor to acting chancellor. Mr. Burdick is restored to his former position.

SIX PERSONS INJURED BY FALLS ON WALKS

Bridgeport, Jan. 13.—Six persons are injured, two of them seriously, as a result of falls on walks and pavements following the storm of sleet which left the city streets with a treacherous coating of ice today. Three are in hospitals. They are: Joseph Ciampett, 64, fracture of the skull and severe lacerations; John Gibbons, 59, possible fracture of the squil; Charles L. McMahon, 46, lacerations and sprains. James Sloan, 54, Donald Sullivan, 42, and Serino Rubin, 32, lacerations and bruises.

UNEMPLOYED SITUATION IN ENGLAND GROWS WORSE

London, Jan. 13—The unemployment situation in England continues to grow worse, according to a statement issued tonight by the ministry of labor. Figures presented by the ministry show 1,370,800 persons are on the lists of the unemployment exchanges. This indicates an increase of 33,915 unemployed over last year's figures, and 40,125 more than during the corresponding week of 1924.

Preparing for Leipsic Fair

Berlin, Jan. 13—Through the efforts of the local American Chamber of Commerce, the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, leaving New York February 17, will be met at the Cuxhaven dock by a special train which will carry American buyers directly to the Leipsic fair. The fair will be held March 1 to 7.

Premier Branting Improved

Stockholm, Jan. 13—Premier Hjalmar Branting's illness has taken a slight turn for the better, but during the past week gave cause for alarm. Persistent but non-offical rumors are current here regarding a reconstruction of the cabinet owing to the premier's protracted illness, and minister of finance Thorson is mentioned as the probable successor of Branting.

MYSTERIOUS SIGNALS ON RADIO-PHOTO MACHINE

New Haven, Jan. 13—Strange and mysterious signals received by a recently perfected radio-photograph machine were described to members of the electrical engineering department at Yale university today by Dr. C. E. Jenkins, president of the Jenkins Laboratories of Washington, D. C. Dr. Jenkins is the inventor of a means of transmitting and receiving pictures by radio and it was in connection with the receiving device of the radio picture set that the signals were discovered, he told the students today.

At the suggestion of Professor Cobb, of the Amherst astronomical department, Dr. Jenkins said, he set up his receiving set in his laboratory a short time ago and left it in condition to receive pictures for several hours. In Dr. Jenkins' machine, the pictures are produced on a roll of films which pass slowly through the set, ready to record continuous pictures of anything that might pass through the air.

When the roll of films was developed on it were found first a series of strange characters and then seven distinct likenesses of a man, followed by more characters and more pictures until the end of the strip was reached.

Dr. Jenkins believes that no other station in the country was sending out pictures at the time and as there was nothing in the laboratory that would produce any such effect, he is at a loss to explain the phenomena.

According to Dr. Jenkins, Professor Cobb took the roll of films to the chief code official at signal corps headquarters in Washington but efforts to decipher the characters on the film were unsuccessful. Further experiments performed under similar conditions have had no such results, Dr. Jenkins said.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY THE CONN. OPTOMETRIC SOCIETY

New Haven, Jan. 13—Jess Wheeler, of Hartford, was re-elected president of the Connecticut Optometric society at the 18th annual convention here today. The convention opened with the business session this morning followed by an address by Dr. Sara Baker, of Rockland, Mass., this afternoon and a banquet this evening. Dr. Allen G. Ireland, director of physical education and health official of the Connecticut state board of education, was the speaker tonight.

The society voted to endorse and give financial support to the proposed New England council of optometrists. Proposal of a convention of New England optometrists to be held in Boston semi-annually was approved. The convention will be for the purpose of holding clinics and lectures on optometry.

Dr. George S. Houghton, of West Somerville, Mass., was made an honorary member of the Connecticut society for his work in promoting the proposed Boston convention.

Other officers elected today were:

First vice-president, Edward R. Corey, Middletown; second vice-president, Ray M. Peckham, Waterbury; third vice president, Charles D. Eggleston, New Haven; fourth vice president, James H. Corvass, Hartford; secretary, H. E. Jones, New Haven; treasurer, Ray M. Leonard, Bridgeport; executive council, George Thayer, Stamford; H. F. Reddell, New Britain; F. B. Morse, Torrington and Edmund Chidsey of New London.

BELIEVES SCIENTISTS WILL LEARN LITTLE BY ECLIPSE

New York, Jan. 13.—Dr. Harold Jacoby, who is chief astronomer at Columbia university believes scientists will get "a powerful kick" out of the forthcoming phenomenon of January '24, and that's about all.

"They'll see what anybody with a bit of smoked glass will see," he said. "They'll see the sun's corona, the most marvelous sight nature has to offer us humans. There should be the kick of a lifetime in it."

Dr. Jacoby doesn't believe it possible, with instruments and methods now known to astronomers, to add much to the existing store of knowledge concerning the sun, its composition, the source of its power and the nature and extent of its sphere of activity.

"Efforts will be made," he said, "to take photographs proving or disproving Einstein's theory that the sun bends or distorts light rays passing within its sphere of influence. But Dr. Albert Abraham Michelson of the University of Chicago quite definitely demonstrated the theory from photographs he made in California of the solar eclipse of two years ago."

Dr. Jacoby expressed a belief that the mission of Dr. Charles Lane Poor, of the department of physics at Columbia, who will make observations at the New Haven, Conn., observatory aimed at proving Einstein all wrong would not be attended with success.

BROTHERS BOUND OVER ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

Stamford, Jan. 13.—David and Joseph Powell, brothers of this city, were bound over to the next term of the criminal superior court on a charge of burglary, by Judge Samuel Young in the city court today. They pleaded guilty to the charge and the bonds were fixed at $5,000 each.

The brothers were arrested in Bridgeport last week while trying to dispose of some silverware which had been taken from the home of W. H. Young, Woodway road, Springdale. The Young home had been closed for the winter.

No Progress on The Muscle Shoals Bills

Senate in Exactly Same Position on the Matter as When First Taken Up Six Weeks Ago.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Out of a welter of votes, arguments and parliamentary tangles, the senate emerged tonight to find itself in exactly the same position with respect to Muscle Shoals that it was when the subject was first taken up six weeks ago.

Completing the three point circuit of measures on the subject, the senate wound up with the once rejected Norris plan for government operation before them and the once approved Underwood private leasing bill again pending as a substitute.

Chronologically the events of the day were:

The Jones bill to refer the subject to a commission for a report as to final disposition was approved, 46 to 33, over the Underwood bill, which had been accepted last week over the Norris plan, 48 to 37.

The original Norris bill, in slightly amended form, then was accepted as a substitute for the Jones bill, 40 to 39.

Senator Underwood then offered his bill in amended form as a substitute for the Norris measure, amid failing to have it ruled out on a point of order, supporters of the Norris plan renewed their assault upon it.

Finally, the senate threw the whole subject aside until tomorrow and proceeded to consideration of the first deficiency appropriation bill.

Whether the Underwood bill is accepted or rejected, Senator Jones, republican, Washington, says he will offer his substitute anew after amending it so as to provide for a commission of five to investigate instead of a commission of three.

SENATE PASSED $159,000,000 DEFICIENCY APPROPRIATION

Washington, Jan. 13.—The senate today passed the first deficiency appropriation bill for this year, carrying $159,000,000 of which $10,000,000 is to be used for tax refunds.

A sum of $2,600,000 was added by the senate to the measure as passed by the house. Of this amount $200,000 was approved for use on the Yuma, Arizona, irrigation project on the motion of Senator Cameron, republican of that state.

The provision for tax refunds stirred considerable debate, and on the motion of Senator King, democrat, Utah, it was amended to provide that the report of tax refunds to congress should include the names of all persons and corporations involved. This was opposed by Chairman Warren, of the appropriations committee, and Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, republicans. Such a report, however, is now sent annually to the house ways and means committee.

Senators King and McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, protested against the large amounts of tax refunds paid by the government. Chairman Warren said refunds had amounted to about $400,000,000 since the income tax law became effective, as against about $26,000,000,000 in taxes collected. Senator King said he realized certain refunds were necessary because of misinterpretations of the law, but he declared investigation by the special committee into administration of the internal revenue bureau had disclosed many and huge illegal repayments.

An item for 50,000 for expenses of the farm commission appointed by President Coolidge, rejected as an amendment by the house, was approved by the senate, and $50,000 also was added to the bill for the president's oil conservation board.

A sum of $1,950,368 for judgments and audited claims constituted the principal increase over the house measure voted by the senate, ther additions to the house bill included $150,000 for the bureau of reclamation, $101,420, for the interstate commerce commission for enforcement of safety and equipment regulations; $11,250 for expenses of the international fisheries commission; and $15,000 to be divided equally among the heirs of Senators Lodge, Massachusetts, and Colt, Rhode Island, deceased.

TESTING EFFICACY OF THE "SANOCRYSIN" TREATMENT

Washington, Jan. 13—Tests of "sanocrysin," a treatment for tuberculosis discovered by a Dane, now being made on calves under the direction of the National Hygienic Laboratories of the United States public health service, will be continued several months. Until the treatment has been proved effective with both animals and human beings, public health officials will make no comment on the treatment's value.

"Sanocrysin," according to Dr. A. M. Stimpson, under whose department the tests are being conducted, is a combined treatment of a "salt of gold" and a special serum. The chemical compound is said to destroy tubercular bacilli in the body. But in doing so liberates poison which must be counteracted by the serum.

DR. LUTHER MAY FORM NEW GERMAN MINISTRY

Berlin, Jan. 13—Dr. Hans Luther, who has been engaged for several days in an attempt to form a cabinet, made a report tonight to President Ebert on his parliamentary negotiations, and the political leaders are looking for his formal appointment as chancellor tomorrow.

While a definite slate has not yet been determined upon, it is assumed that Gustav Stresemann, Dr. Gessler and Herr Brauns will retain their present portfolios, foreigns, defense and labor respectively.

VISCOUNT CECIL DELEGATE TO THE OPIUM CONFERENCE

Geneva, Jan. 13—The league of nations was officially notified today that Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, had been appointed by Great Britain to take the place of the Marquis of Salisbury as England's delegate to the international opium conference.

There is some speculation here as to whether the naming of Ambassador Kellogg as secretary of state, to succeed Mr. Hughes indicates any new development in the American attitude toward the league of nations.

War Claims Protocol To be Signed Today

For Payment of Costs of American Army of Occupation in Germany and Damage Claims.

Paris, Jan. 13—(By the A. P.)—The protocol embodying the accord reached by the United States and Great Britain, together with the other powers, on the payment of the costs of the American army of occupation and war damage claims to the United States, will be signed at a plenary session of the allied finance ministers' conference tomorrow morning. The document consists of twenty-five typewritten pages, but only two pages are taken up with that section referring to the settlement with the United States, which occupied five out of the seven days of the conference.

The definite and final provisions include payment to the United States of 55,000,000 gold marks yearly, beginning September 1, 1926—this amount ot apply on the occupation costs; the United States to share in the Dawes annuities at the rate of 2 1-4 per cent., beginning retroactively September 1, 1924—these payments to amortize the war damage claims, which will not exceed $350,000,000; immediate release to the United States of $14,725,154 now in the Federal Reserve Bank, where it was deposited by the allies under the Wadsworth agreement.

The United States agrees to waive any claim under the Wadsworth agreement of May 1923, and also agrees that the 2 1-4 per cent. shall not apply on payments made on account of reparations by any former enemy power other than Germany.

The payments against the American occupation costs have priority in the cash payments of the Dawes annuities after the expenses of the inter-allied Rhineland commission, the inter-allied military control commission and the reparation commission have been paid. The United States makes an express reservation as follows: "The allied governments cannot insert any other item in the priority clause hereafter without the consent of the United States."

One important item, according to the American delegation, is the following: "The United States is recognized as having an interest proportionate to its 2 1-4 per cent. interest in that part of the annuities of the Dawes plan available for reparations in any distribution of railway bonds, industrial debentures or other bonds issued under the Dawes plan or in the proceeds of their sale."

The United States is also recognized as having an interest in any other disposition that may be made of bonds under the Dawes plan, if not sold or distributed. The agreement provides that should payments in any one year fall below 55,000,000 gold marks for the American army of occupation and 45,000,000 marks for war damage claims, the balance due on each particular year would be carried over until the following year with simple interest at 4 1-2 per cent.

The small powers led by Brazil had their innings at the conference today, and presented their claims before the plenary session, even though this caused a delay of one day in terminating the conference.

POLITICIAN WAS INDICTED FOR BRIBERY "DRY" AGENTS

New York, Jan. 13.—G. Washington Davis, political leader of Newark, N. J., was one of several men and brewing concerns indicted by a federal grand jury a year ago for the alleged bribery of prohibition officials in a wholesale bootlegging plan, federal authorities revealed today.

J. Harry Foley, New Jersey state commissioner of weights and measures, and former secretary to Governor Edwards and the Peter Hauck Brewery of New Jersey were also named in the indictment. Federal authorities kept Davis' indictment secret at the time other details of the alleged bribery plot were divulged but said today the publication of his name in connection with the present New Jersey bootlegging investigation had led them to make public the government's previous action.

WAGE CUT NOT IMPOSED ON WEAVERS IN FALL RIVER

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 13.—The shop committee of the weavers of the Davis mill, now on strike, late tonight informed the executive committee of the weavers' union that Frank L. Carpenter, treasurer of that mill, had assured them that the general 10 per cent cut which went into effect on Monday would not be imposed upon them.

This was announced following a meeting of the shop committee. The matter will be brought before the operatives tomorrow morning and it is thought that they will vote to return to work under this condition. The treasurers of the other three mills affected by the weavers' strike announced tonight that they would treat separately with the strikers.

NEW HAVEN MAN SHOT BY BROTHER OF SWEETHEART

New Haven, Jan. 13.—Shot three times through the body by a man, said by the police to be the brother of his sweetheart, Leo Cocilorio, a butcher, is believed to be dying at Grace hospital in this city. The gunman, whom the police say was John Forenesano, of Brooklyn, N. Y., escaped after the shooting and is being sought. The shooting occurred in the room occupied by Cocilorio, over the butcher shop at 487 Chapel street, where he was employed, shortly after 7 o'clock this forenoon.

According to the police the shooting is believed to have resulted from Cocilorio's persistent attention to Rose Forenesano, sister of the missing man, which was objected to by members of her family.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE EPIDEMIC IN SOUTH SWEDEN

Malmoe, Sweden, Jan. 13—The epidemic of the hoof and mouth disease, in South Sweden has already caused the slaughtering of 10,000 head of cattle, involving losses of nearly $2,000,000. A number of Sweden's most valuable breeding animals have become victims of the disease, and all export of live cattle is prohibited by the government.

Mrs. Annie Davton Coggins, 71, was seized with an attack of heart failure while walking along a street on the way to visit a neighbor in Meriden yesterday afternoon, and died a few minutes later after being assisted into a residence.

SUBMARINE S-19 REMAINS ON BAR WITH CREW OF 40 MEN

Is in a Precarious Position on an Outer Bar Five and One Half Miles South of Nauset Coast Guard Station—Coast Guardsmen Have Been Unable to Get a Line Aboard—Surf is Running High, With a Tendency to Increase—Danger to the Crew Was No Greater Last Night Than When the Sub Went on Bar.

Chatham, Mass., Jan. 13.—The United States submarine S-19, with her crew of forty, tonight was still in a precarious position on an outer bar five and a half miles south of Nauset coast guard station, where ashore early this morning. From both the shore and the coast guard cutters which had raced to her aid efforts were made all day to get a line aboard her, but all failed.

The men of the Nauset station early in the day launched a boat and fought their way out through the surf to within a hundred feet of the distressed craft before the waves capsized them. They regained the shore and tried again. This time their boat was smashed. All of the coast guardsmen made their way to shore, but they suffered from exposure.

Captain Abbot Walker refused to leave the station, but Wilbur C. Chase of his crew was taken to his home. The condition of neither man is serious.

Failing to rescue the submarine's crew in this manner, repeated attempts were made to shoot a line across her. The Tampa and Acushnet, coast guard cutters that are standing by, again and again drove in until they themselves were endangered, but their lines fell short. Accomplishment was equally impossible from the shore.

The tide was full early this evening. When it has dropped to dead low the combined crews of the Cahoon Hollow and Nauset stations will make another attempt to reach the S-19. Those leading the rescue work see no possibility of drawing off the submarine before tomorrow. The surf is still running high and will have a tendency to increase as more of the mud bar is uncovered by the dropping tide. The wind is favorable, of about 25 miles velocity, from the southwest.

There have been no signs of the vessel breaking up; and the danger of its crew was apparently no greater tonight than when it piled up on the shore.

After the first S. O. S. the officers of the S19 sent out occasional bulletins saying that conditions were all right on board. The waves were seen breaking over the bridge, however, and part of the antennae was below water. It is thought that a desire to conserve the batteries, coupled with this interference, decided them to hold radio communication in reserve.

The S-19 is a first line submarine, built in 1921 at a cost of $4,000,000, and carrying 35 men and five officers, under the command of Lieut. C. F. Martin. The submarine left the Portsmouth navy yard yesterday after an overhauling. She was bound for the New London, Conn., base.

LICENSE OF CAPTAIN CALL TO BE RESTORED

Boston, Jan. 13—The license of Captain A. W. Call, who was in command of the steamer Boston when it collided with the Tanker Swift Arrow off Block Island in a dense fog July 21 last will be restored by order of the steamboat inspection service at Washington, Captain Call was notified today. The Washington bureau has found that the decision of the local inspectors at Providence, R. I., revoking Captain Call's license was in error and not justified by the circumstances in connection with the collision. In his ruling the examining official said:

"I am of the opinion that action of the local inspectors of Providence, R. I., revoking the license of Captain Call for responsibility for the collision between the Boston and Swift Arrow on July 21, 1924, was in error and that the decision of the supervising inspector of the fifth district, on the appeal of Captain Call from the action of the local inspectors at Providence, is also in error and is not justified by the circumstances in connection with the collision, and is hereby set aside, and the appeal of Captain Call sustained. The license of Captain Call will be restored to him at once."

In his review of the collision incidents the bureau finds that "the navigation of the Boston previous to the accident contributed in no manner and no way to the collision, no matter what violation of the law, if any, occurred previous thereto, as there can be no doubt that at the time of the collision, the Boston was 'dead' in the water when she was rammed by the Swift Arrow."

TO ASK SURVEY OF CANCER SITUATION IN CONNECTICUT

Hartford, Jan. 1.—The state council of health at its meeting Monday afternoon decided to ask the general assembly for an appropriation of $10,000 to enable it to make a state survey of the cancer situation in Connecticut. If this appropriation is granted Connecticut will be the first state to take such steps to grapple with the dread disease of cancer. The department of health will make the survey in cooperation with the state medical society, the Connecticut Public Health Association and the American Association for the Control of Cancer. The death rate from this disease in the state is increasing. This may be due to the increase in longevity and to the consequent increase in the number of persons of advanced years in Connecticut, old persons being more susceptible to the disease than young.

Dr. E. M. Hall, of New Haven, a homeopathic physician, and Dr. Frits Carleton Hyde, of Greenwich, an allopathic physician, were appointed as members of the medical examining board. Both were reappointments. The Eclectic Medical Society did not make a nomination for a successor to R. L. White, of New Canaan.

NEW BRITAIN TO HONOR MISS MARY E. CURTIN

New Britain, Jan. 13.—The stores of New Britain will close from 10 to 11 o'clock tomorrow morning during the funeral of Miss Mary E. Curtin, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who died at her home yesterday. The chamber of commerce and the Mercantile Association will attend the funeral in a body. Service will be held at the home at 9.30 o'clock and a St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock.

Resolutions of sympathy have been adopted by the Lions club, the chamber of commerce and the Mercantile association and similar resolutions will be passed at the meeting of the Kiwanis club tomorrow and the Rotary club on Thursday. A meeting of the New Britain traffic bureau, scheduled for today was postponed indefinitely.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED CLEANING A REVOLVER

Salem, Mass., Jan. 13—Lloyd C. Lantz, 22, of Chicago, until his discharge on December 29 a radio operator in the United States navy, was seriously wounded tonight in a hotel here when the revolver he was cleaning was accidentally discharged. The bullet passed within an inch of his heart.

MISS VAILLE PERISHED CLIMBING LONG'S PEAK

Estes Park, Colo., Jan. 13.—Walter Kiener, companion of Miss Agnes Vaille, secretary of the Denver chamber of commerce, who perished during a perilous climb to the summit of Long's peak Monday, today told the story of hardships and suffering encountered by the daring climbers in Arctic temperatures at an elevation of nearly 14,000 feet.

Lying in a bed at Long's Peak inn, near here, suffering acutely from frozen feet and hands and exposure, he told the details of the fatoful climb in short, terse sentences.

As the couple ascended the east side of the peak Sunday, there was a sudden drop in temperature, he said. The thermometer he carried showed it was 50 degrees below zero and this lowered temperature was accompanied by a swirling blizzard.

"It was sundown," he said, "we decided we'd just as well go up, as we would have to make the descent in the dark. Arrived at the top, we didn't tarry—we started downward immediately.

"We were coming down a slope when Miss Vaille slipped. She slid and rolled 150 feet before she stopped. She wasn't hurt physically, but after the hardships, it unnerved her. We continued. Finally early Monday morning Miss Vaille called that her feet and hands were frozen. 'I can't go on' she declared. I tried to carry her stumbled along for a while. But it was useless. Leaving her propped against the leeside of a boulder, I struck out for the Timberline cabin. Just as I managed to get within calling distance I went down.

A rescue party near the cabin heard his cries and came to his aid. He told of Miss Vaille's plight and they started upward fighting every inch of the way through a blinding snowstorm.

A member of the rescue party, Herbert Sortland, strayed from the party and was lost. No trace of him has been found early tonight. Several hours later the searchers came upon the frozen body of Miss Vaille.

LONE ROBBER HELD UP MAIL CAR ON L. I. ROAD

New York, Jan. 13.—A lone robber with a handkerchief over his face held up the mail car of a Long Island train as it left the Belmore station on Long Island tonight and escaped with a registered package of undetermined value. Police said it was the first train holdup near New York city in many years.

As the train pulled out of the Bellmore station with its next stop, Merrick, only four minutes away, the bandit pushed his way into the mail car from a passenger car.

Bart Green, the mail clerk, was first aware of unusual happenings when he felt a pistol pushed against his stomach. The robber disarmed Greene backed him to the rear of the car and stood over him while he was forced to open a registered mail pouch.

Greene reported later that the man seemed to know what the contents of the bag would be, because he quickly selected one package and discarded all the other mail without a second glance.

With his gun trained on Greene, the robber forced the clerk onto the front platform of the car and locked the door. Then man then raced to the other end of the car and dropped off the platform into the darkness as the train began to slow down for the next station.

The train was well filled with passengers but none of them were aware that a robbery had been committed on their train.

At the general post office, opposite the Pennsylvania station from which the train had pulled out shortly before the robbery, postal inspectors professed ignorance concerning the nature of the parcel which was stolen and said they had not yet been officially notified of the hold-up.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1151
Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

A stirring address on the topic of Selfishness was delivered at the meeting of Willimantic Rotary club Tuesday noon by Charles K. Champlin of the stock company which bears his name, now showing in this city. Mr. Champlin, who is a member of the Redbank (N. J.) Rotary club, was a guest of John R. Pickett and was introduced by him. Other guests were William P. Jordan, Howard Foster of the Hudson Motor company and Robert Keltner and Franklin K. Mayer of the Hochenbury Hotel system. A number of the members were absent, several of them having braved the storm and poor traveling conditions to accompany Delegate Albert B. Smith to the convention of the boys' work committees in New Haven. In the absence of President Harry W. Standish, John F. Ahern presided, and he turned over his song leading duties to Doc Jones. The latter did splendid work in stirring the members to warble several peppy numbers. John Tracy is leaving for New York soon and will sail on the 23d for San Diego and Los Angeles, to remain in the land of oranges and beach-peaches for about three months. John was given the good wishes of the club and he promised to keep up his record by attending club meetings in cities along the western coast. A reminder was given that at 6.30 o'clock next Tuesday the meeting will be held as usual in the Y. M. C. A. building for the annual visit of District Governor Al Avery. A special program is being arranged. Walter Abbe, winner in last week's drawing, then bared his life's history to the members. He was born Dec. 15, 1884, first went to a private school, and a grammar school in Brooklyn, N. Y., and in Windham. He spent about a month occupying a seat in the Windham High school, whence he entered a Boys' High school in New York. This led to a manual training school and eventually to college, where he followed the vocation of a civil engineer. He was the designer of the second gasoline plant to be built in Pittsburgh. In 1914 he was happily married and is now a resident of South Windham and the father of two good boys. Some of the members who know the speaker charged that he was either equipped with a vague memory or was given over to secrecy. The meeting was turned over to Chairman Jim Bath of the entertainment committee at this point, and he in turn charged John Pickett to introduce his guest. Mr. Champlin's talk was delivered in the practiced manner of one long experienced in appearing in public and brought home a message vital to every practicing Rotarian. Taking, giving and selling as his theme, he expressed a beautiful thought, stating that "the art of giving is a rare and difficult luxury, whereas the psychology of selling is simple and that of giving is complex. To give beautifully one must give secretly, and without the expectancy of voluble appreciation in word or deed. 'One dollar with moral force behind it is better than one hundred dollars without it,' concluded the speaker. He was given a round of applause. The meeting adjourned at 1.45 o'clock.

Funeral services for Miss Margaret A. Morrison were held at the family home on Park street Tuesday morning. In the solemn requiem mass at St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock Rev. Felix J. O'Neill of Stafford Springs was celebrant; Rev. James A. Broderick of Terryville, deacon; and Rev. Francis Lalley of Waterbury, sub-deacon. Rev. Charles M. Kelly of this city was master of ceremonies. Rev. Henry Quinn, pastor of St. Joseph's church, was seated in the sanctuary. John McShea and Miss Mary McShea sang during the services. Mrs. E. R. Portelance was at the organ. The bearers were four nephews, Capt. Joseph R., Harry, Edward and Frank Morrison. The body was placed in the receiving vault at St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father O'Neill read the committal prayers, Fathers Broderic, Lalley and Kelly assisting in the responses. There were beautiful floral pieces. Attending the services were relatives and friends from this city, Providence, Hartford, New Britain, Meriden, Mansfield, Waterbury, Stafford Springs and New Haven.

Services for Mrs. Richard Haddad were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. Mitchell Hansen of Worcester, Mass. officiating. There were many relatives and friends present. The body was placed in the receiving vault in the new Willimantic cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Hussan read the committal service. Arrangements were by Killourey Brothers.

The Windham County Farm Land association held its annual meeting in the office of Judge Frank H. Foss Tuesday with a dozen members present. George Willis of Eastford was chosen president; Charles Elliott of Abington, vice president; John Hinkle of South Windham, secretary-treasurer. The officers and Wallace W. Jewett of Hampton comprise the board of directors. Secretary-Treasurer John Hinkle pointed out that there has been a gain in membership the past year. There are now 108 members and the aggregate of loans now in force attain $360,000.

The shareholders of Windham National bank held their annual meeting Tuesday forenoon. Directors chosen are H. Clinton Lathrop, Edgar E. Bass, William A. King, George E. Stiles, Arthur I. Bill, William D. Grant, Louis A. Kingsbury, George F. Taylor and James P. Bath. The directors re-elected the following officers: President, H. Clinton Lathrop; vice president, Edgar E. Bass; cashier, Herbert D. Pellard; assistant cashier, A. W Buchanan, Jr.; tellers, Harold S. Maine, Earl K. Haling, Willis Ridgeway. The meeting was the 93d annual session since the organization of the bank in 1832. The amount of capital paid in is $100,000; surplus, $100,000; undivided profits, $122,891.73; loans and discounts, $964,187.53; general deposits, $1,287,846.76, and savings deposits, $1,758,795.37.

At the family home at 23 Park street the funeral of Joseph Lemmelin was held Tuesday morning. In the solemn requiem mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock Rev. J. J. Papillon was celebrant; Rev. H. C. Belec, deacon, and Rev. E. A. Mathieu, sub-deacon. St. Mary's choir sang the mass, with Mrs. Joseph R. Gaudreau at the organ. The bearers were four grandsons, Lorenzo, Edmond, Raymond and Leopold Lemmelin. At the receiving vault in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the body was placed, Rev. Fathers Papillon, Belec and Mathieu conducted the committal service.

John Atwood, 78, a well known character about town, died at 1399 Main street Tuesday morning after a long illness. He was born in this city Sept. 1, 1846, a son of John and Julia Barrows Atwood. Surviving him are a sister in South Coventry and a niece in Jewett City.

Rotarians who went to New Haven Tuesday to attend the conference on boys' work were Delegate Albert B. Smith, President Harry W. Standish, James P. Muctard and Louis A. Kingsbury.

The manufacturing department of the American Thread company will start this week to operate on a four-day-a-week schedule, it was announced at the plant Tuesday. This relieves the situation of the past few days to a considerable extent. The finishing department will continue on full time.

Mary E., 92, widow of Charles B. Pomeroy, and a resident of Willimantic for over fifty years, died at her home on South Street at half past ten Monday evening, after an illness of ten weeks. Mrs. Pomeroy was born in Webster, Mass., June 18, 1832, the daughter of Harris and Amelia Starr Palmer. She married in 1853 in Worcester, Charles B. Pomeroy, of Somers. Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1903 when all their children and grandchildren were living and attended the celebration. Mrs. Pomeroy was one of the oldest members of the First Congregational church, in whose work she was active up to the time of her illness. She was also a charter member of Ann Wood Elderkin Chapter, D. A. R. and a charter member of the Needlework Guild, continuing her work in the latter up to the very day of her illness. She was president of the W. C. T. U. for eleven years. Mrs. Pomeroy is survived by six children, Mrs. Lorenzo Litchfild of Willimantic, Mrs. Minnie P. Cooley of New Haven, Miss Mary E. Pomeroy, Mrs. Arthur C. Everest and Charles B. Pomeroy of Willimantic, and Dr. Harris S. Pomeroy of Peabody, Mass. There are seven grandchildren; Lucius B. Fuller of Hartford, Norman P. Cooley, New Haven, Mrs. Florence Tracy and Mrs. Homer R. Turner of Windsor, Mrs. J. Frank Hayward, Wellesley, Mass., Charles P. Everest of Southern Pines N. C., and Miss Elizabeth Palmer Everest of Willimantic. There are twelve great grandchildren. She was a constant student of the Bible and well informed on every subject.

The members of Ann Wood Elderkin Chapter, D. A. R., were entertained on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hewitt Sherman. The speaker was the Rev. Florence Jones of Mansfield Center, her topic "Why I am Proud of Connecticut," giving a brief summary of facts in Connecticut of historical and industrial interest. Mrs. Charles Larrabee was chosen first delegates to attend the national congress in Washington in April with Mrs. William Kingsley as alternate. To the state convention at Ansonia the first delegate elected was Mrs. Herbert Chappell, with Mrs. Hewitt Sherman, alternate; second delegate Mrs. George Graves, with Mrs. Ward Holman, alternate.

Jan. 1—Aurelie Rondeau, 79, chronic gastritis.

Frederick L. Staebner, head of the science department at the normal school spoke in assembly Monday morning on "Why We Laugh." The reason he gave for laughing is the combination of the incongruous with the unexpected. It has been claimed by various people that this can be only true in cases not resulting in physical injury. As an example of the fallacy of this statement Mr. Staebner cited the case of the men in a certain regiment during the civil war, who, in the charge had to leap up a sharp pitch or embankment, making themselves an excellent target for the enemy who trained their fire accordingly. Thus in every line of men to advance, a certain few were bound to meet the inevitable bullet, just as the unfortunate moment of leaping from the earth, and sad to assume of the pitch of the hill, in their sudden change of direction, a gesture or performance so remarkable and ridiculous that a burst of uncontrollable hilarity swept through the ranks at their heels, from those who might themselves even the next instant be the ones to fall. Mr. Staebner gave a number of examples of what is amusing and why, in anecdote and story.

The members of the Methodist church are to be entertained Thursday evening at a church family supper, under the arrangement of a committee consisting of Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs. A. S. Muirhead, Mrs. Edward Cross and Mrs. D. A. French. The Imperial Quartette, Edwin Cross, Ray Tallman, Claude Ide and Arthur Clark, will sing.

A silver dollar dated 1799 is the valuable possession of Arthur J. Racicot, a local automobile salesman. The coin was found a number of years ago while men were excavating for a building on South Park street which was being erected by Mr. Racicot. Mr Racicot has had a number of offers from coin collectors for his pocketpiece.

Four tables were in play at a whist party given Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Haverbeke. Prizes went to Mrs. Thomas Moran, William Champlin, Mrs. T. Morrisette and Edward F. Moran.

Herbert Doubleday, driver of a state highway truck, was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, when presented in police court Tuesday morning. On the grounds that the evidence introduced did not warrant a conviction, the case was nolled at the request of Prosecuting Attorney S. B. Harvey, and Doubleday paid the costs of $14.15. The police received a message about midnight that a truck was wrecked on the North Windham road in the vicinity of the Willimantic Golf club property. Lieut. Frank McLean and Officer Edward Leahy found Doubleday fast asleep in the cab of the truck, to which was attached an icescraper. The truck was at one side of the road but undamaged. It was believed that the man was under the influence of liquor but he explained that he had been working al. day long near Chaplin; he started home and was taken sick. The truck skidded and when he applied the brakes the machine skidded into the fence. He remained there to await assistance, and in the meantime fell asleep.

Mrs. Jennie McClatchan, who is employed at the Putnam inn in Putnam, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. McFall, who recently moved to Mechanic street from Voluntown. Monday morning she started to take the early morning train, about a quarter of six. Mrs. McFall lives in the house on the railroad embankment in Mathewson court, and the two women started to go down the hill to the track. It was dark, and the way strange to Mrs. McClatchan, and she fell off the wall, down the steep hill and struck on the rails. She was terribly injured and frightened, but had presence of mind enough to roll off the track. Four men came from Aspinock Brachery and carried her up the hill to her sister's where it was found that her hip was briken. While she was being carried up the hill, the train passed over the track where she lay only a short time before. She was taken by automobile to the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

BOLTON

The annual meeting of the Congregational church members was held at the parsonage last week Tuesday evening. Rev. Frederick Taylor gave a report of the past year. The church has taken in four members; seven have been baptized, two aged members lost by death, Mrs. Jane B. Sumner, age 94, and Charles Northam Loomis, age 8 who was deacon of the church for 47 years. Mr. Taylor gave a talk on the high esteem and love in which these members of many years were held by the associate members. The clerk and treasurer, Miss Adelia N. Loomis reported enough in the treasury to pay bills. Mrs. Frederick C. Taylor superintendent of the Sunday school reported that the average attendance had increased from fifteen the previous year to twenty last year, there is a small balance in the treasury after buying supplies, which is better than some previous reports showed, when the church society supplied the deficit.

Officers were elected as follows: church clerk and treasurer, Miss Adelia N. Loomis; executive committee, Miss Annie M. Alvord, Mrs. R. Kneeland Jones, Mrs. J. H. Massey; collector, Mrs. R. K. Jones. Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. F. C. Taylor. The Bolton church was organized October 1755; plans were discussed for celebrating the anniversary.

School supervisor W. S. Dakin of West Hartford and the school nurse Miss Margaret H. Danehy of Willimantic visited Bolton schools last week.

Rev. Frederick C. Taylor was in Springfield recently to attend a reunion of his college classmates.

John J. Toomey of Hartford who frequently visits his son David C. Toomey at the Center, has been promoted to assistant superintendent of streets, Hartford by the street board. Mr. Toomey was formerly foreman of cleaning improved pavements.

Mrs. George Coleman was recently in an automobile accident in Manchester, she sustained a broken collar bone and dislocated shoulder.

Mrs. B. L. McGurk of Hartford who spends her summers in town is in Atlantic City recovering from an attack of grip.

Miss Elizabeth B. Rose has returned to her studies at Hartford high school after two weeks' illness.

Lawrence Rose has returned to the New York General Theological seminary, after spending his vacation with his mother Mrs. Cora Rose.

The Ladies Aid Society met in the vestry Thursday afternoon.

The selectmen held their January meeting Monday evening.

January 12th Miss M. Ella Porter, 67, who frequently visited her sister Mrs. George L. Dewey when she was a resident of Bolton died at Mrs. Dewey's in Canton Center a week ago last Saturday. Miss Porter was 67 years of age, beside her sister she is survived by two brothers, Rev. John S. Porter a missionary in Europe and Arthur, of Pawtucket, R. I. Burial was in Canton Center cemetery. Miss Porter was a woman of noble characteristics.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. William Birtsch was taken to the Norwich state tuberculosis sanatorium Tuesday last. She has been unwell for some time past, and it was finally decided to take her to the sanatorium for treatment when the arrangements could be made.

A church social was held at Yeomans' hall Friday evening, when a lecture on Mesopotamia, illustrated by stereopticon views, was given by Rev. Mr. Williams of Andover, who has been a missionary at that place, and expects to return. Many children from different parts of the town were present. The music of the evening was furnished by the Columbia orchestra, led by Prof. A. E. Lyman. Light refreshments followed the entertainment.

The meeting of the grange held Wednesday evening was attended by 24 members. Mrs. Nellie Mott, who had taken a demit, was re-elected to membership, and Miss Ruth Wilson and Miss Gladys Rice were elected members. The first and second degrees were then conferred on John Demesko, also on Misses Ruth Wilson Marion Clough and Gladys Rice. The third and fourth degrees will be conferred at the next meeting, Friday evening, Jan. 16.

The past week has been ideal for harvesting ice. Most of those who have accommodations for keeping ice and could get the help, improved the opportunity and filled their icehouses. Among those who succeeded in so doing were Fred Hunt, Henry Hutchins, Lester Hutchins and Charles K. Hitchcock, putting in about 500 cakes each, and in some instances over 1,000 cakes of solid, clear, 12-inch ice.

There is much demand now for the use of Yeomans' hall by the several social organizations in town, and lately very largely for church meetings, especially on Friday evenings. It being necessary to engage the hall in advance.

At the meeting of the state grange Wednesday next Master-elect J. H. LaFleur will be the delegate from Columbia grange.

Miss Madelene Holmes is still ill at the Hartford hospital, it being found that at the proper time it will be necessary to perform an operation for appendicitis.

At the church service sunday morning Rev. C. C. Haun preached on the text "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business." He spoke of the desire of Christ when a child to be engaged in the business of saving souls, and that it is the business of the church to follow his example.

The Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening was led by John Demesko, the subject being Reading the Bible Intelligently.

DANIELSON

Stockholders of the Windham County National bank held their annual meeting at the institution Tuesday morning. Included in the business before the meeting was the election of a board of directors. No changes were made in the directorate from what it was during the past year, the list being as follows: Nathan D. Prince, William A. Gaston, Boston; Charles A. Tillinghast, Nathaniel G. Williams, Obadiah Butler, Andrew D. Bitgood, Moosup. Increase of the capital stock of the institution, as was provided in the call for the meeting might be done, was not authorized, lacking the required two-thirds vote of the stockholders.

On Saturday of this week, at their regular time for meeting, the directors will elect officers for the year.

The bank had a remarkably successful year during 1924, and is stronger now than ever before in its history. This bank was established in 1822.

Setting of snares is being so brazenly done all through this section of the county and on such a wholesome basis that, considering the illegality of the proposition, the manner in which dogs are being killed and other angles of the matter, many hunters who are fire thorough sportsmen regard it as a challenge to them to take a hand in stopping the practice and it is proposed they lend their active aid to game officials in doing so. Snaring can be stopped or reduced to a minimum if a sufficient number of purposeful men organize and set out to do it. Much information can be obtained with comparatively small effort as to where snares are set if one seeks such information. Having obtained the information, a watch can be set on the snares for the men who set them, and determined watchers, working in pairs and relays of a few hours each would likely have some of the snarers in hand within a very few days. Such a plan would entail some sacrifice upon the part of the watchers, but they would be almost sure to be rewarded if the watch were made incessant. Steps were taken here Tuesday to obtain legislative action that will make the penalties for snaring much more severe than they are at present.

Following are the newly elected officers of the Catholic Women's Welfare council: President, Mrs. Lucien Lambert; vice president, Mrs. Henry Lambert; secretary, Miss Nora Killian; treasurer, Miss Mayme Dunn; chairman entertainment committee, Mrs. Samuel Boyll; chairman Sunshine committe, Mrs. William Brennan. The council recently voted $100 of its funds as a gift to the building fund of the new St. James' school.

This (Wednesday) evening the members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club have a meeting scheduled at the Bohemian club. Among some of the members there is sentiment in favor of the organization lending its aid to tracking down the men who are setting snares and distributing poison along fox runs, feeling that the club could do effective work and fulfil one of the aims for which it was founded.

President Harry Brearley and Secretary Clifford H. Starkweather have sent out notices pertaining to the impending annual meeting of the Danielson Building and Loan association. This organization during the past year has continued along the course it has so successfully followed since its establishment, nearly a decade ago. In the meantime it has done much for Danielson and is continuing to do it, incidentally returning its stockholders liberal dividends. Another series of shares is to be issued this month.

It was estimated Tuesday morning that the fire at the George Bartholomew place on Day street, West Side, caused damage to the extent of at least $500. An alarm for the fire called out the department at 12.10 a. m. The fire is believed to have started from a defective chimney. It ate its way between partitions and gave the firemen a tough job before they succeeded in extinguishing it. Considerable of the damage was due to the fact that the firemen could not get at the blaze without cutting through partitions. Six tanks of chemicals were used in trying to subdue the fire but it was finally necessary to turn on the water. The alarm was pulled in frmo box 16, at the corner of Main and Maple streets. It was 1.30 before the firemen returned to their quarters.

The dog so terribly torn by being caught in a wire snare, as told about in this column Tuesday morning, is the property of Charles Roth, not of Dana Shippee, of East Killingly. The dog had been in the snare from Saturday noon to Monday morning. The injured dog is held to have a value of $200. If it recovers at all, probably two months must elapse before its injuries are healed.

The story relative to the Roth dog brought another one to The Bulletin from the town of Canterbury Tuesday. Hearing a dog howl as though in agony on a recent evening, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Coffey went searching through the woods and found a young dog caught by the neck in a wire snare. The loosened animal showed extreme gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Coffey. It was ascertained from a marker on the dog's collar that he was the property of a man named Driscoll, resident in the town of Plainfield.

PUTNAM

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the Citizens National bank of Putnam was held Tuesday afternoon in the banking rooms. Directors were elected as follows:

Victor Chapdelaine, Edward H. Cottis, Whitman Danielson, Louis P. Faucher, Mahlon H. Geissler, Alexander Gilman, Ethel May Goodridge, Joseph C. Hippin, Edward J. Keegan, S. Nikolaf, Samuel Reynolds, Earl C. Rogers, Asa M. Rose, A. Newton Vaughn, William P. Warren, John W. Whipple, Albert H. Williams, Arthur E. Smith.

These are the same directors that have been serving since the organization of the bank, November 12, 1924 with the addition of Arthur E. Smith, cashier. Included in the list is the name of Mrs. Goodridge, wife of Dr. F. G. Goodridge, of Pomfret. This is the only bank in this section of the state which has a woman on the directorate. One New London bank has a woman on its board.

The president of the bank, Samuel Reynolds, presided at the meeting, which was attended by about eighty stockholders, men and women. Mr. Smith, the cashier, read the financial statement as of Dec. 31, 1924, and said that he felt justified in congratulating the stockholders on the very excellent showing that had been made in six weeks. Other officials expressed themselves as well satisfied with the showing made the first day the bank opened, and the steady, healthy growth since then.

At a meeting of the directors held immediately after the stockholders' meeting, officers were elected as follows:

President, Samuel Reynolds; vice presidents, Mahlon H. Geissler, A. Newton Vaughn, Alexander Gilman, Whitman Danielson; cashier, Alfred E. Smith.

There were very few automobiles running in this section, Monday night, the highways being about as difficult for travel as could be. Ralph S. Bradford of the Child Lumber Corporation, who drives his car about as many miles annually as any resident of Putnam said he had never driven under more adverse conditions. He started for Putnam from a point 22 miles beyond Willimantic at four o'clock, reached there at six and left his car in a garage to come home by train. Snow, sleet and rain fell during the night but the weather was much warmer Tuesday morning and traffic was nearer normal.

H. J. Miles of Putnam, Federal Blister-rust control agent for Windham and Tolland counties is doing everything possible to stamp out the blight in this section. He explains what it is and the harm it does in the following way:

"White Pine Blister-rust was brought into this country from Europe on white pine stock for forest planting. It was first found attacking native white pine in New England in 1913. Since then it has become established in New England, as well as in other pine growing sections of the country.

"In northern New England the disease is everywhere prevalent and is killing merchantable pine, but it has not become so general in this part of Connecticut.

"This is largely because wild currant and gooseberry are not abundant in our woods, and the blister-rust cannot spread from pine to pine but must pass certain intermediate stages upon wild or cultivated currant or gooseberry.

"This disease is just as serious in the harm it does and in the rapidity of its spread, as is the chestnut blight but unlike the chestnut blight, the pine blister-rust can be controlled. The fact that this disease must spend part of its life on currant or gooseberry, gives us the means of control. By removing and destroying all wild or cultivated currant or gooseberry bushes in any pine growing section and within at least 900 feet of any soft or five needle pines, which variety it alone attacks, we protect the pine and prevent its infection. To make certain the thorough control of this disease all currant and gooseberry in pine growsections should beeradicated.

"The disease is not generally prevalent in Windham county and it need not become so. The writer urges all pine owners and all interested in the welfare of the country to co-operate with him in controlling the blister-rust.

"There is much cultivated currant and gooseberry in the county, and considerable infection on this and therefore the writer asks the co-operation of owners in locating infections and removing infected stock."

Examination of pine lots, and currant and gooseberry bushes is made without charge.

of the Killingly Woman's club that Fred B. Aldrich is coming to Danielson under its auspices on Wednesday evening of next week to deliver, in the assembly hall at Killingly High school, a lecture on the Solar Eclipse. Mr. Aldrich is of the faculty of Worcester academy. In view of the fact that a total eclipse of the sun will occur on the Saturday morning following Mr. Aldrich's lecture here, there will be more interest than ordinarily might be the case in such an abstruse subject. On this occasion it will be especially timely and Mr. Aldrich is a lecturer who is not too technical in his treatment of his subject; what he has to say will be told so that all will appreciate and enjoy it. It will prepare one to study the eclipse as one would like to be prepared to study it. The public will have the opportunity to hear Mr. Aldrich, as well as the club members, when he comes here next week.

Members of the American Legion will be encouraged if the public has a large representation at the installation of its officers in its hall this (Wednesday) evening.

This (Wednesday) evening the Windham High school basketball team of Willimantic will come to Danielson to play the Killingly High school team.

Bids are to be opened at St. James' rectory today (Wednesday) for the construction of the new St. James' parochial school and sub-contracts therein, the entire cost to be probably not less than $150,000 and possibly as much as $200,000. Bids have been submitted by a number of local contractors.

St. Alban's parish is making plans for the construction of a parish house. The project has advanced to the point where plans for the structure are being prepared.

Tomorrow (Thursday) The Bulletin and other publications will carry far and wide in eastern Connecticut Danielson's business men's announcements relative to Appreciation day, something new in this territory.

Volunteering to carry a pail of boiling water up a stairway leading to the top floor of the family home on Maple street, Sheldon Caouette, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caouette, slipped as he neared the end of his journey and was so badly scalded as to be in an alarming, though not really dangerous condition. The boy was suffering a great deal Tuesday after having had a poor night after the accident.

About 25 lodgers were housed at the police station during December and there is a prospect that the record will be equalled in January. The lodgers are mostly men who are traveling through this section on foot, seeking work in various factory villages.

Following a custom now well established, state road plows were clearing highways of an accumulation of slush Tuesday, following the snow and rain of the previous night.

Fishing is allowable today (Wednesday) on Alexander's lake, and there is some fine heavy ice up there for anyone who wants to get some exercise cutting hole through it.

Representatives will leave this morning from towns hereabouts to attend the legislative session set for today and which will probably be marked by the announcement of committee appointments for the session.

CHECKS FROM WASHINGTON FAIL TO COME TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Jan. 13.—In spite of the statement sent out by wire from Washington Monday evening that checks would be mailed that day to depositors of the First National bank for a forty per cent. dividend, none have reached Putnam yet. Mr. Coffin, the receiver, courteous and affable as usual, declined to comment on the report but other local bank officials scoffed at it. The checks will not be mailed from Washington," one of them said, "for the simple reason that I do not believe they have the addresses of the claimants there. It would certainly be just as expeditious and there would be less danger of delay and loss in mail transit, if the checks, after being approved and countersigned would be returned to the receiver to be distributed from Putnam. That is the usual method and I think it will be followed in this case." If it it it will be a week probably before depositors get them.

There are about 2,500 individual depositors and the amount to be paid out is said to be $567,000.

WILLIAM D. HOXIE DIES ON SOUTH AMERICAN TRIP

Westerly, R. I., Jan. 13.—A cablegram this afternoon brought word of the death yesterday on board steamer Southern Cross of William D. Hoxie of Westerly, former president of the Babcock Wilcox Boiler company, of New York and latterly chairman of the board of directors.

Mr. Hoxie, his wife and Miss Helen D. Brown, of New London, were on a recreation trip to Rio Janeiro and the steamer is due at that city Thursday. All members of the party were in good health upon their departure. Mr Hoxie was a director of the Washington Trust company, vice president of the Wilcox Memorial Library association, and active in civic affairs.

STONINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Torrey of 28 Elm street reached their 50th wedding anniversary Jan. 7 but owing to the illness of Mr. Torrey the celebration planned by their children was put over until Sunday, when the parents were given a surprise. During the day there were more than 50 guests and callers. Mr. and Mrs. Torrey were married in Derbyshire, England, Jan. 7, 1875. They came to America in 1909 and have since resided in Stonington. Mr. Torrey was an engineer by trade and a man of great activity in his early life. Mrs. Torrey was Miss Elizabeth Hill. In honor of the happy anniversary a special mass of thanksgiving was offered by Rev. James E. O'Brien at St. Mary's church Tuesday morning at 7.30 o'clock. There are six children of this union living—Mrs. Hiram B. Harvey and Mrs. Harry Long of Pawcatuck, Mrs. William Kershaw of Worcester, Mass., Miss Agnes Torrey of New York, Miss Matilda Torrey and Joseph Torrey of Stonington.

The Travel club met Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the library, when there was further study of Russia. Mrs. Herbert S. Owens of Stonington and New London, who has interviewed many who visited that country, gave a talk on Soviet Russia.

Some men might compliment their wives more if given a chance to talk.

DODGE BROTHERS
TYPE-B SEDAN

Unquestionably, the most compelling tribute to the car's stamina is its widespread use by farmers, ranchmen, surveyors, salesmen and others who travel isolated roads in all sorts of weather.

These men will tell you that a good polishing restores the durable finish to its original brightness after the car has been caked with mud for weeks.

To them it is a matter of vital importance, too, that Dodge Brothers powerful starter functions promptly after prolonged exposure to the cold.

Nor is any group of owners more constantly impressed by those elements of excess value which characterize not only the Type-B Sedan itself, but every car that Dodge Brothers build.

FIGHTING POLLUTION.

Elimination, or reduction, of the pollution in the rivers of the state is a problem which has been before Connecticut for a considerable period. The need of such action is not denied and the size of the task is not underestimated. There are many angles to it and it involves much cooperation and expense.

What seemed like the beginning of a movement that would steadily expand was urged and favored by the last general assembly. It failed because of the veto by the governor. The problem therefore is still before the state.

During all the years it has been the custom to regard the streams of the state as the legitimate dumping place for all forms of pollution. It has continued to the point where it has driven out the fish, made it dangerous to use shellfish taken from such streams and made it inadvisable to bathe in such waters. The pouring of sewage, refuse, poisons and all kinds of waste into the rivers have made them veritable sewers. It has been the easiest way of disposing of them and any change in the practice is going to involve much expense.

Also it is going to require a considerable period of time before the necessary requirements can be met for disposing of such wastes in other ways. But in all the efforts that have been put forth in behalf of checking the pollution complaint has been laid upon the importance of getting started. The problem is big enough now without waiting until it gets bigger. The cost will be large enough now without waiting until it will be larger.

If the state might have had the benefit of the start that would have accompanied the plan before the last legislature, steps in the right direction would have been taken and the state would have been that much nearer the point of having each and every contributor to the stream pollution participate in the betterment of conditions. If there is a delay in making a start until an ideal measure can be advocated and adopted the hopes of accomplishing anything might as well be abandoned.

STOPPING THE WASTE.

When it comes to the matter of cutting government expenses and reducing waste, the public printer at Washington is following the administration lead when he refers to the savings which have been made through the practices of economies, but points out that there is still a huge wastage.

The practice of permitting everything which is asked for to go into the Congressional Record, whether it was a speech delivered in Kalamazoo or one that was written and never delivered, has long been decried. It means the filling of this record of congressional doings with much which has no place in such a report of the national legislature. It involves much expense in the shape of white paper and in the cost of printing, but in addition to that there has been sent broadcast, even more generously than the free seeds used to be, certain departmental reports, the cost of which for what the public printer considered actually wasted, having been $600,000 a year for the past ten years.

Thus it appears that the public printer stands on excellent ground and knows what he is talking about when he points to the waste that needs to be checked. When he makes his statement he is going about as far as he can. He is pointing to conditions which he believes should be stopped but it doesn't rest with him to stop them. He must rest his case by calling the situation to the attention of others.

The lavish indulgence in such expenditures may have continued as a matter of custom. Because it was done in the past there may have been no effort to stop it and the practice has undoubtedly increased as the years have gone by. If it is the result of not knowing what has developed, that claim cannot be put forth any longer. The public printer has put his finger on a condition that calls for the introduction of new arrangements. Has congress been sufficiently impressed by the statement to meet the requirements which the situation demands.

KANSAS PARDONS.

From time to time there is the exercise of the pardoning or paroling power in different states which arouses much criticism and comment. So far as known these cases do not exceed the authority conferred upon the governors or the pardoning boards by the law, but they seem to display a strange attitude toward the protection which the public has a right to expect from the authorities.

Just now Kansas has a case of a different type in connection with the pardoning power. From a distance the situation is unenviable for those involved. It is possible that the governor who has just completed his term is, as he claims, entirely guiltless, that he intended to hand out a full pardon to the paroled prisoner and that he would have done so even if there had been no payment of money on the part of the paroled man to the governor's son.

As to what the actual facts are and where the guilt lies will be determined by the investigation or the trial. Kansas has got something to worry about even though there will be a disposition to withhold judgment until all the facts in the case have been brought out.

The governor does not try to cover up on the part that his son has played, the fact that the money changed hands or that the transaction took place in connection with the pardon, the preliminary arrangements for which apparently set the stage for the offering and delivery of the bribe. He lays it all to the weakness of his son, but he must be fully aware of the fact by this time that the customary caution on his part would not have permitted the chief executive of the state getting into such an awkward position. All kinds of efforts are resorted to to break down the effects of the law and modify punishment. When there is a looseness connected with the issuing of pardons those seeking them are not long in finding it out. Kansas and its ex-governor have been given a chance to do a bit of serious thinking about these things.

SHIPS AND WIRELESS.

Details of the sufferings experienced by 17 men for 84 days on a disabled sailing vessel, which had been put out of commission by storms prompt the question as to how long it will be before all those who sail the seas, either in vessels that depend upon wind for their power as well as those relying upon steam, will be protected against just such a predicament through the means of wireless.

Passenger carrying vessels are required to have such an equipment that they may call for help in time of distress or go to the assistance of others whose call has been heard. There are still some of the so-called tramp ships which fail to provide themselves with this valuable bit of protection, and probably there are more of the sailing craft which give first consideration to the expense that would be involved. It is safe to say that those who passed the 80 days on the Portuguese windjammer would have but one answer if they should be sounded on such a matter and the decision rested with them.

In the days that have gone this means of communicating with others while at sea was not available. The value of such a means of keeping in touch with shore or vessels at sea has been too clearly demonstrated to permit of an argument regarding the merits. Those who were trying to get their signals recognized by those far away and out of sight might have easily told of their plight by means of the wireless. Their case is only one of many which show that there is need for every vessel being equipped with the wireless. Even if they are never called upon to seek aid in that manner or to render assistance to others the protection that is afforded in case of need is worth all that it costs.

TROLLEYS STAND TESTS.

Many are the localities where there has been encountered opposition to the trolley lines and favoritism for the establishment of bus lines. Some cities have even experienced the stopping of service by the trolleys until the people could experience the effect of dependence on busses, and it has invariably resulted in an early call for the return of the electrics.

The Worcester Telegram has called attention to a bus line out of Springfield decreasing its service because of decreased patronage, to the president of a Fitchburg trolley company who declared he has no opposition to busses if they do not parallel his lines and to the refusal on the part of Marlboro and Webster to permit busses to compete with established electric lines and adds, "Perhaps the people are abandoning their enthusiasm for bus service as against trolley and railroad service. At any rate they seem to be more friendly to long established transportation systems than they were a while ago."

That is in keeping with the experience elsewhere. It seems to be easy, and more or less popular to cry out against trolley service and urge the substitution of something else. Everything seems fine until it is found that the substitute fails to meet requirements and fails to furnish the service that was previously obtained under the electrics. That this should result in more sympathy for the trolley lines and a better understanding of the struggle they have had to go through is common experience. It hasn't saved all but it is giving hope to many.

MARTS OF TRADE

One of those millinery shops where they are going to sell the customer something if it takes a whole bottle of chloroform to do it. Ruthless and beautiful salesladies who get fat commissions on each sale.

Large, stout customer, bushel-basket type head (sniffing as she enters at the array of tiny peanut hats designed for bobbed coiffures)—"I'd like to see some of these small, plain felt hats, the kind that look like a scoop, you know! Something smart!"

Blond clerk (smiling brightly)—"Just be seated, madam. Oh, yes we have a large assortment! Yes, all those on view do look to be small-head sizes, don't they, but I'll bring you something right away. We have some very smart velvet hats on sale today—"

Stout customer (with a cold, fishy glance)—"I told you I wanted a felt hat that comes way down and is plain."

Blond clerk (still brightly)—"I see! No, that one over there is too small—you haven't your hair bobbed—"

Stout customer—"I should hope not! At my age! Why can't I find one that is big enough?"

Blond clerk—"I think we have some coming in very shortly, but if you are in a hurry for a hat let me try on this terribly smart little velvet model, right from New York—there! That is simply perfect on you! It's just stunning! Oh, Genevieve, look here! Did you ever see a hat that looked more perfect?"

Genevieve (mechanically, with her eye on a customer just entering)—"Simply per-r-fect! So chic and such lines!"

Blond clerk (enthusiastically)—"And you can wear it to little luncheons and the matinee and still be in perfectly good form if you want to stay down for dinner and to dances—"

Stout customer (brutally)—"I weigh over 200 and I don't dance. I don't want a velvet hat for dress—I am looking for a utility hat to wear to market and out in the rain."

Blond clerk—"Why not this one with the bright appique in front? It has the new high, square crown—there! Isn't that wonderful on you?

Stout customer—"I look like somebody's cook in it—it's awful!"

Blond clerk (in shocked tones)—"As though you could! Now, I want to see you in one of these new, extreme styles, just in, that you can wear perfectly well if you will only get over the notion that they are for the young ladies! Let me slip on this stunning model—there! There isn't an entertainment this winter you couldn't wear that hat to. Genevieve, isn't this perfect?"

Genevieve (snappishly, having missed out on her customer)—"Just perfect! It looks as though it was made for her! Simply perfect!"

Stout customer (removing the hat)—"I guess you haven't anything, so—"

Blond clerk (pained) "Oh, I haven't begun to show you our stock! I have at least six hats in mind this minute which will look wonderful on you! Now, this one—"

Customer (surveying the affair which perches on top of her cranium like a saucer on a watermelon—It's too small!"

Clerk—"Oh, just wait till I stretch it! There! Isn't that better?"

Stout customer (remorselessly)—"Not at all. There isn't any use and I'm obliged to you, but I am in a hurry."

Genevieve (on the outskirts. She can do a good turn if she has time)—"Oh, Angeline, have you shown modom that model we ordered for Mrs. Porteous X. Goldrocks of the Lake Shore drive that came too late to catch her before she left for Yewrope?"

Blond clerk (rapture breaking over her face)—"Just the thing!"

She returns, walking like a procession, triumph on her face. Everything depends on surrounding the customer with the right mental aura. She bears tenderly on her finger tips a concoction which is warranted to knock 'em dead at 500 feet. It is the sort of hat over which a hashish eater would go crazy.

Stout customer (grabbing up her headgear and making the door through those foot-all rush)—"No! No! No! Really! Thank you, but I'm in a hurry!"

Blond clerk—"Wouldn't that frost yuh? After all my work! Nothing'd look good on that old will!"

Genevieve—Say, isn't it fierce!"—Exchange.

YOUR INCOME TAX

EXEMPTIONS

There is no change in the exemption for single persons, which is $1,000. Married persons living together and heads of families are allowed by the revenue act of 1924 an exemption of $2,500, regardless of the amount of net income. Under the preceding act of exemption for married persons and heads of families was $2,500 if the aggregate net income was $5,000 or less and $2,000 if the net income exceeded $5,000. A husband and wife living together have but one personal exemption. If they make separate returns such exemption may be taken by either or divided between them.

The exemption of $2,500 is allowed married couples only if they live together. In the absence of continuous actual residence together, the exemption depends upon the character of the separation. The new regulations provide that if occasionally and temporarily a wife is away on a visit or a husband is away on business, the joint home being maintained, the full exemption is allowable. The unavoidable absence of a husband or wife at a sanitarium on account of illness does not precede claiming exemption. But if continuously and voluntarily the husband makes his residence at one place and the wife at another they are not living together within the eyes of the income-tax law. Each must file a return if his or her income was $1,000 or more, and each is allowed only the $1,000 exemption granted a single person.

No change is made in the provision allowing the taxpayer, in addition to a personal exemption, a credit of $400 for each person depending upon him or her and receiving chief support. If such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. The term "mentally or physically defective" includes not only crippies and those mentally defective, but persons in ill health and the aged. The $400 credit does not apply to the wife or husband of a taxpayer, though one may be totally dependent upon the other.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Miguel Paz Baracona, who has been elected President of Honduras, is a native Hondurar, sixty-one years of age. He was educated by private tutors, and attended the medical college of the University of Guatemala, completing his medical studies in Paris. Upon his return to Honduras he entered upon the practice of his profession. Possessed of an ample private fortune, he did most of his work for the poor, giving them advice and medicines without charge. Although prominent as a leader in various welfare movements he has never held public office, and consequently the convention of the National Party decided he was the best fitted man in the country to join all factions which have been torn apart by revolution and bloodshed for the past year. Dr. Baracona's administration, it is confidently hoped, will weld the discordant elements into a harmonious group.

NATURE'S GIFTS AND CAPRICES IN SOUTH AMERICA

A resume of the remarkable contributions South America has made to civilization and the unusual geographical features of that continent are contained in an address by John Oliver LaGorce, vice president of the National Geographic society, to the third Pan-American scientific congress meeting at Lima, Peru.

"In Peru originated the potato, the world's greatest single crop. Chile contributes the guano fertilizer which rejuvenates the soil of many lands; the pampas of Argentina bestow meats and wool upon millions outside her borders; Brazil helped make possible the automobile by teaching the use of rubber and Mexico furnishes the twine to bind civilization's harvests—to mention only a few of the important economic services of the continent," Mr. LaGorce said.

"The United States and South American countries have always manifested their friendship by their trade," the speaker continued. "In a recent year Argentina bought three-eighths of her imports from our country; Brazil went in the United States approximately one-half of her expenditure for imports, and Chile gave the United States approximately one-half of her expenditure for imports, and Chile gave the United States practically the same proportion of her foreign purchases. Columbia was an equally good customer in proportion to her total importations, while Peru gave the United States nearly two-thirds of her total foreign orders. More than two-thirds of Venezuela's foreign business was done with American houses and, in Ecuador, the proportion was 46 per cent.

"In our turn we bought more than half of the exports of Chile, Colombia, Peru, and Venezuela, nearly half of those of Brazil, and nearly a third of those of Argentina.

"To the geographer these figures tell far more than a profitable business relationship; they betoken a mutual dependency based on mutual needs. It is a happy geographic fact that our two continents, thrown into close proximity, need each other and, in so many ways, complement each other.

"The physical geography of South America is fascinating. It is distinguished by the absence of clearly defined watersheds between its great river basins. From the Orinoco delta to the Rio de la Plata estuary there is almost a continuous overlapping of these basins. In southern Venezuela, where that country thrusts a political peninsula into northern Brazil, below the town of Esmeralda, the waters of the upper Orinoco suddenly decide to part company, some of them reaching the Amazon and the sea through the Brazos Casiquiare and the others forcing their way to the lower Orinoco over the rapids of the eroded mountain barriers at Malpures and Atures.

"Although the communications between the Amazon and the Rio de la Plata basins are not so marked as those between the Amazon and the Orinoco basins, there are numerous places where the flip of a bird's wing, the direction of the wind, the abundance of local rains, the formation of a sand-bar, or the slip of a bit of land, may determine the destiny of a drop of water, whether it shall flow past Para or Buenos Aires.

"Nature has been prodigal of her blessings to South America—blessings which, in some instances, are just being revealed.

"A rich asset of our eastern seaboard of North America has been its rugged, indented coast line, which affords sheltering harbors from Maine to Florida. South America's coast line is more regular; but she has what now is proving an even greater boon, navigable rivers of enormous length—nature-made canals which offer ready transportation to regions of some of her richest products.

"Our Mississippi and its tributaries have 17,000 miles of navigable waters, the major portion of them exceedingly shallow. The Amazon and its tributaries have twice as many miles, and several times as many miles capable of accommodating ocean-going steamers, which, for example, ascend 2,300 miles to Iquitos, while vessels of 14-foot draft can ascend nearly 500 miles beyond that point.

"South America takes that for granted; but we of the United States marvel when we realize that it is as though one could travel on a ship of 14-foot draft from New York direct to Salt Lake City by way of Chicago and Cheyenne. A glance at a map of South America reveals that South America has the finest system of inland waterways in the world.

"The map also reveals the wonder tale of South America's future—her future of commercial importance, because she holds so much wealth in natural resources which the world needs.

"There are delineated the vast extent of the rubber forests of the Amazon basin; the regions whence Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Colombia, and Venezuela draw their valuable exports of cattle hides, mutton, and wool; the nitrate lands of Chile and Peru; the rich coffee, sugar, and cacao plantations of Brazil, the Guinas, Venezuela, and Colombia; and the silver, copper, gold, iron, and tin deposits of various countries.

"The Andes are the Alps of South America—only on a tremendously large scale. Everything in South America seems scaled large especially in contrast to classic Old World standards.

"Your continent has twice the area of Europe, yet your people number only about two-thirds the combined population of France and Italy. You have plenty of elbowroom in your continent of natural wonders, rich resources, and progressive governments.

"So towering and so extensive are your Andes Mountains that if all the highlands were plowed down and all the lowlands were filled up, the continent would be a plateau 1,312 feet above sea level, and 320 feet of this would be represented by the material which constitutes the Andes."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Looking for Lollypops

Now let me think what happened just as I finished yesterday's story. Oh, yes, now I remember. The Policeman Dog had told the Big Brown Bear over the telephone that Mr. Wicked Wolf's front lawn was strewn with lollypop sticks, tell-tale proof that this old wolf must have stolen the barrel of lollypops from the Big Brown Bear's Cosy Cave House.

"Well, what shall we do?" asked the angry old bear. "Shall I meet you somewhere?"

"Wait a minute till I think of a plan," answered the careful Policeman Dog scratching his ear with his left hind foot, only of course the Big Brown Bear couldn't see him over the wire although he heard the thump, thump of the hind leg as it bumped on the floor. "Meet me under Squirrel Nutcracker's Tree," answered the Policeman Dog all of a sudden. "We'll talk it over and then proceed." (which means to go ahead, Little Reader.)

"Right away?" asked the impatient old bear quick as a wink, so anxious was he to get back his barrel of lollypops.

"The quicker the better," replied the Policeman Dog.

"Do you want to come along?" asked the Big Brown Bear, hanging up the telephone and turning to the little rabbit. "Maybe you'd better hop home to Mother. This is no easy job."

"I'd like to come," answered the little rabbit, brave as a lion—a little lion, of course, not a great big one.

"All right. Get on your coat," said the Big Brown Bear, taking his cap off the wooden peg behind the door and pulling on his big fur mittens. Then picking up his big club, he and the bunny boy set out for the Chestnut Tree in the top of which Squirrel Nutcracker had built a comfortable little bungalow.

The storm was over and Mr. Happy Sun was shining down on the great white world making the trees glisten in their snowy laces. Through the deep snow trudged the Big Brown Bear, the little bunny hopping behind him in the footprints of his big feet, and by and by, after a while, they came to the big Chestnut Tree just as the Policeman Dog bounded over the Old Rail Fence.

"I have some news for you," pant the brave old dog, "Mr. Wicked Wolf has gone to Lettucemere with Mrs. Wolf. We'll go right over to their house and look for the barrel of lollypops." And patting the bunny boy on the ear in a friendly way, but not waiting to even ask why he was there, the Policeman Dog started off through the Shady Forest.

On reaching the little rocky house in which Mr. Wicked Wolf lived, they paused at the gate for a moment, then tip-toeing around to the back door, the Policeman Dog motioned to the Big Brown Bear to wait at the front porch. The next minute the Policeman Dog shouted: "Here it is in the woodshed!"

"How will we get it back to my cave?" asked the Big Brown Bear.

"Here's an old sled. We'll drag it back," laughed the Policeman Dog. And in the next story

A Little Talk on Thrift

Where There's a Will

A great many people whose incomes are small excuse themselves from practicing thrift on the plea that they cannot save anything, and maintain a decent standard of living. While it may be true in some isolated cases that circumstances over which they have no control make it impossible for them to get ahead in the world, these instances are exceptional and often of a temporary character.

The old saying that, "Where there's a will there's a way," applies with full force to the practice of saving money. Those who do not save or who think they cannot, are, to a great extent, not honest with themselves. They are unwilling to make certain sacrifices. Their minds are blased by false pride or egotism. Their viewpoint is incorrect. If they would give the problems sufficient study they would be able to find ways by which they could save something even though the amounts be very small.

And upon one's ability to find such ways of saving money, depends one's chances of success in life.

This is a phase of the matter that should be given the deepest consideration.

If you cannot save money out of your present income, you lack the quality of success.

Success in life is very much a matter of will power, and the man who cannot say "I will save" lacks the essentials of overcoming those obstacles which lie in the pathway of every person.

Also it must be borne in mind that those who are not sufficiently interested in their own welfare to lay by a certain portion of their earnings for the future do not care enough about real success ever to achieve any substantial place in the affairs of men. — American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Proper Attire.

Mother was taking a mental inventory of the wardrobe of Doris, three years old, early Sunday morning. Doris was growing fast, and mother, very busy otherwise, had neglected her wardrobe for a few weeks and at last mother exclaimed:

"Doris, I don't know what you'll wear to Sunday school, today."

Doris, who had received a locket, of which she was very proud, as a birthday present several weeks before, looked up brightly and said:

"I'll wear my locket, mamma."

Sustenance or Ornamentation?

What should he get his mother for Christmas? Here it was the last minute and he could not make a final decision. Well, there was only one way out—ask her. With that he put through the long distance call, 60 miles away, and got his mother on the phone.

"Why, Jim, I would like to have some beads," came over the wire in answer to this question.

"Some what?" he asked.

"Beads."

"Did she say beef?" Again Jim asked her to make sure again he heard her say "beef." Well, of course it that is what his mother wanted why that is what he would get her. And the next day he sent her 20 pounds of beef wrapped in holly paper and all stuck up with Christmas seals.

FORESTERS ELECT AND WILL CHANGE BY-LAWS

The annul meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 63, Foresters of America, was held Tuesday evening with Past Junior Chief Ranger Henry A. Congdon presiding. Several communications from the grand and supreme court were read and a complete revision of the by-laws will go into effect within a few months.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Chief Ranger, Joseph C. Callahan; sub-chief, Joseph R. Portelance, Jr.; recording secretary, Henry Clement; financial secretary, Edward McNerny; treasurer, William H. Callahan; S. W., George Clement; J. W., Robert Chapman; S. B., William LaPage; J. B., Stanley Kobanski; lecturer, Cuno Mueller; trustee, Timothy Lynch; physician, William T. Driscoll.

The officers are to be installed at a meeting of the court to be held on January 27th, at which there will be an entertainment and refreshments will be served.

PAID FINE ON CHARGE OF OVERLOADING TAXI

Frank A. Casino, driver of a taxi cab for a Hartford company, was before the city court Tuesday morning on the charge of carrying a greater number of passengers than the legal limit and James Ferino, one of his passengers, was charged with intoxication. The taxi had a seating capacity of five passengers, but it came here with nine people riding in it; seven men and two young women, one of whom was accompanied by her husband.

The party was held up by the Norwich police where they were found in a Norwich restaurant about 1:30 on Tuesday morning, soon after they had arrived here. The story told by the young women was that they had been hired by Nick Nesotas, a Norwich pool room proprietor, to come here and work as waitresses in the cabaret of which he said he was the proprietor.

The Norwich police received word from the Hartford police to look out for the party. In court Ferino paid $5 on the intoxication charge and Casino was fined $5 and costs, a total of $16.60, on the overloading charge. The money was paid and Nesotas paid the fares of the people back to Hartford.

LEBANON WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY IN AUTOMIBILE

A heart attack brought on, in the opinion of medical examiner C. C. Gildersleeve, by the strain of driving her automobile over the icy roads was the cause of the death Tuesday afternoon of Lena M. Peck, 54, wife of Edward A. Hoxie of Lebanon. She was found dead in the machine Tuesday night on the road from Lebanon to Bozrahville by her husband and her sons who instituted a search for her when she had not arrived home by nightfall.

Mrs. Hoxie left her home alone in the car about 3 o'clock in the afternoon to drive to this city to get her glasses fixed. When found it was apparent that the machine had run partly off the road and then slipped back for a short distance. She had had time to set the brakes and turn off the switch before the fatal attack overcame her.

Mrs. Hoxie was born in Canterbury and was the daughter of Clifton and Hulda Peck. Thirty-five years ago she was married in Franklin to Edward A. Hoxie and for the last thirty years they had resided in Lebanon, where Mrs. Hoxie was highly regarded as a kindly neighbor and helpful friend. The news of her sudden death brought sorrow to many and sympathy for the afflicted family circle.

Besides her husband she is survived by three sons and a daughter Albert C., Myron J., and Earl E. Hoxie, all of Lebanon and Vera H., wife of Frederick F. Manning of 81 Fanning avenue, this city. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs. Ola Geer of Lebanon, Mrs. Edna Whitaker of South Killingly and Mrs. Ella McGarron of Richmond, Va.

FRED T. MITCHELL MADE HIGH SHERIFF OF THE COUNTY

Westerly, R. I., Jan. 13.—Fred T. Mitchell, elected high sheriff of Washington county Tuesday afternoon in the Rhode Island legislature, was born on a farm in District No. 14 but later moved to Avondale. He was the son of George F. and Josephine L. Stevens Mitchell of Kenyon, R. I. He attended grammar schools in Westerly and the Westerly High school for three years. Later he was in the teaming business and for two years in the ice business with W. T. Babcock of Avondale. For five years he was with S. J. Reuter Co., florists, in charge of their stables. He was superintendent of highways from 1901 to 1906, completing the unexpired term of John Sawyer, and then was Westerly agent of a steam laundry of New London. Appointed to the Westerly police force, he served 16 years. For 15 years he was a deputy sheriff, being appointed by the late Sheriff John R. Wilcox of Kingston. He married July 20, 1892, Lillian G. Browning, daughter of Richmond and Mary A. Browning, the ceremony being performed by Rev. John Evans.

In the grand committee session of the Rhode Island legislature Tuesday afternoon his name was presented by Representative G. B. Utter of Westerly. Named against him was former Senator Clarke Potter of North Kingston. Sheriff Mitchell won out 96 to 35. He qualified as sheriff Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, giving bonds for the proper performance of his duties as sheriff.

THE NEW POLISH PASTOR COMING FROM WALLINGFORD

The newly formed Polish parish at Wallingford was notified Monday by the pastor, Rev. Stanislaus Iciek, that he was to leave Wednesday to take charge of St. Joseph's Polish church, Norwich, having been transferred by Bishop Nilan. Father Iciek has only been at Wallingford four months and has during that time established an enviable record for achievements in the new parish. Since he has been there he has, through untiring effort managed to raise $14,000, which was turned over to the building fund for a new church.

He comes to Norwich to succeed Rev. Ignatius Y. Maciejewski, who died in December.

At the meeting of the directors the following officers were elected: President, Charles P. Williams; vice president, Moses A. Pendleton; cashier, Everett N. Pendleton; assistant cashier, Henry A. Pendleton.

STATE NEEDS PROMPT ACTION TO CUT DOWN GRADE CROSSING DANGERS

The need of prompt action to remove the hazards of grade crossings, widen bridges and eliminate dangerous highway locations in Connecticut is stressed in the Annual Report of the State Highway Commissioner which was presented to Governor John H. Trumbull Tuesday. "The department has done considerable relocation work and safety engineering," the report brings out, "but we still have many dangerous locations, narrow bridges and grade crossings which need immediate attention."

Other suggestions for expansion of the state's activities are contained in the report. The statement is made that "it would not be difficult, nor would we lose efficiency or economy by expanding our program to twice its present size. It has been demonstrated during the past construction season that there is labor, equipment and contractors sufficient within the state to absorb twice as much work as the department is at the present time doing."

Discussing the general highway situation in the state, the report remarks that Connecticut still has an unfinished trunk line system and an adequate and disconnected state aid system with practically no other feeder roads. Much of the trunk line mileage is worn out and obsolete, the report says, and intensive maintenance is necessary, in some cases resulting in practically continuous maintenance on these sections to keep them serviceable.

In the matter of road construction, it is shown that maintenance expenditures are increasing thus making a corresponding decrease in reconstruction work necessary, as the funds for these two purposes come from motor fees.

"It is well known that traffic still continues to increase without any indication of the point of saturation. Our present reconstruction program is not equal to the destruction caused by this traffic, nor has the reconstruction program been sufficient in the years past, developing an accumulative shortage of reconstruction," the report says.

Many new policies have been inaugurated by the department, it is pointed out, but discussion of these will be left until the next report as they have not been in operation for a sufficient length of time to prove their success or failure.

Five recommendations to the General Assembly feature the report. They are as follows:

"1. Due to many amendments and gradual changes in the basic laws, we now have a widely scattered group of highway statutes containing many unnecessary and conflicting clauses, and it is recommended that complete revision and codification of all statutes relating to highways be provided.

"2. In preparation of plans for the improvement of roads during the last year, many cases have been brought to light where doubt exists as to the location of the highway limits. Valuable right of way has been lost by the state because it was not possible to establish the original highway limits. With the thought that such title as the state now has in highway rights-of-way be protected, I request authority to proceed with a complete survey and search of title of all highway property within the state.

"3. Under the present statute, state aid roads which are built by the state and towns in cooperation are decided upon by the highway commissioner and town selectmen in conference. In the belief that the establishment of a definite secondary system of state aid roads in Connecticut, supplementing the existing trunk line system would result in greater efficiency it is recommended that the legislature authorize the state highway commissioner to survey the situation and prepare a report for the succeeding general assembly. Such plan contemplates the laying out of a ten year state aid program to be determined by conferences with town selectmen when the percentage of roads within the towns that could be included in such a period could be decided upon. The roads would then be definitely assigned to the state aid system, and money would be expended upon them until complete.

"4. It is recommended that future additions of roads to the trunk line system by the general assembly be contingent upon the willingness of towns directly benefitted to provide 100-foot-right-of-way. This recommendation is made in the belief that main line routes of travel through Connecticut in the future must be wider than existing roadways to keep abreast with the growth of motor truck and passenger transportation. This plan contemplates no change in the present method of the legislature in adding certain sections of the roadway to the established trunk line system, excepting in that the road would not actually become a part of the trunk line system until such right of way as referred to had been established.

"This plan would permit the establishment of a hard surfaced road in the center; would provide space for beautification such as planting of shade trees, the systematic erection of telegraph, telephone and power lines, and ample provision for sidewalks, trolley lines, sewers and waterways.

"Under such an arrangement, it would be unnecessary in years to come, after the property values along the road had increased due to the improvement of the highway to purchase additional right of way.

"5. In the belief that 80 per cent. of the present highway traffic can be served adequately by a medium priced road and that it is uneconomical to provide all our highways to carry heavy loads, it is recommended that our highways be divided into four classes on the basis of volume of traffic and intensity of loading such as:

"TERMINAL HIGHWAYS, meaning highways in industrial areas or which connect centers of population not widely separated where there is need for the trucking of loads in large capacity trucks.

"CLASS A HIGHWAYS where there is a considerable volume of heavy truck hauling, but not so great as on the Terminal Highways.

"CLASS B HIGHWAYS where there is comparatively small volume of heavy truck hauling of a type not necessitating the use of extremely heavy units.

"CLASS C HIGHWAYS. Those highways not included in Terminal Highways, Class A and Class B highways, where the traffic consists of chiefly passenger motor vehicles.

"It is my belief that such a system could be profitably provided within the State of Connecticut without serious inconvenience and with a great deal of economy in highway expenditures.

FIRST BAPTIST WOMEN HOLD MISSIONARY MEETING

Mrs. Frank Tyler was hostess on Tuesday, when the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Circle of the First Baptist church met at her home, 265 West Main street, for the January meeting. The new president, Mrs. Frank Lathrop presided, read the Scriptures, Luke 15, and offered prayer. Mrs. Herbert Willey and Mrs. George Rathbun sang the duet, Go and Tell, Mrs. Rathbun accompanying at the piano.

After the usual reports were read and approved, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Lewis Browning, who was in charge of the programme. The subject of the afternoon was Our Baptist Work in Europe. Papers were read as follows: Sweden, Mrs. Frank Lathrop; Esphonia and Lapvia, Mrs. Charles Cross; Poland, Mrs. Frank Tyler; Hungary and Russia, Mrs. George Rathbun; Russia, Mrs. James Tourtellotte; Czecho-Slovakia, Mrs. Harry Howard. Mrs. Tourtellotte and Mrs. Howard were in the costumes of the country they represented. This was followed by another duet, Dear to the Heart of the Shepherd, sung by Mrs. Willey and Mrs. Rathbun. Mrs. Henry Frink read a paper on Our Women.

An interesting feature which added much to the meeting, was a map of Central Europe, showing the countries referred to. This map had previously been made by Miss Marion Lathrop and was shown by her at this meeting. Mrs. Edward C. Dunbar closed the meeting with prayer.

A social time followed when Mrs. Tyler served tea and wafers.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY NATIONAL FARM LOAN

At the annual meeting of the Norwich district of the Progressive National Farm Loan association, held here Tuesday at 4 Broadway, directors were re-elected as follows: Sarah Rosano, Norwich; George Mattern, Preston; Abraham Levine, Montville; Max Levitt, Lebanon; Thomas Dudziecz and Louis Zakim, Ledyard. The following officers were re-elected: Sarah Rosano, president; George Mattern, vice president and Hibbard R. Norman, secretary-treasurer. A balance on the right side of the ledger was reported and an increase of 12 members.

A feature of this year's meeting was the broadcasting by radio from Springfield of short addresses by President E. H. Thompson, Secretary E. H. Forbush of the land bank, Herbert Myrick of Springfield and Professor Warren of Cornell university.

There are 12,000 members of the National farm loan association in the eight northeastern states and under the federal farm loan system since 1916 over 400,000 farmers have been accommodated with loans in excess of $1,500,000,000.

PRESENTED CARVING SET AT SURPRISE WHIST

At the home of Mrs. I. Beckenstein on Spaulding street Saturday evening members of Chapter of Hadassah held a surprise whist in honor of Mrs. George Kaplan of Hill street, one of the prominent members of the chapter, who is soon to leave for New York where she will make her home. Mrs. Kaplan was presented a beautiful silver carving set by the president, Mrs. Michael Levine, on behalf of the members of the Chapter of Haddassah. The recipient voiced her appreciation of the gift. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Beckenstein. There were about 50 present.

SCHOOL BOARD APPOINTS BOSWELL AVENUE TEACHER

At the January meeting of the town school board in the office of Supt. of Schools Edward J. Graham, Tuesday evening, Miss Genevieve Enos was appointed a teacher for the second grade at the Boswell avenue school. Walter F. Lester presided at the meeting which was well attended. The greater part of the business transacted was of a routine nature and included the hearing of reports of several of the committees.

After the meeting announcement was made that an exhibition of pictures is to be held at the Elizabeth street school from January 22 to February 7th, the exhibition to be open to the general public. It is estimated that there will be 400 pictures shown.

It was also reported that satisfactory progress is being made on the construction of the new school on the East Side. It is expected that school will be completed in time to be opened at the beginning of the school year next fall. This school is being erected to give the East Side section a new and badly needed building, the appropriation having been granted at a town meeting some months ago.

GAVE BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MISS SOPHIE ANDREWS

Miss Sophia Andrews of 28 Grant Court was given a surprise birthday party Saturday night, by her uncle, Herbert Grey, a vaudeville actor of Pawcatuck, R. I. Relatives from Massachusetts were present and several city and state officials of Rhode Island who came to Norwich by automobile.

The program for the evening was furnished by Mr. Grey and his guests and there was music and dancing. Mr. Grey exhibited buck and wing dancing, piano accompaniment being furnished by Miss Andrews.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess, who was assisted by her aunt, Miss Laura Trayose of New Bedford.

Miss Andrews received many beautiful gifts including a bouquet of roses from the Rhode Island officials. The party returned home early Sunday morning, wishing the hostess many happy returns of the day.

RE-ELECT OFFICERS AT UNCAS NATIONAL BANK

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Uncas National bank, held Tuesday morning, the following were re-elected directors:

William H. Allen, Calvin H. Frisbie, C. Morgan Williams, Willis Austin, Rutherford C. Plant, Herbert F. Dawley, Frank E. Palmer, F. Dawley, Frank E. Palmer, Jacob Munz, George H. Bradford, Nelson J. Ayling.

Subsequently the directors re-elected the following officers:

President, William H. Allen; vice president, Calvin H. Frisbie; cashier Henry L. Frisbie; assistant cashier, Charles D. Greenman.

WIFE OF JERRY DENNY DIES IN BRIDGEPORT

Mrs. Catherine Denny, formerly of Norwich, wife of Jerry Denny, a former major league baseball player, died Tuesday morning at her residence in Bridgeport, death resulting from a brief illness of pneumonia. Besides her husband, Mrs. Denny is survived by four sons. Mr. Denny formerly played and managed the Norwich Baseball club when that city was represented in the old Connecticut League.

TWELFTH NIGHT PARTY BY ART STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

The January meeting of the Norwich Art Students' association Monday evening was given over to the Twelfth Night Revelers, no business meeting being held. The stage in Slater hall annex was converted into a baronial hall and one felt that he had stepped back into the days of long ago. The throne, the banquet table, the armor decorating the walls, were suitable to the period when men made merry on Twelfth Night.

The pageant opened with the singing of Adeste Fidelis by Charles J. Dyer, with Henry J. LaFontaine at the piano. Then the herald with his bugle, preceded the king and queen, who attended by two pages, took possession of their throne with true regal splendor. An ancient man approached the throne and spoke in quavering tones, when casting aside his mantle, he appeared as the Lord of Misrule. The Three Wise Men presented their gifts with dignity; two pages draw in the yule log, and two other pages placed upon the banquet table the boar's head and the plum pudding. The jester with his bells was present; also the Waits. Lastly St. George and the dragon appear; the latter being slain with great skill.

Each part was sustained in a most creditable manner. The following persons took part:

King	Grosvenor Ely
Queen	Miss Faith Bonfoy
Herald	Mrs. G Carlton Carpenter
Lord of Misrule	Wm. F. Habekotte
Jester	Philip A. Johnson
St. George	Henry A. Tirrell
The Dragon	Dr. Frank S. Bunnell

Three Wise Men—
Orlan Dodge, John D. Hall, Edmund W. Perkins
Waits Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, Joseph C. Worth Pages—
Mrs. Philip A. Johnson, Miss Pollie Benton, Miss Alice Sayles, Miss Helen Clapp, Frederick Camp, Blackstone Perkins

The pageant was interspersed by songs by Mr. Dyer, given with fine expression and clear enunciation. Mr. LaFontaine accompanying. All the music, other than the songs, were improvisations by Mr. LaFontaine. The following were the songs which Mr. Dyer selected: Adeste Fidelis, The Boar's Head—1621; Green sheves, Old English Carol; Here's a Health to One Mistress; Old English; The Wassial Bowl, Old English; God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen.

At the close of the pageant refreshments were served from the Wassial Bowl. Old fashioned jugs and pewter platters adorned the table. This was in charge of the social committee: Mrs. Franklin S. Wilcox, Mrs. R. D. Judd, Mrs. A. M. Van Wagenen, Mrs. E. W Higgins, Mrs. C. W. Prentice, Miss Mary Osgood.

The floor was cleared for dancing, many taking part in the Virginia Reel and other old-fashioned dances, to the music of the concertina, played by Guy Farrar of Ashaway.

The general committee in charge of the pageant were Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, chairman, Miss Annie Ruggles, assisted by Mrs. F. W. Sayles, stage settings; W. F. Habekotte, costumes; Charles J. Dyer, old English songs; Henry LaFontaine, pianist.

For the tableaux, Mrs. Sayles, Miss Margaret Sayles, Mrs. F. W. Lester, Mrs. Frank Hempstead, Miss Amy Cogswell, Miss Mary Richards, Mrs. John D. Hall, Miss Rose Trumbull.

Great credit is due to each and everyone who worked so hard and so faithfully to make the pageant a success. It will long be remembered as one of the most delightful evenings given by the Norwich Art Students' association.

AMERICAN LEGION POST WILL PUT ON PLAY

At a meeting of the executive committee of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, held Tuesday evening at the post rooms on Main street, it was decided to present the musical romance of the South seas, "Bimbo," at the Palace theatre next month.

S. E. Weimar of the John B. Rogers Producing company outlined the production, which has attracted favorable attention wherever it has been presented.

Commander Webster D. Copp appointed the following committees to arrange for the production: General committee, Harold T. Robinson, chairman, John A. Cunningham, treasurer, Jonathan L. Johnson, secretary. Sub-committees were named as follows: Talent committee, Harry W. House, chairman, William A. Anderson; booster committee, Clifford C. Oat, chairman, Frank P. Chase, Warren E. Wilcox; ticket committee, Samuel Jennes, chairman, Gurdon E. Huntington, William M. Skelly, Herman A. Bruckner; advertising and publicity, Benedict C. Pullen, chairman, Joseph C. Broadhurst.

PARK CHURCH SOCIETY ANNUAL REPORT MADE

The annual meeting of Park Congregational society was held Tuesday evening in H. H. Osgood Memorial Parish house, Henry A. Tirrell acting as chairman of the meeting. The usual reports were read and accepted. The report of Treasurer Eben Learned showed the finances of the society to be in fine condition. F. S. Bunnell, chairman of the society committee, rendered his report in full, following which the election of officers took place.

Officers selcted for the ensuing year were: Arthur E. Story, for the society committee for four years; Oliver L. Johnson, Charles R. Butts and Frank H. Pullen, to the trust fund committee; Eben Learned, treasurer; W. Manley Eastwood, Jr., clerk; Henry D. Johnson, auditor. All officials were re-elected.

After voting power to the society committee to draw funds to meet current expenses the meeting adjourned.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO THREE DECEASED BANK OFFICERS

Directors of the Merchants National bank were re-elected as follows at a meeting of the stockholders held Tuesday morning:

Frank L. Woodard, Joseph Hall, James C. Henderson, L. Henry Saxton, Joseph P. Connor, Herbert W. Gallup, John T. Almy.

During the meeting, Mr. Woodard, president, paid a fitting tribute to the memories of the late Charles H. Phelps, Lucius Brown, and Costello Lippitt, who had long been associated with the bank, as cashier, director and president, respectively.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors, the following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year:

President, Frank L. Woodard; vice president, James C. Henderson; cashier, Henry P. Powers; assistant cashier, Wm. Manley Eastwood, Jr.

Mystic Bank Election.

Westerly, Jan. 13.—Directors of the National Bank of Mystic were elected as follows at the annual meeting of the stockholders today: Benjamin L. Holmes, Louis P. Allyn, Frederic Denison, Sydney Siswick, Clarence E. Noyes, George S. Richmond and Henry B. Noyes.

At a meeting of the directors the following officers were chosen: President, Henry B. Noyes; cashier, George S. Richmond.

GOVERNOR TELLS GRANGERS HE IS FOR ECONOMY

Hartford, Jan. 13.—"My duty as governor of Connecticut will be to conduct a common sense government based on business principles. I am not entirely in favor of the present system of taxation as it has been set up. I shall do my utmost to reduce the burden of taxation which has risen in leaps and bounds following the war period and which is not yet down to a sane level. I am always for the lowest possible burden of taxation keeping in mind the necessary obligations of the state. I am facing an incoming legislature asking all sorts of appropriations. It shall be my duty to conduct the business of the state on a basis as efficient and economical as the business of a private corporation. I have always maintained that agriculture is underpaid, that it will continue to be underpaid and that it deserves better treatment in regard to its basic necessity. The state of Connecticut, as far as I can influence it, will be conducted on a rigid system of economy, even in the face of cramped appropriations."

So did Governor John H. Trumbull, delivering his first public address since his accession to the office of chief executive of the state of Connecticut conceive his duty, speaking before 700 members of the state grange and their friends, in fortieth convocation assembled at Foot Guard hall tonight.

Governor Trumbull will not curtail the budgets of the colleges and the institutions of the state. He will support hospitals, educational programs and all institutions necessary to the welfare of society. This he said but he named his ambition as an earnest determination to oppose and eliminate the prodigal construction of new buildings and extension programs.

Turning to Washington, Governor Trumbull said: "Agriculture has a friend at the nation's capitol. I know what Colonel Bingham would do if he were governor of Connecticut. We have together discussed a program. The state is well and ably represented at Washington and you may be assured that any projected agricultural program may be safely trusted to the hands and wisdom of Senator Hiram Bingham."

Governor Trumbull scored government price establishment in reply to the insistent cry of particular agricultural interests as fundamentally and economically unsound in the face of the law of supply and demand. He named the wheat growers, the corn belt, the cotton plantation men as the worst offenders in the cycle of under and over production, saying that there was little outcry from the dairy industry which equalled all three in value of products. He also said that there was little protest in the east where agriculture has to compete with industrial interests.

Dr. A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education, named the function of the school as primarily one of citizenship. He said that the tendency is not toward centralization, that it is not possible in Connecticut and "that it would be an unfortunate day when the municipalities were relieved of the power of educational matters." Naming that progress as definite and lasting which comes from within he said that possibly in 1925 and most certainly by 1927 normal graduates or their equivalent will be teaching in all the schools of the state. He said that this did not mean the retirement of the teachers now in service but that it meant that all new teachers in the future would enter the profession equipped with at least a normal school education.

EXPECTS CLEAR DAY FOR THE TOTAL ECLIPSE

Some things of interest concerning the total eclipse of the sun which will take place on January 24th about 9 o'clock in the morning were explained to members of the Park Church Men's club and their guests, at a meeting held Tuesday night at the church, by Allen Latham, who spoke generally on the subject, Some Features of the Solar System.

The meeting was opened by Henry A. Tirrell who immediately called upon Mr. Latham for his address. In opening his talk Mr. Latham pointed out the fact that the study of astronomy is by no means compete, but that he would go back over 200 years in showing the first beliefs. The ancients, according to the wording of the first few verses of the Bible, evidently believed the world was inside something like a bubble, "a firmament separating the waters above from the waters below." Ancients thought that rain came through cracks in this firmament. Early Romans and Greeks, although not all of them, believed the sky moved about the earth.

It was known before the day of Columbus that the earth was round, for a Greek long before the Christian era claimed that the earth was round and said its circumference was about 25,000 miles. We know now that he was very nearly correct in his figuring. The earth is not exactly round however for the poles are approximately 13 miles nearer the center of the earth than the equator, this being caused by the movement of the earth, due to its whirling on its own axis. The Mississippi flows up hill and if the world was to stop whirling, it would flow in the opposite direction.

Besides the equator on earth there is the celestial equator, that line directly above the earth's equator and there is the ecliptic made by the earth as it moves about the sun. These planes are at an angle of 23 1-2 degrees from each other.

The moon is the nearest to the earth and is a quarter of its size. From the sun, in order come Mercury, that flame like planet, very seldom visible to the eye; Venus with its white glow, earth with it one moon, Mars, the red planet with two moons, Jupiter with its five moons, Saturn with its rings and nine moons, Uranus with its four moons and then Neptune with its one moon. All planets turn from west to east as do their moons, except in the case of Uranus, whose moons sometimes move up and down, then around, and Neptune which turns east to west.

I cannot help but smile at people claiming differences of days, said Mr. Latham. I ask you what is day. In the beginning God created day and it has been day ever since, night being the name given the darkness that comes when parts of the earth are darkened by its own shadow. To illustrate his point Mr. Latham told a story of two sons one of whom went around the world going east, the other going west. When they returned home their father was observing the Sabbath, the sons, both of whom were religious called the days Monday and Saturday, according to the way they had traveled.

Tides are caused by a combination of effects against the earth and by its moving on its axis. The line between the moon and earth is like elastic, the pull is greater when the moon is near and less when it is far away and to this is added the pull of the earth itself.

Speaking of the coming eclipse of the sun, Mr. Latham reached a subject most interesting at this time, as this eclipse is to take place Saturday, January 24th soon after 9 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Latham explained how the moon because of its distance from the earth, could just cover the sun at a certain time and how the cone like shadow sometimes reached earth causing the shadow of darkness similar to that which Norwich will experience on the 24th. This shadow on the earth sometimes reached a width of 160 miles and again does not even touch the earth. It comes only once in 400 years to people living on any one spo ton earth.

During a discussion of the subject, following the talk by Mr. Latham, it was pointed out that important things to look for are the rush of darkness which will come from the northwest and can be seen from high hills, and the beautiful light effects around the sun just at the time of the total eclipse. These two things are most interesting and last only a minute, the dark shadow traveling at a speed of about 30 miles a minute. Three planets will also be visible just west of the sun, Mercury, Venus and Jupiter all near together.

In closing, Mr. Latham, suggested the use of camera film to look at the sun with, claiming this to be better than smoked glass. He also said that as it takes 26 days for the sun to revolve on its axis, good weather should prevail as it was a clear day 26 days ago the 24th. Following a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Latham for his fine address the meeting was adjourned.

MARTIN DRAWS SUSPENSION FOR HIS INDIFFERENT FIGHTING IN BOUT LAST WEEK

New York, Jan. 13.—Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, world's bantamweight champion, was suspended until February 1 by the state athletic commission today for engaging in an "unsatisfactory" match with Augie Pisano, Brooklyn bantamweight, at the Ridgewood Grove, S. C., in Brooklyn, Jan. 6. Pisano was also set down for a similar period but he was permitted to fulfill an engagement at Yonkers on Thursday night for which he was previously contracted.

Martin and Pisano were elected from the ring by Referee Jim Crowley at the end of the third round of what was to have been a six-round affair, because, Crowley alleged, they were stalling. The match was the headliner of a charity affair in which Martin donated his entire purse to the cause. This fact coupled with Martin's excuse that he accepted the match on short notice and was not in condition, accounted for the brief suspension, Chairman George E. Brower said.

The referee, the two judges, the timekeeper and the two principals and their managers were summoned before the commission today to relate their stories of the contest, the officials being unanimous in their judgment that the referee was right in declaring it no contest.

Tex O'Rourke, former New York fight promoter, appeared before the commission with two English heavyweights, W. B. Prestage, and L. W. Price, to obtain licenses for them. O'Rourke also applied for a manager's license at the same time. O'Rourke said Prestage and Price were the products of his journey to England to bring to this country the best available heavyweights to train for a title match with Jack Dempsey. They will swing into action as soon as the license commission grants their application for a permit.

Colonel John J. Phelon, chairman of the license committee, said today that a campaign would be started to force boxers to take out licenses in this state before negotiating for matches. Frank Fleurney, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, approached the commission for permission to match Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, with either Gene Tunney, the American champion, or Paul Berlenbach, but the commission refused to consider such a match until the principals involved had taken out their licenses.

"Boxers will not even be permitted to negotiate for matches in this state until they have licenses. McTigue and Tunney do not hold licenses with this commission. They figure they can hang outside of our jurisdiction until they have a match ready and then rush for a license. This will not be tolerated in the future," Colonel Phelon said.

Frankie Ross of New York was suspended indefinitely for running out of a match at the local club and then refusing to appear before the commission when summoned. Earl Gray was suspended indefinitely at the request of the Connecticut commission which took similar action against him. Joe "Spark Plug" Russell of New Bedford, Mass., and his manager, James V. Brainza, were also set down indefinitely, at the request of the Massachusetts state commission after suspension in that state.

NURMI UP AGAINST KEEN COMPETITION THURSDAY

New York, Jan. 13.—While Paavo Nurmi's attempt to erase three more of Joie Ray's world's indoor records will be the outstanding feature of the Municipal A. A. games and National Junior championship meet at Madison Garden Thursday night, the title races at 600 and 1,000 yards and two miles are expected to produce unusually keen competition.

The field in the "600" numbers 21, with such outstanding entrants as Paul Herlihy, Georgetown, New England 440 yard champion; F. A. McGrady, Philadelphia, Middle Atlantic 880-yard champion; Cecil Cook, Syracuse; H. Boettcher, Newark A. C., and John Holden, Georgetown.

Thirty-three middle-distance runners are entered in the 1,000-yard championship and the men who appear to have the best chance of winning include Thomas Clausen, Boston A. C., who placed in the intercollegiate mile last spring in the colors of Cornell; Pat Kennedy Yonkers; and F. A. Aynor, Jersey Harriers A. C.

Billy Goodwin, New York, A. C. star, who ran 4-18 mile in the medley relay against the Illinois A. C. at the Finnish-American games last week, heads the list of thirty-seven entrants in the two mile run. Other prominent distance runners entered are: William Rittler, Philadelphia; John D. Bell, Syracuse university; Carl Wilberg, Finnian-American A. C., George J. Bertsch, Buffalo; William Addee, Baltimore; Dave Horton, Columbia university and Alfred Skeats, New York A. C.

DALY SOUGHT BY HARVARD IN ADVISORY CAPACITY ONLY

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 13.—Official confirmation of reports that Harvard is seeking the services of Major Charles D. Daly, former Crimson and Army quarterback star, to aid in rehabilitating football at the university, was contained in a formal statement issued today by Malcolm J. Logan, chairman of the graduate football advisory committee, and Fred W. Moore, graduate treasurer of athletics.

While denying that the Harvard Athletic association had taken the initiative in steps to have Major Daly assigned to the Harvard department of military science as assistant professor, the statement admitted that the athletic authorities had "discussed the possible advisory capacity in which Major Daly might be willing to act if the war department details him to duty at Harvard."

Beyond the formal pronouncement no Crimson official would discuss the general coaching situation and rumors that Robert T. Fisher, head coach for six years would remain in that capacity for the 1925 season met with neither confirmation nor denial.

The statement said

"To put an end to the speculation now going on relative to the present state of the football situation at Harvard, the athletic association feels that the basis for rumors regarding Major Daly should be fairly set forth.

"Since the establishment at Harvard of the military science department the enrollment in that department has increased by leaps and bounds. It has been necessary to ask the war department for additional officers as assistants to the professor of military science. For this reason the present head of the department, Lieutenant Colonel William S. Browning has for two years been endeavoring to secure the detail of additional officers. Last year and again this year Colonel Browning has asked the war department, in submitting a list of suitable officers, for Major Daly, as an assistant to the professor of military science.

"This request has been made without any consultation with the athletic association because the head of the R. O. T. C. unit felt that Major Daly, who is a graduate of Harvard and entirely familiar with the institution and its traditions, and in addition is a field military officer, would be unusually useful to the head of the department as an assistant as well as very acceptable to the institution.

"The athletic association having recently learned that such an effort was being made has very naturally discussed the possible advisory capacity in which Major Daly might be willing to act if the war department details him to duty at Harvard.

"It must be emphatically denied, however, that any action has been taken or can be taken before the war department sees fit to approve the detail of Major Daly with the department of military science.

"Even if detailed Major Daly would be available to the athletic association only for such help as he might be able to give when not actually engaged in his military duties in connection with the R. O. T. C. at Harvard.

CALIFORNIA WANTS TWO GAMES WITH NOTRE DAME

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 13.—The University of Southern California is not making any special effort to sign Knute Rockne, Notre Dame university football mentor, as coach, but is anxious to put through negotiations for a series of two "home and home" games with Rockne's outfit, H. J. Stonier, secretary and treasurer of the southern institution, said here today.

"We understand that Rockne is tied up with Notre Dame for a long period of years," Stonier said, "and that he is well satisfied with his present berth. We did not see any possibility of getting him as a coach, but we did take up with him the possibility of Southern California meeting Notre Dame in Chicago late in October or early in December of 1925, and of Notre Dame playing a return game in southern California in 1926 he gave us some encouragement."

FIVE INTERSECTIONAL GAMES ON ARMY 1925 SCHEDULE

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Army's 1925 football schedule of nine games including a record list of five intersectional contests, was completed today by the signing of Davis and Elkins college, Elkins, W. Va., for game at West Point, November 7, the last open date available.

Four mid-western, one southern and three eastern rivals are on the following list, in addition to the annual Navy battle:

October 3, University of Detroit; 10, Knox College, of Illinois; 17, Notre Dame, at New York; 24, St. Louis University; 31, Yale, at New Haven; Nov. 7, Davis and Elkins; 14, Columbia, at New York; 21, Ursinus, 28, Navy, at New York.

RICKARD DENIES MAKING NURMI PROFESSIONAL OFFER

New York, Jan. 13.—Tex Rickard, denied today that he had approached Paavo Nurmi or Willie Ritola, Finnish middle distance stars, with the idea of offering them a professional proposition. He said that neither he nor any authorized agent had even discussed the matter with the runners.

BULKELEY LOSES TWO BASKETBALL PLAYERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 13.—Bulkeley's election of a court captain has been deferred until tomorrow, the fifth game of the season which was to mark the termination of the trial period after which a captain was to be named proved to be only an exhibition contest played this afternoon at the State Armory and for that reason the election of a captain was deferred until tomorrow, to allow deliberation to decide whether the exhibition game played this afternoon would constitute a full game. If Coach Canty is to decide that the game which was purely an exhibition contest played this afternoon does not mark the fifth appearance of the Bulkeley quintet on the marked court then the election will not be held until after the game with Deep Rive High which comes on Friday.

The exhibition game held here this afternoon probably did more damage than good to get the team into shape for its hard games during the week end. Joseph Watterson, left guard on the five and a possibility for the open captain's position met with a painful ankle injury that may keep him out of some of the contests which will be played in the near future. His ankle was swollen to twice its size, and he was removed from the game before the contest had no more than got under way.

Another blow to the basketball hopes is the determination of George Shefiott to drop this sport and report to Coach Cook for the track squad. Shefiott is Bulkeley's hope for the dashes, and the rule which prohibited a member of one athletic team to try-out for some other athletic team while that sport is in season, means a loss of good material to the track team.

Shefiott's position on the basketball team has been filled by both Harris and Brown during the past two days of practice, but his loss will be keenly felt. If Taylor can be reinstated after the mid-years a problem as to who will fill that open position will be solved for all time.

Bulkeley's track activities will swing into action tomorrow in preparation for the dual meet which will be held with Hartford High at the Capitol City on February 21st. A meeting of those who will begin their practice sessions tomorrow will meet at the close of school. At least sixty candidates are expected to report for the initial call.

BILLIARD TOURNEY CLOSES AT NEW LONDON Y. M. C. A.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 13.—The billiard tournament held by the Y. M. C. A. during the past two weeks came to an end yesterday evening when the three final matches were played. With the termination of these matches, the players will be included in doubles and a schedule governing the play of these two-man teams will be drawn up shortly with the selection of the committee which consists of the following men: Joseph Dalton representative of the Y. M. C. A. under whose suggestion the tournament was started; Joseph Watterson and James Neilson will complete the committee on arrangements. This committee will attempt to draw up the doubles teams with the one view in mind to bring an even balance of power of all teams.

The result of the games played last night were victories for E. H. Damon over Louis Douglass, by a score of 25 to 4, making it the lowest possible score any player in the tournament received in the matches played to date. E. H. Damon merely played his fine billiard game once more, and left the impression that he is the strongest billiardist of the entire sixteen contestants. His billiard playing has been little short of spectacular throughout the past week.

In the second match, Robert Brown won easily from Edward Nodery by the score of 25 to 15. Brown took the lead from the start and was in the lead throughout the contest.

In the last match of the tournament Joseph MacInnes was forced to accept defeat at the hand of James Harkins by a score of 25 to 19. It was the closest played game of the evening, and saw two players of equal skill play fine throughout.

MASKED MARVELS TAKE UP THE BOWLING GAME

Everyone will remember the Masked Marvels of the baseball world last season and will recall that they were real athletes. Now it would seem that the hooded demons have taken up the bowling game for on Tuesday morning when Roy Fillmore opened the door to his bowling alleys he found a note that had been tucked under the door. The note read:

Dear Mr. "Pelky" Fillmore: You tink you got some bowling team, we tink you aint. How's at? If you wanta roll de balls down da halley for fun, we roll too. You roll da balls for money, we roll too. Yes? Justa because you gotta some money in da bowling league dont tink you scare us. No? Dont getta da swell bean, 'cause she go "Pop" pretta quick. We wanda roll de balls agin you a week a from Monday. What? If you wanta play de bowling justa tell de Bullets in office de man will put it in the prints.

MR. ANONYMOUS,
Mgr. Masked Marvels.

Mr. Fillmore has accepted the challenge, if that is what it is. He said confidently that he thought that Ma. Ananoymous was a Greek.

PLAINFIELD CLASHES WITH FALL RIVER FRIDAY

The Plainfield Army-Navy Five will meet with stiff opposition Friday evening when they clash with Fall River Stars, champions of the Textile City. The Plainfield team with Dessinger at center, Normandin and Murphy in the forward positions and Belair doing the guard work, presents a combination that will be hard to beat. This aggregation has been practicing for the past week on a passing game that has been developed through the speed and ability of Normandin. This star is one of the fastest forward men in the eastern part of Connecticut and has many years of experience in back of him.

With the attack nearly perfect Coach Salisbury has devoted a little time to the defensive game and Nolan and Provost are proving apt pupils and with a little more experience it will be hard for a forward to cage a basket. The game Friday will without doubt be one of the fastest seen in Plainfield in some years.

CHAPMAN WINS CLOSE GAME FROM COLCHESTER

New London, Jan. 13.—Chapman Tech used 16 men in gaining a 30 to 25 victory over Bacon Academy of Colchester at the school auditorium this evening. Not all the players were required to gain Tech a victory, a second and third team made its appearance on the floor at intervals during the evening, only the third team losing ground for the visitors.

The complete first team did not make its appearance on the floor until the second quarter and from that time on there was no doubt of a Tech victory. Tech's passing was far superior to that of the Academy players, and together with fast floor work gained the Red and Black a commanding advantage.

Only two players from Bacon Academy threatened to upset Tech and these were J. Broder and his brother Morris. This pair accounted for 22 points, however, the good work of the Broder brothers was matched by Rew-itts expert shooting together with Andrews' seven points. The score:

ONLY 10 ROUND DECISION RIGHTS IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—The 12 round no-decision bouts cannot be staged under the new state law within the city of Los Angeles, but ten round decision fights will be allowed, according to an opinion given the police commission here today by City Attorney Jess E. Stephens.

The city attorney pointed out that a municipal ordinance limited the number of rounds to ten.

The Hollywood American Legion stadium is among the boxing clubs affected by the decision. The Vernon stadium is not affected, as that is outside the city limits.

TERRIS EASILY BEATS GOODRICH ON POINTS

New York, Jan. 13.—Sid Terris, New York lightweight, received the decision over Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, in a close 12-round battle here tonight. Terris weighed 133 1-2 and Goodrich 134.

Terris took a long lead in the first three rounds by jumping around his man and using a left jab but Goodrich appeared to solve Terris' offense and returned right and lefts until the end he had cut down the New York's lead. Goodrich wasted little energy during the bout, while Terris depended upon his speed and fast jabs to gain the decision.

WEST VIRGINIA ADOPTS THREE YEAR RULING

Morgantown, W. Va., Jan. 13.—The adoption of the athletic board of control of West Virginia university of two new rules to the eligibility qualifications of students in athletic competition was announced tonight by Athletic Director H. A. Stansbury. One rule limits to three years the participation of any student in athletic competition at the university. The other bars from West Virginia athletic teams any student who has taken part in athletic events at any other college or university in the country.

NURMI DRAWS BIG CROWD IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Paavo Nurmi, with his marvelous running, has turned indoor track athletics always a financial "bust" in Chicago, into the prie indoor sport of the season.

The announcement tonight that all of the 6,000 seats for Nurmi's race with Joie Ray and others at the Coliseum Friday night had been sold caused scalpers to charge $10 apiece for tickets that sold for $1.50. A few are available even at that figure.

Base to Play Colchester

New London, Jan. 13.—An attempt to re-establish its standing in the basketball field after three defeats, finds the Submarine Base looking to new fields to conquer, the site picked this time is Colchester with its fast set of basketeers offering the opposition. The game will be played at the New Park hall.

A recent defeat at the hands of the Williamantic collegians broke a long string of successive victories for the Colchester quintet, but the period of winning games is expected to continue with the Sub Base as one of the victims. The Willimantic collegians, it will be remembered, defeated the Colchester five by a single point, and busted a string of victories that lasted for two years. Colchester appears to be one of the leading teams in this section of the state.

OLD-MIDDLETOWN TEAM FALLS AT HANDS OF FAST TAFTVILLE ARMY-NAVY FIVE

Displaying the best teamwork of the season, the Army-Navy club of Taftville romped home with an easy victory over the fast All-Middletown team, 48 to 34, at Parish hall Tuesday evening. Although the Middletown team came with the reputation of being one of the fastest chalked-court aggregations in the state, the local team started to work on them and before the game was over it was certain that there was one team that was better.

Working a neat passing game with Harry Mills and Jimmy Murphy as the riflemen for the team, the Army-Navy five swung into the lead early in the game and were never headed, although the game was fast and furious at times. Mills played a close-to-the-basket game, while the other five men on the squad fed him, with the result that he caged seven baskets and two fouls. Jimmy Murphy alternated with Mills in the basket shooting and hooped five double counters and a couple of singles. This play differed largely from the previous games, in which it was every man for himself. Tommy Coleman, the stellar guard of the Army-Navy team, although not figuring heavily in the scoring, was the outstanding star of the game through his brilliant guard work. Coleman played a wonderful floor game and his man was covered practically every minute of the game.

For the visitors Sturn was the outstanding star, getting five baskets and one foul, many of his baskets coming on long shots.

In the preliminary game the Seconds won a close game from Battery B, 24 to 20. The summary:

TODAY'S EVENTS

Ten years ago today, after a week's hard battling, the French were obliged to retreat across the Aisne.

Los Angeles will open an exhibit of silk and woolen textiles today, to demonstrate the importance of textile products in Southern California.

The West Virginia legislature assembles today for the initial or short term of 15 days, to be followed after a 45-day interval by the long term.

Dr. Charles Scanlon, secretary of rural welfare for the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, has called a national motion-picture conference to meet today in Washington, D. C.

Major General Robert Lee Bullard, who is about to retire from active service, is to be the guest of honor at a dinner given by his friends and the officers of his command in New York city tonight.

Manufacturers, merchants, economists and representatives of the consuming public have been invited by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to attend a national conference in Washington today to consider future economies and improved methods in marketing.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

United Workers' Annual Meeting.

The Community House should be filled this evening with interested friends of the United Workers when their annual meeting is held. The year's activities have been many and the work of all departments constantly grows and broadens but the report of the work will be condensed, the full reports to be given in the printed statement of the year's work. This will leave time for the speaker of the evening. The United Workers are to be congratulated upon bringing to Norwich so distinguished a man as Owen R. Lovejoy who will speak upon Child Welfare and the proposed child labor amendment. There are many who oppose this amendment, some though misunderstanding and some through honest conviction but all should welcome the opportunity to hear so able an advocate of the measure, one who has devoted the better part of his life to the service of children.

Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars at the Community House

Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of mammals and reptiles of the New York Zoological Park will give an illustrated lecture "Our Animal Friends and Their Foes" on Friday evening, January 16th in Community House, Church street, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the United church.

Dr. Ditmars is the author of "The Book of Nature" and one of the world's greatest authorities on animal life. In his lecture he will describe the wonders of animal, reptile, insectand ocean life in a most fascinating manner.

His lecture will be illustrated with the most remarkable series of motion pictures ever produced. As material for his pictures he has access to the vast collection of birds, beasts and fishes at the New York Zoological Park, containing specimens from all parts of the world.

Some of Dr. Ditmar's finest pictures show certain animals at work, with no strikes or shirking, but each carrying out its allotted task with efficiency and dispatch, indicating the possession of a high degree of mentality.

The following tributes, selected from hundreds, are of interest:

"It is genuinely refreshing to come upon a work like yours."—Theodore Roosevelt.

"They are the most wonderful motion pictures of which I have any knowledge."—Andrew Carnegie.

Broadway Theater

A complete change of program takes place tomorrow at the Broadway theater. Marty Dupree's musical Follies will again head the show with an entirely new change of costumes, scenery, comedy, songs and dances. By popular request the famous Gallagher and Shean song will be sung by the well known comedians.

Hobart Henley has produced another "picture of quality." The man who made The Flirt and The Lady of Quality has shown another side of his versatile artistry in The Turmoil. Universal's spectacular portrayal of Booth Tarkington's famous novel, which opens tomorrow at the Broadway theater, Henley, through the medium of one of the most notable casts assembled for a picture in months, has transcribed the book to the screen with an uncanny knack of "humanizing" moving shadows obtaining in art.

The Turmoil is different from any play yet screened. It ignores the traditions of the screen; it cannot have been made by any "formula." The book was graphic enthralling glimpse into an American family.

Bibbs Sheridan, dreamy son of the self-made millionaire, a spiritual youth who can turn his hand to his business when he wants to, is played by George Hackathorne. Emmett Corrigan plays the gruff self-made dictator of high finance. A difficult role is that of Eileen Percy who played The Flirt and who, as Sybil woman with a feline soul, is an almost sinister figure in the powerful story.

Eleanor Boardman is wistful and appealing as the little daughter of the aristocratic family across the street from the new-rich ones.

Breed Theater

If you want a clean picture, one devoid of all eternal triangle stuff, but with a lover interest of such a nature as to give it intenses holding interest and above all such pathos as to bring a tear to every eye and a choke in every throat, don't overlook Not One to Spare, the feature attraction at the Breed theater today and Thursday.

Based on a poem that every public school pupil of twenty five years ago knew by heart, and which has been printed thousands of times since, Not One to Spare as a picture production is away out of the ordinary and will undoubtedly be well liked. Director Hoffman has spared no effort to make an entertainment feature of merit and while the sob stuff predominates there is much in the way of clean light comedy touches to balance.

There are but four grown-ups in the cast and while the work of all these is good, the real interest will be found in the seven clever children from whom a father and mother are asked to select the one they can best spare.

The story is a simple one of father and mother with a brood of little ones so numerous that it is only by the greatest efforts that both ends are made to meet. The father has a brother, childless and rich, who offers to take one of the children into his home and give it all that wealth will bring, and also in return to provide for the remainder of the family in peace and comfort for the balance of their days.

For the second feature Lloyd Hamilton will be seen in his first super-feature comedy His Darker Self. The Fox latest news completes the bill.

Any man can inherit money if given an opportunity, but when it comes to keeping it—well, that's different.

CASE OF RUM-BOAT AT NEW LONDON, TO BE TRIED FRIDAY AT NORWALK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 14.—The crew of the two-masted schooner "Over the Top" a British craft that was seized by one of the fleet of revenue boats charged with a rum-running several months ago, will finally be tried, for late this afternoon United States customs officials arranged for the trial to take place at South Norwalk, next Friday. The master and one of the crew of the schooner have been in this city ever since the Over the Top was seized. Counsel for the crew, a New York attorney, was in New London this afternoon and evening arranging for the hearing.

The Over the Top was laden with between 2,000 and 4,000 cases of Scotch and rye whiskey when seized a considerable distance off Block Island and it is claimed by the master and attorney for the crew that the schooner was well outside the limits of seizure when the crew of the revenue cutter took charge of the rum carrier and brought her into port. Ever since the Over the Top was seized she has been moored at the pier of the United States Coast Guard Academy, under guard as the valuable cargo, liquor, that it is estimated is worth between $115,000 and $140,000 is still in the hold of the craft.

Several members of New London lodge, past exalted rulers, will go to Middletown, Sunday, the 25th inst., when the annual meeting of Past Exalted Rulers' association, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will take place. It is believed that a dozen or more New London past exalted rulers will attend.

The Connecticut Company kept one of its biggest types of cars in operation over the various lines of the company throughout last night in order to prevent the rain and hail from freezing on the tracks and wires to such a thickness as to prevent the operation of the customary number of cars today. As a result practically all cars were operated on schedule time today.

Carl Plimpton, a youth residing at 28 Starr street, rode his bicycle to the Y. M. C. A., corner of Church and Meridian streets, this evening and while he enjoyed himself in the gymnasium a thief stole the wheel.

Mrs. George Hollis, of Tenth street, Mrs. Arthur Marquardt and infant daughter, Groton, and John Bailey of Willetta avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

Mrs. James Keefe, New Haven, is being entertained by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Barbalato, of Henry street.

Charles Neff, of Clarke Lane, Waterford, Harold Havens, Broad street, Groton, William Fieldano, Stonington, Mrs. Agnes Dickson, Colchester, Chas. Bidwell, Montauk avenue, Lawrence Thurlow, Niantic and Carl Stagg, U. S. S. Red Wing, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Bowling teams of the Elks' club began a tournament this evening when Teams 1 and 2 had a contest with duck pins.

Brainard Masonic lodge worked the entered apprentice degree this evening on several candidates. The attendance was fairly good.

Globe Hill was the coasting ground this evening for a large number of youngsters. The course was from Union to Park streets.

A Bank street store seems to be the magnet that attracts young girls of the flapper sort for it has a pillar that is surrounded by mirrors and which is outside the store proper. There the girls use their powder puffs and say they make themselves pretty.

The town court at Waterford had two cases to try this evening, in both of which convictions were the result. Adam Wotewicsk was before Justice Frederick L. Goss for violation of the Bauer laws. He was charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell and with keeping a place reputed to be a place where liquor was kept for sale. He was fined $100 on each count and was ordered to spend 30 days in jail on each count. The jail sentence was suspended on each count. Adam was finished to appeal but his attorney said to him, "I don't care, Adam! You had better settle."

Vladislaw Dabroski, an alien, was charged with having a shot gun in his possession and for that was fined $5 and costs. Dobroski resides on the Alexander farm and there a state policeman took him into custody. He settled the fine and paid the costs of trial.

The weather the past two days has hit the ice crop a hard blow, for it has covered the ponds with snow and the rain that followed has taken an inch or more from the thickness of the ice. Still the dealers housed one cutting and they expect to garner another.

Masters of craft that do their fishing in local waters are making serious complaint that they have been fired upon by coast guard vessels under the impression, it is presumed, that the fishermen were rum carriers and that they were engaged in an unlawful business. The fact remains that the vessels have been fired upon and that the coast guard vessels did not ascertain whether the fishermen were engaged legally or unlawfully. The fishermen intend to take the matter up with the government and ascertain whether they are to be made targets for officers who would control vessels engaged in lawful pursuits as well as those that are engaged in defying the laws of the country. It is claimed that several vessels have been overhauled and the little fellows sustained damage in that the coast guard vessels stove rails in getting alongside. It is claimed that coast guard boat No. 2316 has been an offender and that the commanding officer refused to give his name when it was demanded of the master by a fisherman.

Rumor has it that a scandal is to break in Groton soon and that it will astonish by the conditions that will be exposed. Groton has come into the limelight in more ways than one in recent months, but the borough is reported now to be on the way to a real sensation.

The Bank of Commerce and the City National bank re-elected practically their staff of officers today. Herbert L. Crandall, for many years in the office of the late Henry P. Haven, was chosen a director of the City bank for the 50th time. William Belcher, the president of the bank is rapidly approaching 80, but he is as active as men generally when 20 years his junior. The same may be said of Benjamin A. Armstrong, president of the Bank of Commerce.

Ralph L. Strout, 260 Broad street, complained to the police this afternoon that petty thieves were causing him daily annoyance by stealing bread from his place of business. Strout stated that for the past five mornings a loaf of bread or two has been taken from a box that has been left there by a baker prior to the opening of the store.

Private funeral services were held this morning at 10.30 o'clock at the Hotel Mohican for Arthur S. Winchester, formerly of Windham. Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James Episcopal church and Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church conducted the services. The body was taken to Windham, where it was placed in the Winchester mausoleum.

Charles A. Beckwith, about 70, died late yesterday at his home in Niantic, death resulting from a shock sustained earlier in the day. Mr. Beckwith had been employed many years as freight agent at Niantic for the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. He is survived by his wife.

An automobile owned by the Schwartz Furniture company, and driven by Antonio Merano, 326 Williams street, and a machine owned and operated by Henry Thebeault, 76 Benham road, Groton, were in collision this morning, corner Huntington and Federal street. Both machines were damaged.

John F. Smith, probation officer of New York city, today communicated with the New London police, stating that John Gaydis, 34, alias John Kushner, is under arrest in New York, charged with larceny. Smith also stated that Gaydis was arrested in New London under the alias May 6, 1919, and received a sentence of from one to two years in prison, for burglary. The police here have no record of the arrest of Gaydis or Kushner and if he received a sentence here it was in the superior court, but for a crime committed elsewhere.

Patrolman Frank Philopena in making his rounds on Bank street late last night discovered the entrance to the pool room at No. 20 unlocked. The officer communicated by telephone with the owner at Groton, but the latter refused to come to New London and secure the place. As a consequence the pool room was unsecure the remainder of the night, although the police maintained a watchful eye on the place.

Mary Sealey, 63, wife of Michael Murphy, and mother of Police Sergeant Patrick Murphy, died Dec. 31st at her home in County Kerry, Ireland, advices just received here by relatives state. Mrs. Murphy had been in sound health until a few weeks ago when she submitted to an operation for appendicitis and her decline from that time was rapid. Besides her husband and son Patrick, Mrs. Murphy, is survived by four other sons, Michael Murphy, New York, and Daniel, William and John Murphy, of Ireland, also by three sisters, Mrs. Michael Devine and Mrs. Thomas Shaughnessy, New London, and Mrs. David Connors of Ireland.

The Eagle Realty Co. has sold a tract of land on the Burrows plat, Bayonet street extension, to Archangelo and Domenica Di Maggio. The tract consists of 11 building lots.

An automobile owned and driven by Lawrence Fardy, 33 Walden avenue and a commercial truck owned by William S. Hills and operated by W. J. Tryon, 14 Woodbridge street, were in collision late yesterday at the corner of Jefferson and Garfield avenues. Both automobile were damaged. Fardy assumed responsibility for the crash.

Clan Cameron installed officers this evening in the rooms of Union lodge where there was a large attendance of members, also members of the woman's auxiliary to the clan. There was an interesting program and then a supper was served with everything but thistles to put an edge on the appetites of the diners.

One of the leading automobile dealers of the city was authority for the statement today that there was not a sleigh in the city for public hire. He might have gone farther and asserted that there was no horse for hire in the city either.

David W. Almy, who was for many years the publicity man of the local theatres, has reentered that business

Members of the general assembly from this section are to go to Hartford again Thursday when the assembly resumes sessions. They are of the opinion that the session will be a short one as the time for the reception of new business has been limited to the last week of the current month. Some of the members will not introduce a single bill so the outlook is that the session will be brief.

New London experienced last night and today the sloppiest time its residents have known since the winter of 1924. The walks were ice-covered and pedestrians moved about at their peril. The city manager had men and teams busy distributing sand to sprinkle the walks that they might be made reasonably safe, but there were many tumbles, although none that resulted in broken bones, as far as had been reported this evening. There have been but few suits in damages against the city because of injuries to pedestrians during the past two or three years, for the city's law representative decided at the beginning of that period that there would be no compromises between the city and persons who claimed they sustained injuries by falls upon sidewalks that should have been cleared of ice and snow. That official went to the courts to try each and every case that was brought to make the city pay for injuries to pedestrians. He represented to the court that the city used reasonable care and that its servants did all that could be expected of them when they made the effort to clear walks and sanded the passageway for pedestrians that they might go about reasonably protected. A particular case tried out in the courts was that of a pedestrian who fell on the walk near the southeast corner of State and Huntington street where men employed by the city had removed the snow. A verdict for the city was returned and the plaintiff was unable to recover anything. That case seems to have put a stop to suits in damages for they have not since been brought for the cause named. The city is supposed to see that there are no sidewalks that will cause pedestrians to risk danger, and the police are zealous to inform the highway department of any danger that exists in this regard. That rule has been adhered to with good results—results that have shown the lessening of accidents. There seems to be one remaining menace to pedestrians, namely, the iron covers to cellar ways on the business street. They are unusually slippery in wet or ice weather—so slippery that a car would have to watch out in passing over them. Some day the city will take means of changing these cellar coverings or of roughening them so that they will be made as safe as are other portions of the walks.

Members of the New London lodge of Elks are waiting for a report by the committee of investigation that is to endeavor to discover who robbed the safe in the clubhouse of $350.

HANDCUFFED BANK DOOR WHEN LOCK FAILED TO WORK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 13.—The police were called upon tonight to act as locksmith when it was discovered that the door of the entrance to the Union Bank & Trust company, State street, could not be locked when the bank watchmen visited the bank. The lock had become defective and in order to make the entrance secure a pair of handcuffs was used, the handcuffs being inserted through the handle of one door and through the metal protection of the other door. A closer watch than usual, however, is being maintained tonight by the police and the watchmen employed by the several banks.

HEARING ON THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

New Haven, Jan. 13.—The first official meeting of the Connecticut committee on ratification of the child labor amendment was held here today to plan a program to bring about as early as possible ratification of the so-called child labor amendment by the state legislature. Representatives from a number of state organizations were present and it was said that several other delegates expect to join the group as soon as the state boards have met to take official action to endorse the amendment.

The discussion centered largely on means for combatting what was declared to be a misunderstanding about the 18-year limit in the amendment. It was pointed out at the meeting that many persons are of the opinion that the amendment, if passed, will lead to laws preventing every person under 18 from working. The limit was placed at 18, speakers said, in order to give congress the opportunity of keeping persons under 18 out of hazardous occupations, if it should ever become necessary.

Connecticut, along with other states, it was pointed out, is now regulating the labor of persons up to 18 years of age by laws forbidding persons under that age from running fast freight elevators, from working after 10 o'clock at night as messengers, and by that part of the compensation act which provides for extra compensation of the persons injured is under 18 years of age.

The committee planned several mass meetings in the interest of the amendment and it was decided to have Miss Julia Lathrop come to Connecticut to speak under the auspices of the committee on January 28 and 29.

Among those present at the meeting were: Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith and Miss Margaret Hicks, of the League of Women Voters, Dean W. P. Ladd, of the social service committee of the federation of Protestant churches, Mrs. Samuel Camp, Mrs. Rivkin, of the Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. Wilcox, of the Consumers' League; John Egan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor; Mrs. Percy Walden, Mrs. Robert Cook and Miss Leslie, of the Connecticut Child Welfare association, and Miss Mary Grace Hills, of the Graduate Nurses' association, of Connecticut.

MYSTERIOUS AIRPLANE CARRIED VEILED WOMEN

Vienna, Jan. 13.—(By the A. P.)—The landing of a mysterious airplane on the estate of Count Esterhazy at Tata Tovaros, Hungary, is reported by the Burgenland correspondent of the Der Abendm. The plane carried two veiled women and one man as passengers. A waiting carriage conveyed them to the Esterhazy palace.

One of the veiled women, says the correspondent, is believed by the populace to have been former Empress Zita and they express the idea that she has come back to Hungary to pave the way for her son, Prince Otto to ascend the Hungarian throne.

The correspondent also says the pilot of the plane was recognized as Zimmerman, who brought the late Emperor Charles to the same spot the second time he returned to Hungary after he was sent into exile.

TWO BRISTOL MEN HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Bristol, Conn., Jan. 13.—At a hearing which lasted throughout the day, Judge Joseph M. Donovan this afternoon found probable cause and bound over Salvatore De Salvatore and Joseph Leo Grande of this city to the March term of the superior court in Hartford on a charge of murder. They are held in connection with the death of Antonio Tottore, also of this city, on the night of Jan. 4. Tottore is said to have been shot during a fight. The arrest of seven men followed.

De Salvatore and Leo Grande, who have been at the Hartford jail since the night of the shooting, were brought here today for the hearing and then were remanded to jail to await their trial in the superior court.

The cases of Frank and Dominick Diveniri, father and son, Dominick Grimaldi and Vito Fanelli, all charged with breach of the peace in connection with the case, and who have been held in jail without bonds, were polled upon recommendation of the prosecuting attorney. The case of Dominick Savini, charged with assault and battery and breach of the peace, was continued until tomorrow morning under bonds of $10,000.

Mrs. Dominick Divenri, a witness, testified that Savini kicked Tottore and slapped his face as the latter lay on the ground. According to other witnesses, the shooting was done by De Salvatore, but that Leo Grande was the instigator and that the latter had attacked De Salvatore and his wife with a razor.

CONTRACTORS PLANNING CONTINUOUS BUILDING

Washington, Jan. 13.—The Associated General Contractors of America divided attention today between suggestions for decreasing unemployment by continuous building operations throughout the year, and a proposal to institute an investigation to determine comparative costs of public works when performed by contractors or with public officials, in charge of operations.

Both matters are expected to come up for decision in the form of resolutions tomorrow at the closing sessions of the organization's convention.

Edward Eyre Hunt, secretary of the president's conference on unemployment, which recommended that the construction industry continue instead of stopping work during the winter, declared in the course of an address that investigation had disclosed that the practice recommended not only was feasible, but would go far toward relieving crisis of unemployment, especially if supported by municipal, state and federal government.

"ACUTE SHORTAGE" OF HOG PRODUCTS INDICATED IN 1925

Washington, Jan. 13.—A hog crop this year as small as any year in the last ten years and an "acute shortage" of hog products in 1925 were indicated in a December 1 survey, as announced today by the department of agriculture.

The survey showed that sows farrowed last fall were 23.2 per cent. fewer than those farrowed in the fall of 1923, but the decrease in pigs was only 22.2 per cent. due to a higher average saved per litter. On the corn belt, the decrease in sows farrowed was 30.6 cent., but in pig production it was only 23.4 per cent. Decrease were smaller in other sections of the country.

AMERICAN BANK TO BE ESTABLISHED IN BERLIN

Berlin, Jan. 13.—(By the A. P.)—Negotiations are nearing completion for the establishments of an American bank in Berlin. It is reported that J. P. Morgan, the American financier, will be the chief stockholder. The decision to erect an American financial institution here is said to be the result of exorbitant demands made by large German banks for an acting intermediary between German industry and American capital.

MARY GARDEN HAS AN ATTACK OF LARYNGITIS

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Mary Garden awoke with an acute attack of laryngitis, according to her physician, but this afternoon pronounced her ailment under control. She is hopeful that she will be able to sing at the opera Thursday night.

CHARGES MADE TO THE HOUSE MILITARY COMMITTEE

Washington, Jan. 13—Failure by the navy department to inform congress as to the war time value of aircraft and intimidation of junior officers of both the army and navy, called for testimony on aircraft were charged today by Representative Curry, republican, California, in a letter to the house military committee.

Mr. Curry, author of a bill to create a department of aeronautics in charge of a cabinet secretary on which hearings were held today, said the letter was a rebuttal to statements by Secretary Weeks opposing the measure.

It is most important at present," Curry wrote, "that congress obtain accurate evidence on aviation," in view of the attempt he said had been made to have "congress believe that aircraft cannot sink all classes of seacraft.

"They can do so," he continued, and any statement to the contrary is a most dangerous contraversion of fact. The secretary's report throws no new light on this important subject and it appears to be a special pleading to obscure the main issue.

"All aeronautical effort should be centralized under a cabinet officer coequal with the secretary of war and of the navy, or we must have a department of national defense with one cabinet officer, and assistant secretaries for the army, navy and air force."

Major Edward V. Rickenbacker, retired, world war flying ace, testified today in favor of the bill. He told the committee he thought the building up of commercial aviation offered the best means of maintaining a reserve flying force.

MAJOR DALY ASSIGNED TO DUTY AT HARVARD

Washington, Jan. 13.—Secretary Weeks announced today that Major Charles D. Daly, would be assigned to duty at Harvard university in June to take charge of the reserve officers training work there.

Secretary Weeks was asked by the Harvard athletic committee to detail Major Daly as assistant to the professor of military science at Harvard, but found it impossible to grant the request in the form it was presented. Major Daly at present is assigned to the 76th artillery at the Presidio, Monterey, Calif., and will be ordered to Cambridge in time to begin his work there next June.

BOOKMAKER ROBINSON APPEALS FROM DECISION

London, Jan. 13.—Charles E. Robinson, the former bookmaker who sued the Midland bank for 125,000 pounds on account of an alleged settlement with Rajah Sir Hari Singh, has appealed from the judgment of the court which was rendered in favor of the bank. Robinson alleged that the settlement with the Indian potentate was made because of the latter's intimacy with Mrs. Robinson.

The Midland bank, in defending the suit brought against it by Robinson, asserted that the money in question was never received from Robinson and also alleged that the plaintiff was the party to a blackmail plot to obtain money from the Rajar Sir Hari Singh. During the trial the Indian prince was referred to only as "Mr." but his name was subsequently published by order of the British government. A jury in the case cleared Mr. Robinson and his wife of the allegations that they were parties to a conspiracy.

James Charles Arthur, former British army officer who acted as aide to the rajah when the latter was in Europe, and William Cooper Hobbs, a former solicitor's clerk, were subsequently arrested on charges of conspiring to blackmail the Indian potentate.

LEBANON, N. Y., BANK WAS CLOSED BY COMMISSIONER

Lebanon, N. H., Jan. 13—The state bank commissioner suspended the business of the People's Trust company today as the result of an investigation of its affairs, likely to occupy several days. A notice posted on the door saying "This Bank is Closed by Order of the Court", was the only official announcement. The commissioners, F. S. Nutting, Leon B. Gerry and George E. Farrand said they would make no further statement until their inquiry had been completed.

Some unusual withdrawals of funds were said to be have precipitated last week by rumors regarding the bank's loans. The formal report of the bank's condition issued today as of December 31st last, shows loans in the savings department of $666,867 on real estate and $390,917 on personal notes, deposits at the bank subject to check amounted to $233,549.09, loans and discounts were placed a $361,000.

TARGET PRACTICE TROPHIES TO BE PRESENTED SATURDAY

Boston, Jan. 13—The Knox trophies emblematic of highest proficiency in target practice in army and navy will be presented here next Saturday, it was announced at first corps area headquarters. The trophies are awarded each year to the field artillery unit with the highest proficiency record in target practice and to the naval vessel standing highest in the same branch.

Capt. James M. Crane of the 76th field artillery, stationed at Madison barracks, New York, with First Sergeant William Casey will come here to receive the army trophy from the Sons of the Revolution. Captain Lake McNamee will receive the trophy awarded to the navy on behalf of the U. S. S. Tennessee.

NEGOTIATING ANOTHER GERMAN INDUSTRIAL LOAN

New York, Jan. 13—Negotiations virtually have been concluded by the New York bankers for a loan of $16,000,000 to $15,000,000 for another German industrial enterprise, the Siemens group, which manufacturers electrical equipment. Public offering of a bond issue is expected within the next ten days.

The Siemens group, together with the Allegemeine Electricitat Gesellscaft, is said to occupy a position similar to the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric Companies in the United States.

BAY STATE LEGISLATOR ACQUITTED OF LARCENY

Boston, Jan. 13—A jury in the Suffolk superior court late today returned a verdict of not guilty in the cases of Robert Dinsmore of East Boston, member of the state house of representatives and Morris Abber, also of East Boston, who were charged with conspiracy and being accessories to the larceny of $300 from Harry Buyer, a convicted bootlegger.

ITALIAN CHAMBER WAS ORGANIZED QUIETLY

Rome, Jan. 13—Another session of the chamber of deputies passed off serenely today after it had been formally organized by the election of Antonio Casertano as the presiding officer. Signor Casertano was chosen by a vote of 239 out of a total of 255 votes cast, forty-one ballots were blank and five others defective.

The hundreds of spectators who crowded the galleries with the expectation of a display of political fireworks were disappointed, Except for the election of Signor Casertano, who will replace Signor Rocco, the newly appointed minister of justice, the session was devoted to clearing up various preliminaries which had to be got out of the way before consideration of the new electoral bill could be taken up.

This bill is expected to come up before the chamber tomorrow. Even then it is a question whether any real forensic battles will take place, particularly if the Aventine opposition members do not return to their seats, as now seems indicated. There was a report tonight, however, that the communists at a secret meeting had decided to resume their seats when the electoral bill is discussed. This report is considered creditable, since the communists are known to oppose the measure. Their principal objection to it is that it virtually disfranchises the Italian peasants by the provision granting the plural vote to various categories of citizens.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Ambassador Houghton at Berlin was appointed ambassador to London.

President Coolidge was represented as foreseeing no change in the American foreign policy on Secretary Hughes' retirement

It was declared at the white house that except for retirement of Secretary Gore, no further cabinet changes are expected March 4.

The senate voted several times on Muscle Shoals but was unable to dispose of the question.

Enactment of farm legislation before March 4, it was said, at the white house can and should be accomplished.

New Jersey was the first state to deliver its electoral vote to the president of the senate.

Hearings were held before a senate committee on the proposed 9-foot channel from the St. Lawrence to the gulf.

The short line railroad association gave notice it opposed the Eastern Trunk Line consolidation proposed by the Van Sweringen brothers.

The senate prohibition investigating committee made public testimony relating to the tax settlement in the Fleischmann company case.

Charges were made in the senate that the national tariff league is soliciting contributions to prevent reappointment of David J. Lewis, of Maryland to the tariff commission.

INCREASE IN VIOLATIONS OF 18TH AMENDMENT

Hartford, Jan. 13—Prosecutions in state courts for violations of the 18th amendment increased from 303 in 1923 to 584 in 1924, according to reports made to Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon by the various state's attorneys. A comparison of the criminal business records of the courts for the two years presents a study to determine whether crime increased in 1924 over 1923. The total number of prosecutions in 1924 was 2,353 or 291 more than in 1923 but the record of last year for many serious crimes is better than in the previous year

BOLTON POND TO BE CLOSED FOR FISHING TILL MAY 1

Hartford, Jan. 13—Bolton Pond in Bolton is to be closed for fishing until May 1 by order of the state fish and game commission. This decision was reached at a hearing today at the capitol. The waters of the pond are very low and it was decided that to allow fishing there either in open weather or through the ice would reduce the supply of fish to a dangerously low number.

FRIEND SAVED MRS. WILHELMY.

"Overwork, worry, no appetite, no sleep. I looked like a corpse," says Mrs. Mary Wilhelmy of St. Paul, Minn., "and to add to my troubles my physician advised an operation. A friend, however, asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and you should see the improvement. I eat well, sleep well, have gained in weight and strength and feel fine." That is what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Wilhelmy, and it will do as much for any suffering woman.

MARKET CLOSED IRREGULAR.

New York, Jan. 13.—Heavy profit-taking just before the close brought about considerable irregularity in today's stock market after an early period of strength, during which more than fifty issues attained new peak prices for the year. Total sales crossed the 2,000,000 share mark for the third time this year, and the 23d time since election day.

U. S. Steel common touched 125 5-8, a new high price since 1917, and then sagged to 124 3-4, where it was off 5-8 on the day. American Can closed 1 1-8 points higher at 164 1-8 after having sold at 165 1-2. Baldwin closed unchanged at 134 5-8, although it had crossed 136 in the early trading.

Oil shares were in brisk demand in the early trading, but many of the gains were substantially reduced or cancelled on publication of a report showing another gain in production in the New Wortham field. Houston showed consistent strength, closing more than two points higher at 83 3-8, while fractional gains were recorded by the Barnsdall issues, California Petroleum, Cosden, Pure Oil, Skelly, Louisiana, Sinclair and a few others. Independent Oil and Gas closed 1 3-8 higher and Phillips Petroleum gained a point.

The feature of the railroad group was a sensational jump of 13 points to 168 by Omaha preferred, following the announcement that the Chicago & Northwestern had made a new exchange offer to minority stockholders. Chicago & Northwestern closed more than a point lower at 73 3-4. Denver and Rio Grande Western preferred, which recorded a gain of nearly 15 points last week, broke five points to 54 3-4, and then rallied to 56 1-8.

Good demand also was noted for some of the other Southwestern carriers and the eastern hard coal roads. "Katy" preferred sold 1 1-2 points higher at 79 but later forfeited half its gain. Delaware and Hudson advanced nearly two points on a revival of rumors concerning the segregation of the road's coal properties. Gains of 1 to 2 points also were recorded by Lackawanna, Western Pacific preferred, Jersey Central and Pere Marquette.

Revival of speculative interest in Radio corporation sent that stock up nearly six points to 73 on total transactions running close to 100,000 shares. Other strong spots in the specialty list were Coca Cola, Great Northern Ore, American Locomotive, American Republics, American Radiator, Commercial Solvents A, Consolidated Cigar, Cushman & Son, Division Chemical, Kelsey Wheel, Nash Motors and Sinclair preferred, all of which closed from 2 to 5 1-2 points higher.

Call money held steady at 3 per cent. The market for time money was slightly easier, with increased offerings of funds at 3 1-2 per cent for 90 days. Commercial paper rates were unchanged with business moderately active.

Foreign exchange rates were reactionary. Demand sterling dropped about 1 1-2 cents to around $4.77 1-4, and French francs were quoted 2 1-2 points lower at 5 3-4 cents. Minor recessions also took place in the other European rates.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Jan. 13.—Bond prices worked into higher ground today as buying orders were spread over a broad list of rail, public utility and industrial issues. Increased offerings of time funds led to an expansion of speculative operations which centered principally in the oil liens.

Demand for both high grade and semi-speculative railroad obligations continued brisk. Gains of a point or so were scored by Delaware and Hudson Convertible 6s, "Big Four" 5s "D," Norfolk & Western Convertible 6s, and West Shore 4s. Among the issues which moved up fractionally were Seaboard Refunding 4s, Pennsylvania General 4 1-2s, and Northwestern refunding 5s.

Denver and Rio Grande issues reacted sharply after their recent advance. The new general 4s broke 2 1-2 points following the announcement that interest payments would not be started immediately. Some of the other bonds fell back fractionally to as much as 3 points.

The trend of oil bonds closely followed the movement of these companies' stocks. Pan-American and Skelly Oil issues sold at new high prices, with the Sinclair bonds also reaching higher levels. Magma Copper 7s jumped 3 3-8 points and International Paper 5s advanced 1 1-4.

New financing includes a $10,000,000 issue of Cuba company ten-year convertible 6s, priced at 98 1-2 to yield 6.20 per cent. Another German industrial enterprise, the Siemens group, which manufactures electrical equipment, has virtually completed negotiations for a loan of $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 which will be placed on the market within 10 days.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Wheat shot skyward today to the highest prices since the World war, but quickly receded on account of selling to realize profits. A few carloads of No. 2 red wheat specially wanted for milling, brought as much as $2 1-2 a bushel. Active speculative buying on the part of strong houses working for an advance gave the chief upward impetus to the market. Wheat closing quotations were unsettled, varying from 1 3-8c net decline to 1 3-8c gain, with May delivery $1.55 3-4 to $1.56 1-8 and July $1.56 7-8 to $1.57. Corn finished 3-8 to ½c higher, oats unchanged to 1-2c up and provisions showing 7 to 35 cents advance.

Rising prices in the wheat market were accompanied by reports indicating that European centers had fully reflected yesterday's upturns in values in the United States, and that the present acreage of winter wheat in foreign countries in 13 per cent. less than harvested by those countries in 1924. The estimate on foreign acreage of winter wheat was credited to the international institute of agriculture at Rome. Evidence of good demand from domestic millers tended further to encourage speculative buyers, and with strong interests taking an aggressive stand in favor of higher prices the market jumped rapidly, 3 1-4c a bushel in some cases.

It was only after the day's maximum price, $1.58 May delivery, had been reached that the market underwent any great reaction. On the downturn, however, price changes were extremely rapid, making it impossible to execute orders at blackboard figures. Meanwhile gossip about slowness of export demand had considerable influence, and there was talk that 500,000 bushel had been sold back from France, but lively renewal of speculative buying here was again apparent at the last.

Corn sympathized with wheat strength, but oats lagged.

Provisions ascended in line with grain and hogs.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Jan. 13.—With the exception of the public utilities issues, which yielded on heavy liquidation practically all groups of stocks displayed a firm tone in today's curb market.

Oils continued their move to higher ground, South Penn jumping 9 points to 170 and Illinois Pipe Line 7 1-2 to 159, each closing 2 points below the top. Net gains of 1 to 4 points were recorded by Imperial of Canada, Magnolia Petroleum, Prairie Oil and Gas, Prairie Pipe and Solar Refining.

Radio issues were again in good demand with Thermiodyne, one of the active features, being elevated to a record high at 21 1-2. Moderate strength also was shown by Sleeper, Dubilier, Ware, Freed-Eisemann, Haseltine and Liberty Radio chain stores.

Electric Bond and Share Holding company stock reacted two points to 70 1-2, or about 40 points below the recent high. Reactionary tendencies also were noted in Commonwealth Power, American Gas and Electric Lehigh Power securities, and several other issues in that group the losses running from 1 to 4 points.

WHITE ROCKS LEAD IN 10TH WEEK AT STORRS

In the tenth week of the Storrs laying contest Ellen Dav Ranken's pen of White Rocks from Huntington, L. I., N. Y., stood at the top of the list with a score of 49 eggs. Roy H. Waite's pen of White Leghorns from College Park, Md., was second best for the week with a total of 45 eggs. Hobart E. Rice's pen of the same breed from Barre, Mass., made third place with a mark of 43 eggs. White Leghorns owned by Lewis Farms at Davisville, R. I., and a pen of White Wyandottes entered by Dependable Poultry Yards at Auburn, Mass., tied for fourth place with 40 eggs each. The total production for all pens was 3217 eggs or a yield of nearly 33 per cent. This represents a gain of 146 eggs over the previous week's production but considering the fact that the current contest is larger by 400 birds than any former laying trials, the production in the tenth week was relatively a thousand eggs less than for the corresponding week a year ago.

At the request of E. J. Howes, secretary of the Poultry and Fanciers' Association of Canton, Ohio, station WABL at Storrs will broadcast a special poultry program next Friday night, Jan. 16, at 7 o'clock. This special program will consist of a thirty minute talk on the growth and development of American egg laying contests and their usefulness in the poultry breeders program. Officers of the poultry association at Canton have installed a high powered receiving set which they believe will make reception in Ohio clear and distinct. Furthermore, arrangements have been made to announce this program beforehand from a broadcasting station in Cleveland. The radio station at Storrs has been glad of the opportunity to render some small service to all poultry people within range.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

POETRY

A PSALM OF LIFE.

Dear Love, whose sweet abiding
Hath kept us all the way,
To Thee our course confiding
We walk from day to day.

Help us to ever cherish
The Christ Ideal for all,
Though human plans may perish
And human friends may fail.

What time Earth's passions rally
Our strength on Spirit stayed,
Help us to pass the valley
With footsteps unafraid.

We know the clouds that linger
Across the light of day
Are but of earth; Thy finger
Will draw their mist away.

Help us to meet our neighbor
With face reflecting Thine!
To join him in his labor
And make his work divine!

We know the human seeming
Sometimes grotesque and wild
Is but the earthly dreaming.
Help us to see Thy child!

Help us to do the duty
That lieth close at hand;
And, doing, see the beauty
Of all that Thou hast planned.
—Robert Dorman, in Ottawa Citizen.

A COTTAGE IS A PALACE FAIR.

A cottage is a palace fair,
Though poor and humble it may be,
If two who love are living there
In happiness, contentedly.

It may be dull, or drab, or plain,
Alike with others in a row,
But if within it Love holds reign,
No hall could shine with beauty so.

Though it may lack the cushioned seat,
And cosy couch, and morris chair,
With joy and pleasure 'tis replete
Despite these things, if love is there.

A cottage is a palace fair,
Though poor and humble it may be,
If two who love are living there
In happiness, contentedly.
—Harry Arthur Edwards, in Calgar. Herald.

Trade of the United States with Greenland, says the National City Bank of New York, runs at the rate of nearly a quarter of a million dollars a year, and has aggregated approximately $2,000,000 in the last dozen years. Nearly all of our trade with Greenland consists of imports and our own purchases from that island are chiefly composed of cryolite produced by an American corporation from a mine near Ivigtut on the southwest coast. This peculiar mineral deposit cryolite, discovered by the Danes 130 years ago, is the biggest known deposit of this material in the world, and the fact that we have a limited supply of this material in the state of Colorado has not prevented the American company, which controls the Ivigtut mine under a concession from the Danish government, from bringing many thousands of tons from the west coast of Greenland, about 2,000 miles, to the eastern ports of the United States, chiefly to Greeneville.

TESTIMONY IN TRIAL OF GASTON B. MEANS

New York, Jan. 13.—Trial of Gaston B. Means and Thomas B. Felder, jointly charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice in taking $65,000 on representatives that they could influence Harry M. Daugherty, at that time United States attorney general, and William J. Burns, then director of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and other high officials to stop action in the Altoona Glass Casket company mail fraud case, opened in the United States district court here today.
Elmer W. Jarnecke, indicted with Means and Felder, recently pleaded guilty and will be the chief witness for the prosecution.
Testimony today related to alleged conferences between the defendants and the casket representatives. Means was introduced to them in Washington, where they said they found him sitting in Burns' chair with his feet on Burns' desk.
Samuel Rosenblatt, one of the defendants in the casket case, testified that after paying the money demanded to "fix" the case and having been told that "all their troubles were over," they learned that the indictments had been found after all.
When protest was made to Felder, Rosenblatt said, they were told that it was "an honor to be indicted these days," and that they "didn't have a thing to worry about."
Earlier in the day, after defense counsel had completed its opening address, Federal Judge Lindley announced that the bonding company which had furnished bail for Means had cancelled its bond. He ordered Means placed in custody of a marshal, and kept in custody at his hotel when not in court.

HOUSE FAILS TO VOTE ON THE McFADDEN BILL

Washington, Jan. 13—Unable to reach a final vote today on the McFadden banking bill, the house decided to postpone until Thursday consideration of the $69,000,000 rivers and harbors authorization bill. This shift in the legislative program will permit the McFadden measure to be taken up again tomorrow, with leaders determined to press it to a vote before overnight adjournment.
More than a dozen amendments were offered today but only three—all of them acceptable to Chairman McFadden, of the banking committee, author of the bill—were adopted. Two of them were put forward by Representative M. D. Hull, republican, Illinois, and the other by Representative Stevenson, democrat, South Carolina.

GIVEN TWO TO FOUR YEAR SENTENCE FOR BURGLARY

Waterbury, Jan. 13—Frank Vantillo, 23, was sentenced to state prison from two to four years by Judge John R. Booth in criminal superior court today after being convicted by a jury on a complaint charging him with with burglary of Adelberg and Berman's Ladies' apparel store at 61 South Main street. The case against Addie Davenport, 24 charged with burglary and alleged accomplice of Vantillo, was nolled upon recommendation of State's Attorney Lawrence L. Lewis.

TO DECIDE UPON SITE FOR $5,000,000 CLUBHOUSE

New York, Jan. 13—An important step in the organization of the New York chapter of the national town and country club will be taken January 21, when the members will pass on their executive committee's selection of a site for the club's proposed $5,000,000 clubhouse. The property, said to be purchased outright following favorable action on the part of the membership.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WILL DISCUSS FREIGHT RATE RAISE

A proposed increase in freight rates in New England of approximately 15 per cent., is to be the subject for the January meeting of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, which will be held next Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel at 6.15, when dinner will be served. Notices of the meeting have been sent to the members, but besides these the public is invited, and particularly the ladies.

The subject for discussion will be the Eastern Class Rate Investigation before the interstate commerce commission which will hold hearings on this matter in New York beginning on February 4th.

The interstate commerce commission is proposing a revision of the freight rates from New England to points in the middle west known as C. F. A. territory and the class rates as proposed equal a general increase of freight rates of approximately 15 per cent. If the proposed rates are approved by the interstate commerce commission in whole or in part the entire rate structure of New England as well as the sales and advertising methods employed by Connecticut business men would necessitate a revision also.

In fact western buyers and particularly automobile industries which also affect some of the textile industries of New England have already informed some local manufacturers from whom they purchase, in large quantities, supplies of various automobile parts and accessories, that if the proposed rates become effective, they will be forced to take into consideration the location of their sources of supply on future contracts. This means that they will either undertake to make some of the articles that are now purchased here in Connecticut or they will induce western manufacturers to locate nearer to their assembly plants to furnish them the material that they are now buying from Connecticut industries.

Speaker at Meeting.

The speaker who will discuss this matter at the chamber of commerce meeting is W. F. Price, traffic manager of the J. B. Williams company of Glastonbury, a member of the traffic committee of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, and a man who is thoroughly acquainted with this subject of transportation and all its ramifications. At a meeting of the New Haven Chamber of Commerce held Friday, Jan. 9th, J. F. Atwater, traffic manager of the American Hardware Corporation of New Britain, delivered an address in which he stated in part:

New Britain Manufacturer Explains.

"By order entered May 13, 1924, the Interstate Commerce Commission, upon petition of carriers operating in the Official Classification territory, which takes in the territory East of the Mississippi River, North of the Ohio and South of the Canadian boundary line, have instituted an investigation, brought about, it is stated, by what is known as 'Fourth Section violations.' That is this, The I. C. C. says that rates must not be made to be higher for a short haul than for a longer haul over the same route.

"In recent discussions on this subject, I have found that one reason why so many manufacturers have not appeared interested in this case, was due to the fact that they have a misunderstanding of how the commission proceeds. The commission is a judiciary body and their decision is not rendered in accordance with the docket that may be filed by the carriers, but their decision rests upon the testimony presented at these hearings.

"The testimony of the railroads will start February 4th, and undoubtedly will take up one month, and then a short recess will be allowed, when hearings will be resumed, taking the shippers' testimony.

"You can rest assured that the railroads will build up a good strong case, and if the shippers and receivers of freight in New England are going to protect themselves, and want to continue to do business in New England, then they must join hands and arrange for counsel and rate experts to work up testimony to be presented to the commission.

"Now won't you just for a moment consider how we here in New England are situated as to our geographical location. We are hundreds of miles away from the source of supplies. Practically every pound of our foodstuffs, meat, fruit and vegetables, must be hauled in here from distances involving high costs of transportation. Our fuel, steel, copper, and spelter comes from the very heart of the district where many of our competitors are located. Western manufacturers, you must appreciate, are located in the heart of the very producing part of the country.

"This competition, all manufacturers in Connecticut must come to realize, and as the years pass, it is harder and harder to meet, and the day is not far away when New England will find that to compete with western markets, the ymust establish western plants. Increased freight rates will force this condition.

"I wonder if you all realize that at the present time there is a difference between the Eastbound and Westbound rates. The Eastbound rates are considerably higher than the Westbound rates. This condition has been a protection to New England, as it has kept our western manufacturer out of this territory. Now, with this proposed rate adjustment before us, the western shippers are going to present testimony before that commission with an endeavor to show that this difference in rates is not justified, and this is one more matter on which we have got to protect ourselves.

"At the present time, using Chicago as a basis, the First Class Westbound rate is 7c less, and the Third class rate, which applies to hardware, is 5c less, than the Eastbound rates. So you see that under the present arrangement we have the advantage and we will be prepared when the time comes to present testimony substantiating our reasons why we should have a lower Westbound rate than Eastbound rate.

"Now a word in reference to Fourth Section Violations.

"This country has grown and prospered largely because the railroads have built and extended their rails into new places and made rates that have encouraged and fostered long hauls. This policy has been beneficial both to the public and to the railroad themselves. As the country is developing and New England competition assumes such alarming proportions, it is necessary for you to get together to understand New England's problems of transportation.

"If the policy of restricting the long haul by imposition of high rates and high minimums had been in effect for the last fifty years, remote sections of the country would not have developed as they have, and neither would New England be what it is today.

"The development of vast areas in the south and west has been brought about by the railroad's policy of making rates low enough to market the products of those regions. Our rates at the present time are exceedingly high and it seems to me that the policy that has been so beneficial in the past to the shippers and the public generally, as well as the railroads, ought not to be disturbed.

"Mr. Campbell, Vice President in Charge of Traffic of the New Haven Road, has stated that he believed that the present freight rate investigation was of greater importance than any previous similar investigation, and added that there will be many public hearings before the commission and that no one could forecast the nature of the freight rate adjustment that would finally go into effect.

"Connecticut industries are confronted with the most drastic increase ever before proposed. These increases will affect all New England, locally and to all points West of the Hudson River, as far West as Denver, Colo., and will add millions of dollars to the freight charges of every shipper and receiver of goods in Connecticut, moving under class rates, and if permitted to become effective, it means that many of our industries and mercantile establishments will face absolute failure, and all New England will be handicapped beyond all right or reason.

"Under this schedule of rates, it will affect every man, woman, and child in your city and throughout New England. All will be affected if the rates now proposed are allowed. The cost of living will become higher.

"Furniture from Grand Rapids will be increased from $18.00 to $50.00 a car. Dry Goods from Chicago will be increased from $40.00 to $50.00 per car. It will increase the cost of every passenger automobile approximately $10, it will approximately add to the cost of every automobile truck $8.00 to $20.00.

"Understand that it is proposed to increase both Eastbound and Westbound rates, so that all of your foodstuffs and raw materials coming in will be affected, as well as your goods going out.

Take your Steel which comes from the Pittsburgh district. It will increase every carload of steel from $10.80 to $30.00 per car. I should say that a good average will be $24.00. Just stop and think what this means to the manufacturer of Iron and Steel articles, and then realize just what you will have to add to the selling price of your material and can you afford to do that and meet competition.

Vital to New England.

It will be seen therefore that the proposed increase of freight rates will vitally affect New England and the industries of Connecticut in particular, including of course Norwich and other local industries. The chamber of commerce feels that this is a vital subject and therefor have made arrangements for a meeting to give this matter consideration and an opportunity to become acquainted with the subject. The proposed increase of freight rates will increase not only industry and general business but also the small shipper.

The chamber hopes therefore that everyone interested in civic matters will attend this meeting, especially the shippers and reservations for the dinner may be made by applying to the chamber of commerce. These reservations must be made before Friday, Jan. 16th.

LINCOLN HOLDS SEAT IN ASHFORD CONTEST

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, Jan. 13.—The legislative committee on contested elections will report recommending that Allen B. Lincoln retain his seat in the general assembly as representative from the town of Ashford. The committee held a hearing this afternoon at 2 o'cock to hear the claims of Norman D. Baker, defeated democratic candidate, who contested Mr. Lincoln's election. The members of the committee are Rep. E. L. Averill of Branford, chairman; Representative Sherwood B. Potter of Brooklyn and Representative Frank A. Newman of Tolland. Edward M. Yeomans, chairman of the state central democratic committee, appeared for Mr. Baker and Major John Buckley appeared for Mr. Lincoln.

Major Buckley suggested that the best way to settle the matter was to open the ballot box and recount the ballots. All agreed to this procedure. The committee and attorneys recounted the ballots. The original ballot count made by the counters, H. L. Brown, republican; and George E. Bassett, democrat, tallied exactly with the committee recount, 108 for Mr. Lincoln and 106 for Mr. Baker. The original counters rejected 7 ballots. The committee admitted three of these ballots, which gave three for Mr. Baker and two votes for Mr. Lincoln, making the final count 110 for Mr. Lincoln and 109 for Mr. Baker.

The committee will report back that Mr. Lincoln hold his seat.

The claim of Mr. Baker was that a number of ballots were improperly marked under the Australian ballot law, governing split tickets, but his claim proved to have no foundation, as the original counters had recorded the ballots in exact accordance with the law. Those who attended the committee hearing from the town of Ashford, were Town Clerk James E. Knowlton who was in charge of the ballot box, Frank D. Morey, who was moderator at the Ashford election, H. L. Brown, George A. Bassett, Norman G. Baker, the defeated candidate, Representative Allen B. Lincoln and Alexander Bassett.

RAISE $100,000 ENDOWMENT FOR SULGRAVE MANOR

The National Society of Colonial Dames of America has raised $100,000 as an endowment fund, income from which will be used to preserve and maintain Sulgrave Manor, the ancestral home of George Washington in Northamptonshire, England.

The greater part of the fund has been subscribed by the Dames themselves with the generous aid of the public. Expenses of raising the money were defrayed by individual Dames and the state and national treasuries so that every cent subscribed has gone directly to the fund. A book with the names of all contributors will be preserved at the Manor House.

SUBMARINE S-19 HAS LISTED TO AN ANGLE OF 35 DEGREES

Keeled Over While Tug Resolute Was Attempting to Haul Her Off—Crew Has Been Taken Off—Might Be Necessary to Await Another Storm to Scatter the Sand on the Bar and Loosen the S-19 From Sandy Bar—Tugs Ceased Pulling Because of Danger of Straining the Thin Shell of the Submarine.

Boston, Jan. 14.—The submarine S-19, grounded on the outer bar of Orleans harbor in a fog early yesterday, was keeled over to an angle of 35 degrees tonight as the result of efforts of the tug Resolute, from the navy yard at Brooklyn, to haul her off, according to a radio message received at the Boston navy yard tonight. It was stated that it had been necessary to have the submarine's crew removed.

Owing to the excessive heeling of the submarine, salvaging operations could not be continued, it was said, until the removal of the crew had been concluded. The radio messages came from the naval tug Wandank.

According to the report, the Resolute parted the line to the submarine early this afternoon in an attempt to make fast a six inch cable. Late today a 10-inch Manila cable was made fast but further hours of tugging at the stranded craft only served to pull her over to port, her off-shore side.

Time Wandank requested that the tug Mohave be dispatched from the navy yard to remove the S-19's crew to Boston.

The submarine commander informed the Wandank that his vessel was still undamaged, except for the rudder, and that the crew would batten down the hatches before leaving.

FAIL IN EFFORTS TO FLOAT SUBMARINE S-19

Chatham, Mass., Jan. 14.—Repeated efforts to haul the submarine S-19 from the outer bar of Orleans harbor where she grounded in a fog early yesterday failed at flood tide this afternoon. As the tide ebbed two tugs and two coast guard cutters which have been standing by the submarine gave up the attempt until conditions should be more favorable.

The wrecking tug Resolute which arrived today from Brooklyn, N. Y., tugged at intervals for two hours at the steel hawser which had been carried aboard the submarine earlier in the day, but the stranded vessel had become deeply imbedded in the sand and could not be moved. The naval tug Wandank, which had been standing by since yesterday, did not pull on the S-19 because of the danger of straining the thin shell of the submarine.

Officers said that it might necessary to await another storm which would scatter the sand of the bar and loosen the S-1 from her sandy bed. The Resolute will stand by all night, it was said, to keep the hawser taut. The Wandank and the coast guard cutters Tampa and Acushnet also remained nearby. Lieutenant C. F. Martin, commander of the S-19, and his crew decided to stay on board their vessel tonight. Last night they refused the offer of a short coast guard crew to take them to the beach.

The first step toward releasing the submarine from her position where she struck early yesterday while bound from Portsmouth, N. H., to New London, Conn., was taken early in the day when a line was taken aboard by surf boats from the cutters and the Wandank. The sea remained fairly smooth throughout the day and a wind from the northwest made condition favorable for the work. The S-19 was resting easily on the bar, it was said, and was undamaged so far as her officers could determine. She had a list to port which increased appreciably during the day.

HOT ON THE TRAIL OF THE MAIL CAR ROBBER

Mineola, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Postal inspectors announced tonight that they were "hot on the trail" of the robber who last night boarded a Long Island train and helped himself to a $10,000 roll of currency and escaped within the space of four minutes.

The thief, Chief Inspector Clarahan declared, had one or two accomplices, who the inspector said, soon will be apprehended. Reports from his agents at work on the case with the forces of Nassau County Police Chief Frank McCabill convinced him, Mr. Clarahan said, that the chase had been narrowed down to two or three men, "well known New York crooks who have been arrested before, but never for a postal robbery."

Neither railway mail employes nor men on the staff of the First National bank of Bellmore, which had mailed the $10,000 packet to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, were implicated, Clarahan indicated.

A motor car of the closed type, stripped of its license plates, was found by the county and federal agents near Hempstead today. The investigators learned that the car had been parked at the Bellmore station last evening. Just before the currency-carrying train pulled in, a man alighted from the motor and it drove away. It is believed the confederate drove the car to a point near Merrick, the next town, toward New York, where he awaited the robber. The thief, his face hidden by a handkerchief, boarded the moving train as it pulled out of Bellmore. In the four minutes that elapsed before the train reached Merrick he had held up the mail clerk, John P. Greene, rifled the mail sack containing the currency and jumped to safety as the train slowed down for the Merrick station.

Three farmers tonight reported finding the empty pouch which had contained the currency in a field at North Beach, L. I., not far from the scene of the robbery. It was turned over to the police.

The canvas pouch, 12 inches wide and 18 inches long, and stencilled "Federal Reserve Bank," is believed by the police to have been cast into the field by the bandit passing in an automobile.

Inside the bag was a carbon copy of a receipt for $10,000.

RAPID EXPANSION OF THE RADIO INDUSTRY

New York, Jan. 14.—Rapid expansion of the radio industry which is fast becoming one of the country's leading enterprises, is attracting the capital of prominent financiers, it was revealed today in an announcement that Percy A. Rockefeller, Matthew C. Brush, E. R. Harriman and others associated with them were taking a large interest in the recapitalization of the Music Masters Corporation of Philadelphia, said to be one of the largest radio distributors in the United States.

In connection with a proposed change in the company's capital structure, public offering will be made shortly of $150,000 shares of its stock, its former capitalization of $,500 shares of 7 per cent. preferred and 7,500 shares of no par value common having been retired. Present capitalization is now 500,000 shares of no par common, of which 450,000 will be outstanding. Gross business in 1924 was approximately $3,687,000.

SAYS MURDER STATEMENT WAS MADE FOR REVENGE

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 14.—John Slocum, of Rochester, late this afternoon declared to police that his story of yesterday accusing Stephen Wwinowski of the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whaley and Mrs. George Morse at Linden, N. Y., last March, was untrue. The story, Slocum said, was made up by him for revenge against Kwikowski, who he alleged had eloped with his wife.

SECOND DAY PROGRAM OF THE STATE GRANGE

Hartfrod, Jan. 14.—Prof. E. C. Rogers of Trinity popularized the scientific data and theories regarding the total eclipse of the sun on Jan. 24 at the lecturers' conference in the second day of the three-days program of the Connecticut State grange here this afternoon. He brought out for the purpose of comparison the respective diameters and rates of speed of the three solar bodies concerned, the sun, the moon and the earth. He described the eclipse as the shadow cast by the moon coming between the earth and the sun, with the result of the projected cast of a cornucopie shadow with its apex pointed at the earth.

Representing the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Wendell Phillips Thore of Squantum, Mass., pleaded for the rights of an old age pension law on the grounds of equality for all old peoples. He said that the Fraternal Order of Eagles would introduce such a bill in the Connecticut general assembly.

The sixth degree was conferred on a large class of candidates with remarks by visiting patrons at Foot Guards all at 8 o'clock tonight.

The three-day convention will close with a meeting at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with reports of committees and action thereon. The morning session will open at 9.30 o'clock with the introduction of business for immediate action.

"AUTOMOBILE POLISH" OR INTOXICATING LIQUOR?

Bridgeport, Jan. 14.—Conflicting evidence as to whether "automobile polish" or "intoxicating liquor fit for beverage purposes" was sold to state investigators by Margaret Stokes of Southport was heard in the common pleas court today before Judge John J. Walsh and a jury.

Miss Stokes, alleged by the state to have sold liquor to state investigators on four separate occasions during last October, was fined $175 and sentenced to three days in jail when arraigned in the Fairfield town court. She appealed the case.

Witnesses for the defense denied all accusations of the state, both Miss Stokes and her aged mother, Mrs. Catherine Stokes, testifying that the state investigators had only visited their home on one occasion nad not on four as was claimed. On this visit the investigators purchased a bottle of "automobile polish" and not the bottle of "intoxicating liquor" offered by the state as evidence, it was claimed.

SALVAGED $600,000 CARGO OF COPPER OFF CHILEAN COAST

New York, Jan. 14.—Capt. Benjamin Leavitt of Philadelphia has broken all records for deep sea salvage in recovering a $600,000 cargo of copper that had lain since 1869 with the wreck of the British freighter Cape Horn off the coast of Chile, said messages received today by the Westinghouse Lamp companyf rom the salvage ship Blakely.

Captain Leavitt and his corps of divers were reported to have worked "as though in daylight, at a depth of $18 feet," using high-pressure diving suits of the captain's invention and pressure-resisting deep sea lights.

"It is Captain Leavitt's ambition next to salvage the $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 of treasure that lies in the sunken hull of the Lusitania," the company said.

EARTHQUAKE DESTROYED VILLAGES IN TANSCAUCASIA

London, Jan. 4.—Four villages have been destroyed and 140 persons killed in an earthquake at Ardahan, in Trans-Caucasia, says a despatch to the Daily Mail from Constantinople.

The ditpatch adds that 2,000 persons are homeless with the temperature 23 degrees (Fahrenheit) below zero. Earth shocks are continuing intermittently.

Moscow, Jan. 14.—In the presence of George Tchitcherin and Maxim Litvinoff, respectively foreign and deputy foreign ministers, and other members of the soviet government, Edouard Harbettere, the new French ambassador to Russia, today presented his credentials to President Kalinin at an elaborate ceremonw in the Kremlin Palace.

GASOLINE PRICES TO BE ADVANCED TODAY

New York, Jan. 14.—Gasoline prices in most of the eastern states will be raised tomorrow by the principal refining companies. The advance which is the first since the early part of November, reflects the terrific drain on gasoline stocks since June 1 of last year's despite a 17 per cent. increase in gasoline manufacture.

The Standard Oil company of New York announced today that the price of gasoline will be raised two cents a gallon in New York and the New England states, making the New York wagon price 17 cents a gallon and 20 cents at filling stations. Naptha prices will be raised one cent a gallon at the same time. The Gulf Refining company will advance the price of gasoline two cents in North Carolina and 1 1-2 cent sin South Carolina.

Similar advances are expected in oil trade circles tomorrow by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and other large refiners covering eastern territory.

Gasoline stocks east of the Rocky Mountains have shown a steady decrease since May 31 last when the peak figures of 1,649,953,755 gallons was wrecked. By Nov. 30, the latest date for which figures are available the country's reserve supply was reduced 916,785,099 gallons or $1.3 per cent.

TESTIMONY BEGUN IN CASE OF CHARLES A. STONEHAM

New York, Jan. 14.—The first witness in the trial of Charles A. Stoneham, principal owner of the New York Giants, and seven co-defendants charged with using the mails to do fraud, was called this afternoon, after opposing counsel had presented their opening arguments. Motions were made by defense counsel for dismissal of the indictments, to have a juror withdrawn and a mistrial declared, all of which were denied by Judge Winslow.

Martin Conboy, attorney for three of Stoneham's co-defendants, declared that Stoneham "is as liable today as he ever was" to the customers of his former brokerage concern for the losses they sustained in the failure of E. D. Dier and Mompany, the brokerage house to which Stoneham transferred the accounts of his customers.

This was in answer to a statement by Special United States Attorney Victor E. House in which he compared Stoneham to a thief and E. D. Dier and Company to a "fence." The prosecution, he said, would charge and prove that the brokerage firms of Charles A. Stoneham and Company, and E. D. Dier and Company were bucketshops.

Mr. Conboy denied that there was any mention of bucketshops or bucketing in the indictments. Even if all the allegations in all the indictments against all of the defendants were proved, Mr. Conroy contended, not one of them could be convicted of crime.

BEER BOTTLING OUTFIT LOCATED IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Jan. 14.—A garage on Water View avenue near Nichols street, readily accessible to boats coming from the sound up the Pequonnock river, rented to Jacob Levy, of Westport, by James F. Doherty, of this city, was equipped with a complete beer-bottling outfit and was the starting point last year for trucks laden with cases of beer which left "night after night" for New York city, it was alleged in criminal superior court this afternoon before Judge William M. Maltbie and a jury during the trial of Levy, charged in seven counts with transporting beer.

Levy was declared by State Policeman Edward Streaman to have called his output of beer "the best stuff I have," it selling "for from 75 cents to $1 in New York." While admitting there was "money in it sometimes," Levy was quoted as saying "the profit of three loads were lost when one load was knocked off" by the authorities.

Policeman Streaman testified that Levy told him "you and the bunch at the Royal James inn," (Norwalk headquarters for state policemen), are the only black eye for me in the state. Once I get 'over the line' I'm all right."

One youth, now an inmate of the Cheshire reformatory, who said he drove Alvion Craigs trucks, loaded with beer to New York, testified how, when twice arrested in Norwalk and Greenwich, able lawyers were in court to defend him without his hiring them or subsequently paying for their services, and that his bonds were furnished and his fines paid.

HEARING CLOSED ON THE CAPE COD CANAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Hearing on the house bill proposing purchase of the Cape Cod canal by the government for $11,500,000 was closed tonight by the senate commerce subcommittee after reopening of the case today at the request of Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska.

Senator Howell expressed a desire to continue, but Chairman Fernald, republican, Maine, declared that four hours of questioning today by him had failed to develop much additional information to that contained in the record of previous hearings and the subcommittee in executive session unanimously decided to end proceedings. Senator Howell was given opportunity to submit further questions in writing to officials of the Cape Cod Canal company.

Action on the bill by the full commerce committee is expected next week. Senator Howell declared his purpose in asking reopening of the hearings was to show that the canal was being operated at an "absolute loss and burden all these years."

PEDIGREED BOSTOR TERRIER FOR WHITE HOUSE KENNEL

Boston, Jan. 14.—A twelve pound pedigreed Boston terrier named "Cal's Pal," the gift of the Haverhill Kennel club to President Coolidge left here tonight for Washington where he will make his home in the White House.

A letter which accompanies the dog expresses the hope that President Coolidge will accept him "as a token of respect and collective regard."

The M'Fadden Bill Passed by House

Measure Provides For Revision of National Banking Laws—Vote was 172 to 65.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The house late today passed the McFadden bill which would revise the national banking laws.

As sent to the senate, the measure carried the Hull amendments dealing with branch banking, all of which were accepted by Chairman McFadden, of the banking committee, author of the bill.

The bill was passed by a standing vote of 172 to 65, after the house, by a roll call vote of 238 to 90, had rejected a motion by Representative Black, democrat, Texas, to recommit the measure for addition to it of a series of amendments, sponsored by him and Representative Steagall, another democratic member of the banking committee, which previously had been turned down.

One of the amendments adopted today, offered by Representative Wingo, of Arkansas, ranking democrat on the committee, struck out a section which made the following acts crimes punishable under federal statutes:

Conspiracy to boycott, blacklist, or cause withdrawal of deposits from a bank holding membership in the federal reserve system; robbery or burglary of a member bank; making intentional false statements for the purpose of obtaining credit from a member bank, or fraudulently dissipating or selling personal property upon which there is a mortgage to a member bank.

Mr. Wingo and supporters of this motion contended that all the crimes enumerated were punishable under state laws.

The bill, the banking policy of which has been endorsed by the National Association of Credit Men and the American Bankers' association, is designed to put national banks on a better competitive basis with state institutions, particularly with regard to maintenance of branches. As reported to the house the measure gave national banks the right to maintain intra-city branches where state banks are permitted to do a branch banking business, but the amendments put forward by Representative M. D. Hull, republican, Illinois, which the house accepted, placed restrictions on the maintenance of these branches.

The Hull amendments provide that in states hereafter legalizing branch banking, national banks must obtain authority from congress before establishing branches to meet state branch competition. In such instances state banks would be denied privileges of the federal reserve system until national banks were accorded the right to compete with branches on an equal footing.

Passage of the McFadden bill paved the way for consideration tomorrow by the house of the $39,000,000 rivers and harbors authorization bill.

FINDINGS REPORTED BY AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION

Washington, Jan. 14.—President Coolidge was advised today by his agricultural commission that existing finance agencies are able to handle the credit emergency in the livestock industry but that a new land policy, revision of transportation charges and a protective tariff are needed to put the cattle business on a sound footing.

In a preliminary report, in which it reserved its recommendations concerning the tariff and freight rates, the commission declared it had sought a solution of the livestock problem, through better utilization of existing government institutions, "in sympathy with the president's desire for decreased tax burdens and further simplicity of governmental operations."

Amendment of the agricultural credits act to eliminate the provision prohibiting rediscounting by the credit banks of loans negotiated by agencies having federal charter, was suggested, and the chairman of the farm loan board would be required to report to the president on July 1, as to progress made in meeting the emergency.

Creation of a committee to draft a uniform policy covering cattle grazing on public domain and in national forests was suggested, and the commission approved increasing present grazing charges in the meantime. The committee would be composed of the secretaries of interior and agriculture and three other members appointed by them.

MEN APPOINTED ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENTS CAPITOL

Hartford, Jan. 14.—Supt. Frank W. Congdon today announced that Comptroller Salmon has appointed the following men assistant superintendents at the capitol for the period of the present session of the general assembly:

Joseph Bullock, Hartfrod; Abraham Zimmerman, Hartford; Joseph Mylnarski, New Britain; Aaron Danielson, New Britain; Joseph Mazzarelli, New Haven; Frank Dokorny, Haddam; John Larned, Stafford Springs; Benjamin Lyman, Hebron; J. Douglas, Bristol; Fred Taylor, Lebanon; Charles Ross, Bridgeport; Samuel Friedman, Colchester; Edward J. McBride, Killingly; Frank M. Bedard, Brooklyn; John Behen, Newtown; John Keeler, Oxord; Paul Grazovini, Torrington; Robert Sinclair, Monroe; Hull Bartram, Redding; Albert Fiorillo, Bristol; F. W. Woodward, Sharon; George Rogers, Hamden; M. C. Smith, Meriden.

WAS HELD AS FUGITIVE AFTER THEFT OF VIOLIN

New York, Jan. 14.—Arrested today for the theft of a violin valued at $5,000 from Mrs. Sarah C. Sears, of Boston, where he was employed as a butler, Arthur Whenham, of Brooklyn, was arraigned in Tombe court charged with being a fugitive. Masistrate Renauld held him in bail of $7,500 for a hearing Friday. He pleaded not guilty.

Whenham was arraigned on a short affadavit which said he had been indicted in Boston for the larceny of the violin.

Senate Passed The Underwood Bill

Provides For Leasing of Muscle Shoals—Vote Was 50 to 30 — Bill Now Goes to House.

Washington, Jan. 14.—With final approval of the Underwood private leasing bill, 50 to 30, the senate today got itself out of the parliamentary tangle into which it became enmeshed yesterday.

The measure, after a tempestuous six weeks' voyage in the senate, now goes to the house, which, at the last session, passed a bill accepting the offer of Henry Ford, since withdrawn. The bill there either can be sent direct to conference or can be referred to the military committee.

Friends of the measure are bending their efforts to have it sent to conference between the two houses with a view to obtaining final congressional action before this session expires on March 4, while opponents are working to have it referred to a committee in the hope that there will be no final action by this congress.

Senate approval of the Underwood measure was brought about by a coalition of administration republicans and a group of democrats, and came after Senator Curtis of Kansas, the majority leader, had conferred with President Coolidge at the White House. Immediately afetr the senate had, the Underwood bill was accepted for a second time, 46 to 33, as a substitute for the Norris government operation plan, which had been approved yesterday, 40 to 39, over the Jones proposal to refer the problem to a committee with instructions to report next December.

With the Underwood measure back before the senate, Senator Jones, the republican whip, re-offered his proposal, which displaced the Underwood bill yesterday, but it was rejected, 43 to 38, 10 of the administration republicans who supported it yesterday declining it today for the Underwood plan.

Opposing the Underwood bill on the final vote were 13 republicans from western states; 16 democrats, mostly from southern and western states, and one farmer-laborr. Thirty-four republicans, 14 of them from western states, and 16 democrats, three of them from western states, voted for the bill.

SUCCESSFULLY INOCULATED AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 14.—A notable improvement of posture and an increase in the percentage of freshmen inoculated against typhoid fever were found in physical examinations conducted at Harvard at the beginning of the academic year, the results of which were made public today. The statistics were gathered from nearly 1200 men, including the freshman class of 970, the 288 first-year men of the graduate school of business and other students entering the college for the first time.

Only 56 per cent of the freshmen were rated as standing poorly as against 63 per cent the previous year. Barely 10 per cent were rated as having very bad posture as against 14 per cent in 1923. In 1919, when the work was first begun at the university, 80 per cent showed generally unsatisfactory bodily mechanics. The report attributed much of the improvement to the interest in the work manifested by the secondary schools.

The report said that 77 per cent more of the freshmen had been inoculated against typhoid fever than was the case the year before. The number of freshmen who have had some operation on the nose or throat, normally about 50 per cent., rose to 60 per cent. One per cent more had their appendices removed than is in the class examined last year. Between 1 and 2 per cent had been tested for their susceptibility to diphtheria. About the same number were found with neglected teeth as heretofore, but this was a relatively small number, about 4 per cent of the class. The percentage of freshmen who wear glasses remained approximately the same as the previous year.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house passed the McFadden banking bill.

The Underwood Muscles Shoals bill finally passed the senate.

President Coolidge's agricultural commission submitted its recommendations for relief of the livestock industry.

Secretary Mellon endorsed a bill proposing expenditure of $25,000,000 annually for six years for public buildings and grounds.

Reduction in interest charged railroads for government loans was recommended to the senate interstate commerce committee by Secretary Mellon.

A trade balance of $977,285,000 favorable to the United States, was shown in figures of the commerce department covering the calendar year of 1924.

Secretary Hoover told a meeting of businessmen that the spread of commodity prices from producer to consumer could be reduced by co-operative measures in industry and commerce.

The state department requested the release from jail at Progreso Mexico, of Dr. W. F. Lorez, of Wisconson, and other Americans charged with filibustering.

DEM. CAMPAIGN FOR NEXT CONGRESSIONAL ELECTION

Washington, Jan. 14.—The democratic party intends to conduct "an active and energetic campaign in every congressional district and expects to carry the house in 1926," it was announced today by Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, the new chairman of the democratic national congressional committee.

"To succeed in the early future," Mr. Oldfield said, "democrats have but to educate, organize and stand wholeheartedly for their party principles and party faith, as the recent election results were not a party reverse so much as a serious setback to the general public on the vital interests of public morality, official honesty, governmental favoritism, and incompetency at Washington."

ULTIMATE RELEASE OF DR. LORENZ ASSURED

Madison, Wis., Jan. 14.—The Wisconsin department of state late today received a message from Judson C. Welliver, executive clerk of the White House at Washington, saying that there was no question of the ultimate release of Dr. W. F. Lorenz, chairman of the state board of control, held in a Mexican prison on charge of filibustering.

PROTOCOL FOR THE DAWES PLAN ANNUITIES SIGNED

No Reservations of Any Importance Were Made by Any of the Eleven Powers Affixing Their Signatures to the Protocol—By the Agreement the United States Becomes a Partner With the Allies in the Collection of Payments From Germany Under the Dawes Scheme.

Paris, Jan. 14 (By the A. P.)—Eleven powers participating in the Paris conference of allied finance ministers today signed the protocol for distribution of the Dawes plan annuities in which the United States shares. The final plenary session of the conference at the Quai D'Orsay occupied two hours.

It was a week to a day since the meetings of the finance ministers began and it was the first conference of 29 held since the armistice to come to an end before the date scheduled, and the only one in which every delegation returned home apparently satisfied.

The most notable achievements of the conference were:

First, the determining of the distribution of the Dawes annuities between the allies and their associates; second the obtaining of the United States as a partner with the allies in the collection of payments from Germany under the Dawes scheme, and third, the liquidating of the Ruhr occupational account.

The question of the American claims was the hardest for the conference to settle. These claims were the subject of long and tense, but always friendly, bargaining and a compromise was reached that satisfied all concerned. The fact that America is joining the allies in the reparation syndicate for the entire period of the Dawes plan is regarded here as an event of the first political importance.

No reservations of any importance were made by any of the powers in affixing their signatures to the protocol. The final session, which was expected to be a mere formality of signatures—a complete agreement on all questions having been reached last night—was marked by one of the most important developments of the entire conference when James A. Logan, Jr., of the American delegation, sprang a surprise by obtaining a further concession to America during the closing minutes of the meeting.

The agreement before the conference provided that the amount of war damages which would go to America should not exceed $350,000,000. Mr. Logan succeeded in having this clause stricken from the protocol.

Following the final session, American Ambassador Kellogg was singled out by M. Clementel, French minister of finance, and Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, for congratulations upon his appointment as his successor to Secretary of State Hughes.

In his address to the conference Ambassador Kellogg was optimistic about the rehabilitation of Europe but his hearers were disappointed in discovering no hint in his speech concerning his future policy toward American participation in European affairs.

Before the affixing of the signatures to the protocol the American delegation made the technical reservation that the phrase "Allied Powers" should be used throughout the document without mention being made of "Associate." Brazil and Rumania also made slight reservations in the interpretation of the instrument.

RUMORS OF MAKE-UP OF NEW GERMAN MINISTRY

Berlin, Jan. 14.—(By the the A. P.) The formal appointment of Dr. Hans Luther as chancellor of the new government has been postponed until tomorrow, although it was stated at government headquarters tonight that Dr. Luther had informed President Ebert that he was prepared to accept the nomination, his negotiations with the parties to be included in the new cabinet having progressed sufficiently to warrant his undertaking the formation of a ministry.

The only point on which a definite agreement has not yet been reached concerns Dr. Luther's demand for a specific vote of confidence at the hands of the reichstag, and on this issue he is still awaiting the decision of various party leaders with respect to the phraseology of such a motion.

An official communique issued shortly before midnight indicated that the long drawn out crisis will soon reach a definite conclusion. While Dr. Luther is said to have prepared a list of his cabinet, its ultimate composition has not yet been determined upon.

Dr. Luther will probably present his list to the reichstag Friday. It is known that at least four members of the retiring ministry will retain their portfolios—Dr. Gustav Stresseman, foreign affairs; Dr. Otto Gessler, defense; Heinrich Brauns, labor, and Count on Kanitz, food.

Martin Schiele, chairman of the German national delegation in the reichstag, is named as prospective minister of the interior. He ranks as a reactionary "die-hard" as does Dr. Neuhaus, formerly under-secretary in the ministry of economics, who is slated for a post in Luther's cabinet. The clerical party in addition to being represented by Dr. Brauns will probably also receive the ministry of justice, for which post it has recommended Dr. Scholtcn, well known jurist of Duesseldorf.

NEW HAVEN WOMAN KILLED 7-YEAR-OLD SON

New Haven, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Jennie Zarzekci, wife of Felicks Zarzyki, a blacksmith, killed her son, Edward, aged seven years, by cutting his throat with a razor at her home, 201 Chapel street, early this forenoon. After cutting the child's throat the woman hurried to the Grand Avenue police station where she fell in a faint as she faced the desk sergeant. Upon being revived she told the police that she had killed her son and showed them a razor, which she said she had cut the child's throat. Police hurried to the home where the body of the lad, with blood still flowing from a long cut in the throat, was found on a bed. The woman was locked up and the coroner and police began an investigation of the murder.

When asked why she committed the murder, the woman, according to the police declared her husband "did not love her any more."

SENTENCED FOR ASSAULTING THREE YOUNG WOMEN

Waterbury, Jan. 14.—Charged with assaulting three Waterbury young women in an automobile on the Bethany road last fall, after a dance at a tavern on the outskirts of Derby, John Maroney, 25, of Ansonia, was sentenced to state's prison this morning in the superior court by Judge John T. Booth to a term of not less than two nor more than four years. He pleaded guilty.

His companion, Thomas Gallagher, charged with a similar offense, will be tried at the next term of court. He is now recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

BURIAL OF BROTHER OF JOHN B. GOUGH

Mr. Gough died at City hospital late last night, after a long illness, not knowing that his wife had died Sunday night. Both were 72 years old.

INQUIRY INTO OPERATIONS OF THE U. S. AIR SERVICE

New York, Jan. 14.—Heads of the commercial aircraft industry, as well as bankers, railroad chiefs and heads of state and local trade organizations, were scheduled to appear before the house sub-committee of inquiry into operations of the United States air service, in session here tomorrow after six weeks of testimony taking at Washington.

The inquiry was said by Representative Randolph Perkins of New Jersey, sub-committee chairman and chief examiner, to have reached the constructive and final stage. Out of it probably would develop recommendations for congress designed to establish a national air policy founded upon a program for joint development of commercial aviation with expansion of federal and private aircraft resources.

Originally empowered to learn how and why the nation spent $483,000,000 for army and navy air services from 1920 to 1924, the sub-committee has found evidence that, in order to compete in the air with other nations, a national air policy will be imperative, said Mr. Perkins.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Secretary of War Weeks, heads of the army, navy and postal services, the round-the-world fliers and government investigators of aircraft, abroad have testified. As a result the congressional committee has undertaken to answer these questions:

(1) How much need the nation expend each year to establish and maintain a military and supplemental commercial air force equal to that of other nations, particularly France, England and Japan? (2) Should the army, navy, air mail, coast guard, bureau of mines, forestry service, national park, geological survey and bureau of entomology air activities be incorporated in a unified air service? (3) Should there be a unified air service budget? (4) Can commercial aviation be profitably undertaken, and, if so, how? (5) To what extent would a government subsidy of private aircraft industries be necessary? (6) How could standardization of commercial as well as military, aircraft be effected in such manner as to assure speedy quantity production in the event of war?

PADEREWSKI CONCERT IN ROME A SUCCESS

Rome, Jan. 14 (By the A. P.)—Ignace JanPaderewski was heard at a concert here today for the first time in 28 years. It proved an enormous success. The auditors, who were numerous, comprised the most distinguished personalities in Roman society, headed by the queen mother, Margarita. Premier Mussolini, who had promised to attend, was unable to be present. He sent word to Paderewski that he regretted he was unable to leave the chamber of deputies.

The Polish pianist-statesman was received by deafening applause when he made his entrance upon the stage to begin the concert. The entire audience stood to receive him. He played compositions by Mendelssohn, Schuman, Beethoven, Liszt and other masters. Each number was greeted with vociferous applause and the concert ended in an ovation for the pianist.

PROPOSE STATE AGENCY TO DISPENSE INTOXICANTS

Boston, Jan. 14.—A state agency to dispense intoxicating liquor to persons honestly in need of it was proposed in an order filed with the clerk of the house of representatives today by Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, a Congregational minister. The order asked for an investigation by the state commission on the necessaries of life to determine whether such an agency could be set up under the Volstead act and 18th amendment.

Representative Sawyer gave as reason for his action the fact that the poor people of the state under existing conditions "are compelled to pay an unjust and exorbitant price for prescription liquor."

Frank Parzick, 32, occupant of the Old Chandler Farm in North Ashford, town of Eastford, was presented before Justice of the Peace U. Grant Trowbridge of the Eastford town court, on Monday afternoon, to answer to a charge of keeping liquor with the intent to sell. Parsick pleaded guilty and was fined $75 and costs, amounting to $92.45, which he paid. Grand Juror E. W. Greene prosecuted the case. Last Saturday evening Sergeant Russell Harmon and Officer Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks raided the Parzick home but their efforts were partly foiled by the quick action of Mrs. Parsick who succeeded in destroying the bulk of the evidence by emptying out the contents of one jug and nearly all of the moonshine contained in another.

The officers left with a small quantity of evidence but no arrest was made at that time Officer Heinold returned later and backed by additional evidence which he secured took Parzick before the court.

JEWETT CITY

The 24 semi-automatic shoulder rifles that have been under manufacture at Springfield armory in accordance with designs of John S. Garaud, a civilian expert on the staff of that armory, are virtually completed. They will be given preliminary tests there, then they will be sent to Aberdeen Proving Ground for further firings, and then to the infantry board at Fort Benning, Ga., and the cavalry board at Fort Riley, Kas., for extensive service tests. This is in accordance with the order placed by the war department for the manufacture of two types of rifles in order to ascertain if either is suitable for adoption. The other type is a rifle invented by Col. John T. Thompson, United States Army, retired. Both types are to be tested very soon. Mr. Garaud is a Jewett City boy, and received his first training in a mechanical line in the machine shop in Slater's mill. His immediate family live in Jewett City. His type of rifle has been shown on the moving picture screen, a number of Jewett City people seeing the film.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

No More Weak, Pale, Iron-Starved Blood!

Thousands of Run-down, Nervous, Ailing Men and Women Quickly Restored to Bounding Health and Vitality—Through Wonderful New Combination of Organic Iron Like the Iron In Our Own Blood.

The circle below the above picture shows what a drop of your blood looks like thru a microscope when you are run down. Lack of iron makes it thin, pale and watery.

The circle below the above picture shows the way your blood will look thru the microscope when it is rich, red and healthy, with plenty of strengthening iron.

IF you tire easily—if you are pale, haggard and worn—if your nerves are always on edge, making you cross, irritable and "jumpy"—if you are in a general run-down condition, frequently dizzy, sick or half-sick most of the time—you will probably be astonished to know that all these symptoms and many others are often due to lack of one vital element—organic iron—in your blood.

And it is a condition which in new very simple and easy to remedy. For Science has developed a wonderful new combination of iron, like the organic iron in our own blood, which often in only two weeks' time makes a marvelous improvement in appearance, health, strength and vitality.

It doesn't matter how long you have been in this condition—it doesn't matter how many nare stimulating medicines and tonics you have taken without success—this newer organic iron, Nuxated Iron, has been so successful in thousands of chronic cases that it is positively guaranteed to give new strength and endurance—or it costs you nothing.

How New Combination of Iron Quickly Helps Restore Health and Strength

Any physician will tell you that iron seems to be absolutely essential to life itself. Without sufficient iron the blood loses its power to change food into living tissue. Therefore nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you don't get the strength out of it. As a result of this blood deficiency people become generally weakened, nervous and all run-down and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is bordered with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night, others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable, some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance.

Yet regardless of how long this has been going on, the entire condition is usually banished in an amazingly short time by the use of this newer form of iron that is like the iron in your own body. For it is designed to give to your starving blood and nerves exactly those elements which they have lost, and which you need to bring back your vigor, stamina and youth.

You will be amazed how quickly your strength seems to come to you again—how the lines of care and hard work seem to vanish and years drop from your appearance.

Why It Acts So Quickly and Thoroughly

Physicians have for years been prescribing iron for this, nervous, weak and ill persons because they knew that iron is one of the most important ingredients of rich, red, healthy blood. Unfortunately the only forms of iron available till recently were chemical compounds made from minerals, which often blackened and injured the teeth, and upset the stomach. Besides in many cases they seemed to give no benefit at all.

But this new combination of iron, known as Nuxated Iron, is like the iron in the blood itself, and is entirely different from the older forms. It has no injurious effects, and physicians have found it to be much more quickly taken up by the blood and to act far more speedily to enrich impoverished blood, rejuvenate exhausted nerves and build up the entire system.

Results Positively Guaranteed or Money Refunded

The effect of Nuxated Iron is so remarkable and surprising that it often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down men and women in 2 weeks' time! Note how just a few doses will help give you new bounding energy, and make you feel and look years younger. So many thousands have shown these remarkable benefits that results are now positively guaranteed, or no cost.

Make this amazing test yourself without risking a penny.—Find out how long you can work or how far you can walk without feeling tired. Then get a bottle of Nuxated Iron and take it for just 2 weeks. If even in that short time you do not notice a remarkable improvement in health and strength—if you do not already feel and look several years younger—take the bottle back and the druggist will instantly refund your money. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.

DANIELSON

Invitations for serious accidents are being broadcast all through this section. They are being issued by scores of young people who insist on coasting down hills on state highways or on or across streets where there is heavy motor traffic. They not only coast on these thoroughfares during the daytime, but, what is even more dangerous, at night. No amount of cautioning appears to have any effect upon these reckless children and others who are in their adolescence. They will slide where they will if costs a leg or cracks a cranium.

Their coasting at night without any lights showing would appear to be a violation of the law, for a ripper that carries from four to nine people is certainly a vehicle of a sort and it is using a highway on which all vehicles are required to display lights at night.

These coasters are the present day terror of the motorists. No sane driver wants to injure or kill anyone, yet the possibility is strong that this will happen unless the coasters are curbed. At Wauregan during the early part of Tuesday evening one would have to be argus-eyed to avoid a collision with coasters who came dashing down the state highway hill into the village without any regard whatsoever for the motor traffic that was moving. And Wauregan is no worse as to daring coasters than this or other communities hereabouts.

One may contend that a person has a right to flirt with death if one desires, but there is another side to this matter. The chances are that any motorist who hits a coasting party will be subjected to a suit for damages, though he be not in the slightest degree at fault. There is the rub, and that is generally what happens nowadays.

In no sense would any reasonable person wish to deny anyone the joy of coasting. The point is being made that it is unfair to allow it on state highways or in borough streets where it causes extreme danger of accidents.

At the annual meeting of St. Alban's parish held Tuesday evening reports received from church officials and officers of various organizations of the parish showed that the parish is in flourishing condition. The encouraging nature of the reports enthused the church members over projects the parish has in view.

Rev. Leonard R. Richards, the rector, reviewed the first year of the work in the parish. Reports that were received and approved were presented by the collector, J. M. Bamford, and by the treasurer, John Marland. For the Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. A. H. Armington reported; Mrs. Alfred L. Reed for the Women's auxiliary; Miss Ada King, for the Altar chapter, and Mrs. F. O. Armington, for the Church Periodical club, which collects magazines subscribed for by church members and forwards them to distant parts of the nation, where they are gratefully received by mountain folks.

The meeting elected Alfred L. Reed as delegate of St. Alban's parish to the annual convention of the Episcopal churches of Connecticut.

Officers elected were: Senior warden, James H. Milner; junior warden, William J. Shaw; treasurer, John Marland; collector, J. M. Bamford; clerk, Alfred L. Reed; auditor, Walter A. Musgrave; vestrymen for three years, Alfred L. Reed, John P. Marland, E. H. Keach, E. L. Darbie; for two years, John Bamford, John Ashworth, Sidney P. Marland, Francis E. Storer; for one year, Samuel Boyd, Merrill Gallup, Herbert F. Pepler, Edward Anderson.

An interesting ceremony was the installation of the newly effected officers of Orient lodge, K. of P., by Deputy Jacob Weschler and his suite of Jewett City. The installation was followed by a social hour at which short addresses were made by visiting and local members. Refreshments were served. The new officers are: Chancellor commander, Alton Eldridge; vice commander, R. E. Burton; prelate, Marion Young; master of work, H. W. Burton; keeper of records and seals, F. J. Trudden; master of finance, F. E. Young; master of exchequer, Walter W. Ryder; master-at-arms, Donald Armington; inside guard, John Preston; outside guard, Henry Burton.

Killingly High school's basketball team has seven home games remaining on its schedule. Next Monday night Plainfield High school will play here and in turn will come Putnam on Friday evening of next week. Bryant & Stratton on Feb. 4, Rockville High on Feb. 11, Chapman Technical school on Feb. 20, Tourtellotte Memorial High on Feb. 23, and Stafford Springs on March 18, scheduled as the final game of the season. Meanwhile the Killingly team will play seven out of town games.

The power of the press is great—too much so at times, it would appear. On occasion it can be greater than the law, unfortunately. Wednesday furnished a case in point. By an inadvertence an item appeared in the column stating that it was a legal fishing day at Alexander's lake. The item was written with the intention of its appearing today, which really is a legal fishing day at the lake. However, a number of fishermen started out for the lake on the strength of the item and likely would have gone fishing there had they not been more accurate about calendar dates. Fishing at Alexander's lake is legal only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Wednesday dates are not open dates for fishing there.

State Commander E. L. White of New Haven came here Wednesday evening to address members of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, the Ladies' auxiliary thereof and guests of the organization on the occasion of the installation of the newly elected officers of the post and the auxiliary. The post officers were installed by Clarence E. Reid, Central Village, district commander, and the auxiliary officers by Mrs. Hazel Breayea, the retiring president. There was a social hour and refreshments were served. Joseph Burton is the newly installed commander of the post, with Arthur DeForest as vice commander, Herbert Hopkins as adjutant, Alfred L. Reed, treasurer; Arthur Kimball, historian, and Albert Redman, chaplain.

Mrs. Sidney W. Bard is president of the auxiliary; Mrs. John M. Dowe, vice president; Mrs. J. Dyer Potter, secretary, and Mrs. Lucien Lambert, treasurer.

PUTNAM

The Putnam Inn, widely known as one of the best hotels in New England outside of the large cities, has been leased by E. C. Rogers, owner and manager, to the Knott Hotels, a large corporation operating many high class hotels.

The leasee expects to take over the hotel about Feb. 1st but the officers of the purchasing company are desirous of having the extensive alterations and improvements begun by Mr. Rogers last May be brought to near completion under his supervision.

Work on the exterior is practically done bu the rooms on the added fourth floor are not yet ready for occupancy. An elevator is being installed and the workmen on that are under rush orders.

The lease is for the hotel alone and does not affect the lower half of the first floor occupied by the Byrne store, the bowling alley or the garage and grounds in the rear.

Mr. Rogers has no definite plans as yet but he expects to remain a resident of Putnam and Mrs. Rogers and he will probably continue to make their home in the Inn.

David H. Knott, one of the members of the firm that is taking over the Inn was here yesterday. He was satisfied with the progress that is being made and was pleased with the fact that many applicants for rooms had to be turned away the night before, a condition that will be met by the large increase in the number of rooms. The corporation now operates fifteen hotels, eleven in New York and four outside, including The Wauregan, Norwich and Crocker House, New London.

For nearly 20 years, since April 8, 1905, Mr. Rogers has been the manager of The Inn. He bought the property in 1912 and began a series of improvements which have continued ever since. On May 3rd, last the extensive alterations that are now nearing completion were started. A fourth floor has been added to the building and a large addition in the rear which have allowed the number of sleeping rooms in be increased to 96. The front of the structure was rebuilt with tapestry brick in alternating shades of buff, the sidewalls and rear were finished in gray stucco, giving the building a most impressive and attractive appearance.

In Superior court Wednesday morning Judge Newell Jennings found Ernest Valiquette of Central Falls, R. I., guilty on the first count of the charge against him, assault with intent to rape, nolled the second count charging indecent assault, and found him not guilty on the third count, drunkenness. He was sentenced to the state reformatory. This is the case that was heard last Friday. The offense occurred on August 30 of last year at Moosup pond. Valiquette is 23 years old, married and has one child, born two and a half weeks ago which he has not seen as he has been at Brooklyn jail for the past four months on the above charge.

The annual meeting of the First Congregational church of Woodstock was held Saturday afternoon. Officers were elected as follows: Clerk, Henry T. Child; treasurer, William H. Gallup; auditor, Clarence H. Child; delegates to convention, B. R. Ritch, Maurice

GILPATRIC RESIDENCE SOLD TO ARTHUR E. SMITH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Jan. 14.—The residence of G. Harold Gilpatric, former cashier of the First National bank has been sold in bankruptcy proceedings, with the approval of the creditors, to Arthur E. Smith, at a price of $8,700. The purchaser is the cashier of the Citizens' National bank of Putnam, organized two months ago. The home is not the palatial residence that special correspondents described it during the tense days that followed Gilpatric's attempt at suicide, but it is a modern, comfortable house with an abundance of ground around it and many beautiful shade trees.

TRAINMEN PLEAD GUILTY AND RECEIVE SENTENCES

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Jan. 14.—When superior court convened this morning Joseph C. Bartlett and Joseph R. Noyer, engineer and fireman of the New Haven train that caused the wreck at Mechanicsville on October 24, resulting in the death of William S. Carpenter and Joseph Hoppman, changing their pleas of not guilty to manslaughter, entered last Thursday to "guilty." They were sentenced to one year in jail. Both men are residents of New London. The train that was in their charge had taken the siding at Mechanicsville to await the passenger train, but the switch was not closed. The light engine that pulled the passenger train, nothwithstanding the momentum that its speed of twenty miles a nhour at which it was traveling gave it was almost demolished when it crashed into the havy fright locomotiv. Carpenter and Hoppman were so badly injured that they died the net day at the Day Kimball hospital. Stephen Stickney, an engineer of New London, was riding home in the passenger engine. He suffered a fracture of both legs. Several of the passengers suffered slight injuries. None of the freight crew was hurt.

WESTERLY

The twenty-fourth annual and joint installation of Granite City camp, No. 9159, Modern Woodmen of America, and Elm Tree camp, No. 8874, Loyal Neighbors of America, was held in Stillman hall on High street Tuesday night, the attendance crowding the hall to capacity.

Past Consul J. H. Church, assisted by George R. Healy, as installing escort, inducted the officers for the ensuing year of Granite City camp as follows:

Past consul, William A. Rook; consul, Stanley Laing; advisor, Orrin Tarbox; clerk, William E. Martin; banker, Willard R. Hall; escort, Herbert Martin; watchman, Merle Champlin; secretary, H. I. Pendlebury; camp physician, Samuel C. Webster; trustee for three years, Albert Sylvia; musician, Ed. J. Haggerty; chief forester in charge of degree work, George H. Greenman; camp deputies, Thomas R. Platt and Orrin Tarbox.

Between installations Mrs. Kathryn Murphy sang two selections.

Rhode Island State Deputy Mary E. Jannerson, a member of Evergreen camp, of Providence, assisted by Miss Charlotte Clark as ceremonial marshal, conducted the installation as follows:

Past oracle, Mrs. Annie Tough; oracle, Mrs. Margaret Tarbox; vice oracle, Florence Barker; recorder, Ethel I. Laing; receiver, Evelyn Rook; marshal, Jennie Law; assistant marshal, Florence Brown; inner sentinel, Minnie Crandall; outer sentinel, Beatrice Law; manager for three years, Minnie Young; physician, Dr. S. C. Webster.

The Graces were Mrs. Sadie York, Hattie Lawton, Matilda Savage, Helen Walker and Etta Kinney. After the work of the evening, refreshments of sandwiches, cake, coffee and ice cream were served. Chairmen of the joint social committee were Harry Pellett and Mrs. Beatrice Law. At the first installation, twenty-four years ago, Ionic camp of Norwich did the work. A motion picture, The Hour Glass, is to be presented in Westerly on Woodmen's work the last of January.

Nearly thirty members and guests of the Westerly band gathered in the Westerly Food Shop on Wednesday evening for the beginning of their sixty-second annual meeting and banquet when the following menu was served:

Mixed Pickles
Chicken Croquettes, French Peas
Roast Native Chicken with Dressing
Currant Jelly
Mashed Potatoes Mashed Turnips
Buttered Onions
Chicken Salad
Fancy Rolls
Baked Indian Pudding, Cream Sauce
Oriental Fruit Cake Angel Cake
Sponge Fingers Maccaroons
Food Shop Special Ice Cream
Bananas Oranges
Coffee Cigars

After the banquet adjournment was taken to the band rooms on High street when the business meeting and election was held. The following officers were elected: President, John McCaffrey; vice president, Lewis Solomon; secretary, Edwin Card; treasurer, William A. Burk; director Charles O. Gavitt; librarian and janitor, William Lord.

The reelection of Treasurer William A. Burk, known as "that grand old man and veteran musician" of the well known Westerly musical organization was for the 47th year. Director and Leader Charles O. Gavitt has a record to be proud of for this reelection was his jubilee one, it being his 25th term.

Governor Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island has named Dr. John Champlin of Westerly as a member of the state public welfare commission for the term ending Jan. 31, 1930; Albert H. Spicer, Jr., to the state board of registration of dentists for the term ending Jan. 31, 1927; Dr. A. B. Briggs of Ashaway as a member of the state board of health for the term ending Jan. 31, 1931. All these nominations are reappointments.

Because of the refusal of the senate last year to endorse the nominations of Governor Flynn, these men have been holding over.

Last year Governor Flynn named Dr. John Paul Jones of Wakefield to succeed Dr. John Champlin, and Dr Harold Doyle of Westerly against Dr. Albert H. Spicer, who is chairman of his committee.

Governor Pothier's only new appointment in Washington county is Julian Crandall of Hopkinton as a member of the commission of inland fisheries for the term ending Jan. 31, 1927, in place of George Dolan of Westerly, who was the only office holder in this county to receive a renomination by Governor Flynn a year ago. Mr. Dolan has been a member of the commission for several years.

Dr. Joseph M. Bennett of Providence, a former Westerly boy, and a summer resident of Charlestown, was named as a member of the state board of health for the term ending Jan. 31, 1930.

The death of Mrs. Harriett Potter Kenyon, widow of Henry Gillette Kenyon, occurred Wednesday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crosby, 16 Lester avenue Pawcatuck, after an illness of a few days. She was in her 75th year. Mrs. Kenyon was a resident of Hopkinton for many years, but for the past few years had lived with her daughters on the West Side.

Harriett Potter Kenyon was the daughter of John S. and Abigail Spicer Champlin, being born in Hopkinton, Feb. 23, 1850. She was one of four children. A brother, Thomas Champlin of Hopkinton, is the only surviving member of the family.

She was united in marriage to Henry Gillette Kenyon on Feb. 21, 1873. His death occurred on Dec. 9, 1906. To the union was born seven children, six of whom survive. John S. C. Kenyon of Tomaquag, Edwin A. Kenyon of Ashaway, Erwin A. Kenyon of Westerly, Harry G. Kenyon of Hopkinton, Mrs. Zoe L. Crosby and Miss Essie I. Kenyon, both of Westerly. The deceased daughter was named Bessie.

Mrs. Kenyon was a member of the Second Hopkinton Seventh Day Baptist church for several years, but upon coming to Westerly to reside transferred her membership to the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church.

A chimney fire at the house of Frank Scialabba the old Frink place, so called, near the junction of the North Stonington and Voluntown roads, was the cause of a fire alarm being telephoned to the P. S. Barber Hose Co., about 8 o'clock Wednesday night. Harold Blanchard observed flames shooting from the chimney. When the report was received it was thought that the house was on fire. Engineer Pierce Morrison of the Pawcatuck department, Westerly fire authorities and the Ahren-Fox pump responded with a crew of fire fighters. The services of the pump were not required and the men returned to Westerly. The Pawcatuck fire fighters poured 40 gallons of chemicals into the chimney and the fire was extinguished without much damage.

STONINGTON

The hearing at Hartford Monday in relation to the raise in rates to consumers of the Mystic Valley Water Co., was adjourned until Monday, Jan. 26, when more information will be presented to the public utilities commission. All the time Monday was taken in presenting the cast from the company's standpoint. An effort was made to have further hearings held in Stonington or Mystic, but no decision was reached in the matter.

Those attending from the borough Monday were Warden C. B. Crandall and Burgesses Mulled, Canby and Mathews.

The eclipse of Jan. 24th, if the day is clear, can be seen in all portions of the borough. There are the open shore spaces, the breakwater, the point and numerous other vantage points from which the interested ones can view the eclipse. People are preparing for the event. There will not be any business that day for a few hours in the morning.

Mrs. Mary Smith Gilmore died at 6.40 a. m. Tuesday after being in feeble health for several years. Death was due to pneumonia. For a year past she made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maine of Cliff street. She was the widow of Captain James Gilmore, and was born at Castle Pollard, County of West Meath, Ireland, in May, 1839, being in her 86th year. When a small child she came to this country and Stonington has always been her home. For many years she lived on Railroad avenue. Mrs. Gilmore is survived by one nephew, Thomas H. Smith of Hartford; two nieces, Mrs. Charles Marie and Mrs. George G. Francis of Stonington. There are also two nieces living in Ireland.

A new soda fountain is being installed in the pharmacy of F. J. Conners on Main street.

The funeral of Mrs. Joseph J. De Sonza was held Monday. Services were in St. Mary's church. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. Acting as bearers were John S. Travares, Manuel L. Lewis, Victor Crasnick, Manuel Fertardo, Geranio Viera, Antone Avalas.

These pupils of the borough school were neither tardy nor absent during December.

Large Pimples On Face Over A Year Cuticura Heals

"My face was a sight with pimples and blemishes for over a year. The pimples were large and red and itched and burned something terrible. The irritation caused me to scratch, and the scratching disfigured my face. I could not sleep on account of the burning sensation, and the trouble kept growing worse.

"I tried all kinds of remedies but they did not help me. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some. After using there was a great improvement so I continued the treatment which completely healed me." (Signed) Miss Stella Dodek, 90 Shaw Park Ave., Chicopee, Mass.

GOVERNOR TRUMBULL SPEAKS.

Governor Trumbull in his first public statement concerning the affairs of the state has told the members of the state grange where he stands relative to certain principles, and we dare say that it was no more than had been expected by his hearers. What he said to the grange was interesting reading matter for the rest of the people of the state. In all probability he will be heard more at length on some of the points touched upon at a later date.

Governor Trumbull thoroughly understands his duty and he knows what duty means. When he says he is going to conduct a "common sense government based upon business principles" it is what the people of Connecticut like to hear, and there are reasons for believing that he will live close to the line.

"I shall be my duty to conduct the business of the state on a basis as efficient and economical as the business of a private corporation." is in accord with the kind of government which the public in general desires, and when he accompanies it with the equally frank statement that "I am not entirely in favor of the present system of taxation as it has been set up. I shall do my utmost to reduce the burden of taxation which has risen in leaps and bounds following the war period and which is not yet down to the same level," he echoes the sentiments from all corners of the commonwealth. Such declarations serve to reinforce the belief that Connecticut has at the helm of the ship of state a man who not only understands the situation but one which is not afraid to meet it.

When Ex-Governor Bingham addressed the general assembly last week he said that there were matters close to the heart of his successor about which he would have something to say personally. It isn't to be supposed that his address to the grangers had covered the ground in detail. It indicates some of the things he may have in store for the legislature and the state and what he has said only increases the interest in what is yet to come.

FOREIGN POLICY UNCHANGED.

Jumping at conclusions is not a game that is restricted to Washington, however much it may be played there. When the resignation of Secretary Hughes from the state department, to take effect the fourth of March, was made public, there accompanied it the appointment of his successor. There was not the time between the two announcements that sometimes occurs.

Because the two were joined the impression was gained by some that there had been a disagreement, that the letter of the secretary of state had not revealed the true cause and that the change indicated a change in the foreign policy of the country which Mr. Hughes could not approve and therefore he withdrew. It was also inferred that because Ambassador Kellogg was a "mild" reservationist his appointment meant going into the league of nations at once, and that with Mr. Hughes out the attitude of this country toward Russia would undergo a change.

Putting things together provides a delightful entertainment for some, but in this instance the concoction appears to be about as far from the facts as it could be. It is in fact so far from right that authoritative denial is made that there has even been any dissatisfaction and emphasis is placed upon the point that the Hughes policies, which are the Coolidge policies, will be continued.

The same harmonious relations in the cabinet when the change has taken place is to be expected. Mr. Kellogg is well equipped to administer the department, and perhaps there need be no better reason for believing this than the fact that his selection is in accord with the ideas of Mr. Hughes. The foreign relations policy of this country has been carefully constructed. It is based upon sound judgment and there is nothing to indicate that it is going to be thrown overboard in a twinkling. The fact that Mr. Hughes' resignation, coming as unexpectedly, could not be understood for the moment, did not justify the suggestion that there had been a clash and a break. The denial should now set it at rest.

FIGHTING CARELESS SMOKERS.

Following fires where there is loss of life and property which is entirely needless attention is especially directed to the part which carelessness has played in causing them.

In the interest of fire prevention New York has adopted numerous fire ordinances, prompted by the tendency to carelessness and with the view to checking it. Recently attention has been directed to the fact that such ordinances were not getting the respect that they should and likewise were not being enforced. It then became the duty of the fire prevention bureau of the fire department to get busy, and the result of the first day's activity was the presentation of 500 in court for emptying cigarettes in gutters and in factories. Fines ranging from $5 to $25 were imposed and those who did not pay were sent to jail for one to two days with the warning that the second offense will call forth the fine limit of $500.

Without a doubt the fire prevention bureau of New York has much to do. It is engaged in a much needed bit of enforcement work and its first day's efforts show the number disregarding fire prevention to be large.

But it is not to be supposed that New York is the only place in which the same or a greater amount of carelessness is being shown. The disposition to throw safety to the winds for the pleasure of smoking a cigarette, or part of one, prevails on no small scale. There are also those who while not smoking in what might be considered dangerous places are disposed to throw their lighted butts where they will endanger rubbish or inflammable material, and it is such an act as this that is responsible for many a fire which develops some time after the fire brand is cast.

New York may be starting its efforts at enforcement at rather a late date but it is nevertheless a move in the right direction. How much property and how many lives it will save no one knows. That doesn't however, detract from the soundness of the effort.

AMBASSADOR HOUGHTON.

In the selection of Ambassador Houghton, now at Berlin, for the representative of this government at the court of St. James, there is a shifting of diplomats which unquestionably represents the president's recognition of fitness based upon ability and experience. Even though diplomatic experience did not figure in his original appointment to Berlin by President Harding, and it may be that his successor will be without actual experience in the diplomatic corps, the manner in which Mr. Houghton has served at Berlin has made an excellent impression. The even more important post at London must therefore be regarded as a promotion, and it cannot be forgotten that it is deserved or it would not likely be forthcoming.

That the coming retirement of Ambassador Kellogg from London and Ambassador Houghton from Berlin is regretted in both instances indicates the caliber of the service they have been rendering as measured by those among whom they have been stationed.

The choice of members of the diplomatic corps is no small responsibility. It has already been indicated that the administration is disposed and provision has been made to make service of that character more attractive, by placing it on a different basis and moving ahead those whose service and record warrant it. This may not mean that certain of the best posts can be held only by those who have had previous service. Each situation must be judged by itself and men to meet the particular requirements selected. Fitness, rather than political debt paying, must be the guide if real service is to be expected.

THE S-19 AND THE CANAL.

With the submarine S-19 ashore on Cape Cod, it calls attention to the fact that government vessels, in common with many others, are accustomed to circle Cape Cod in all kinds of weather. It may be foggy there may be a storm, extremely heavy weather may be encountered, or it may be fair and fine. Whatever the conditions over which those who go down to the sea in ships have no control there is always to be faced the narrow channel through Vineyard and Nantucket sounds and the bad shoals that abound all along the cape coast.

Details are lacking as to just what caused to S-19 to strike along that stretch of shoals near Orleans, but foggy conditions the next morning indicate that such figured in the grounding of the submarine on a coast which has been the graveyard of many other vessels of various types. It is a treacherous place under any and all conditions, in spite of the lights and the advance knowledge of its dangers.

If the S-19 cannot be hauled off it means a substantial loss. Even submarines are expensive, and it sends home the argument that has been repeatedly advanced in behalf of the purchase of the Cape Cod canal by the government and its development for use of naval vessels as well as the coastwise shipping. The loss of life and property in wrecks along the Cape Cod shore long, long ago justified such an expenditure as is now asked by the government in eliminating the rounding of the cape through the purchase and development of the canal. It doesn't seem as if there ought to be many more in order to get congress to recognize the wisdom of putting an end to it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Only a few more weeks and the baseball season will be with us again.

Those in favor of the bumpy block pavement over Main street hill might indicate it by trying to keep their seats.

Our gaping reservoirs show the need of continued saving as well as pumping. Winter is even tying up a portion of the supply in ice.

Just because Chicago takes all the wing it wants from Lake Michigan it cannot understand why it cannot be as liberal with itself about the water.

There is plenty of evidence that the president is in full control of the situation at Washington and there hasn't been any spectacular big stick swinging either.

The new legislature in Rhode Island isn't shutting the door to needed reforms. If they are to be had, however, it is safe to assume they will be brought about in a legal manner.

A short time ago Washington gossip said only one or two of the cabinet would go. Now the talk is that all are going. The fact is that no one knows lest it be the president, and he isn't telling.

That something is always making life miserable for the taxpayer is shown by the reports in some cities that the chains on autos where they have followed the one path worn through the snow have seriously damaged expensively paved highways.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

My old school friend, Alicia Higgins, wrote to me to do what I could for Diana Westly, a kinswoman of hers who has recently come to Chicago in the hope of having a musical career. I called at once upon Diana and found her both charming and handsome.

"I should like," she said in answer to my kind queries, "to sing for clubs or in private-home recitals at first, until I become better known, or known at all, for I am quite a stranger here."

"How would it do," I asked, "for you to give a sort of introductory recital at my house? It would surely lead to more profitable engagements, for I should invite all my music-loving friends, several of whom are really patrons of the various arts. What do you say?"

"You're very kind and I'll be glad to sing to you and your friends," she replied with less enthusiasm than I thought my generous offer merited, but we determined upon a date and she said she would immediately secure her accompanist, as he is much in demand, and we settled all the other details of the affair. I remember now that I was quite thrilled at the idea of having a smart musicale, and as I walked away from her boarding house I planned what I should wear and thought some about the refreshments.

The moment I got home Cousin Fannie told me that Louise Fuller had telephoned that she and Canby had suddenly decided to motor down to Cleveland and they wished Dexter Haines and me to go along as ballast.

"She asked me to tell you all about it, Lucile," said Cousin Fannie, "and Louise said that she was going downtown to do a little shopping and that if she didn't hear from you tonight she would expect you to be ready tomorrow morning at 8."

"You may be sure I'll be ready, Cousin Fannie, old dear. You'll have to help me throw my things together, and take some stitches for me. I'll have to run out to the hairdresser's. Please don't sew any more now on that tiresome dress of mother's. You can do that after I'm gone."

"Very well," answered Cousin Fannie, and if it had not been for her efforts I don't know how I should have got off bright and early the next morning without keeping the Fullers waiting at all.

We had a perfectly glorious trip to Cleveland, and I was extremely glad that I was able to go, because I knew that Louise must be very happy indeed to do something so nice as that for me in return for all the good times I had given her when she was Louise Erwin, in quite different circumstances from her present position as Canby's wife.

"Well, Lucile," exclaimed mother, in the condemnatory tone she so frequently uses to me, "you certainly treated Miss Westly shabbily." This was mother's greeting when I arrived home.

"Miss Westly? Oh, yes, Higgie's cousin."

"Now Lucile, there's no use of your trying to be casual about it. You really have been frightfully rude and unkind to her. She came here last evening resplendent, in a beautiful gown that she told me she had bought especially for a recital you had arranged for her to give here, and she had paid her accompanist a lot more than she could afford, I'm afraid, and you weren't here, nor were there any guests. How could you have done such a thing?"

"Well, you see, mother," I explained, "the very afternoon that she and I talked of the musicale, I received Louise's sudden invitation to motor down to Cleveland, and, of course, in the hurry and flurry of getting ready I forgot everything else. I simply couldn't refuse to go with such a dear old pal as Louise Erwin. Could I?"

"You could have let Miss Westly know, Lucile, and it was a shame that you didn't do it."

"I'll have to arrange another date with her for a musicale."

"I think you'd have difficulty doing that after last night, Lucile, but what you must do is to pay for that accompanist she had with her. That's only fair and decent."

That from mother, who is usually so economical that she is almost penurious. Sometimes I don't understand her at all.—Chicago News.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf Promise

Dear me, boys and girls. I've been so anxious since writing yesterday's story for dear Mr. and Mrs. Wicked Wolf would return from Lettucemere and find Little Jack Rabbit, the Big Brown Bear and the kind Policeman Dog in the woodshed that I hardly slept a wink last night. You remember this wicked old wolf had stolen a barrel of lollypops from the Big Brown Bear's Cosy Cave.

"Help me roll the barrel on the sled," said the Policeman Dog to the Big Brown Bear. Then with a grunt and a whoof and heave-ho, jolly boys! they placed the barrel on the sled and telling the little rabbit to hop on top, they took hold of the rope and started back for the Big Brown Bear's Cosy Cave.

Dear me, it was hard sledding. The snow was deep and the barrel heavy, but after a while and a bump and a smile, they came to the foot of the hill in the Shady Forest where just a little further on, near the top, stood the Cosy Cave.

"Let's rest and get our breath," panted the Policeman Dog, taking off his helmet to wipe his forehead with his pocket handkerchief. "I declare I feel sorry for any old horse who has to draw a sled through deep snow."

"Whew!" exclaimed the Big Brown Bear sitting down on the sled and winking at the little rabbit. "I never knew that lollypops were so heavy. All the same I'm glad the barrel is nearly full. Mr. and Mrs. Wicked Wolf didn't eat many after all."

Just then they saw somebody sneaking behind the trees.

"Look, look!" shouted the bunny boy, "there's Mr. Wicked Wolf!"

Sure enough, when the Policeman Dog looked up he say not only Mr. Wicked Wolf, but Mrs. Wolf's bonnet just above the stone fence.

"Hay, there," he shouted. "Come over here and try on these new handcuffs," and without waiting for an answer, he bounded towards them. But, Oh dear me. The next minute Mr. and Mrs. Wicked Wolf had him down in the snow, and if the Big Brown Bear hadn't been there I'm afraid that kind old Policeman Dog would have been badly hurt.

"You attend to Mrs. Wolf," shouted the Big Brown Bear, lifting Mr. Wolf up in his big strong paws. "I'll hold this old robber while you slip the handcuffs over the old lady's silk mitts. She can make believe they are a pair of waist watches."

"Let me go," growled Mr. Wicked Wolf showing all his long white teeth. But don't think for a moment the Big Brown Bear obliged him. No sireebus. He held on so tight that pretty soon Mr. Wicked Wolf began to whimper. "Let me go. And if you won't, please ask the Policeman Dog to free Mrs. Wolf. She was only trying to help me."

When the Policeman Dog heard the old wolf beg that Mrs. Wolf be allowed to go home, he said: "If you'll promise to be good and not steal any more, I'll set you both free."

"We promise," cried Mr. and Mrs. Wicked Wolf, both at once, just at the same time, and the next minute they were gunning home to their little rocky house on the woody hillside.

"Now let's get this barrel of lollypops up to my Cave," said the Big Brown Bear," and in the next story

Cadman Ridiculed by Fellow Clerks

"Caddy thinks he can compose," and "He'll be a big man some day—we don't think," were some of the jeering remarks made by fellow workers about Charles Wakefield Cadman, who loved music, but had to earn his way.

In his humble home in his native Johnstown, Pa., he had little opportunity to enjoy good music. Quitting school at 10, he became errand boy for the superintendent of the Carnegie steel plant at Duquesne. Within a year a piano was placed in the Cadman home, and Charles eagerly ran up hill to his teacher for a half-hour lesson each Saturday. Within four months his savings were exhausted and all his earnings were needed to help the family.

Undeterred, he continued to practice, and in spare moments jotted down notes on scraps of waste paper. Others in the office laughed at his efforts, but he found out at home at night that he had composed real tunes.

While clerk in a railroad office at Homestead at 18, he composed the Carnegie Library March to celebrate the dedication of the new library and presented copies to Andrew Carnegie and Charles M. Schwab as a feature of the program. Schwab invited him to his office, saying he would see that the youth would have a chance to study music. Elated, Cadman called many times, but zealous employees kept him from Schwab's private room.

Finally swallowing his disappointment, he resolved to succeed unaided. With savings of $30 he had 500 copies of the march published, then peddled them from house to house. He also taught music, at 35 cents a lesson, played a nine organ in church and eventually became music critic for a Pittsburgh newspaper.

Madame Nordica liked his review of her concert and sent for him. The following night she sang The Land of the Sky-Blue Water, and it instantly won recognition. Five publishers rejected the manuscript for publication, but the sixth soon found sales mounting high.

At Dawning, I Hear a Thrush at Eve, and other songs added to Cadman's reputation. He was 37 when his Indian opera, Shanewis, was presented at the Metropolitan Opera House at New York, and was the first opera to live at that institution through two seasons.

Tomorrow—Boomer, The Stenographer.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Time for Filing

The period for filing returns of income on a calendar year basis is from January 1 to March 15, 1925. Copies of the forms have been mailed to persons who filed individual returns for the year 1923. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay his tax on time. The forms are now available at offices of collectors of internal revenue and branch offices.

Persons whose net income was derived chiefly from salaries or wages and was not in excess of $5,000 should use Form 1040A. The form consists of a single sheet in which space is provided for answers to only four questions; salaries, wages, commissions, etc.; interest on bank deposits, notes, mortgages, and corporation bonds, dividends on stocks of domestic corporations and other income, including income from partnerships and fiduciaries. On the reverse side are instructions, which if studied will be of material aid to the taxpayer in the filing of a correct return.

Persons, any part of whose net income was derived from business or profession, including farming, or from the sale of property or rent, though the amount was less than $5,000, should use the larger form, 1040. The use of the larger form is required also in cases where the net income was inexcess of $5,000, regardless of whether from salary, business, profession or other taxable sources.

The return, sworn to before a notary or other person authorized to administer an oath, must be filed on or before midnight of March 15 with the collector of internal revenue for the district where the taxpayer has his legal residence or has his principal place of business. Heavy penalties are provided for failure or willfull refusal to file a return and pay the tax on time.

As heretofore, the tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15. In view of the tax reduction the number of persons paying in full at the time of filing the return it is believed, will be greatly increased.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Today's retirement of Major General Robert Lee Bullard removes from the active list the last of the men who commanded American armies in France during the war. Gen. Bullard, who commanded the first division of the American Expeditionary Force under Gen. Pershing, is an Alabanian who prefaced his period of study and training at West Point with a course of investigation at the Alabama Agricultural and Mechanical College. His career, prior to the Spanish war, was of the conventional type, tending toward the last to specialization in the subsistence department. During the period when he was on duty in the Philippines he showed marked ability as a civilian administrator, and during and following his stay in the islands he wrote considerably for professional and popular journals on phases of American rule that were too little understood by the home electorate. When the United States entered the great war Gen. Bullard was selected to go to France because of his distinct capacity for meeting new problems.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Douarnenez is running true to form. Newspaper says the town is waving the red flag in the face of the republic of France, but the Bretons have been known to display the same restive spirit at various times in the past, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Though the Bretons, in the heart of whose homeland so many of the American dough-boys landed when they disembarked at Brest, are peaceful and home-loving, they have sometimes rebelled. In the fifth century a brother-in-law of Duke Francis II wrote his kinsman: 'Monseigneur, I declare to God, I would rather be the ruler of a million of wild boars than of such a people as your Bretons.'

"The cursory traveler would not suspect the sleepy little village, whose fishing smacks with their red and brown sails and blue and brown fish nets make its waterfront a happy haunt of artists of all nationalities, of being susceptible to emotional outbursts. But the relentless fight which these men must put up against the hungry, dangerous waters of the ocean have given them a lively but melancholy imagination, obstinate determination, and a piety as distinguished as their bravery.

"In those early days the little seaside towns, with their counts and other dignitaries, sometimes as important as bishops, like those of Rouen, or even their dukes like those of Nantes, had more individuality than they boast today. But Douarnenez, with about 15,000 people, is one of the most active of the sardine fishing centers along the Breton coast.

"Its location is ideal—on a beautiful blue bay nicked out of the westernmost peninsula along the French coast, with a snug little harbor of its own called Port de Romeur behind the mole of which the small sail boats go for shelter. And the Breton men will tell you 'I like my boat better with my sail and my arms for motors.'

"About 30,000 religious enthusiasts rub elbows in the Douranenez streets, with artists and natives during the latter part of August of each year, for the last Sunday in the month is the Pardon of Sainte Anne-la-Palud. The various 'Pardons' of Brittany festivals during which indulgences are granted—and the numerous wayside shrines have combined to give this portion of France, which is at the same time both patriotic and alien, the sobriquet of 'The Land of Calvaries and Pardons.'

"In this day of the World-Wide use of the plain business suit and standardized dress for American and European women, the customs and costumes of Brittany, like those of the Island of Marken in The Netherlands, give an opera bouffe effect which the gorgeous sunsets, the wild seas, the rock-bound shores, and the great mountains and plains dotted with menhirs only accentuate.

"The intenseness of the land and the people is at once so evident that Lalo immediately saw in its legends the basis for his opera, 'Le Roi d'Ys.' The story goes that King Gradlon of the ancient wicked city of Ys, which stood on the shores of the Bay of Douarnenez, had a beautiful daughter who was the wickedest person in the city. The king had been warned by his councilor, St. Corentin of Quimper, but one night while her father slept Dahut stole from around his neck the gold key which unlocked the gates of the dykes of Ys and gave it to one of her lovers. Shortly afterwards torrents of water flooded the city, the king took his daughter on the saddle behind him and fled, but a voice commanded him that she must be left behind. The king alone escaped, the city and all its inhabitants being submerged beneath the waters of the Bay of Douarenez.

Douarnenez means literally, the land of the isle, from the Ile Tristan just off the coast, named for the valiant Tristan of Leonais, one of the knights of the Round Table. Once the island's interest was religious but now it is commercial: since the old days its priory has been superseded by a lighthouse and a sardine factory.

"Concarneau and Douarnenez are the Gloucester, Massachusetts, and the Rockport, Maine, of the French coast, each vying with the other for the importance of being the best-known fishing center.

"For the connoisseur nothing rivals the Brittany sardine, which is so simply prepared for market that it is a wonder that some other people have not captured and standardized the product. The 'corporal's stripes,' or the 'cavalry corporals,' as the little fishes are called in France, are packed in the familiar tin boxes, heated oil is poured over them, the boxes are soldered and then boiled for about an hour, and the harvest of the sea is ready for the discriminating epicures of the world."

CHILD TRAINING

THE CASE OF BILLY

Helen Gregg Green

I recently received this letter:

"My dear Mrs. Green:

"My small, six-year-old son is unusually precocious. He has always treated me with the utmost respect and obedience, until a few days ago when he made a remark which I cannot get off my mind. I wonder if you can help me!

"I have been in the habit of sometimes rewarding him for good behavior with small gifts. Now I must confess, on a number of occasions, I promised him something which I neglected to buy. He seemed never to notice my forgetfulness until the other day. I had said, 'Be a good boy today, Billy, and mother will get you a toy engine.' A week passed, and the toy engine had never entered my head again. But I happened to remark, 'If you'll run an errand for mother, I'll take you to the circus.'

"'Aw, no, yo won't Mother. I believe you're a fake!' he said.

Of course I punished the child, as I considered the remark disrespectful and 'smart.' Bt the affair has worried me. Could you help?

Worried Mother"

I answered:

"Worried Mother:—

"Yes, I think I can help you. In the first place remember this infallible rule for parents: Always keep your word with children. Do not make 'bluff promises.' They teach children to be untruthful.

"Personally, I don't believe in rewarding children for being good. Some day, that incentive will be taken away, and what then?

"You should not have punished the child for the remark he made. He didn't mean it to be 'smart.' He was simply stating what he believed to be a fact. It would be hard for him to get your point of view, and the next time he has a similar thought he will not say it, which may be a good lesson in diplomacy, but one tending to teach deceit. Besides, he gave you some valuable hints in mothercraft."

TO-DAY'S OFFER TO ALL WHO HAVE STOMACH DISTRESS

Try One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin for Indigestion or Any Stomach Trouble and If Not Delighted With the Good Results Lee & Osgood Co. or Any Reliable Druggist Will Gladly Return the Purchase Price.

Why not get a bottle of this grand stomach medicine today with the distinct understanding that your money will be promptly returned if it does not stop the most acute stomach distress quicker than anything you ever used.

Your stomach may be so distended with gas that you think every minute your heart will stop beating, yet with one dessertspoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin that dreadful feeling of suffocation will vanish in a few minutes.

With the same speed it stops gas, acidity, belching and heartburn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of Pepsin with Menthol and other good stomach invigorators—so wonderful that in one small town in New Jersey last year over 4,000 bottles were sold.

Never mind what causes your indigestion or gastritis or dyspepsia or how long you have had it, or how many other remedies you have tried, this is the one medicine that will make your old disabled stomach so strong and healthy that you can digest anything you eat without the slightest distress.

And you know that when your stomach is in fine shape, nervousness, headaches and dizziness won't bother you. Every regular druggist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin. Lee & Osgood Co. sells dozens of it.

FRIGHTFUL CARELESS SMOKERS

Following fires where there is loss of life and property which is entirely needless attention is especially directed to the part which carelessness has played in causing them.

In the interest of fire prevention New York has adopted numerous fire ordinances, prompted by the tendency to carelessness and with the view to checking it. Recently attention has been directed to the fact that such ordinances were not getting the respect that they should and likewise were not being enforced. It then became the duty of the fire prevention bureau of the fire department to get busy, and the result of the first day's activity was the presentation of 500 in court for emptying cigarettes in gutters and in factories. Fines ranging from $5 to $25 were imposed and those who did not pay were sent to jail for one to two days with the warning that the second offense will call forth the fine limit of $500.

Without a doubt the fire prevention bureau of New York has much to do. It is engaged in a much needed bit of enforcement work and its first day's efforts show the number disregarding fire prevention to be large.

But it is not to be supposed that New York is the only place in which the same or a greater amount of carelessness is being shown. The disposition to throw safety to the winds for the pleasure of smoking a cigarette, or part of one, prevails on no small scale. There are also those who while not smoking in what might be considered dangerous places are disposed to throw their lighted butts where they will endanger rubbish or inflammable material, and it is such an act as this that is responsible for many a fire which develops some time after the fire brand is cast.

New York may be starting its efforts at enforcement at rather a late date but it is nevertheless a move in the right direction. How much property and how many lives it will save no one knows. That doesn't however, detract from the soundness of the effort.

Appreciation Day

THE DAY OF BIG OPPORTUNITY

Saturday, January 17th, 1925

At what more opportune time could we express to the people of this community our friendly feeling toward them, and at the same time thank them for their friendliness toward us? That this friendly feeling is the foundation stone upon which we can build this community to greater things—greater happiness and prosperity for all—is well assured. So it is with this thought of friendliness for you and from you that we welcome the beginning of what we can all make the greatest and best year in the history of Danielson.

Musical Meals for Fish

Additional evidence that fishes are able to hear has been produced by a German scientist, who fed blind fishes to a musical accompaniment. The fishes, after the sixth day of this treatment, always came up to the surface when the whistle blew, and, once learned, the trick was never forgotten, the fishes invariably appearing to time during a 30-day test.—London Tit-Bits.

Sure of His Position

Congressman Blathers was a passenger on the steamship Sieve, which was slowly sinking. The passengers were climbing into the lifeboats. "Congressman," suggested a reporter aboard the ill-fated craft, "here's a chance for some publicity. If you cared—" "You may quote me as saying," replied the statesman, "that I am heartily in favor of a back-to-the-land movement."—Legion Weekly.

Warm and Cold-Blooded

Cold-blooded animals are those (mostly of the vertebrates of classes below birds) whose body temperatures vary with that of the water or air in which they live. Warm-blooded animals are those, such as birds and mammals, which have a relatively high and constant body temperature, usually considerably above that of the surrounding medium.

ANOTHER BOB

The July sun streamed down unceasingly on the little village, forcing the sturdy men who toiled in the fields to pull off their tattered straw hats frequently and mop their sweaty, sunburned faces. The little village was silent, except for the occasional shouts of laughter from the small boys in town who, entirely unmindful of the intense heat were enjoying the cooling waters of the swimming pool.

There was another person in town, too who was unmindful of the heat, and that was Miriam Whitehouse. She was happier today than she had ever been before in the 18 happy years of her life, and it would take more than 89 degrees in the shade to wilt her enthusiasm, for today was her wedding day! Her hope chest was brimming over with beautiful things, and her wedding clothes were all ready for the great event. She had met Walter a year ago and to say that he was perfectly wonderful was putting it mildly indeed! Surely no other girl could be happier than she! The year had passed by so quickly and now the very best day of all had finally arrived!

Walter was happy, too. Even now he was recalling the day he had met her. It had been a case of love at first sight. What a fortunate thing that he happened to take his vacation in this village and that he had taken that fishing trip along the river! How clearly he could remember it all. While he was resting along the river bank he suddenly noticed something pink through the trees. Curiosity got the best of him and he moved along in the seclusion of the bushes to see what it was.

He saw a girl dressed in pink, sitting under an apple tree reading. The sun played on her wavy bobbed hair, and the gentle breeze brought a delicate color to her cheeks.

He laid down his fishing tackle and studied her carefully. If he had been an artist he would have painted the picture. He wanted to speak to her, but felt that such rudeness would not be wise, so he picked up his fishing tackle and started quietly away.

He had not gone far when a scream filled the air! His heart almost stopped and the tackle flew in all directions. His picture girl was in trouble! In a minute he was by her side. She had climbed up on an old stump and was holding her skirt tightly around her. The delicate pink of her cheeks had changed into a deep red, and the pretty blue eyes, which he had not seen before, sparkled suspiciously.

"What is the matter?" he asked, anxiously.

She pointed to the ground. No more explanations were necessary. A large, black snake was gliding contentedly through the grass. All the valor that had filled King Arthur of old overcame Walter now as he armed himself with a big stick and started to conquer the foe. In a short time the snake was no more and a pretty, embarrassed girl faced an equally embarrassed, good-looking young man.

"Thank you," she said at last, and her voice was soft and clear.

Walter had never found it hard to talk to a girl before, but this one seemed different from all the rest. He felt he could kill every snake in the world for her. But somehow the conversation started, and the next thing he realized they were walking along the river road chatting happily together. Meanwhile, five captured fish and a new set of tackle were entirely forgotten.

The following days were happy ones for the two young people. Miriam's fear of snakes did not in any way dampen her enjoyment of the quiet river road. The maiden ladies in town began to shake their heads knowingly whenever they saw the two go by, but Miriam and Walter were unmindful of everything except each other.

And so this wonderful day had arrived. Walter dressed with great care and hurried over to Miriam's. To him she looked more beautiful than ever, arrayed in the soft, fluffy wedding clothes.

It was a simple, pretty, home wedding and was soon over. The bride blushingly tossed her bouquet away and they hurried off to the machine outside. But friends were there before them and greeted them with the customary old shoes and rice.

But at last that was over too, and many miles separated them from the scene. Walter stopped the machine long enough to remove the old shoes, tin cans and fancy signs. Then for the first time they drew deep sighs of relief. On and on they rode until they arrived at a small, rustic camp in the woods. It was located at the very edge of a quiet lake.

"How wonderful!" Miriam gasped.

"An ideal place for a honeymoon," he answered. "Now you stay here and rest while I go to the spring for water."

She tossed her hat into a chair and watched her husband until he was out of sight. But what was that? A soft, even padding along the shore of the lake. For a moment she was afraid. Then a canoe glided into view. She could see a boyish form and the back of a boyish shaven head.

"Bob!" she cried in delight and hurried down to the shore.

The canoe stopped and Miriam climbed in. Then the paddling continued and the canoe glided gracefully along the shore.

When Walter came back his wife was nowhere to be seen. He anxiously searched the camp, but she was not there!

"Miriam! Miriam!" he called frantically.

She heard him. "Hurry back, Bob," she whispered.

The canoe turned and headed for the shore. Walter's heart sank when he saw his loved wife in a canoe with another man. His first thought was to leave her, but he remained glued to the spot. His wife stood up to wave to him and over went the canoe! Without a moment's hesitation he dove into the water and brought her to the shore.

"Save Bob!" she whispered weakly.

Walter looked out into the pond. Bob was sinking. He dove in again and brought the half conscious form to the shore. He laid his burden down and as the eyes opened a strange look spread over his face. Bob was a girl!

"She was my college room-mate," Miriam explained, "and we always called her Bob after she had her shingle bob."

Then Walter smiled happily. "Just another 'bob'," he chuckled thankfully, and the honeymoon was not spoiled. —Boston Post.

Clay's Duel With Randolph

In 1826, when Henry Clay was secretary of state under John Quincy Adams, John Randolph, of Roanoke, who was then in congress, referred to the president and his secretary of state as "the combination of the Puritan with the blackleg." Clay immediately challenged the Roanoke statesman to a duel. The affair took place on the famous Bladensburg dueling field near Washington. Randolph did not intend to injure his antagonist, but Clay was in earnest. At the first fire, Clay's bullet touched Randolph's coat. When the second shot was fired Randolph fired in the air and said to Clay, "I do not fire at you, Mr. Clay." Again Clay's shot passed through Randolph's coat. They then shook hands and went home.—Argonaut.

Ducal Approval.

The Duke of Alba aproves of the United States. After a two months' visit he has returned to his own country and told the American Society of Madrid that he saw more of America than many Americans have seen. The duke likes New York and California. He likes our mountains and rivers. He found much to admire in our art, and our business efficiencies charmed him. He was especially pleased to find so many traces of Spanish influence here, and complimented the early Spanish explorers for their discovery of the place. Columbus, he said, did a fine piece of work in the discovery line, and would have no cause for regret if he could come back and see what he had given to the world.

Death Rate Is High.

The Journal des Debats is distressed over the apparent decline of the native population in France's black possessions. French Equatorial Africa now has less than one inhabitant per square kilometer, and the death rate appears to be considerably higher than the birth rate, says the Living Age.

Dr. Boye, chief of the health service from 1920 to 1922, characterizes the depopulation of these territories "de plus en plus angoissante," and reports that "tribes formerly prosperous and vigorous are today on the verge of extinction."

$2,500 Pecan Tree.

A pecan tree, 16 years old, near Kosciusko Miss., was sold for $2,500. This represented its value in dollars and cents, not in sentiment. The tree began bearing nuts of enormous size nine years ago, 25 of them averaging a pound. This made it of great value for grafting purposes, and the nurseryman who bought it will make much more than $2,500 if the tree lives its allotted time.

The Important Points

Heligoland.

The island of Heligoland, off the coast of northern Germany, once a Gibraltar of the North Sea and the base of raiding U-boats, is now a peaceable rookery for migrating birds, Professor T. G. Ahrens, of Berlin, told the members of the American Ornithologists' Union, which recently met in Pittsburgh, of the studies on birds now being carried on there under the auspices of the Prussian government. Even during the times when the island was a fortress, it was a station for the migrating flocks of birds, and bird studies of considerable importance were pursued there. After the armistice, when, according to treaty, the fortification works had to be completely destroyed, the studies were seriously interfered with; but now they have been resumed under more favorable circumstances. The island is of greatest importance as a resting place for birds on long flights. Only three species nest there, and these are of minor significance both scientifically and economically. But as a temporary abiding place of ducks, geese, gulls and other water birds, the island is of immense importance. One phase of the work there consists of banding the legs of birds with identification tags, so that their subsequent appearance in other parts of the world will tell of their travel routes and rates of flight. The great lighthouse on the island was formerly the cause of the death of many birds, which were attracted by the dazzling beams and would dash themselves against the tower. This condition was remedied by placing secondary lights about the tower to play upon it and render it visible to the birds, which are thus warned and enabled to avoid striking it.

Earn Salary Shopping

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

OBITUARY.

Joseph W. Wooley, Jr.

After an illness of but one week the death of Joseph W. Wooley, Jr., occurred Wednesday morning. He had an operation for appendicitis on January 8th and apparently was getting along nicely when influenza developed and death followed.

Mr. Wooley was born in England, July 1 1903, the son of Joseph W. and Annie Wibberly Wooley. He came to this country with his parents when but three months old and received his early education here. For the past 15 years he has been a painter employed at the car barn of the Connecticut company, being under his father who is boss painter there.

He was united in marriage in the German Lutheran church on January 21, 1914, with Miss Lena Heibel and made his home at 19 Dunham street. He was a member of Manchester Unity, Odd Fellows, being a past grand officer, a member of Somerset lodge, No. 14, A. F. & A. M., and of Natured Grotto. He was also a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal church of Greeneville.

He was a devoted son and loving husband and father and had many friends in Norwich who extend their sympathy to the bereaved family in their time of sorrow.

Surviving are his wife, four children, Mildred, William, Sophie and Raymond; his parents, two brothers, George and Horace, and a sister, Maud Wooley, all of Norwich.

Miss Mary A. Sullivan.

Following a short illness the death of Miss Mary A. Sullivan occurred on Wednesday at her home at 55 Tenth street. She was the daughter of the late Peter and Mary O'Neil Sullivan and had made her home in Norwich all her life. Surviving are two sisters, Miss Annie Sullivan of Norwich and Mrs. Herbert Apthrop of Newark, N. J., also two nephews, Thomas and Frederick Apthrop of Newark, N. J. News of her death will be received with sorrow by her many friends in this city.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appears after this delightful refreshing dressing.

ROTARIANS HAVE YALE FOOTBALL COACH HERE

Although the last game of football in the east was played the latter part of November the interest in this nationwide sport has not subsided. This was amply demonstrated Wednesday noon at the weekly luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club when "Tad" Jones, head coach of the Yale football team, was the guest of honor. The meeting was a Yale meeting in charge of the Yale graduate members of the club with Grosvenor Ely acting as chairman. The meeting was largely attended, all Yale graduates having been invited as well as the members and coach of the Academy football squad.

Among the guests was Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, a former Princeton gridiron star of the late '90's, who had the distinction of playing against the famed Gordon Brown, whose name will never depart from Yale football tradition.

"Tad" Jones, who had the pleasure of coaching Yale this past season, one of the three leading teams of the east, gave a very interesting talk on football. The talk was not of a technical nature but rather on ethical football. Being on ethical football the talk was none the less interesting, being full of sound advice as to the character building qualities of the game. In bringing out his points Coach Jones mentioned several incidents that had come under his notice during his regime at Yale. He told several stories about Bill Mallery, Eddie Bench and others on the team. The only mention regarding the team of the past season was when he disclosed why Scott, the sensational drop-kicker and punter, was not used until late in the season. He said that Scott was extremely brittle and was injured easily. Jones kept Scott as his "ace-in-the-hole" and only threw him into the game when it was absolutely necessary to score from the field.

Coach Jones spoke encouragingly to the boys who were present at the meeting and said that he personally would assist them in getting into Yale if they would only communicate with him. He spoke of how easy it was to work one's way through college by getting in touch with the Bureau of Appointments. He also spoke of the good feeling between the "Big Three," Yale, Harvard and Princeton, which was brought about largely during the war.

Coach Jones was greeted with cheers as he came in and was accorded a flattering ovation at the conclusion of his highly interesting talk. The tables at the meeting were decorated with Yale colors. Grosvenor Ely organized a cheering section that sang many of the Yale songs and gave the Yale cheers. Edwin A. Harris introduced the speaker and was largely responsible for his being present at the meeting.

As the business session of the meeting Hugh B. Campbell, a Penn graduate, president of the club presided and "Pop" Tirrell a graduate of Wesleyan and principal of the Norwich Free Academy, was song leader. The Academy boys and graduates sang the Academy Alma Mater song during the luncheon and there was a selection by 11 members of the club who have attended every meeting during 1924.

The current events speaker at the Wednesday meeting was Frank P. Welch who took Cross-Word Puzzles as his topic. A large puzzle was placed at the front of the dining hall and the members worked out the puzzle which furnished much amusement. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

OBITUARY.

George Henry Howard.

Following illness of two weeks with pneumonia, the death of George Henry Howard, for many years a prominent patent attorney in Washington, D. C., occurred early Wednesday evening at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned, 180 Broadway. Since his retirement from active practice in 1920, Attorney and Mrs. Howard have made their home here for a large part of the time.

Mr. Howard was the son of William and Mabel Hornby (Thompson) Howard and was born in Yorkshire, England, October 5, 1844, but came to this country fourteen years later. His early education was secured in private schools and he completed a course in the Maryland Institute and School of Design at Baltimore in 1865. After entering Trinity college he was obliged to discontinue his course there in 1868 because of his health. From the time of his admission to the bar by the supreme bench in Baltimore in 1876, he had a distinguished career in practice until his retirement in 1920, having been associated with his brother, W. T. Howard, as a patent attorney. He appeared before the United States courts from 1876 until 1920. He also appeared in ten states and before the supreme court of the United States from 1883 to 1920.

From 1873 until 1876 Mr. Howard was joint editor and publisher of the American Engineer and for a number of years was trustee and director of the House of the Good Shepherd, Washington. He was also an accomplished writer, articles written by him having appeared in the press and magazines.

Attorney Howard was a member of the American Bar Association and the Delta Psi fraternity, and, while in Washington was a member of the Bar Association of Washington and the Patent Law Association of Washington. He was also a member of the Metropolitan, Chevy Chase and Loch Tavern clubs of Washington.

In Trinity church, Towson, Maryland, he was united in marriage with Roberta Traill Brooke Macgill and their home was in Washington until his retirement from active practice.

Besides his widow, Attorney Howard is survived by four daughters and one son; Mrs. L. Warrington Cottman of Baltimore, Mrs. Eben Learned of Norwich, Mrs. John H. Russell, wife of the present Brig. General Russell, U. S. M. C., now United States commissioner to Haiti and Mrs. Christopher A. Russell, wife of Lieut. (retired) Russell, U. S. N., graduate of Annapolis, now engaged in business in Baltimore, and Charles L. Howard, of Chicago, Ill., secretary of the Western Railroad association. He also leaves six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Charles A. Beckwith

Charles A. Beckwith, passed away at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning at his home in Hope street, Niantic, after an illness of two days. Death was caused by a paralytic shock. Mr. Beckwith suffered a shock about 9.30 Monday morning while in the passenger depot. He was removed to his home and confined to his bed till the end came, having remained unconscious.

He was born in Colchester, Aug. 27, 1851, the son of Charles A. Beckwith and Susan A. Crum Beckwith. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Eliza Wheeler Beckwith; a sister Mrs. Alfred Mellan of New York; a brother, Walter W. Beckwith of Moodus; a sister, Mrs. Cyrus Chapman of Norwich Town.

UNITED WORKERS SHOW GREAT CHARITABLE WORK IN PAST YEAR

The forty-eighth annual meeting of the United Workers was held in the Community house on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, the president, in the chair. The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn with Frederick W. Lester at the piano. Rev. A. N. Foster of the Church of the Good Shepherd, led the devotional exercises.

Executive Committee Report.

The minutes of the forty-seventh annual meeting and the annual report of the executive committee were read by the secretary, Mrs. Channing M. Huntington and were accepted as read. The report of the executive committee as read by Mrs. Huntington was as follows:

Since our last annual meeting no unusual events have occurred and the records of the year show that while the work has gone on quietly in all departments, there has been great activity and steady growth.

The usual eleven monthly meetings of the executive committee have been held at No. 9 Washington street.

One legacy has been received, and a number of bequests made, which give an encouraging outlook for the future of the work, which is ever increasing.

That this is a successful organization, no one who understands the operation of the various departments can doubt, and the secret of its success is, that no one works for money, alone, and no one works for fame, but each for the joy of the working.

Report of Departments

A condensed report of the various departments was then read by Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, the first vice president. Her report was as follows:

Among the countless clever cartoons which have met the eyes of millions of newspaper and magazine readers, few have been as telling as as productive of response as those pictured under the caption of "When a feller needs a friend." Originally issued as an appeal to aid the sending of city boys and girls to the country for a summer outing it has for its underlying principle, one which is everywhere woven into the fabric of human life, that of brotherly kindness.

It is the same that influence the Good Samaritan and the same which is today the foundation of all social service and of organized philanthropy.

It was this spirit which inspired a small group of earnest women in 1877, to found the society known as "The United Workers," now grown to be a powerful agency for good in the community, including hundreds of deeply interested, earnest, efficient and faithful women, aided by some fifteen trained assistants.

trained assistants each especially educated in her particular branch of the work. Several of the business men of the community serve in an advisory capacity and last but by no means least, most generous cooperation and assistance is given by the physicians of the city.

The following review of the work done in 1924, is necessarily much condensed and I regret not to be able to give you in full the exceedingly interesting reports of our family welfare worker, Miss Julia Corcoran, of our superintendent of nurses, Miss Kate McKenzie and of our neuropsychiatric worker, Miss Betsy Mitchell, for they are glowing with vitality inspired by zeal for their work. The printed page will acquaint you with them later.

District Visitation

Primarily to renew interest, and to bring before the public the activities of the United Workers and secondarily to solicit financial aid, the district visitation committee, makes personal calls through the residential districts of the city.

The visitation this year was successfully accomplished through the efforts of Mrs. John H. Barnes, chairman aided by seven district chairmen and 71 visitors.

After the printing of the annual report these visitors retrace their steps and place a copy in the hands of every contributer.

United Workers' House

The United Workers' house, No. 9 Washington street is in charge of a committee of which Mrs. B. P. Bishop is chairman.

This is the official center of the organization. Here are held many of the committee meetings, the clinics (save one) one of the well babies conferences and the sewing and cooking classes. On the main floor is the office of the family welfare department, which this year, has been thoroughly renovated, a much needed improvement. A desirable addition to the equipment at No. 9 has been the purchase of a large flag, first flung to the breezes on Armistice day, a fitting testimonial to our patriotism. Early in the spring the problem of finding new caretakers confronted the committee, which problem has been most satisfactorily solved.

Visitation of Alms House

Since the early days of this organization, it has been customary to include among its committees one which shall visit the inmates of the alms house, taking to the elderly men and women—now numbering 38—something of interest from the outside world. This privilege is accorded through the courtesy of the selectmen.

At Christmas time, members of the committee of which Mrs. Howard L. Stanton is chairman, personal friends, children from Sunday school classes, and from various societies, both Catholic and Protestant, brought pleasure to those who make this their home, by remembering them with gifts and with candy and fruit.

Sunday services have been held twice monthly.

Sheltering Arms

Other elderly women to whom the United Workers are more definitely able to give comfort and the pleasure of being in a home, not in the least institutional, are those living within the walls of the Sheltering Arms. At present, these number fourteen.

During the past year five new members have joined the family and four have passed beyond the need of earthly care.

Necessary repairs have been made to the old building, the dining room especially being brightened by fresh paper and paint.

In the summer season automobile rides have given pleasure. Through the generosity of friends and of members of the committee turkey dinners were enjoyed at Thanksgiving and at Christmas. The latter day was truly a "Merry Christmas" in the house-hold. Every member of which received gifts, selected with personal, interested effort.

We are grateful that funds permit us to include two nurses in the family, ever ready to minister to the needs of these elderly people, prone to illness.

The interested and solicitous committee of which Miss Mary Paddock has been chairman, and the staff within the household, spare no pains to secure the comfort and well-being of the patients. We are encouraged to think that in all probability, the new Sheltering Arms will this year become a reality, thus granting the long cherished desire to place the family in a more modern home.

Family Welfare Department.

Material aid and friendly counsel is given to other elderly people through the agency of the Family Welfare department, Miss Nancy E. Lucas, chairman. This committee, aided by an all-time worker, Miss Julia Corcoran, is met with the problems relative to all ages, from infancy to decrepitude. It gives material assistance to families in distress through difficulties due to sickness, misfortune or other causes, and also constructive help in suggestion, prevention and advice. To avoid overlapping, cooperation with other relief agencies is systematically carried on. Miss Corcoran has received the appointment of probation officer for women, which is a distinct aid to the department. The statistical record of the work done during the year, is carefully kept on file and will be available through the printed annual report. It includes calls made and service rendered to 140 families, the giving of milk, food and clothing, as well as the providing of clients with medical and surgical treatment, for which we are indebted to Drs. Callahan, Gray, Higgins and Tingley. Donations of clothing unsuited to our clients are placed in the thrift shop on the ground floor of the United Workers' House, where a sale is conducted on Saturday afternoons, under the direction of Mrs. John H. Barnes, chairman, aided by members of the Family Welfare committee. The receipts are used to purchase shoes, sheeting and materials for infants' clothing. A sewing class for expectant mothers was held last spring under the leadership of Miss Marion Bishop.

Summer outings were given to 53 persons. At Thanksgiving the school children donated large quantities of vegetables, food and delicacies, which were assorted and packed in baskets by members of the committee and delivered by the motor squad to 114 families, consisting of 447 persons. Consultation with the society of the Elks concerning their donations avoided duplication.

At Christmas time, 289 children were made happy by gifts of dolls, books, toys and candy. Twenty-seven old persons, two friends at the state hospital and one at the state farm were also remembered. Two well-filled stockings (donated) went to two of our children in the Backus hospital. Bountiful dinners were sent to some of our families by the welfare committee of the Elks. Other friends sent Christmas trees, dinners and gifts to families in their own homes and one friend provided a Christmas party in her home.

Our worker occasionally receives calls to households which are temporarily sadly out of order, owing sometimes to desertion by the mother or to the illness of perhaps both mother and children. To render assistance to meet this need we are now employing a "home-worker to take the place of the old fashioned "good neighbor" and to do temporarily the tasks which are the province of the mother in the home. Many hours are spent in behalf of the home service section of the Red Cross. Assistance this year was rendered to 318 ex-service men. Filing and re-adjusting compensation claims and bonus applications and helping to adjust war risk insurance is but a bare outline of the work done, which entails much correspondence and consumes much time.

We wish to call the attention of the public to the unsanitary, poorly-lighted and poorly ventilated basement tenements in our city, for which exorbitant rental is sometimes asked, and in which large families of children are housed. We succeed in removing them to better quarters, only to have another family occupy the unsuitable basement just vacated. Is there not someone who is willing to thoroughly investigate these conditions and set in motion regulatory measures which shall result in making these "breeding places of tuberculosis, suitable to live in?

An informal conference of the Family Welfare Workers in Connecticut was held with our department in April at which John B. Dawson presided. Miss Corcoran attended the 51st annual meeting of the National Conference of Social Workers, held in Toronto in June, this coming into touch with workers from all parts of the continent.

Rock Nook Children's Home.

The year's history of a house sheltering 36 children can never be uneventful. The visitation of the various ills peculiar to children prevents any monotony and the Rock Nook Home has had an abundant share of these ills during 1924.

The verbatim report of Mrs. Willis Austin, secretary, tells us that scarlet fever, Dutch measles, mumps and chicken pox visited the home in turn, the first named dread disease being fortunately confined to one case.

The other troubles claimed large numbers of victims, and in addition to these afflictions 13 children went to the Backus hospital, for tonsil and adenoid operations. Nevertheless, the general health has been good and the year a happy one.

The home east a bit of bread upon the waters in allowing the Boy Scouts to maintain a tent upon its grounds, and the bread returned abundantly when F. H. Wyant undertook the instruction in scouting of some of our older boys.

Two children have been taken in adoption and others have returned to their families, but new cases have kept the house full all the year.

The Rock Nook committee rejoices that it has been able to continue its aid outside the walls of the house, in half a dozen directions, including the clinics and conferences under the Public Health Nursing and Family Welfare departments, child welfare work in one of the schools, and the care of children in their own homes, a considerable portion of income going in this way.

The home still maintains its own kindergarten and this winter, owing to the contagion in the house and the consequent quarantine of the children, has provided instruction for those in other grades.

Thus, our activities increase and we are ever grateful to those who have made possible these works, and who have provided a shelter for needy children which is, we think in every sense, a home.

The chairman of the Rock Nook Home committee is Mrs. Edward D. Fuller.

Public Health Nursing.

In the department of Public Health Nursing, of which Mrs. Albert H. Chase is chairman, the staff, during the past year remained the same, but in June, the office of assistant superintendent was created and accepted by Miss Maher, after five years of devoted service. In July it was decided to send the nurses in monthly rotation to the neuro-psychiatric clinic, where they assist the doctor and have an opportunity to study many forms of nervous disorders. All cases requiring medical follow-up work are turned over to the nurses, no matter what the referring agency, until such supervision becomes unnecessary. This is a decided broadening of the scope of the work and an interesting one to the nurses. The baby conferences are showing such good results in prevention, that we hope to soon be able to open others in other sections of the town. The fees collected were considerably larger during the year. The rate accepted by the Metropolitan being raised from 60 to 75 cents.

The annual exhibit at the county fair was entirely in charge of the state department of health, which now owns a complete equipment, including tent, motion picture machine and exhibits. Our nurses were present daily, weighing and measuring the children and giving advice.

During the year, 9691 general nursing visits were made. Bedside nursing, from which all else radiates, demands the greater part of the working hours of the nurses, the average visit requiring about 40 minutes. Into that time is put actual nursing work, to make the patient comfortable, actual demonstration work to keep him so until the nurse returns, and most important of all, the seed of prevention is dropped. During each subsequent visit, more time, can be spent in developing this seed, as that when the case is closed, the family have a definite idea of the meaning of preventive medicine.

The branches of this work are the pre-natal child hygiene and the pre-school work.

From continued effort, and close cooperation with our physicians, our health officers and other health workers, a reward has come in the much lowered infant mortality of our town. By good preventive work with the mother, the baby and the run-about child, less time is lost in correcting the defects when the school age is reached. In 1924, this department admitted 224 patients for pre-natal instruction, 89 mothers were admitted without pre-natal instruction; 204 babies were given care at birth, 247 children under five years of age were admitted. The well babies conferences held in Yantic, Occum and at 9 Washington street welcome any mother, with her baby and children of pre-school age. It is the aim of the committee to have a physician present at every conference to advise as to diet and to refer defects to the family physician for correction. Dr. Clarence G. Thompson gave willingly of his time to the conferences in Yantic and Occum.

In connection with the well babies' conferences, the United Workers wish to thank the Totokett company of Occum, and Grace church in Yantic for their co-operation in furnishing a meeting place. These rooms have been heated, and lighted for these conferences without charge.

The Rock Nook Children's clinic has been fortunate in having Dr. Edward J. Brophy as the physician.

During 1924 a special effort has been made to aid the crippled children of Norwich. Through the kindness of Dr. John F. O'Brien and Dr. Paul P. Swett, a number of children have been examined and recommendations made. Six children have been admitted to hospitals for corrective work.

To both the Rotary club and the Lions' club the department is indebted for financial aid in securing hospital care for these children. One child has been placed in the blind nursery at Farmington, where marked improvement has been made.

The Adam Reid fund has made possible needed dental work for one of the clinic patients.

Club Department

Helpful work for children from seven to fifteen years of age is that done in the club department of which Mrs. Shepard Palmer is the chairman and Miss Alice Cogswell the supervisor. Three classes in sewing and cooking have been conducted at the United Workers house, attended by children from the West Side, Greeneville and the central part of the city. A sewing and a cooking school have also been maintained at the Falls on Oneco street, to which the girls came from the Falls and the Norwich Town districts. One hundred and eighty-one names appear on our lists. Some of them as pupils in both sewing and cooking. A nominal fee is charged for each lesson in order that no child may be prevented by poverty from receiving instruction. Twenty-one teachers gave their services from November until May, and a number of others served as substitute teachers. We have met with a great loss in the removal by death of Miss Helen Robinson for five years a most faithful and beloved teacher, whom we greatly miss. The cooking classes have been in charge of Miss Florence Sterry, a graduate in domestic science, assisted by Miss Edwin Rose and the supervisor. As usual, each class closed the season with a party, always eagerly anticipated. An exhibition of the work of the sewing classes was held, to which the mothers were invited. Those accepting enjoyed a social cup of tea with the members of the club committee and the teachers.

Neuropsychiatric Clinic

The following is a portion of the report of Mrs. Albert H. Chase, chairman:

"In looking back over the first year of this new plan for preventive work with nervous diseases, the growth of the work and the acceptance of the idea behind it seem quite astounding. The clinics have been crowded at times with a waiting list remaining.

The value and necessity of a full time psychiatric worker has been apparent from the first and, if the waiting cases are to be reached, an assistant is already needed. Miss Mitchell has proved her capacity for organization and the committee has appreciated the intensive care she has given to the cases.

The wisdom of holding the clinic at the Backus hospital, through the co-operation of the trustees, and the superintendent, Mr. Hutchins, has been proved.

Patients who might decline to go to state hospital, go willingly to a general hospital and laboratory services are accessible at a very moderate cost. The committee acknowledges the very generous gift from the Rock Nook home committee toward defraying the expenses. Such patients as have preferred to pay for services have been allowed to do so.

The co-operation of all the doctors has been given, but to Dr. Wilcox and Dr. Birdsall especial thanks are due. Dr. Campbell and Dr. O'Brien of the state sanitoria have also given advice and help, and Dr. Varney and Mr. Houghton have made their charges very moderate. The hospital, in addition to the quarters has furnished light heat and laundry.

During a term of emergency, the state department of health, gave again the services of its psychiatric worker, Miss Alice Rockwell, who organized the clinic.

Recently the Rotary club generously invited the neuropsychiatric clinic committee, the social workers, the public health nurses, and the school nurses to meet with them to hear Mr. Cheney Jones speak on the child mentally handicapped.

Upon the resignation of Dr. Brophy as town health officer, Dr. Gray, his successor, consented to meet with us.

The statistical record tells us that since the opening of the clinic fifteen months ago, 174 cases have been registered.

Number of examinations at clinic since Jan. 14th, 1924, is 304; number of visits and interviews, 1430. Twenty-five of these cases have been unable to overcome ancient prejudices against, and fears of anything suggesting mental disability, and have not yet visited the clinic. Others have come after taking two to five months to work up their courage. A few nervous patients who have read articles in papers or magazines about treatment for their troubles, have shown eager and intelligent co-operation from the first and great appreciation for the help which they have received. Those who show strongest opposition at first frequently became warm friends.

Other clinics are interested in the fact that so large a proportion of cases have been referred by physicians which has not been true in other places. The state department of health is interested in the fact that cases come from the court.

Among the patients are many who have shown marked improvement of which we should be glad to cite instances, were it not or the act that they are of so personal a nature, that much good might be undone, were we to give any information tending to disclose the identity of those seeking help.

We all know, however, that the complex social life of today has brought with it an increasing tendency to nervous disorders. Many of which can be corrected by remedial measures, if dealt with in the initial stages, and the United Workers are grateful to have been able to add this department to the work, not only because the need for it has proven so apparent, but also because it is so essentially constructive in its nature.

In the early days charity work, so-called, was simply the immediate relief of distress or suffering. Later it was recognized necessary to strike at the root causes of social misery, and so today the great contribution to the welfare work of the world is that of prevention and construction. In time, this must result in an improved condition of the public health, which will tend to prolong the period of wage earning, lessen the percentage of mentally incompetent, decrease the number to be cared for in public homes, and bring more comfort and well-being into the individual home. To have a share in this accomplishment is a tremendous inspiration. That Norwich has such a wonderful opportunity to associate itself with this work is due to the breadth of vision of the twelve Christian women who founded the United Workers, and to those who by following their ideals gained and have maintained the confidence of the public as evidenced by the continuance of donations and legacies. We wish to record our appreciation of this financial support which permits the expansion of the work for the betterment of the unfortunate and the handicapped.

To continue this work so important to the community and to maintain the high standards of service set by our predecessors, may we be given Divine guidance and inspiration.

The chairman of the nominating committee, Miss Mary Lucas, then submitted her report, which was accepted, and officers elected for the year as follows: President, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard; first vice president, Mrs. Robert W. Perkins; treasurer, Miss Adelaide L. Butts; assistant treasurer, Miss Matilda Butts; recording secretary, Miss Mary H. Paddock; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Earl Matheson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William H. Oat; vice presidents for three years, Miss Ella M. Norton, Mrs. Francis Gilman and Mrs. William L. Clark.

Auditor, Arthur E. Story; assistant auditor, Charles D. Greenman; advisory board, William H. Allen, W. Russell Baird, Charles R. Butts, Frank Hempstead, Oliver L. Johnson, Henry A. Tirrell; John P. Huntington, attorney for the United Workers.

It was voted to print the reports of departments as usual.

Owen Lovejoy Speaks.

Owen Reid Lovejoy, child welfare worker for twenty years, was the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Lovejoy spoke in favor of the child labor amendment which has been passed by congress and is now before the various states for ratification. He said that the public sentiment against the bill seems to be due to a general misunderstanding of its provisions. In considering the amendment the speaker said there are two questions for discussion. The first question is whether the federal government has any place in the matter of regulating child labor throughout the country. The second, assuming that we answer the first in the affirmative, whether the bill is properly drawn.

Mr. Lovejoy said that the government ought to have power to protect its own children. This is a power our government doesn't have. That is why this bill is before you, he said. Some states have adopted child labor laws while others have made little or no progress. Therefore we went before congress and got this amendment through. Then it went before the states for ratification and the storm broke. We suddenly found out that we were under suspicion of being bolsheviste and soviets. It was said that the amendment originated in Moscow.

We are told that the government has made such a mess of things that the people refuse to invest any more power in congress. Another objection is that people say that if the government is given this power it will abuse it. The government has never used all its power.

We are only asking that the federal government be granted the same power you have here in your own state, except that where this power in Connecticut extends over the whole span of life, in the case of the federal government it would be cut off sharp at the age of 18 years. After this amendment is ratified the government will then have the power to pass a child labor law, if it wishes.

Mr. Lovejoy placed emphasis on the fact that the amendment itself does not regulate child labor, but simply gives congress the power to enact child labor legislation to protect children up to the age of eighteen years. Showing the need of such an amendment, the speaker said that 21 states have no legislation regulating child labor in hazardous occupations; 39 states allow children under 16 to clean and oil machinery while it is in motion; 19 states allow children under 14 to clean and oil machinery while it is in motion; 36 states allow children under 16, and 19 states allow children under 14 to operate elevators; 22 have no legislation regulating child labor in plants where acids, poisons, gunpowder, etc., are manufactured.

In closing Mr. Lovejoy said that this child labor amendment will be put through ultimately.

After singing the United Workers' hymn, Blest Be the Tie That Binds, Rev. A. N. Foster pronounced the benediction and the 48th annual meeting of the United Workers was adjourned.

PEERLESS TEAM CLINCHES TITLE IN EASTERN CONN. BOWLING LEAGUE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 14.—The Peerless Bowlers took four out of six strings tonight. In the first match at the Peerless alleys the Peerless took three strings from the Palace of Norwich while in the second match at the Lawrance alleys, the Peerless dropped two. These four strings clinch the Eastern Connecticut bowling tournament title for the Peerless, with Moosup finishing second and the Aetna third.

The Peerless team has three more games to roll and can lose all of these without losing the lead.

BUSINESS MEN RETAIN "Y" VOLLEYBALL TITLE

The "Y" Seniors' volleyball team met some real stiff opposition when they endeavored to trim the Cadillacs of the Business Men's Volleyball league on the "Y" court last night, and after the smoke of the battle had cleared, and it was some battle from start to finish it was found that the business men had retained the "Y" class championship. Each of the three games were very close and exciting throughout and resulted in the scores which required extra periods of play. The Business Men succeeded in capturing the first game, 18 to 17, after which the seniors retaliated by a score of 16-12, while the final "workout" which proved to be the fastest of the three, resulted in favor of the Business Men's "Caddies" —15 to 17.

"Y" Seniors—Al Greve, J. W. Barwell, Howard Ludlow, R. Harris, B. Polaski, A. Charnetski.

Business Men—H. E. Robbins, E. C. Dunbar, E. L. Bliven, O. Hargreaves, J. Greenstein, W. R. Frisbie.

C. F. C. FIVE BEATS N. L. KAYBROOKS

Before a large crowd, the fast C. F. C. basketball team of Norwich overwhelmed the Kaybrooks of New London by the score of 35 to 21. The game was featured by fast passwork and accurate shooting on both teams, the C. F. C. having a slight advantage over their rivals. The first casualty of the season on the C. F. C.'s quintet occurred when, in the last quarter Ludlow, their center, sprained his ankle.

The lineup:

C. F. C.		Kaybrooks
Leffingwell		Hutchinson

POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA TO BE BIG AFFAIR THIS YEAR

New York, Jan. 14.—(By the A. P.)—The annual intercollegiate regatta probably will be rowed on Monday, June 22, at Poughkeepsie over a three-mile course on the Hudson river, with one of the largest fields in the history of the classic taking part in the race.

This was indicated today in connection with announcement by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, that the annual meeting of the stewards will be held here January 22 to frame the regatta program.

Mr. Stevenson, who represents Columbia on the board of stewards, did not indicate what course he would take at the meeting on the question of the distance of the varsity race, but some argument may be put forth to bring about a return to the four-mile distance, instead of three miles. Such a proposal has been voted down for the past two years, with Columbia as the chief sponsor of the longer distance. Syracuse is understood to be inclined somewhat toward the longer race, but both Cornell and Pennsylvania, other members of the I. R. A., have held out firmly for the three-mile distance and it seems likely their views will prevail for at least another year.

This year's race will again take the form of an "open championship," as was done last season, according to Mr. Stevenson, who said invitations would be forwarded after next week's meeting to such institutions as University of Washington, varsity winner of the past two years; University of California; Wisconsin University, Naval Academy and Princeton.

Navy already has signified its readiness to return to the Hudson after a year's lapse and Washington is expected to defend her laurels although the status of the "huskies" depends largely upon the outcome of their annual race with California, scheduled on the Pacific coast for April 11. Wisconsin, which finished second in 1924, also is likely to return, thus giving prospect of seven contenders for the varsity title. The door for Princeton's admission has been held open for several years but the Tigers have not indicated whether they may arrange their schedule to accept a 1925 invitation.

The date for the regatta will not be settled until the stewards go over the program, but June 22 is favored, as a date avoiding conflict with various commencement schedules, and also the Harvard-Yale regatta, which is slated for June 19 on the Thames at New London, Conn.

REGULARS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM ALUMNI

With a brilliant display of consistent team work, the Plainfield High basketball team defeated their crack Alumni hoopsters by the score of 19-14 on Tuesday evening. Coach Emery of Plainfield sent his second team on the floor for the first quarter and as the game progressed, gradually replaced them with first-string men.

The Alumni lineup contained such men as Dorrance of the Storrs College freshmen; Eaton, star of the Service Battery; Lee of the championship Plainfield Buddies and West and Dennigon, rated as two of the fastest men in eastern Connecticut.

From start to finish the game was close and at the close of the final period the score read 14 all, extra time being required to give the wearers of the orange and black their five-point lead. The high school team showed a decided improvement since its last contest with Bulkeley and is out to give a good account of itself in the final reckoning for eastern Connecticut High school honors.

COLUMBIA CREW TO ROW IN THREE REGATTAS

New York, Jan. 14.—Three regattas are on Columbia university's schedule for next spring, according to an announcement today by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the rowing committee.

The triangular events feature the program, in the first of which Pennsylvania and Yale will be encountered on the Schuylkill river, Philadelphia on May 2, while in the other, Princeton and Pennsylvania will meet in the annual Childs cup race on the Harlem river, the first time this classic has been held here in several years.

The detailed rowing program follows:

May 2, Pennsylvania, Yale and Columbia, at Philadelphia; varsity, junior and freshman events.

May 16, Columbia vs Massachusetts Institute of Technology in varsity event, Columbia vs Syracuse in junior varsity race, on Harlem river.

May 23, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Columbia in Childs cup regatta, on Harlem river; varsity and freshman events.

PENN CREWS FACE HARD ROWING SCHEDULE

Philadelphia, Jan. 14.—One of the hardest schedules in the history of rowing at the University of Pennsylvania was announced today by John Arthur Brown, chairman of the rowing committee. Every college crew of prominence in the country is expected to be met by the Pennsylvanians.

Triangular races have been arranged with Yale and Columbia on May 2, and on May 23 with Columbia and Princeton. Quadrangular races have been listed with Cornell, Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology on May 9 and Syracuse, Navy and Princeton on May 30, in the American Henley regatta.

In the intercollegiate championships at Poughkeepsie in June, Pennsylvania will vie for honors with Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Washington state winner last year, and Wisconsin, which finished second in the varsity race in 1923.

Pennsylvania will have entrants in varsity, junior varsity, freshman and 150 pound races at Poughkeepsie, the date of which has not been determined.

LADKIN IS SOLD TO AN UNKNOWN PURCHASER

New York, Jan. 14.—Ladkin, conqueror of Epinard in the second international special at Aqueduct last summer, and two other leading racers of the late August Belmont's string, together with seventeen two-year-olds, all sons of Fair Play, were sold today, but the name of the purchaser was withheld by the estate.

The four-year-olds in the deal, besides Ladkin, were Lucky Play, now at Tia Juana, and Blind Play. The value of the three is placed at $100,000.

Chaance Play and Festival were the stars of the two-year-olds, according to their trails last fall. The former would have brought $35,000 at auction, while Festival's value has been placed at $20,000.

Lucky Play will remain on the coast until April, as he is a candidate for the Coffroth handicap. He, Ladkin and Blind Play, are all well engaged in the various fixtures on the Jockey club circuit. The two-year-olds are also extensively named for the juvenile tests during the season of 1925.

M'TIGUE SEEKING FAVOR WITH N. Y. COMMISSION

New York, Jan. 14.—Mike McTigue, light heavyweight boxing champion, said today that he is seeking peace with the New York state athletic commission and will take out a license if he is assured that he will not draw a suspension.

McTigue expressed a desire to meet Paul Berlenbach of Astoria, Long Island, before facing Jene Tunney, American light heavyweight titleholder.

HAINES IS REINSTATED AND WILL JOIN YANKEES

Chicago, Jan. 14.—H. L. Haines, former outfielder of the New York Americans, tonight was reinstated by baseball Commissioner Landis, and was placed on the roster of the Yankees. Haines had been sent to the Louisville American association last year, but was placed on the ineligible list when he refused to remain with the club, the deal falling through.

To Elect Captain Thursday.

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 14.—Due to the absence of two regular members of the basketball squad who were to participate in the voting, the Bulkeley basketball captaincy will not be decided until Thursday. Coach Canty abolished practice for this afternoon, but tomorrow will find the Bulkeley team returning to the grind once more in preparation for its two hard games to be played over the week end.

BALTIC WANDERERS TO PLAY MECHANICSVILLE

The Baltic Wanderers basketball team on Friday will play the Mechanicsville Athletic association team on the Baltic gym surface. By the rumors that are going around the Wanderers are due for a surprise as the boys from up state are not saying much. As Mechanicsville produced a fast baseball team, much is expected from the team in their first appearance in Baltic.

On account of a moving picture for the benefit of St. Mary's church on the same night, the Wanderers-Mechanicsville game will not start till the show is over.

For a preliminary game the Bantams will play the Taftville Crescents. The lineup for Mechanicsville will be McCoy, Chase, forwards; W. Johnson, center; McKenna and O'Brien, guards; L. Johnson and Misho, subs.

For the Wanderers Simoneau, Ridgeway, Charron, W. Robertaille will play the forward positions with R. Robertaille, Swanson, Sullivan and Coady at guard. The Wanderers put in a hard practice Monday night and with the mill stopped for water they put in a hard practice Wednesday afternoon.

MASCART WILLING TO SIGN WITH KAPLAN

Paris, Jan. 14.—Edouard Mascart, featherweight champion of Europe, and his manager, M. Tietard, commenting today upon dispatches from New York announcing that Tex Rickard was ready to stage a bout between Mascart and Kid Kaplan, the American featherweight champion, said that William ("Sparrow") Robertson was now aboard the La Savoie en route to New York with full authority to arrange the match.

Robertson, it was added also bears carte blanche from Lucien Vidz, European lightweight champion, to arrange matches with any American lightweight, Sid Terris, Sid Barbarian and Rocky Kansas preferred, with Benny Leonard as the ultimate goal. Jimmy Johnston, the boxing promoter, after watching Vidz polish off Paul Fritch recently, dubbed the champion "The Invulnerabe."

RICKARD AWAITS ARRIVAL OF HIS REPRESENTATIVE

New York, Jan. 14.—Tex Rickard, said today he was ready to stage a match between Edouard Mascart, featherweight champion of Europe, and Louis (Kid) Kaplan, world's featherweight champion, if the two principals could agree on terms.

Rickard said he had already been approached and had tentatively agreed to the promotion but preferred to wait until the arrival in this country of William (Sparrow) Robertson, his European representative, before making any definite announcement.

When informed that Lucien Vidz, the European lightweight champion, was seeking matches against the leading American lightweights, Rickard said he would stage any match with Vidz as a principal if he wanted to cross the ocean.

TITLE FOOTBALL GAME WITH NO SPECTATORS

Barcelona, Spain, Jan. 1.—For the first time in history a match for football championship of Spain is to be played tomorrow with only the players and the officials inside the grounds. The gates are to be locked and no spectators will be permitted to witness the play.

This decision was made today by the governor of the province before he would grant a permit for the game. The teams which will strive for the championship are those of the club Espanol of Madrid and the club Barcelona.

The reason of the governor for desiring the game played behind locked gates was a fear of trouble between Spaniards and Catalonians among whom there is considerable bitterness.

INTERNATIONAL INDOOR ICE EVENTS AT PITTSBURGH

New York, Jan. 14.—The international indoor speed skating championships for both men and women will be held in Pittsburgh during the latter part of February, the International Skating Union announced today. The definite date has not been decided on but it will follow the outdoor title events scheduled the first two weeks of February at Saranac Lake and Lake Placid, N. Y.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14.—The Annapolis midshipmen defeated Lafayette college, 28 to 26, at basketball here today, after an extra period of five minutes. It was Navy's tenth straight victory.

BASKETBALL AT BULKELEY IS FAR FROM A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 14.—Whether Bulkeley High school will continue basketball at the local institution will be decided by the support the Orange and Black five receives in its attempt to bring the home schedule on the basis so that it can be compared to the other high schools of the state. The real test will be made on Saturday evening when the fast Hartford Public High school quintet invades this city to play the Canty-coached aggregation. In a rally held in the school auditorium this noon, Head Master Homer K. Underwood explained that the matter was entirely out of his hands as to whether the school will continue the sport which was abolished last year. He said that it was up to the school and the community to support this sport if it is to survive the year, and the game with Hartford High was the game which was to decide whether the sport would continue or be abolished after this game.

Although the Bulkeley basketball team is not enjoying the success that has attended the efforts of the football and baseball teams in the past, yet he explained that he would prefer the Bulkeley team to play the larger schools in the state and out, whether the team kept up its losing streak. As Head Master Underwood put it to the students he said that basketball must pay for itself, and not be dependent upon other resources to pull it through financially.

This declaration by Head Master Underwood will be carried out if the game which is played Saturday night is a financial failure. If it does not come out a failure the remaining schedule will be played instead of cancelled as he outlined in the assembly. It will mean that nearly eight large teams will be engaged if this game played on Saturday at the state armory is a success. Among those being Springfield Commercial, Leominster Mass. High, Crosby and Wilby Highs of Waterbury, Torrington, and several other large schools.

In an effort to retain this sport, Head Master Underwood outlined the plan which is paying in other big cities. Head Master Underwood contrasted the affairs of the local school in the home schedule respect with that now in vogue at Passaic High, the so-called "wonder basketball" team. This town was Head Master Underwood's former home town, and he said that he witnessed the game played in Passaic last Saturday and the results were gratifying. He said that besides the regular basketball program the newly crowned city champions, the Coast Guard Cadets, would oppose the All-Collegian Big Five of which Kenneth F. Shea is manager. This game will be a preliminary to the big game but is a contest in itself, inasmuch as it will decide whether the Coast Guard will retain its title or not. After the final game which will be the Hartford-Bulkeley contest, will find the hall converted into a dance hall, where dancing will be enjoyed from 8.30 to 12.

With the destiny of basketball remaining with the outcome of the contest on Saturday the school in unison pledged support towards this sport to continue it. The trial will come on Saturday, and if it does not pay, although it is expected that it will, Bulkeley will probably drop basketball for all time.

New York, Jan. 14.—Paavo Nurmi today sent in his entry blank for the Brooklyn college games to be held in the 13th Regiment armory, Jan. 24. The event in which Nurmi will compete has not as yet been determined but it is likely he will elect to run two miles.

SPORTING NOTES

Now that boxing is legalized in Oregon and California, it is expected that Washington will be the next state to fall in line. An effort will be made to have the new legislature take action in the matter.

The Chicago Cubs will experience a unique innovation in baseball the coming season by not going on a barnstorming trip either during or at the end of the spring training season at Catalina Island. President Veeck, of the club, stated that the team will make only one stop on the way back to Chicago, that being at Kansas City.

Oarsmen of the U. S. S. Arizona this year won every team rowing event in the United States Battle Fleet, scoring ten straight victories in races against the combined competition of seven other dreadnoughts.

Reports have reached Omaha that Oklahoma City is expecting to obtain an option from the Pirates, Tommy Thompson, young second sacker, recently sold by Barney Burch to Pittsburgh. The impression in Omaha is that Thompson will refuse to play anything but big league ball.

The Afghan hound, a breed little known to American fanciers, is believed to be one of the oldest breeds of coursing dogs. In their native Afghanistan they are used for coursing deer and antelope, and have proved themselves to be fleeter and more surefooted than the greyhound.

Ski-jumping and kindred [illegible] sports, which only a few years ago were confined to Dartmouth, Williams and the Canadian colleges, have rapidly grown in popularity as intercollegiate competitions.

For the thirteenth time, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will stage its 500-mile international sweepstakes, May 30, on the two and one-half mile brick oval which has made the Hoosier capital city famous internationally. As in previous years, the race will carry the largest cash award of the season for an automobile speed contest.

Duke of Bedford's Gold Plate

The duke of Bedford's gold plate at Woburn Abbey is among the most magnificent collections of its kind in the world. So lightly, however, was it regarded by the eighth duke, that on his death in 1872, gold plate worth tens of thousands of dollars was found strewn about the floor of his house in Belgrave square in such a deplorable condition that it narrowly escaped being consigned to the dust bin as worthless metal.—London Telegraph.

Pond Falls Into Mine

Forty-two miners perished when the bottom fell out of a small pond and flooded the workings of an iron mine near Crosby, Minn. Only seven men were able to gain the safety of the shaft and ascend to the surface, for of the mine lies Island Lake and between the mine and the lake was a small pond. It was the water from this which poured into the mine when the bottom dropped out.

The garret in Heathfield hall, Handsworth, England, in which James Watt conducted his experiments which led to the development of the steam engine, will be brought bodily to London and kept in the South Kensington Museum.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Marty Dupree and her Musical Follies remains at the Broadway theater for the last half of this week.

This ever popular of seventeen people will present an entirely new program consisting of new songs, dances, comedy bits, and music. By popular request Messrs. Drohan and Murray will play Gallagher and Shean of a thousand verses and as many laughs. They created a positive riot with this song number last season and everyone who has not heard it will want to, and those that have will want to hear it again. This show is by far a great deal better than the first half.

There are some plays that depend on mystery for their appeal; some on dramatic action or surprise climaxes; some purely on thrills and excitement, but after all, the greatest appeal in a play is in humanness. This is well exemplified in The Turmoil, Booth Henley's Universal—Jewel picturization of Booth Tarkington's famous novel, now playing at the Broadway theater.

It is a powerful story, the tale of a self-made millionaire, imperious, ruthless and indomitable, fighting ever to gain more dollars. The son, a temperamental youth with the soul of an artist, he struggles to break his will. The cast is exceptional. George Hackathorne plays the dreamy Bibbs, Eileen Percy plays Sybil, the daughter-in-law. Pauline Garon is a perfect blonde flapper.

Strand Theater

On and after Sunday night the Strand theater will run every matinee and evening instead of the usual Sunday night only. During the past week this popular theater has had a corps of men putting the theatre in proper condition for the comfort of the many patrons.

It is the intention of the new management to offer the theatregoers of Norwich the biggest amusement value in the city. A program consisting of two new high class features as well as selected numbers of short subjects will be shown three times daily, and from time to time novelties will also be given.

The Strand theater has in the past been a theater generously patronized and the fact that it will be open every day no doubt will be good news for the many film fans.

The new management informed the writer of the fact that many of the big new photoplays had been contracted for and the admission price will, at all times be, for the matinees (except Saturday) the price will be ten cents, and in the evenings admission will be ten and twenty cents. Saturday matinee, evening prices will prevail.

Because of the low admission price, that will in no way have a tendency to lessen the high class program, and it is safe to say that in a short while the Strand will again become the most popular photoplay house in Norwich.

When asked regarding music for the Strand the manager (W. C. Maughton) said that Herb Smith and his popular orchestra had been engaged. The complete program for the opening week has not been completed but for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Girls Men Forget—Fred Thompson in Thundering Hoofs, a Monte Banks comedy and the thrill serial The Riddle Riders will be shown.

Bread Theater

Not One to Spare, a dramatic gem of the screen replete with heart interest, based on the poem, Not One To Spare, heads the double feature bill at the Bread theater today.

It is a simple hoo— life tale, no great cast of picture names, but a story that is going to grip every mother's heart and bring tears to the eyes of those who see it.

It is a sob picture pure and simple, and as such it will go down in film history with Over the Hill.

Directed by Renaud Hoffman, it is the first of a series to be made from the famous heart interest poems of history.

For the second feature, Lloyd Hamilton will be seen in his first super feature comedy, His Darker Self, five reels of fun in both white and black face. It's a knockout! The Fox news completes the bill.

Connecticut College Concert

No chapter in the history of American musical achievement contains so much of romantic appeal as does that description of the phenomenal rise of Rosa Ponselle from small town vaudeville semi-obscurity to stardom at the Metropolitan Opera. In the space of but a few years she leaped the chasm between a twelve dollar position in a small moving picture house in Meriden, Connecticut, her birth-place by the way, to a stellar role in the most famous opera organization in all the world. She literally swam into the Metropolitan's firmament over night. Nor did she rise to the forefront by the usual procedure of intermittent minor roles. She came from virtually nowhere and landed in the center of the picture. Her debut was further enhanced by the honor of having the immortal Caruso sharing the memorable night's triumph, and since that wonderful night she has never looked back. The future may bring forth the story of a more rapid and romantic rise from humble beginnings, but so far it has not been written.

In presenting Miss Ponselle at the New London State Armory, Jan. 22, Connecticut college is to be congratulated for its enterprise in giving music lovers an opportunity of hearing the golden voice that brought New York to her feet. Sale begins tomorrow morning at Fort Rea's.

WORK FOR CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT ENERGETIC BY SOME NEW LONDONERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 14.—Agitation for the ratification of the proposed amendment to the constitution affecting child labor was conducted here with a good deal more energy than it was favored with elsewhere in the state, but what effect the agitation will have is a matter of doubt. Miss Marjory Cheney, of South Manchester, was heard before the League of Women Voters on the matter, but that she converted those who heard her is not known.

A second cutting of ice loomed large for the dealers tonight, they declared.

Miss Chester, the daughter of Admiral Colby C. Chester, formerly of this city, of which city he is a native, was introduced to society in New York the past week.

Store front alternations are many in New London during the slow season, some half a dozen being now under changes.

Kenneth Avery denies the truth of the statement of an automobile dealer that there are no sleighs for public service in this city and that horses were not to be had for public use. He says the statement was made without having knowledge of the facts.

Gasoline dealers received notice today of a boost in price of gasoline. They imparted it to consumers at once and then there was a hard kick about John D. Rockefeller controlling the earth.

It is probable that the New London lodge of Elks will secure the services of an out of town detective to run down the mystery that surrounds the robbery of the state in the clubhouse a few weeks ago, when the sum of $300 was stolen. It is believed an outsider would make a better job of solving the mystery than an officer who has the acquaintance of members of the lodge and who would hesitate about as thorough a search for the thief as a man who was cold as to friendships would prosecute. As time goes on the members of the lodge are more incensed than they were at the time the robbery became known. A report from a committee of investigation is expected at the meeting of the lodge Thursday evening.

Frank Beckwith, of Willets avenue extension, and Mrs. Georgiana Coote, Vauxhall street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

Private funeral services were held this afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, for Mrs. Emily A. Southworth, widow of Israel W. Southworth, at her residence, 35 Converse place. Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of the Montauk Avenue Baptist church, officiating. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Henry C. Lazarde, 70, died this morning at his home, 71 Gorton street, after a lingering illness, although Mr. Lazarde had been confined to his bed but about a week. He is survived by his widow and several children.

Louise Bishop has sold two parcels of land on Fifth avenue to Robert Vascovi.

Phyllis Ray, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Waterhouse, 169 Baker avenue, Groton, died yesterday at the residence of her parents, death resulting from an illness of five weeks' duration.

William H. Mutterer, Albany, N. Y., and Miss Alice Hanigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Hanigan, Stewart street, were joined in wedlock this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church in the presence of relatives and intimate acquaintances. The nuptial mass was solemnized by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, rector of the church. George P. Mutterer, Albany, brother of the groom was best man and Miss Marie Hanigan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Mutterer departed this afternoon for their wedding trip, which will include a visit to New York, Baltimore and Washington and upon the conclusion of the trip, Mr. and Mrs. Mutterer will take up their future abode at 8 Darrow street.

Charles Patrie, formerly of this city, at which time he was employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, returned to his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., last night after having been in New London several days following the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Catherine Elwood Patrie, which occurred last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Reid, Winthrop street, are spending a few days in New York.

Alain C. White, department commander of the American Legion, was a visitor here yesterday. During his stay in New London Mr. White was entertained by Willard Cooper, Pequot avenue.

Louis Pearson, chauffeur in the employ of the F. H. & A. H. Chappell company, was taken into custody late this afternoon by Sergeant Joseph Cavanaugh and Patrolman William Babcock and was locked up on a charge of drunkenness. Pearson went to the residence of James Robishaw, 79 High street, shortly after 4 o'clock and persisted in annoying Mrs. Robishaw. When Pearson refused to leave the house, Mrs. Robishaw communicated with the police and the officers sent to the Robishaw house upon finding Pearson there, took him into custody upon complaint of Mrs. Robishaw.

The special committee of the city council, consisting of Councilors Edward L. Streeter, Jr., John F. Murray and Lucius E. Walton, together with City Manager William A. Holt, resumed its session this evening at the municipal building for the purpose of endeavoring to determine the efficiency of the police department. The patrolmen who were interrogated this evening were Traffic Officers Frank Linehan and Clyde Murphy and Patrolmen William Babcock and John Foley. The session occupied about two hours during which time the quartette of officers were asked questions along similar lines as those propounded to the officers already quizzed. Another hearing is scheduled to take place Thursday or Friday night when other officers will be called to testify.

Morris V. Fitzgerald, of New London, was taken into custody in New York late this afternoon as a result of the young man passing fraudulent and worthless checks upon the Grand Union Hotel, 42nd street, New York. He will escape prosecution, however, as the hotel management will not cause criminal proceedings to be instituted against him.

Fitzgerald, who has not resided in New London for several years, and who was employed until a few weeks ago at the State Hospital, Preston, has been in New York several days and while stopping at the Grand Union Hotel he issued the checks, which were drawn on the Union Bank & Trust company, this city, an institution where Fitzgerald did not carry an account. The fraud was discovered today and Fitzgerald's arrest followed.

There are a fewer number of plumbers employed in this city at the present time than has been the case in many years, for several establishments have caused their working forces to be reduced to a minimum. One establishment, which ordinarily employs from 12 to 15 hands, has reduced its force to three. The reason for the curtailment of the working force is because of the scarcity of orders many property owners even refraining from causing repairs to be made. Practically all of the big plumbing jobs now in progress are being performed by out-of-town concerns.

Andrew Ganty, who claims to reside at 120 Golden street, and who says he is employed at the wharf of the Central Vermont railroad, was arrested late this afternoon by Captain Charles A. Pinney, who found Ganty on North Bank street acting queerly. Ganty is being held to determine his sanity.

The members of the fire department or at least the members of certain companies that are units of it received something of a shock some months ago when the council was petitioned to remove the Niagara Engine house that Sparyard street might be widened and the wholesale houses therein could have a greater space in the street in which to do their business. The street is hardly such as should be dignified by the name, though the center of the street is paved and there is a sidewalk on the north side of it. The street is barely of a width that permits of the passage of a team or motor vehicle, but in the rear of it a considerable volume of business is transacted. The Humphrey-Cornell Co., the Pierce, Butler Co., and the Sisk company are located in the street, and it is a way to get to the rear of the Armstrong property in which a number of business houses are located. The petition asked for the removal of the Niagara house that increased facilities might be had for the transaction of business. Then there was a statement made that the plan was to eventually put the Allen Hook and Ladder company and the Niagara under one roof and construct a combination fire house that would accommodate them. Of course there was some opposition to that plan—indeed an opposition that was formidable and the plan was never carried out. It was said in connection with the proposed change that the plan also contemplated the abandonment of the Nameaug Engine company because it was superfluous to have two companies located within about 100 feet of each other and the city put to the expense of maintaining both houses. There seemed to be more of reason to the plan to rid the city of one fire company and one piece of fire apparatus than there was in the combination house scheme. Then it developed that the Chappell company was occupying with its building a portion of Sparyard street, but it was said that the occupancy was obtained from the city by agreement and by the payment of a stipulated sum of money for the land occupied. Be that as it may, nothing has been done as to the fire company changes since and that was nearly a year ago. It is possible that the plan has been abandoned and that the petitioners do not want the change made now. The fire department as it is constituted has done excellent work and has kept the fire loss down to figures that are most satisfactory to the people and that is the end desired. Members of the department who have kept something of a record of fires in the state declare that the showing made by New London is not excelled in Connecticut. If that is an accurate statement it is not probable that a vote of the citizens could be obtained to make any change that would reduce the number of units or that would bring about conditions that would not be satisfactory to the members of the fire department. The Niagara company is reputed to be the largest in the city and with the Nameaug company to be the oldest, either company dating its organization back to the year 1850. Every company in the department date their organization to years since the two mentioned were formed. Both have a record for duty and for general assistance to the city that is most enviable. They desire to continue that career.

Jeremiah Twomey has a portion of his building on Bank street below Golden street on stilts, so to speak, as he is remodelling it. The building is one of the oldest in the city. Sixty years ago Lewis Casamunn had an auction store therein and Nate Beebe was in the same business there latter. The entrance to the building then was by three granite steps, but those long ago went by and the entrance now is from the level of the sidewalk. Chester Bishop then kept a livery stable in the rear of the structure with entrance from Bank street. The color of the building has not been changed in the three generations, nor has the general shape of the structure, but otherwise there is little to remind of the days when Bill Eisenbrandt was a barber in a portion of it, and he became enamored of a young girl residing on outer Broad street and when his love was not appreciated he killed the girl and himself. That tragedy aroused the public and for days there was a line of people going to the scene of the tragedy and to the residence of the young girl who was slain. So the old building has a history that will cling to it while there are any in this city who recall the time of old New London.

There is a great diminution in the number of autos in use in this city just at present. This is noticeable in the scant number of machines parked at night on the principal streets.

COLCHESTER

Hattie Jackson temple, Pythian Sisters, held a meeting in Pythian hall Tuesday evening with a large attendance. There being no initiatory work, the evening was spent in music and games, a lunch being served.

Miss Ruth Snow, Fred W. Holmes and Judge Coudren were visitors in Hartford Wednesday.

Several members of Oliver Wood-house lodge, K. of P., went to New London Wednesday evening to attend the installation of Trumbull lodge, No. 48. District Deputy Fred B. Jones of Woodbridge lodge, Salem, was the installing officer. After the work lunch was served and a social hour spent. Members from surrounding lodges attended.

Charles A. Daniels of Stonington was the guest of Bailiff John Higgins Wednesday.

F. B. Rogers of New London was calling on friends in town Wednesday.

Tony Rutka and Charles Levy have finished filling their icehouses with 12-inch ice; it is fine, there being no snow or slush on it.

COLUMBIA

It was in a Hartford-Colchester bus that one woman was overheard saying to another, 'What a beautiful baby you have. Do you take it to the Well Child Conferences "Oh, yes," the mother replied. We go there every month."

There's always a reason for plump, sound babies, healthy appetites and good dispositions. There is an equally good, or rather poor reason, for fretful dispositions, fussy appetites, thin bodies, and pale cheeks.

To give a child a good foundation of health, take him to a Well Baby Conference. There you can ask questions and get help on such problems as—what to give a child to eat, and how to get him to eat it; on how much sleep he should have and when and why he should have it; on how much he should weigh, and what to do if he is underweight; on what makes him pale and nervous and fussy and how to remedy it.

There's no problem related to health of children that you cannot work out, either first or last, through a Well Child Conference.

The conference this month will be held in the town hall, on Monday, January 19, from 2 to 4 p. m.

ANDOVER

The Columbia Grain Association unloaded a carload of grain Saturday at the local railroad station, G. B. Dimon of Chestnut Hill was in charge.

MONTVILLE

The Ladies' Aid society of the Union Baptist church has been invited to attend the meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church at Uncasville Thursday afternoon.

At a largely attended meeting held in Hickey's hall Sunday afternoon, by Pequot council, No. 126, K. of C., Rev. William A. Keefe of Norwich, Rev. Father O'Meara, the chaplain, State Advocate J. J. Collins, District Deputy T. J. Sullivan and Dr. John J. Donahue were the speakers.

Chester Burt of Matunick Beach is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson.

Cadet R. W. Pierson has returned to West Point after spending a furlough at the home of E. F. Comstock.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY.

Christmas, 1924, will live long in the memory of those who celebrated it within the walls of the Backus hospital as a festival of cheer. From the scarlet bell at the main entrance to the glistening angel that crowned the tree in the isolation building the hospital was in gala attire. The holiday and flower committees of the Woman's Auxiliary joined forces to decorate the main building. Christmas wreaths were hung in all the windows of the administration building and the long corridor, while laurel ropes, red bells and cedar trees glittering with tinsel were used in profusion; in the children's ward a gorgeous tree delighted the youngsters. The student nurses decorated the main wards, private floors, and isolation ward with festoons of red and green, and placed a Christmas tree in every ward. Potted plants, the gift of Mrs. C. R. Boss, gave an added touch of beauty to the wards.

On Christmas eve Santa Claus and his wife (impersonated by Miss Greene and Miss Barnes) went through the hospital, greeting the patients, and returned to the nurses' home to relieve a heavily-laden tree of five hundred mysterious packages. This year the nurses' recreation committee of the auxiliary gave the twenty-six student nurses daily pin cushions of linen in delicate shades, hand embroidered—blue for the seniors, pink for the intermediate class and orchid for the juniors.

The patients received their gifts on Christmas morning. Each one had a big, white box tied with broad red ribbon and decorated with a kewpie doll and a scarlet poinsettia; each received also a fine basket of fruit with a card of Christmas greeting. The beautiful boxes were the gift of the Norwich Paper Box Company and were filled with practical presents by a special committee composed of Miss Jane Bill, Mrs. John D. Hall and Miss Marie Caruthers. The patients had been asked to express their wishes and every wish was gratified. In addition to the individual things desired, each man's box contained two pairs of socks, two linen handkerchiefs, two neckties, a muffler, a checker-board, a pack of playing cards, pipe and tobacco, a package of popcorn and a box of candy; each woman's box held a nightgown, a diary, a box of talcum powder, a flower vase, a bottle of perfume popcorn and candy.

For the Christmas dinner the holiday committee had supplied eighty pounds of turkey, so that there was an abundance for everyone. Ice cream was given by the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women and Miss Porteous furnished plum pudding and sauce as is her custom. Twenty pounds of Christmas candy, the gift of Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., was very much enjoyed.

In the nurses' home the seven dining tables were decorated with beautiful potted plants, given by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Saxton, and a Christmas ball of box from Mrs. H. E. Higgins hung in the hall. Five-pound boxes of candy were the gift of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Driscoll, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Gadic and Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Tingley, while Dr. J. J. Donohue and Dr. J. W. Callahan sent generous contributions of money for the nurses' celebration. Other Christmas gifts for the nurses were subscriptions to The Norwich Bulletin from Mrs. James L. Case, and Mrs. H. H. Osgood, and to the "Good Housekeeping Magazine" and the "American Magazine" from James L. Case.

The feature of New Years Day was the grab-bag for the nurses, which has been given every year for thirty years by Mrs. H. H. Osgood. During that time the number of packages has grown from four to thirty-seven, keeping pace with the growth of the training school. The holiday committee furnished ice cream for patients and staff, with the welcome addition of fourteen loaves of cake from the ladies of Christ church.

The donation committee reports that 10½ quarts of cranberry sauce for the hospital Christmas dinner were given by Miss Alice Bennett, Mrs. Fred Clark, Mrs. Harvey M. Briggs, Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler, Mrs. Walter T. Camp, Mrs. C. A. Gager, Mrs. Albert L. Comstock, and Mrs. E. L. Bliven. Twenty dozen oranges were the gift of Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, Walter M. Cowan, Walter Fuller, Miss Nellie Standish. The Hebrew Ladies' Auxiliary, The Philathea Class of the First Baptist church, Mrs. C. C. Treat, Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson, Mrs. Chauncey Sherman, Mrs. Raymond E. Sherman, Mrs. Fred A. Fox and Mrs. E. J. Brophy. On New Year's Day the following ladies of Christ church provided fourteen loaves of cake: Miss Katherine Kent, Mrs. Russell Baird, Mrs. C. L. Lee, the Misses Osgood, Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, Mrs. Charles H. Prestor, Mrs. Beverly M. Bliven, Mrs. Gurdon Bidwell, Mrs. Eben Learned, Mrs. Francis Gilman, Mrs. Arthur Boynton, Mrs. Frank Corey, Miss Mary Paddock and Mrs. Channing Huntington. Other donations received during the month were of jelly, canned fruit, cranberry sauce, money and linen from Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, 4th, Grace Church, Yantic, Mrs John Hawkins, Miss Susie Whittlesey, Mrs. William H. Oat, Mrs. C. A. Gager, Mrs. Herbert B. Cary, Mrs. Robert A. Smith, Mrs. Carl W. Brown, Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, Miss Laura Subert, Mrs. Fitch, Mrs. I. Plummer Taft, Mrs. George Scott, Mrs. Keene, Mrs. Brennan and Mrs. Janet Young.

Sunday afternoon services have been arranged as follows:

Dec. 14—Trinity Methodist Episcopal church.

Dec. 21—St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church.

Dec. 28—Connecticut Council of Catholic Women.

Jan. 4—Brothers of Joseph Synagogue.

Jan. 11—United Brotherhood Synagogue.

The nurses' recreation committee reports that plans are being made for a Valentine party in charge of Mrs. Robert R. Agnew and for motor trips to nearby institutions.

On January 5th a class of eight probationers received the cap and uniform of the training school. To mark this promotion an initiation of the juniors will be held the last Friday of the month, when they will be the guests of the two upper classes during a social hour.

Since December 11th, donations received at the hospital have been from Rev. H. T. Arnold, Mrs. F. T. Sayles, Mrs. O. B. Leffingwell, Mrs. Burlingame, Miss Louise P. Hovey, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, E. L. Robinson, Mrs. James L. Hubbard, Mrs. Albert S. Comstock, Captain and Mrs. O. L. Wilbur, Mrs. O. L. Johnson, the Misses Butts, Mrs. A. K. Young, Mrs. William Park and Miss Aiken. The Heinsing Hands' society of the Spiritual Union contributed $5, Dr. W. T. Browne gave a blood pressure apparatus, the local Brickmayers' union sent ice cream, cake and sandwiches on Dec. 22, Austin, Nichols and Co., gave candied fruits for the nurses and Christ church sent flowers. The Alumnae Association of the Backus hospital has given the nurses subscriptions to "The Public Health Nurse," and "The American Journal of Nursing." The holiday committee was very glad to receive the annual contribution of $5 from the hospital committee of St. Patrick's parish.

STAFFORD SPRINGS FAIR NETTED ABOUT $8,000

Stafford Springs, Jan. 14.—At the annual meeting of the Stafford Springs Agricultural society Tuesday evening the following officers were reelected: President, R. W. Smith; vice presidents, A. I. Mitchell, F. H. Bakers, James Sheppard, Jr.; secretary, David GF. Mitchell; treasurer, William O. Sadish; secretary of racing, Lott O'Halloran; directors, Lewis McLaughlin, B. F. Cooley, C. B. Tschmninie, Walter Scott, Ralph N. Page, Gardiner Hall, G. I. Gary, F. H. Plumb, R. R. Murry, Michael O'Halloran.

The association netted about $8,000 after the payment of all expenses. The receipts for general admissions were $15,304.35; seats, $4,852.50; entries for horse races, $4,050; ground and hall rents $4,015.46; dining hall $234.10; telephone check room $32.30; poultry entries $114.30; total receipts $28,634.01. In addition to this there was received an appropriation of $500 from the state, rent of dwelling and pasture $516.50, interest on savings bank accounts $272.67 and sundry receipts amounting to $51.60, a grand total of $29,947.78.

The expenses included premiums $2,675.11, purses for races $7,300, stage attractions and band $3,290, dining hall $1,302.13, athletic program $93.60, operating expenses $4,525.72, advertising $1,324.92, insurance, $607, poultry exhibit $735.39, printing and postage $167.71, making the total expenses of conducting the 1924 fair $21,451.55. The extraordinary expenditures were new construction and improvements $7,497.67, insurance $673, and miscellaneous expenses. The last fair was a great success and with all bills paid including those for new construction, the society has a balance of $8,019.26.

CONTROLLING DIPHTHERIA BY LOCATING THE CARRIERS

Our knowledge of diphtheria is more complete and satisfactory than our knowledge of any other communicable disease. The ability to identify carriers is an important item of this knowledge. Health officers are utilizing more and more the services of the State Department of Health Laboratory to find carriers. Owing largely to the great number of cultures for diphtheria carriers sent in during November and December of last year, the volume of work in the laboratory for those two months broke all previous records.

When no cases of diphtheria are present in a community, approximately one per cent. of the population may be diphtheria carriers. The germs carried by such persons are often not virulent, which means that they are too weak to cause disease. But when a case or two of diphtheria develops the number of carriers in the group of persons in contact with the patient increases very greatly. Thus, 10, 15 and even 20 or more per cent. of school children may be found to be carriers after a playmate or two has come down with diphtheria. In such instances the germs carried are usually of a virulent strain, so that it is particularly important to find carriers that have been in contact with cases and isolate them until the carrier state clears up.

Simsbury, Stonington, Madison, Westport and Norwalk have made systematic search for carriers among the diphtheria contacts as a means of limiting the spread of infection. In Simsbury no cases of diphtheria were reported during September or October. Four were reported during November and following a vigorous search for carriers made by the health officers with the aid of the public health nurse only one case was reported in December.

In Stonington one case of diphtheria was reported in September and four in October. By culturing contacts many carriers were discovered and quarantined. There were only two cases reported in November and one in December.

Madison reported no cases in September and three in October. Following extensive culturing of school contacts and isolation of carriers only one case was reported in November and none in December. No cases were reported from Westport during September and October. During November, 6 cases were reported and 50 began the culturing of contacts to discover and isolate carriers. During December only 8 cases were reported from Westport. Norwalk reported no cases of diphtheria for September or October, but an outbreak provided 8 cases for November, 19 cases for December and 2 so far in January. By culturing contacts a large number of carriers were discovered and quarantined. While the numbers of cases in Norwalk has been greater than in other towns mentioned, the population is also greater. If the discovery and control of carriers prevents further spread of infection, Norwalk will be fortunate to have escaped a much greater outbreak.

The discovery of carriers is a very simple matter. It merely requires that cultures be taken from both nose and throat and sent to the laboratory for examination. Materials for making the cultures are furnished by the State Laboratory. All members of a family where a diphtheria case occurs should be cultured. Children in school where a pupil comes down with diphtheria should be cultured. In this way many dangerous carriers may be found and controlled. Most carriers clear up in a short time. When a person remains a carrier for too long a time, the laboratory may be requested to make a virulence test to determine whether or not longer isolation is needed.

Many a man is contented because he doesn't know any better.

Peace of Mind

By this NEW way in personal hygiene

FIVE million women have radically changed their habits in personal hygiene in the past few years. They have learned the new scientific way—Kotex.

Kotex is a super-absorbent sanitary pad made of Cellucotton, which absorbs instantly 16 times its own weight in moisture. It is 5 times as absorbent as cotton. Each Kotex pad is treated with a new secret disinfectant—making it, of itself, an active deodorant.

Another great advantage is that Kotex is easily disposed of—without bother or annoyance.

In germ-proof, sanitary packages of 12, Kotex comes in 2 sizes Regular, and Kotex-Super.

Get Kotex Deodorized, in the blue box with white stripe, at most stores.

WEAK, RUN-DOWN NERVOUS, DIZZY

Mrs. Lee Suffered From All These Troubles, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well

Terre Haute, Indiana.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time and dizzy, had no appetite and could not sleep. I tried different medicines for a year but they did not help me. Then my husband saw the ad. for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and had me take it. I regained my strength and never felt better in my life. It completely restored me to health. I had practically no suffering when my baby boy was born and he is very strong and healthy. I know that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine a woman can take before and after child birth for health and strength. I would be willing to answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. WM. J. LEE, Route 2, Box 163, Terre Haute, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all these troubles.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

New York, Jan. 14.—Stock prices displayed a reactionayr tone in today's active stock market with many popular issues recording net losses ranging from large fractions to 4 points. With the possible exception of a slight stiffening of the call money rate, there was nothing in the day's news to account for the selling, which probably was inspired by the market advices of several large commission houses suggesting caution on the part of traders and expressing the belief that the recent advance had left the market in a weakened technical position.

Trade news, as a rule, was favorable. It included the publication of reports that the subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation were now operating at 92 per cent. of capacity, a series of gasoline price advances and the continuance of heavy car loadings, the figures for the week ended January 3, showing a substantial advance over the corresponding period a year ago. The December foreign trade figures for the week ended January) showing a substantial advance over the corresponding period a year ago. The December foreign trade figures showed a favorable trade balance of $109,000,000.

The United States Steel common closed 3-4 lower at 124 after having fluctuated between 123 3-8 and 124 7-8. American Can showed a net loss of 3 1-4 at 161 7-8 after touching 164 3-4 in the early trading.

Oils, which had shown signs of strength in recent sessions yielded with the rest of the list, despite the first advance in gasoline price since last November. Atlantic Refining broke 9 1-4 points to 100. Houston dropped more than 3 points to 80 1-4, and net losses of a point or more were recorded by Independent Oil and Gas, Mexican Seaboard, the Pan-American issues, Barnsdall B, California Petroleum, Cosden and General Asphalt.

Equipment issues showed a temporary burst of strength on merger reports involving some of the large companies. American Locomotive touched the best price in its history at 119 3-4 and then dropped back to 117 7-8 for a net gain of 1 3-8 on the day. Baldwin closed unchanged at 124 5-8 after selling as high as 127 7-8. Lima Locomotive touched 74 3-8 and then edged back to 73 1-4, up 1 5-8. General Electric closed more than four points higher at 310 1-4 after being as low as 305 3-4.

Some of the weak spots in the industrial list were Beechnut Packing, Brooklyn Edison, Colorado Fuel, Gimbel Brothers, Gulf States Steel, Pierce-Arrow preferred, Remington Typewriter, Savage Arms, Sears Roebuck, Willys-Overland preferred and Worthington Pump, all of which closed from 2 to 8 1-2 points lower.

Denver and Rio Grande Western preferred broke six points to 50 1-8 when net losses of 1 to 2 points were recorded by New York Central, "Nickel Plate," Missouri Pacific preferred, Norfolk and Western, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Chicago Great Western preferred, Chicago and Northwestern, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, Pere Marquette, Wabash preferred "A" and several others.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent. and then advanced to 3 1-2. Offerings of time money were not as abundant today, but the rates remained unchang. Commercial paper was fairly active between 3 1-2 and 3 3-4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.77 1-3 and French francs were quoted around 5.35 cents, but most of the other European rates showed small recessions.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Wheat prices shifted rapidly today but averaged lower, affected to a notable extent by large spreading operations in which May delivery was sold and the July delivery was bought. There was also much selling of wheat against buying of corn. Wheat closed easy at a range varying from 1 5-8c net decline to 3-8c advance, with May $1.84 1-2 to 1.84 5-8, and July 1.57 1-8 to 1.57 1-4. Corn finished 7-8c to 1 5-8c up, oats 1-2 to 3-4c down and provisions 7c higher to 47c lower.

Unusuusal disparity between current prices for the last of the 1924 crop of wheat and for the first of the 1925 yield and between the relative present value of wheat and that of corn afforded a basis for the spread trading which was a feature in the the grain pits today. The rapid advance of late in the price of May wheat, representing the 1924 supply, made that delivery a special target for speculators who were acting on an opinion that a reaction was overdue, especially as export demand today continued to be slow.

General buying of corn was considerably broader than has been the rule of late and September corn reached a new high price record for the season. Country offerings in most sections were reported extremely light. On the other hand, primary receipts of oats were heavy.

Big deliveries of lard pulled down provisions.

CURB MARKET

New York, Jan. 14.—Stock prices sagged under the weight of heavy selling for both accounts in today's curb market. The reaction, which was conducted in the face of favorable trade news, was characterized in many quarters as a correction of an overbought position.

With few exceptions, oil prices failed to respond to reports of gasoline price advances in eastern territory. Standard Oil of New York, which initiated the increases, closed fractionally higher at 45 7-8, but most of the other active issues showed losses on the day. Prairie Oil and Gas and Magnolia Petroleum each broke 5 points while losses of 1 to 2 points were recorded by Prairie Oil and Gas (new stock), Vacuum, Imperial of Canada and Standard Oil of Kansas.

Sleeper Radio touched a new high at 7 1-4 on reports of increased sales and Thermiodyne crossed 22 for the first time but most of the other Radio shares were reactionary, Freed-Eisemann, Hazeltine, Dubilier and Ware closed at net losses of 1 to 2 points.

Electric Bond and Share Holding Company stock, which has been one of the weak features of recent sessions, touched 69 and then rallied to 74 1-2 for a net gain of 4 points on the day. Other public untilities were heavy, American Gas and Electric common, Adirondack Power, Middle West utilities and a few others selling off a point or so. "Nickel Plate" common closed more than a point lower in reflection of a formal protest on the proposed lease terms by the Chesapeake and Ohio minority stock holders.

BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 14.—Bond prices crumbled today under heavy selling, which was influenced by a stiffer time money situation, the unsettlement in the stcok market and a growing tendency to take profits. Speculative operations were retarded by a scarcity of time funds which were available only in small amounts below four per cent.

Reactionary movements in the railroad group were especially noticeable in the Denver and Rio Grande and St. Paul issues. Failure of the Dencer directors to take action toward an early payment of interest on the new five per cent. bonds led to a cancellation on most of the gain which had been built up on anticipation of such a move. St. Paul obligations continued to lose ground as officials of the road warned of a possible receivership unless interest rates on government loans were reduced.

Among the others rail bonds which fell back one to two and a half points were Norfolk and Western convertible sies, International-Great Northern adjustment sies, New York Central sies, Chesapeake and Ohio convertible fives and Peoria and Eastern income fours, most of which had advanced to levels which invited profit-taking.

Numerous soft spots developed in the industrial and public utilities sections, with losses of 1 to 5 points registered by Federal Light 5's and 7's, Magma Copper 7's, International Paper 5's, Eastern Cuba Sugar 7 1-2's and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7's.

Liberty bonds were easy and foreign obligations were irregularly lower.

MURDOCK HOME IN INDIANAPOLIS BOUGHT BY INTERNATIONAL TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION ACQUIRES PALATIAL NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 14.—Stately halls and spacious drawing rooms, wont to witness the swank and magnificence of Hoosierdom's most exclusive society affairs soon will resound to the clatter of typewriters and adding machines grinding out the business of a leading trade union.

It was announced here today that the palatial Murdock home in the fashionable North Meridian street district will become headquarters of the International Typographical Union, April 1. Purchase of the home, made famous locally by its occupation at different times by two of Indiana's richest families, was effected recently by the union. It was sold by heirs of the late Samuel T. Murdock, multi-millionaire interurban magnate and manufacturer.

The purchase price was not made public, but it was said the building could not be duplicated on land of such value at a total cost of less than $500,000.

Built by Frank Van Camp, of the wealthy canning industry family, in 1906, the home has since been included in all sight-seeing tours of Indianapolis as one of the city's most beautiful estates. It is surrounded by landscaped grounds, comprising four and one-half acres and including a sunken garden. The district in which it is located recently was designated for business purposes by the city planning commission.

The building is of limestone with massive walls and a wide uncovered stone veranda in the Italian style reaches along two sides. The solid mahogany woodwork of the interior was carved by artists from Switzerland, imported by Mr. Van Camp to do the work to his liking. The great center hall of the home will be used by the union as its reception room. More than 35 rooms will be included in the plans for altering the residence for business use.

Officials of the union said they were compelled to seek new quarters by the expansion of the organization's business and the high rental rates prevailing in the business district. The new headquarters will afford greater room at less cost and also offers a sound investment they said. Members of the union's executive council, who consummated the purchase, were: James M. Lynch, president; J. W. Hays, secretary-treasurer; Seth R. Brown, first vice president; Austin Hewson, second vice president, Charles N. Smith and Hugo Miller.

The Typographical union is one of the wealthiest trade unions and has about $5,000,000 of its funds invested in bonds. It also has a $3,500,000 investment in the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs, Colo., to which an extensive addition was made last year.

"It has ever been a policy of the Typographical Union to be very conservative in the investment of union funds," said Mr. Lynch. "For that reason the organization has confined itself to purchase of government and municipal bonds in the past. In this case, however, it became necessary to acquire our own headquarters property or suffer a loss through exorbitant rent. We bought at a bargain and I am reliably advised that our new investment will prove one of the most profitable we have ever had. The investment can be reduced to a comparatively small sum at any time by sale of surplus land.

Besides its trade regulation activities and the Union Printers home, the union maintains an old age pension system, mortuary benefits and a department of apprentice education, all of which are administered at headquarters.

A library of books on printing and related subjects will be accumulated after the new headquarters are opened.

The International Typographical Union, officials say, is the development of an organization idea nearly as old as the printing art itself. Guilds were formed by the early printers of the 15th century and similar societies have existed practically continuously since, each having for its smallest unit, the "chapel" of each printing shop. The National Typographical Union was organized at a convention in Cincinnati, O., in 1852, and the name was changed to International Typographical Union of North America in 1869. Headquarters have been maintained in Indianapolis since 1898.

HOPKINTON

The January meeting of the town council and probate court was held at the town hall Monday afternoon, Jan. 5th, with all the members present.

A communication was read from the Hope Valley W. C. T. U. expressing appreciation of Chief of Police Elmer C. Smith for his work in suppressing the liquor traffic in this town.

A petition of Clarence L. Burdick to remove the body of Erwald L. Burdick from Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway, to River Bend cemetery, Westerly, was referred to the town clerk.

Eldred F. Collings was appointed town forest warden, and George N. Crandall, George W. Fenner and Walter S. Clarke James, district forest wardens. Ernest A. Barber was appointed building inspector. Walter Clarke James was appointed appraiser of personal property on the town farm.

Bills to the amount of $798.11 were ordered paid.

The first and final account of Hannah E. Arnold, administratrix of the estate of Ella E. Brown, with petition for distribution, was continued to Feb. 2.

Inventory of estate of David C. Lowe was received and ordered recorded.

The first and final account of Walter D. Barber, executor of will of John M. Barber, was ferred to Feb. 2 with order of notice.

Bessie C. Lowe petitioned, as administratrix of the estate of David C. Lowe, to sell the undivided one-half of certain real estate at Quonochontaug Beach, being the right of Mr. Lowe in said property.

As the personal property is not sufficient to pay debts, the request was continued to Feb. 2 for description of property.

Petition for removal of the administrator of the estate of James Hepworth was continued to Feb. 2; also petition for release of bond in the same case.

Petition of Albert R. Bailey, guardian of estates of Cecelia M. and Elma L. Bailey, minors, to sell the real estate of his wards, was continued.

The number of deaths in this town in 1924 is reported as 50 and of births 56. Twenty-three marriage licenses were issued.

The school committee has appointed Frank E. Palmer of Hope Valley to enumerate school children in January, 1925.

At the annual meeting of the Second Hopkinton S. D. B. church the following officers and committees were chosen: President, John S. C. Kenyon; clerk, Walter D. Kenyon; treasurer, Lewis F. Randolph; Sunday school superintendent, John A. Slocum; assistant superintendent, Donna Mills; auditor, John A. Slocum; finance committee, John S. C. Kenyon, Deacon Gardner G. Burton, Lewis F. Dr. John B. Warden, who has been located at Ashaway for two years and served the surrounding country, left town Thursday for Chicago, Ill., where he will occupy a government position. This leaves a community which formerly supported two physicians for many years without a local physician.

Walter F. Mills, who is to fill the Clark icehouse at Clark's Falls, plowed the pond Sunday and will secure 10-inch ice.

Rev. A. L. Davis, pastor of the First Hopkinton S. D. B. church, conducted evangelistic meetings in the church during the Week of Prayer. Rev. W. H. Burdick preached Friday evening.

Alonzo P. Kenyon called on ex-Senator John S. Cole last week and found him recovering from his recent accident, but not able to be out of doors yet.

KILLS CATARRH GERM IN THREE MINUTES

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a French scientist. This drugless method called Lavex kills the germ in three minutes, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate tissues. Your head and lungs are cleared like magic. Sufferers are relieved in a single night.

To prove it and to introduce Lavex to a million readers in this month, I offer to send a treatment free and postpaid to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. If it cures you, you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss is mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address and the Lavex Free Treatment and prove that you can be rid of catarrh.

MYSTIC

At the annual meeting of the Mystic Community House, held Tuesday night, the following officers were elected: President, Howard W. Duell; first vice president, Treffy Morin; second vice president, Frank Kahl; treasurer, A. W. George. The three new members elected to the board of directors are Rev. Thomas Mooney, L. C. Knox and E. E. Church.

In the annual report of the executive secretary, Corinne L. Paine, is this foreword:

We would all like the ability to do many things. We all have some talent and tonight I would wish mine to be the power to bridge the chasm to better acquaintance and quicker friendship. I wish to make good use of the few minutes in my report which does not go to statistics and the enumeration of activities. Therefore I am going to be informal and natural enough I hope to start a friendly discussion about the house and its needs for in this busy life we draw together such a group as you are tonight all too seldom. We are here for a common purpose and to get together for the year 1925 and Mystic Community House. We are first of all interested in the boys and girls the young people the center of our thoughts, our boys and girls who are the future of Mystic. My work here is first of all to interest and suggest something worth while to all who enter the house or with whom I come in contact on our outside program. Something to do, but not merely this as an object, but something to do which is or will lead to recreative powers in place of wreckreation.

The monthly average attendance has been a little over 2,000. The attendance while I have been here and evidently before has been for those who come to the house not by those participating in organized groups. In January 2735, in July 900, shows the range.

Membership in February 360. December 402. The rule of the house to extend to members first the facilities has increased the membership. One of the dangers is to reach those who would drop in and perhaps as is most likely, the case now in the unemployment who do not because of this rule. The membership enforcement should lead to more responsibility by the young boys and girls in keeping order and living up to the rules of the house However this is a question to be discussed.

Organized or supervised activities during 1924—have been most encouraging and profitable. There have been three clubs organized whose representatives are here tonight to report for and about themselves. The idea is to draw each member into some definite group.

Bowling—14 teams last winter and spring months and 16 this fall who bowl weekly. Also a junior contest of shorter duration and the alleys busy most every night.

Pool—Three tournaments last winter, with prizes and the pool tables used practically every day of the winter.

Gymnasium—An average of eight to ten games of basketball each month during the basketball season for the boys. Two classes, one for the Academy with their own instructor and one by the director of the house for the girls and an indoor baseball league last spring besides many other changes of minor organization and much practice every day makes the vote for the gymnasium the most popular room in the house. One or two dances a month and several parties, some for the children and some for all and the use of the gymnasium by the sewing class children on Saturday.

The Saturday afternoon sewing class has been going for four years under the leadership of five or six of the ladies of the town. The community chorus, the ukelele class and good times were most popular.

The outdoor program has ranged from swimming and hikes and tennis of the Rossi courts to the school field meets and recess leadership by the directors. The musical comedies, Springtime and Bimbo, have been more than money-making affairs. They have meant rehearsals which have meant great fun for the large casts.

The bigger community parties have been the annual circus, the pet show, the anniversary celebration, the Hallowe'en parade and party, the community Christmas tree service and the Christmas party. The books and magazines are important in the program of the boys and girls. There is usually someone reading and many books taken home.

This section of my report points the way to great opportunities for the building of finer citizens, the happiness of being busy about the right things and the happiness that comes from the democracy of the house which is a meeting place for the making of new friends. Mark Twain once said as he and a friend were passing down a busy city street and passed a man in the rush of the busy life: "I hate that man." "You hate that man?" his friend replied, "I didn't realize you knew him" and Mr. Clemens replied, "That is the reason."

The following groups and organizations have availed themselves of the opportunity to use the house, oral school, Academy Congregational boys' class, Visiting Nurses' association, Rod and Gun club, West Mystic band, Red Cross committee, American Legion, Fresh Air children's committee, Garden club and D. A. R.

The money raising affairs are always with us and have besides being profitable much enjoyed. The activities under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wilcox have been busy every month and many times a month. Besides the larger things not directly under the activities committee in the Community Christmas tree which needs town support and cooperation.

NORTH STONINGTON

Claude D. Knight of this town and Miss Emma G. Geer, daughter of Joseph Geer of Ashaway, R. I., formerly of Ledyard, were married Monday evening by Rev. Lucian Drury at his residence. They will make their home at the Knight farm on the Norwich road.

Miss Helen Willett of Poquetanuck, teacher of the village primary school, is boarding with Mrs. George H. Stone for the winter term.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben D. Cook have moved into the house next north of the Baptist church.

The Baptist church held its annual meeting last week. Charles G. Gray, Herbert L. Maine and Irving C. Eccleston were elected trustees, with Mrs. George H. Stone, clerk and treasurer. In connection with the meeting, dinner was enjoyed by the members at the home of Rev. Lucian Drury, pastor emeritus of the church.

Mrs. C. E. Hewitt, now nearly a nonogenarian, has not been as well as usual of late.

Many of the good deeds men forget to do appear on tombstones.

LIBERTY HILL

Elmer E. Caples and other volunteers put ceiling-board on the kitchen at the church rooms Monday.

Thursday night about 10 o'clock a flock of wild geese flew over here, near the church, so low and making such a noise by their honking that people thought their hens had been attacked. The geese were evidently looking for a place to light.

Some of the icehouses have been filled here with very clear ice, about 15 inches thick.

Rev. L. L. Harris preached an eloquent sermon on the subject The Peerless Speaker Sunday morning. The C. E. society will hold Sunday evening meetings at 7 o'clock, until April 1st. The Wednesday evening meeting will also begin at the same time, 7 o'clock.

The C. E. society had a variety supper at the church rooms Tuesday evening.

Mrs. E. C. Payson was pianist Sunday morning in the absence of Mrs. G. E. Adams.

About four inches of snow came Monday and Monday night. At first it was very fine, with the mercury standing at about 15 above zero; but the temperature rose to 25 during the day and in the evening hail fell.

There were 52 persons at church Sunday morning, an exceedingly good attendance considering the weather, which was very raw. E. E. Caples led the evening C. E. meeting.

TAFTVILLE

J. Odilon Dugas of Norwich was a caller in the village Tuesday.

Benjamin T. Morgan of Norwalk, Conn., organizer for the Sons of St. George was in the village early in the week, calling on those who are eligible for membership in the order. It is reported that substantial progress is being made toward the forming of a local branch.

The minstrel troupe of the Taftville Social and Football club held a meeting and rehearsal in Ponemah hall Wednesday evening.

Castle Perilous, No. 3747, K. O. K. A., met Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church. Several important business matters were disposed of and the reports of various committees were heard. The study for the evening was the Vision of Sir Launfal, by James Russell Lowell, the first part of the story being read and interpreted by Victor H. Davis. After the conclave, there was the usual social hour in the recreation rooms in the basement of the building.

Miss Sophie Bonczak of South Third avenue has resigned her position with the spooling department of the Ponemah company.

Francois Larivierre of South B St., is enjoying a six weeks' vacation.

At the recent meeting of the Young People's society of the Taftville Congregational church, the following officers were elected: President, Robert B. Schmidt; vice president, Miss Elisabeth Houston; secretary, Miss Isabelle Barritt; treasurer, Miss Mary Greenhalph. It was also voted to join the Christian Endeavor Union of Norwich.

BANKERS TRUST CO. HAD PROSPEROUS YEAR

At the annual meeting of the Bankers Trust company, held Wednesday morning at the banking rooms on Franklin square the following board of directors was elected: Angus Park, Timothy C. Murphy, Charles A. Saxton, Joseph C. Worth, W. H. Cruickshank, David D. Disco, Charles V. James, L. J. Fontaine, Abner Schwartz, John R. Tarrant, Dr. J. J. Donohue, Martin Rozycki, Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox, William H. Oat, and John D. McWilliams.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors, officers were elected as follows: President, Angus Park; vice presidents, Timothy C. Murphy, Chas. A. Saxton, Joseph C. Worth; attorney, Charles V. James; secretary and treasurer, John R. Tarrant.

Reports for the year were very satisfactory, showing the business of the past year to have been the largest in the history of the bank. Prospects are for an increased business in 1925.

DISMISSED FOREMAN'S CLAIM FOR WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

The workmen's compensation claim of Abraham Ribchinsky, foreman of the R. & J. Waist Co., of New London, has been disallowed and dismissed by Commissioner J. J. Donohue after a hearing. The claimant asked for compensation and surgical attendance, alleging that he "took sick", but had not been hurt and could not give any date for his claim that he had a pain in his side which he thought was appendicitis. A doctor diagnosed it as hernia.

Inasmuch as Ribchinsky could not establish his claim that his condition arose out of and in the course of his employment, the claim was necessarily disallowed and dismissed.

RADIO CLUB ENTERTAINMENT FOR NORWICH GRANGE MEETING

Norwich grange, No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry, enjoyed an unusual and interesting feature for its meeting in Steiner hall Wednesday evening, when members of the Norwich radio club installed a wireless set in the hall and furnished the entertainment for the evening after the business meeting was over.

Overseer Leonard Staubley, Sr., presided at the business meeting, in the absence of Worthy Master Arthur W. Avery who is attending the annual state grange meeting in Hartford. Besides the usual routine business it was voted to contribute $5 to the Salvation Army Christmas fund.

At 9:15 the meeting was thrown open and Joseph N. French, president of the radio club, gave an instructive talk along radio lines, explaining the principles of the science, some of the advancements that have been made and some of the limitations and handicaps that still surround the operation of the radio. In this connection he mentioned leaks from electric power transmission lines, which he said are as much a cause of concern to the power company as they are of annoyance to the radio fan. They spell trouble for the company if they are not located and the company is anxious to have them remedied.

Following the talk, a demonstration was given with the radio which was operated by Jean Keiffer. Musical programmes were heard from the stations Washington WCAP, Cincinnati WLW, New York WJZ, Richmond Hills WAHL, Springfield WBZ, and others, including the Arlington time signal at 10 o'clock.

Cake and coffee were served under the direction of a committee consisting of Mrs. Rakowsky, Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Bliven, the refreshments having been contributed by the members without expense to the grange.

JUDGMENT FOR MRS. KEEFE IN SUIT OVER MONEY

Mabel Foran Keefe, wife of Attorney Arthur T. Keefe of New London was awarded judgment of $14,491.27 by Judge C. L. Avery in civil superior court in this city, Wednesday in her suit against the State Finance Corp., of New London.

Mrs. Keefe was left $14,283.29 by the will of the late Thomas F. Foran, her father, which was to be invested in the finance corporation, the president and treasurer of which is John K. Foran, brother of the plaintiff. The principal was to be paid with interest on demand to Mrs. Keefe. The judgment of the court embraces the principal of the note with interest at the rate of six per cent., the note having been dated Jan. 2, 1924.

Complications arose during the trial marked by a clash between Mr. Foran the last witness in the case, and Attorney Keefe, acting as counsel for his wife. It was alleged by the lawyer that the interest on the money invested by Mrs. Keefe, had been reduced from 10 per cent. to six per cent., the difference being used to increase the salary of Mr. Foran from $250 to $300 per week.

On Oct. 24, 1924, according to the complaint of the plaintiff, she was given the sum of $14,283.29 from the will of the late Thomas F. Foran, which was to be invested in the finance corporation and paid to the plaintiff on demand.

On Oct. 24, 1924, the plaintiff alleged she demanded the money from Mr. Foran but he refused to make payment, because he claimed that he had mailed the note to Mrs. Keefe and would not make the payment until the note was surrendered. The plaintiff, however, declared that she had never received the note. Foran admitted many of the plaintiff's allegations, but declared that he did not propose to pay on a negotiable note which might be appropriated by anyone who found it in case it was lost by Mrs. Keefe.

Miss Catherine F. Reilly of New London employe of the finance corporation, the first witness called by the defendant, testified to having mailed the letter containing the note and a check covering interest due on the principal to Mrs. Keefe. She also told of conversation between Mrs. Keefe and Mr. Foran in regard to the note during which Mr. Foran refused to pay the money asked by Mrs. Keefe.

Miss Gene Anderson of Groton, also an employe of the finance corporation, told of two visits to the finance corporation office made by Mrs. Keefe. The first she said, was on Oct. 29, 1924, when the plaintiff asked for the note. Mr. Foran told the plaintiff that it had been mailed to her, the witness declared, to which Mrs. Keefe said she would go home and look in her valuables for it. The next day, the witness stated, Mrs. Keefe again came to the office and declared that she did not have the note.

Mr. Foran took the stand as the last witness for himself.

He told of having had several conversations with the plaintiff over the matter, and said he still must meet her demand for fear the note would be converted to his own use by someone who might find it, since it was negotiable.

It was while he was on the stand that Attorney Keefe, made the assertions in regard to the reduction in the interest and consequently inflation of the Foran salary.

Mrs. Keefe as the last witness emphatically denied receipt of any note from Mr. Foran.

WATERFORD MAN FINED FOR BREAKING LIQUOR LAW

After a two hours' session in Waterford court before Justice of the Peace Frederick L. Goss, Adam Weytewicz, of Quaker Hill, was found guilty of keeping liquor with intent to sell and reputation, and fined $100 and costs on each count.

Attached to each fine was a suspended 30 day jail sentence. An appeal was taken by counsel for the accused.

Two jugs, alleged to contain vodka, Russian liquor, were presented as evidence against the man, by state police who made the raid.

State Policemen Bernard Kenerson and Fred Caron testified that they had had frequent complaints against the accused. The confiscated liquor tested 35 per cent alcohol, and was of such a quality, the state police said that it is alleged to have made several of his customers blind.

In imposing the fine, Justice Goss stated that he proposed to stop the traffic of liquor in Waterford, and that offenders subsequent, to Adam would get jail sentences along with the fines.

Bronislaw DeBroski, owner of the home in which the accused lives, was arraigned as an alien having in his possession a gun. The state policemen who raided the place found a loaded shot gun at the same time they uncovered the liquor. DeBroski was fined $5 and costs.

Gave Talk on Astronomy.

At a meeting of the Young People's society of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, Sunday evening a talk on astronomy was given by Allen Latham of this city. During his talk Mr. Latham spoke on the coming eclipse of the sun and many interesting features about the eclipse were brought out. A social time followed the meeting and refreshments were served.

On Child Labor Amendment.

Professor Henry Wells Lawrence, Jr. of the history department at Connecticut college will speak on Child Labor Amendment, at an open meeting of the New London chapter of Connecticut College Alumnae to be held at Charter House, 49 Jay street, New London, next Monday evening.

Patterson New London; secretary, H. L. Garrigus, Storrs. Directors: Hartford county, C. Frederic Beach; Fairfield county, Russell Jones, New Haven county, C. D. Prentice Litchfield county, C. L. Gold; Tolland county, Cornell Green; Windham county, Henry Hopkins; New London county W. F. Coult; Middlesex county, C. D. Manwaring; director-at-large, Edwin Chamberlain.

JUDGMENT TO REFORM DEED OF PROPERTY

Three decisions have been handed down by Judge C. B. Waller of the common pleas court in cases that were recently heard before him.

Frank Dufile was allowed equitable relief when Judge Waller gave judgment to reform a deed on certain land in the town of Lisbon, on the Jewett-City-Norwich turnpike. In his decision Judge Waller stated that a surveyor, who had made a survey of the land in question, made a mistake in his measurements and recorded it in the deeds when the sale of the land was made between the plaintiff and defendant.

In the case of John Briesta vs. Afana Kutzko, both of Norwich, Judge Waller allowed the plaintiff $250.

Annie O'Brien of New London was awarded the sum of $528.78 from Arthur Dayton also of New London. The suit was based on the sale of an automobile $463.55 being paid at the negotiation of the sale, the balance to be paid in notes of $50 each, maturing at various times. Only one of these notes had been paid.

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES REPORTED FOR WEEK

The report of the state department of health shows the following communicable diseases reported from eastern Connecticut towns during the week ending January 10, 1925. Diphtheria, New London 1; Norwich 1; scarlet fever, Groton 2, Norwich 5, Stonington 7, Rockville 1, Putnam 2, Thompson 2; whooping cough, Jewett City 1, Montville 2, New London 6, Stafford 1, Hebron 19.

Diseases showing a gain in the state over the previous week were scarlet fever, which went from 199 to 230, measles which went from 14 to 26, whooping cough from 47 to 108 and typhoid fever from 4 to 6. Diphtheria showed a falling off going from 100 to 52.

Well Child conferences are to be held during the month in eastern Connecticut towns as follows: Columbia, Monday Jan. 19th; North Grosvenordale, Tuesday, Jan. 20th; Andover, Friday, Jan. 23d.

Hospital Patient Recovered

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 14—Lucinda Garman, a resident of the western part of the state, who has been under treatment at the Norwich State Hospital, appeared in the editorial rooms of The Day, Main street, this morning and her actions finally became so annoying that the police were requested to take her in charge. Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith went to the newspaper plant and quickly detected that the woman was of unsound mind. She was escorted to the police station where she was held pending determining her identity. A telephone communication to the State Hospital authorities showed that the Gartman woman had escaped from the institution the night before, although no request had been made of the New London authorities to be on the lookout for her. This afternoon two attendants from the hospital came here and took her back.

LOST DENVER HEIRESS HAS RELATIVES HERE

The tragic death of Miss Agnes Vaille, the young Denver heiress, last Monday on Long's Peak, Colorado, brought a telegram to this city to Adams P. Carroll, a second cousin of Miss Vaille, notifying him of her death. The young woman is the daughter of Mrs. Hattie Wolcott Vaille and a niece of Miss Anna Wolcott, who attended the Norwich Free Academy.

Miss Vaille was a graduate of Smith college. She had scaled all but 16 peaks of more than 14,000 feet elevation in America as a member of the Colorado Mountain Climbing club.

Although warned by pioneer mountaineers that their search probably would be futile and that her body would remain buried in the drifted snow of Long's Peak until the spring thaw, three parties set out at dawn Wednesday from Estes Park in an effort to recover the frozen form of Miss Vaille, who perished while trying to descend the lofty peak in a driving blizzard.

The body of Herbert Sortland lost member of the first party which sought to save Miss Vaille after her escort was forced to leave her and press on for help, also was an object of renewed search.

Searchers who returned to the timberline late Tuesday night reported no one could have lived the 24 hours Sortland had been missing in the sub-zero temperature and gales which swept clouds of snow and sleet across the jagged peaks.

Miss Vaille's body was found propped in a crevice half covered with snow, but the fury of the elements made it impossible for the party to bring it down the mountainside. It was left until a more favorable moment and a large party might lower it through the snow-packed passes and dangerous ravines of the peak.

Walter Keiner, who started with Miss Vaille on the fatal expedition was in bed Wednesday at Long's Peak Inn, suffering from frozen hands and feet and severe shock. He and Miss Vaille had gone on numerous mountain climbing adventures. He said that Miss Vaille fell and rolled 150 feet as they tried to descend the peak in a driving blizzard and temperature of 50 degrees below zero. Shortly afterward, he said, her hand and feet were frozen and when carrying her proved too great a task he left her in the crevice and started for the help which reached her too late. Friends of the family pointed to the queer turn of fate which sent Miss Vaille, who was secretary of the Denver chamber of commerce, to death in the frozen fastnesses, 14,000 feet above sea level, while her father, F. O. Vaille, retired millionaire, was due home from a vacation on the sun swept shores of Honolulu.

Records available Wednesday showed that Miss Vaille was the fourth to meet tragic death on Long's Peak.

The death of Miss Carrie J. Welton of Waterbury, Conn., 40 years ago, paralleled the fate of Miss Vaille. Miss Welton had scaled the peak, but became exhausted in the sub-zero temperature during the descent. Her guide sought aid, but death arrived first.

On Sept. 16, 1921, the body of Gregory Aubuchon, 18, was found at the base of the peak by forest rangers after a hunt of two months.

While standing near the huge stone cairn that marks the summit of the mountain, Aug. 1, 1922, J. E. Kitts of Greeley, Colo., was instantly killed by a bolt of lightning. In the same month a year later, Miss Ethel Ridenour of Kansas City was struck by lightning. She recovered, although her face was badly torn by the stroke.

KNOTT HOTEL INTERESTS WILL OPERATE PUTNAM INN

The Putnam Inn which has been operated for about 30 years by Earle C. Rogers has been taken over by the Knott hotel interests, effective Feb. 15. Mr. Rogers is planning to retire from active business.

Recent changes and remodeling at the Inn have enlarged and improved it to a house of about 100 rooms. It will be operated by the Putnam Inn, Inc., James E. Knott president. The Knott interests operate eleven hotels in New York and five outside the city, including the Wauregan house and the Crocker house in New London.

NOTE ENDORSERS WIN SUIT FOR $3,146.77

Judgment for $3,146.77 in favor of Jeremiah Twomey and Frederick J. Gavitt against The Soltz Co. and Jman Frottas, all of New London, was given here Wednesday by Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court. The plaintiffs brought suit as endorsers of a promissory note for $3,500 given November 20, 1923, for four months by the Soltz Co. to Frottas, which the plaintiffs were obliged to pay at the National Bank of Commerce on July 18, 1924.

ASSESS $800 DAMAGES FOR STONINGTON LAND

An assessment of $800 damages in favor of Mathias and Emma Grisar, husband and wife, of Stonington as the value of land of theirs which the Mystic Valley Water Co., of Stonington wants to take has been made by the appraisers appointed by the superior court, Hibberd R. Norman and James L. Case of Norwich and Sidney H. Miner of New London. The appraisers made their report to the clerk of the court, Judge George E. Parsons, on Wednesday.

The water company wants the land for addition to their reservoir property. Two tracts are included along the Old Post road, the first tract measuring about 740 feet along the road and 1,000 with depth between 1,000 and 1,600 feet. The other tract comprises about 27¼ acres.

Philanthea Class Met.

The Philathea class of the First Baptist church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Donald L. Jones of East Great Plain. Fourteen members were present and enjoyed a delightful banquet, the menu including fruit cocktail, chicken pie, cranberry sauce, pickles, rolls, whipped cream, cake and coffee.

A business meeting followed the banquet, Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler, president, being in charge. Considerable routine business was transacted and reports of various committees were rendered. A social time closed programme for the evening.

Comfort Circle Met.

Comfort circle, King's Daughters, held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis, 94 Asylum street, having an attendance of 13 members and two visitors. After the devotional exercises conducted by the leader, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, the usual business of the meeting was transacted and a social hour was held during which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting of the circle will be held with Mrs. William B. Lathrop of Maple street.

BINGHAM IS TALLEST AMONG THE SENATORS

Hiram Bingham, the much written about new senator from Connecticut, has developed two additional claims to fame. He is the tallest member of the United States senate and the early history of President Coolidge and of Senator Bingham's father is something alike.

Mr. Bingham's father although not a Massachusetts man, went to Northampton to start work after graduation from college. This is what Coolidge did. Furthermore, Mr. Bingham's father met his wife in Northampton and she lived on Round Hill. This is exactly the case of Calvin Coolidge.

Hiram Bingham's father married Minerva Brewster of Northampton. The Brewster family was a well known western Massachusetts family, some of them living in Worthington. Senator Bingham has other western Massachusetts connections in the Bomeroys, who include the famous General Seth Pomeroy. This was a fighting family and Senator Bingham kept up the tradition by serving in the World war overseas.

As soon as Senator Bingham entered the senate last Friday to be sworn in it was apparent that he was the champion tall man of that body. Up to the present honors in this direction have been divided between the cadaverous and pompous Shortridge of California, and the efficient and faithful administration wheel horse, Smoot of Utah. Bingham beats both of these by about four inches. The shortest senator is probably Ladd of North Dakota, who has a seat close to Bingham.

Heaven itself isn't exclusive enough for some people.

POETRY

IN JANUARY.

Like crowding gulls above long, jade-green waves, . . .
My white narcissus blossoms dip and soar.
In the cars' crashing o'er the city's paves
Hear they the breakers on the far Back Shore?

I close my eyes, and on the low-sheathed strand
Like hungry wolves I see their gray hordes leap,
Tearing the dunes, gnawing the shrinking sand,
To where the oaks and pines fix frontiers keep.

"They shall not pass!" their storied legions sing.
Strong arms held fast about the threatened land.
While bayberry skirmish lines scar they fling
To check the onset of the clamorous band.

For untold aeons has the fight been waged,
For untold aeons will the grim fight last,
Challenge and vaunt of vengeance unassuaged,
Defiance of the oak trees standing fast.

Storm and thick darkness and a pitiless sea
Cheering the wave-packs on with sullen roar;—
While, in the lamplight, petals slipping free,
My white narcissus blossoms dip and soar.

He himself suggests a program of important political and current events, followed by an hour of reading from good literature, both fiction and more serious works, and possibly a third hour of simple scientific information.

CLASS RATES STATEMENT BY NEW HAVEN RAILROAD

Road Would Strive to Foster and Promote Industry in New England by Any Means Consistent With a Sound and Satisfactory System of Transportation—Policy of the Road Calls For Adequate Compensation From Each Class of Service—Patrons Will Have an Opportunity to Express Views at Hearing on Readjustment of Rates Ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Boston, Jan. 14.—In view of the statements recently appearing in the press to the effect that the New Haven proposes to abandon substantial portions of its mileage and that all of the railroads in the eastern group are asking for an increase in class rates, that company makes the following statement:

The policy of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company with respect to the abandonment of mileage and to future rate structures has been set forth repeatedly since 1921.

The New Haven system occupies a remarkable position in serving almost exclusively a populous territory, rich in industry and business. The average population per mile of all roads in the United States is about 405; in New Haven territory about 1,499 per mile. Relatively on this basis, the territory served by the New Haven is not overequipped with railroad mileage. As a matter of fact, careful study of the system, while disclosing numerous stretches of line which are not self-supporting, indicates there are but few and short stretches of mileage which are not a public necessity, and consequently cannot be considered for permanent abandonment.

Based on the taxable valuation for 1924, the total value of all property, industrial, business and agricultural, in the territory served almost exclusively by the New Haven system approximates around $5,500,000,000 to $6,000,000,000. Further, the census reports for 1919 indicate a gross value per annum of manufactured and agricultural products alone in this territory of something over $3,500,000,000, whereas the total revenues of the New Haven system for that year approximate but 3.2 per cent of that total.

With adequate compensation from each class of service together with efficiency and economy of operation, the additional net income required is so small compared to the above, stated total income from business and industry, that there is no reason to doubt that the return allowed by the transportation act is possible without a restrictive rate basis for New England, or any action which would handicap New England industry the interest of which it is the purpose of the company to foster and promote by every practicable means, consistent with maintaining and developing a sound and satisfactory system of transportation. Obviously, therefore, reasonable revenues must result from each general class of traffic.

For many years the class rates in the eastern group (the railroads east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers) have been not only out of line with the rates in the southern and western groups, but also internally inconsistent and out of line. A study looking to a readjustment was ordered by the director general during federal control, but had not been completed and put into effect when the railroads were returned to private ownership. This study has been continued since federal control, and a hearing has been ordered by the interstate commerce commission to determine whether and to what extent rates within the eastern group should be readjusted.

Comment upon the proceeding of investigation ordered by the interstate commerce commission, Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman, under date of November 28, 1924, issued a circular from which the following is quoted:

"It will not be the primary purpose of the inquiry either to add to or subtract from the aggregate revenues of the carriers, but rather to adopt a class-rate structure which will be as simple as it can be made, with due regard for the public interest, and free from undue prejudice, and which will serve the purpose that class rates ought to serve. This does not mean, necessarily, that proposed rates will be rejected upon the ground that they increase or decrease aggregate revenues. Before the proceeding is closed it will be the purpose of the commission to determine revenue effect, as nearly as may be, by some form of traffic test. In appraising revenue effect, the intrastate rates will be taken into consideration, and evidence in regard to such rates will be freely admitted at the hearings, although they are not directly in issue. It is hoped to have the cooperation of the state commission in the inquiry."

From the foregoing it is apparent that the interstate commerce commission aims to equalize inequalities and remove inconsistencies in the present rates of the eastern group and that shippers will have full opportunity to present to the commission cases where they believe that any proposed adjustment will create a restrictive rate basis for New England and handicap New England industry.

RT. REV. W. M. BROWN EXPELLED FROM MINISTRY

Cleveland, Jan. 15 (By the A. P.)—Expulsion from the ministry was announced here today as a fitting punishment for Rt. Rev. William Montgomery Brown, retired bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Arkansas. The finding came from the church's board of review after three days of argument on the action of the trial court which last May found Bishop Brown guilty of uttering doctrines contrary to those held by the church.

The reviewing body discovered no error in the trial, affirming those proceedings without exception.

Bishop William A. Leonard of Cleveland, presiding officer of the court, explained that the power to put into sentence into effect rests with the house of bishops. That body, which meets at the general convention of the church in New Orleans next September, will hear the reports of the trial and review courts and approve or disapprove them. Approval can be given only by a two-thirds vote of all the 130 bishops entitled to cast ballots.

If this majority is obtained in New Orleans, the sentence announced today will be formally pronounced by the presiding bishop of the church, the post now held by Bishop E. Talbot of Bethlehem, Pa. Failure to obtain a two-thirds vote of all members of the house of bishops would, it was said, amount to a disapproval that would in effect be a reversal of both the courts.

FINANCES OF THE PILGRIM TERCENTENARY COMMISSION

Boston, Jan. 15.—State Treasurer Jackson today withdrew from a Boston bank a cash balance of $6,1[illegible]58 and 51,556 Pilgrim half dollars which remained after the final accounting of the finances of the Pilgrim tercentenary commission in charge of the commemoration of the 300th anniversary in 1920, of the landing of the Pilgrims. Treasurer Jackson acted under an opinion obtained from Attorney General Benton.

At the same time it became known that the sale of Pilgrim half dollars at double their face value made up an actual deficit of $44,407.91, which existed when the affairs of the commission were wound up. And if the remaining 51,556 half dollars are sold on the same basis as in the past, there will be a final balance of 57,676.58 added to the treasury of the commonwealth.

GAMBLERS WHO WIN MUST PAY INCOME TAX

Washington, Jan. 15.—Those who gamble must pay the government income, lose or draw.

The board of tax appeals recently held that persons who win in gambling operations must pay an income tax on their winnings and today Solicitor Hartson of the internal revenue bureau ruled that losses are not deductible from gross income in states where games of chance are illegal.

GERMANY AHEAD ON REPARATIONS PAYMENTS

Paris, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Germany has for once got ahead of her engagements in the payment of reparations. The transfer committee under the Dawes plan, which met here today, found that deliveries in kind, made since the Dawes plan went into effect, amount to 32,000,000 gold marks more than the total expected. The expectancy was about 83,000,000 gold marks monthly.

The over payment, it was said, came about through the collections of the recovery taxes by France and Great Britain. The amounts thus collected are repaid to Germany by the agent-general for reparations from sums collected under the Dawes plan. Differences arise because it is impossible to estimate exactly the total these recoverings will amount to in any one month.

GIFTS AND LEGACIES FOR HARVARD UNIVERSITY

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 15.—In addition to the campaign for $10,000,000 to extend the national service of Harvard University, now well on the way to completion, the university received last year in gifts and legacies more than $5,630,449, President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, said in his annual report to the board of overseers, made public today. President Lowell reported that all the sums sought by the committee in charge of the national campaign for the business school and for fine arts had been obtained, and nine-tenths of the amount needed for chemistry had been pledged.

ASTRONOMICAL EQUIPMENT TO STUDY ECLIPSE OF SUN

New York, Jan. 15.—With six boxes of astronomical equipment in his luggage, the Rev. Daniel B. Marsh, head of the Bermuda government's eclipse expedition, arrived here today. Included in the equipment are three special cameras, with which Mr. Marshal and his three assistants expect to take eighteen photographs of the solar [illegible] 24. URGES THAT ECLIPSE BE EXPLAINED IN SCHOOLS Hartford, Jan. 15.—Governor Trumbull's first proclamation to the people of the state, issued today, is unique in that it concerns a natural phenomenon, the coming total eclipse of the sun, and is probably the first message of its kind ever issued by a Connecticut governor. He urges that the eclipse be explained in advance to children in schools and recommends that every advantage be taken of the exceptional opportunity to witness the event.

C. BASCOM SLEMP RESIGNS AS SECRETARY OF PRESIDENT

Washington, Jan. 15.—Changes in President Coolidge's official family following closely one upon the other brought today the announcement of the resignation of C. Bascom Slemp of Virginia as secretary to the president, and the selection of Everett Sanders, a member of the house from Indiana, as Mr. Slemp's successor.

The announcement of Mr. Slemp's intention to retire did not come with the startling suddenness that has attended some of the other recent changes, for his resignation had been regarded in Washington as more than a probability since the November election. He will give up the secretaryship about the first of February and will resume the practice of law.

The selection of Representative Sanders was more unexpected. The Indiana congressman, one of the younger members, and yet one of the leaders in the house, did not stand for re-election last fall, and had announced his intention of returning to Indiana to practice law.

He served during the campaign as director of the republican national committee speakers' bureau and as such attracted the attention of the president. He will take up his duties at the White House after the adjournment of congress March 4, although it is probable he will spend some time prior to then at the executive offices acquainting himself with the secretarial work.

Mr. Slemp was actuated in deciding to retire by a feeling that much of the constructive work he had entered upon in the office of secretary had been accomplished and also by a desire to return to the profession he left in 1907 to serve 16 years in congress, most of that period as the sole republican member from Virginia. He will be associated in his law practice with James W. Good, former member of the house from Iowa.

OLD TAMMANY LEADER, THOMAS F. FOLEY, DEAD

New York, Jan. 15.—The last of Tammany Hall's picturesque old-time leaders, Thomas F. Foley, political godfather of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, died unexpectedly today in his 63d year.

He was stricken with pneumonia last Saturday, but seemed on the way to recovery when he suffered a sudden relapse at the Rockefeller Institute hospital. No one was with him except his nurse and physician at the time of his death.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed tonight, but tentative plans called for a solemn high mass at St. James' church in Oliver street next Monday. Governor Smith, who had known him for forty years, probably will be an honorary pallbearer.

For over a quarter of a century "Big Tom," as he was generally known, was a power to be reckoned with in the city's political life. He ruled his old East Side district with an iron hand and in his day politics was a game of brawn as well as brains.

He had a cheerful disposition and made hundreds of friends. A familiar figure he was in other days, walking the streets of the East Side, with a pocket full of change, distributing a quarter here and a dime there to the down and out, the newsboys and bootblacks.

He was attracted to Governor Smith when the latter was a young man, encouraged him to enter politics and helped to guide him on his way to the assembly and then the governorship. He always referred to the governor as "my boy." It was a great disappointment to him when the governor was not nominated for president last summer.

Foley held only two political offices —councilman and sheriff. Despite his declining years he kept in close touch with politics and was an active Tammany scahem. He is survived by his wife.

DIVERSION OF WATER FROM LAKE MICHIGAN

Washington, Jan. 15.—Diversion of ten thousand cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan into the Illinois river near Chicago would mean an annual loss of $2,500,000 to shipmen on the Great Lakes and of the equivalent of 4,000,000 tons of coal to eastern power users, witnesses declared today before the special senate committee hearing on the St. Lawrence-to-gulf waterway.

Representatives of lake states, continuing their fight against the provision in the bill which would authorize a greatly increased diversion of water, asserted that, while ostensibly for purposes of navigation, it was intended in reality to augment the city's sewage disposal system.

Withdrawal of the amount of water requested by Chicago, it was asserted, would, in the opinion of competent engineers, lower the lake five or six inches and might decrease the "head" of water used for power production in northern New York.

Indiana and Wisconsin joined New York in opposing the bill, which was introduced at the last session by Senator McCormick, republican, Illinois. Attorney General Gillion of Indiana stressed the future importance of eastern power production to the north-central tier of states.

Deputy Attorney General Farris of New York and F. M. Benehaw, traffic officer of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, presented in detail the objections of that section.

TESTED MOORING MAST ON THE U. S. S. PATOKA

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 15.—After a successful test at a mobile mooring mast aboard the U. S. S. Patoka in Chesapeake bay this afternoon, the giant dirigible Los Angeles landed on the navy air station field here at 8.50 o'clock tonight. Commander J. H. Klein, Jr., in command of the airship, said that the trip had been a success save for the freezing of the water recovery system of the dirigible.

The Los Angeles left here at 9.20 o'clock this morning and had arrived over Baltimore by 2.30 in the afternoon. She was fastened to the mooring mast of the Patoka at 4.20 and was then towed by the water ship a distance of six miles up and down Chesapeake bay. The airship cast off its mooring at 5.15 o'clock and made the return trip to her hangar without incident.

First Day of Work Of General Assembly

Judge Ernest C. Simpson of New Haven Nominated For Judge Superior Court.

Hartford, Jan. 15.—Coming prepared for their first day of work in the 1925 session members of the general assembly today, in a brief sitting in each branch, were given their committee appointments. Afterwards, there was much comment upon the assignments while here and there a member would declare that he had hoped for something different. Members named to some committees forecast an easy time, some of those on the committee on manufacturers being told by veterans that the committee had not done anything since 1871 and then only to "extend welcome to General Grant."

Many veteran legislators were of the opinion that they fared well in assignments. Mrs. Lewis of Stratford, serving her second term, was made house chairman of the committee on education and is the first woman woman legislator to so serve in this state. Last session she was clerk of this committee.

In the senate, Governor Trumbull sent in his nomination of Judge Earnest C. Simpson, of the New Haven common pleas court to be a judge of the superior court to take the place of Judge F. M. Peasley, interim appointee of Governor Templeton, and who will qualify as soon as the nomination is confirmed, which already is forecast. This will leave a vacancy to be filled in the common pleas court. Judge Simpson was appointed to the common pleas bench by Governor Woodruff in September, 1908. Few judges have served so long on this bench before promotion. Judge Peasley's name as an appointee of Governor Templeton was rejected by the last senate. When, owing to the death of Justice L. F. Burpee, Judge Kellogg was elevated to the supreme court going from the superior court bench, Governor Templeton made a recess appointment last April of Judge Peasley, who then was in the district court of Waterbury. Judge Makepeace was made a recess appointee to the district court, and today his name went in for a four year term, and that of Judge Beardsley for deputy judge.

LEGISLATIVE SENTIMENT OF THE STATE GRANGE

Hartford, Jan. 15.—Closing hours of the three-day convention of the Connecticut State grange today bared agricultural sentiment on some of the leading legislative problems of the day. A bill proposing state regulation and inspection of all slaughter houses was unanimously opposed on the grounds that it was unfair to the individual farmers engaged in the slaughter, production and sale of domestic animals for food purposes.

A resolution expressing approval of the adoption of the stream pollution bill before the general assembly was also unanimously endorsed.

Arthur W. Gilbert, Massachusetts commissioner of agriculture, was endorsed for the post of secretary of agriculture in the national cabinet to succeed the late Secretary Wallace.

Opposition flared against the child labor amendment, characterizing it as too sweeping and drastic.

Stricter adherence to the laws of the constitution of the United States and a more rigid enforcement of the 18th amendment was resolved and unanimously adopted.

The Connecticut state farm for women came under consideration, with general sentiment in favor of increased appropriation.

Grange funds available for student loans were increased from $1,000 to $2,000 with the maximum capacity of an individual loan raised from $100 to $150.

DANBURY STREET RAILWAY SOLD AT FORECLOSURE

Danbury, Jan. 15.—The Danbury and Bethel street railway, which has been in the hands of a receiver for several years, was sold at a foreclosure sale today upon order of the superior court. James E. Wheeler, appointed by the court, conducted the sale. Only one bid was made, that of $75,000 by Edward M. Bradley of New Haven, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee, representing holders of first mortgage bonds against the road.

Under the terms of the sale, the purchaser is to assume the receiver's obligations, which amount to $251,000, of which $128,328 are disputed. Receiver Judge J. Moss Ives of Danbury will remain in charge of affairs of the road until the court passes upon the claims.

The road recently was appraised at $529,981.28. The bondholders, who were the plaintiffs in the foreclosure proceedings, claim that there is due on the mortgages $279,166.

ADDRESSED AMERICAN ROTARIANS IN BERMUDA

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 15—General Sir John Joseph Asser, governor of Bermuda, delivered an address of welcome to visiting American Rotarians at a dinner given at the Hamilton Hotel last night.

The dinner marked the presentation of a charter to the Bermuda Rotary club. The guests of honor included the American consul, William P. Kent; Dr. F. L. Patton, former president of Princeton and Ralph T. Lewis and wife. Mrs. Lewis was formerly Miss Abigail Harding, sister of the late President Harding, who is here with her husband on a honeymoon.

Unable to Budge The Stranded Submarine

In Two Days of Effort the Tugs and Cutters Failed to Haul S-19 Off Bar.

Chatham, Mass., Jan. 15.—Keeled far over on her side, the submarine S-19, which went aground in a fog early Tuesday morning, lay stranded fast on the outer bar of Orleans harbor tonight despite two days of effort on the part of the navy tugs and coast guard cutters to haul her off. The crew removed from the submarine in dangerous seas last night, was sent to Boston today. A few members remained here under her commander, Lieutenant C. F. Martin, to assist in the work of salvage.

Two navy tugs, the Resolute and the Wandank, and the coast guard cutter Tampa, hauled for hours on the stranded vessel as the tide approached the flood stage today. The big tug I. J. Merritt, racing here from New London, Conn. to assist in salvaging operations, arrived just too late. Although the tug was hurriedly hooked up in tandem formation with the Resolute, the tide had receded too far and attempts to move the submarine were postponed until high tide early tomorrow morning.

The S-19 apparently remained unmoved throughout the salvaging operations except to roll over farther on her port side. The list, estimated at 35 degrees yesterday, increased today until the stern starboard horizontal fin of the submarine was visible.

Before undertaking their effort to move the submarine today, the salvaging crews took off all possible weight from the S-19. Preparations were made to remove 40,000 gallons of oil aboard, torpedoes and other movable in addition to the submarine's detachable keel.

The tug Mojave sailed today with the greater part of the crew for Boston. The Wandank was replaced in the active salvaging operations by the Merritt but lay close by to assist in the work when needed.

SORRY THAT SHE SHOT AND KILLED HER MOTHER

San Francisco, Jan. 15.—Dorothy Ellingson, 18 year old girl, who confessed to the police today that she shot and killed her mother last Tuesday morning in a fit of anger, is sorry now.

When the girl was first arrested this morning in a rooming house, where she had registered under an assumed name, she appeared calm and unconcerned. After she had been booked at police headquarters and formally charged with murder and placed behind the bars she became remorseful. Relatives and newspapermen visited the girl, and to them she expressed sorrow. She told a straightforward story after admitting she shot her mother.

Miss Ellingson told the police that she had no deep-seated grievance against her mother, but that she shot her in a moment of anger and resentment because her mother demanded that she cease "running around so much late at night." The girl frankly confessed being a frequenter of San Francisco's night life cafes and dance halls. In a diary found among her belongings after the shooting was a narration of adventures in the city's night life and the names of many well known "jazz" musicians in the city, some of whom have been questioned by the police.

WHITE HOUSE DINNER FOR DIPLOMATIC CORPS

Washington, Jan. 15. — President and Mrs. Coolidge entertained at dinner tonight in honor of the members of the diplomatic corps and their wives. The guests included the secretary of state and Mrs. Hughes. Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee and Mrs. Borah, and Representative Temple of Pennsylvania, the ranking republican member in Washington of the house foreign affairs committee.

The dinner was the last state White House function that Ambassador Jusserand and Madame Jusserand of France will attend before leaving Washington. It was also the first such dinner ever attended by a minister of Egypt or a minister of the Irish Free State, these two states having accredited diplomatic representatives with the rank of minister to Washington within the past year.

A musical program was given in the east room after the dinner by Beniamino Gigli, tenor of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, and Madame Magdeleine Brard, pianiste.

ADDITIONAL LAND FOR THREE STATE FORESTS

Hartford, Jan. 15.—The purchase of additional land for three state forests, amounting to 420 acres, has been approved by the state park and forest commission. The largest addition will be 310 acres at the Meshomasic forest, with most of the new land in East Hampton. The other purchases will be 60 acres for the Natchaug forest at Eastford and 50 acres for the Mohawk forest at Cornwall. The additions will make the total of state-owned forest land 10,868 acres. State Forester Austin F. Hawes has been authorized to make the purchases.

MOVEMENT TO RESTRICT THE OUTPUT OF DIAMONDS

Capetown, South Africa, Jan. 15—A conference of Diamond Producers, including producers of Southwest Africa, today resolved to continue the Inter-Producers' agreement restricting the output of diamonds in order to control the output and the prices. The conference failed to arrive at an agreement with the London diamond syndicate concerning sales but, nevertheless, announced it intended to do all in its power to maintain the market and preserve the confidence of trade in the stability of contsol.

OFFICER SHOT INMATE OF HOUSE OF CORRECTION

Boston, Jan. 15.—Michael De Carlo, an inmate of the Deer Island house of correction, was shot in the leg today by James Downing, an officer at the institution. His wound was not serious. Officials said that De Carlo attacked Downing while the prisoners were assembled in the dining room and the officer fired in self-defense.

EDWIN DENBY DEFENDED; ALBERT A. FALL CONDEMNED

In Republican Minority Report the Senate Oil Committee Pronounced Acceptance of $100,000 Loan by Fall From Edward L. Doheny, California Oil Magnate, as Reprehensible—Finds Nothing in the Conduct of Former Secretary Denby Which Would Reflect Upon His Integity.

Washington, Jan. 15.—While defending Edwin Denby, as secretary of the navy, a republican minority of the senate oil committee, in a report filed today, condemns Albert B. Fall, as secretary of the interior, for accepting a loan of $100,000 and other favors from Edward L. Doheny, California oil magnate, to whom a California naval oil reserve was leased.

The report, signed by Senators Smoot, of Utah; Stanfield, of Oregon; Bursum, of New Mexico; Cameron of Arizona, and Spencer, of Missouri, was submitted by the last-named senator so it might be before the senate prior to the calling up for adoption next week of the majority report, submitted at the last session by Senator Walsh democrat, Montana, prosecutor in the oil inquiry.

"The minority concurs," the report said, "in the full measure of criticism which the majority indulge upon the conduct of a cabinet officer who is shown to have accepted a loan of $100,000 and certain other favors while in office. Such acts cannot be tolerated and are not to be condoned."

"We agree as well," it added, "with the majority opinion that the only possible criticism that could be placed upon the conduct of the secretary of the navy, Edwin Denby, or of any assistant secretary, relates entirely to the interpretation of statutes glaringly ambiguous and the inauguration of administrative policies where no express statute exists.

"The disputed interpretation of statutes is properly before the courts for judicial determination and nothing in the record in the least affects the integrity and patriotic devotion to duty and high character of Secretary Denby."

With further reference to the $100,000 loan to Fall, the report said:

"If the claim that these favors were in the nature of bribes is sustained in the criminal proceedings already begun, punishment adequate and prompt will follow. Crime is individual and guilt is personal. Under the constitution men are presumed to be innocent until proven guilty, but whether the participants be in fact guilty under the law or innocent, the act itself is most reprehensible, causes national humiliation, and cannot be overlooked."

The minority asserted that the extended investigation into reports of oil stock dealings by public officials and of rumors that the appointment of Secretary Fall had resulted from a "conspiracy" entered into before the 1920 republican convention had "produced an impression in the country concerning the investigatory inclinations of the senate that was exceedingly unfortunate and one which neither the senate nor the country is likely soon to forget."

Discussing the now famous executive order transferring control of the reserves from the navy to the interior department, which preceded the leasing of Teapot Dome to Harry F Sinclair, and the California reserve to Doheny, the minority declared that whether this order was without authority of law" is a question for the court before whom it is now pending." In actions brought by the government against the two oil operators.

The senators rejected as unsupported what they characterized as the repeated inferences for the majority members of the committee that the navy and interior departments exercised undue secrecy with respect to the leases. It said the heads of these departments justified their decision not to make public advertisement of their plans because of "existing international complications."

As far as Secretary Denby was concerned, the minority held that it was "his manifest duty" in developing the oil reserves, as required by an act of confress proposed by Secretary Daniels in the Wilson administration, to take the oil out of the ground both to conserve it and to make it available for use in time of emergency.

IDENTIFIED CHAPMAN AS MAIL CAR ROBBER

New York, Jan. 15.—Identification today by John P. Greene, railway mail clerk, of the notorious mail thief, Gerald Chapman, as the man who daringly held up a Long Island train Tuesday night and in less than four minutes, robbed him of a $10,000 currency shipment, was discounted by federal operatives tonight.

After looking over several hundred photographs in the New York police rogues' gallery, Greene chose that of Chapman and positively declared him to have been the man who held him up.

Charles H. Charahan, chief postal inspector in charge of the government agents seeking the "four-minute thief," said he doubted the identification. He recalled that when Greene was questioned yesterday and again the four hours last night that he was unable to ederibd the robber's face for the reason that a handkerchief covered his face, his cap was pulled well down over his forehead and only his eyes were visible.

"I don't think Chapman did it," Clarahan said. "I don't think Greene's identification will amount to much because of what he said yesterday."

U. S. NOT INVOLVED IN EUROPEAN AFFAIRS

Washington, Jan. 15.—Administration officials take the view that American participation in the Paris finance conference has not involved the Washington government in European affairs or committed it to participation in the future in matters of European concern.

They do not agree with British and French editorial expressions that the Paris meeting marked this country's entrance into European affairs in a way that had been avoided in the past.

It is held that the claims situation alone made it necessary for the United States to participate in the conference, and that failure to be represented would have relinquished the right to collect just dues from Germany.

SOVIET AMBASSADOR TO PARIS SUMMONED HOME

Paris, Jan. 15—Leonid Krassin, soviet ambassador to Paris, is leaving on Monday for Moscow where he has been summoned by his government. He will meet Christian Rakovsky, soviet charge d'affairs at London, and N. N. Krestinski, soviet ambassador to Germany, and will confer with the soviet council on the future policy toward the western powers. Mr. Kassin expects to be absent about a fortnight.

SKETCH OF DR. LUTHER, NEW CHANCELLOR OF GERMANY

Berlin, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Dr. Hans Luther, Germany's eighteenth chancellor and tenth to occupy that post since the revolution, is a comparative newcomer to national politics. His reputaton as an able administrative official was wholely acquired in the municipal service, especially as lord mayor of Essen, which post he vacated in October, 1923, to become minister of finance in the second cabinet headed by Dr. Stresemann.

Dr. Luther's immediate predecessors, in the finance department were Dr. Rudolf Hilferding, who occupied the post for only three months in Stresemann's forty-party coalition, and Dr. Andres Hermes, whose administration of German finances under the Wirth and Cuno regimes was made the target of considerable criticism. Dr. Luther was asked by Stresemann to take over the finance ministry at the time when Germany was forced to liquidate the aftermath of the war of passive resistance along the Ruhr and the Rhine. His legacy presented itself to the new minister in the shape of a wrecked national currency.

The new chancellor is unattached officially to any of the big parties in the Reichstag and ranked as a nonpartisan expert in the recent cabinet. He is noted for the strictness with which he has pruned appropriations.

Dr. Luther is a man of robust personality, a good speaker, and has become familiar to Reichstag members who served on the finance and budget commissions, as an indomitable fighter. He is 46 years old. When the French and Belgians occupied Essen in January, 1923 he defied them, but was soon forced to quit his post as lord mayor.

Dr. Luther recently lost his wife and his two daughters, aged 3 and 10 years, respectively, his only children

SHANGHAI ARSENAL TO BE CONVERTED INTO FACTORY

Peking, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Abolition of the Shanghai arsenal and post garrison and prohibition of the stationing of troops in the Shanghai area, were recommended in resolutions adopted today by the Chinese cabinet.

Mandates are to be issued covering the subject matter of the resolutions.

The cabinet acted as the result of agitation by Shanghai merchants, backed by representatives of the foreign powers, the argument being used that the city's important commerce was perpetually menaced by operations of militarists who coveted control of the post as an arsenal.

Under today's resolution, the Shanghai arsenal, one of the finest in China, would be converted into a factory and temporarily placed in the hands of the Chinese chamber of commerce of Shanghai.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1131
Office Hours: 8:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Pomeroy, 92, one of the oldest members of the First Congregational church were held at her home Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. A large number of friends and relatives were present. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the Congregational church was assisted by Rev. William S. Beard of Montville, a former pastor of the First church in conducting the services. The bearers were Charles Pomeroy, Dr. Harry Starr Pomeroy of Peabody, Mass., Arthur C. Everest of Willimantic, Lucius Fuller of Hartford, and Norman P. Cooley of New Haven. The body was placed in the receiving vault of the Willimantic cemetery.

According to the report received Thursday by City Clerk J. Schley Donohue and Superintendent of Water Work Henderson S. Moulton, from the laboratory of the state department of health at Hartford, the water used to supply the city of Willimantic for drinking purposes is declared quite free from impurities and of excellent quality. This is in answer to a sample taken at the pumping station December 17, and sent to the Hartford laboratory for examination. "This water appears to be entirely safe at this time for drinking purposes" states the report, "and meets the United States treasury standard for drinking water for carriers, although the high color of the water which has increased a little since the last sample received may be slightly objectionable to consumers."

Since Sunday night, when a one-story house of three rooms at Leonards Bridge owned by Rachael Silvercelli and Joseph Werlin burned to the ground in the absence of the owners entailing a loss of about $700 over the insurance of $300, a second fire occurred in the vicinity, this time Tuesday morning. A blaze started in the chimney of the home of Sanford Cummings, rural mail carrier in Lebanon, and apparently smouldering there all the morning, breaking through the roof about noon. A troop of volunteer fire fighters managed to save the house, but the damage to the roof and the rest of the building was estimated at about $500.

The funeral of Miss Mary E. Cunningham was held Thursday from her home. Requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock was sung by Rev. Charles Kelly. As the body was borne into the church, Nearer My God to Thee was sung by Arthur Roy, Joseph Aurbin, and Miss Monica McKeon, who also sang the offertory hymn, "Pie Jesu" as a solo. The waiting hymn "Farewell" was sung by Arthur Roy and the recessional by the trio. Committal service was conducted at the receiving vault in St. Joseph's cemetery by the Rev. Father Kelly. The bearers were T. Frank Cunningham, Danbury; Edward Burns of Danbury, Edward Fitzgerald Edmund R. Portelance nad Dennis Shea.

On a charge of vagrancy to which he pleaded guilty James Friery, of Putnam appeared Thursday morning before Willimantic police court. Friery has been sent over to the county jail from this court a number of times and for various offenses, most of them for intoxication. He appeared in the station last night and told the officer that he was [illegible] no money and no place to go, and was held on a charge of vagrancy, and this morning was given a sentence of 30 days.

For sixteen minutes Wednesday night all street, homes and buildings in Rockville, Stafford Springs, and Willimantic light and power from Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co were in total darkness, when the power went off at 6.45. A fire at the Stafford Springs station owned by the company put the high tension line out of business, and it was only when power was secured from the Eneas Power company, at Scotland dam that lights were restored.

The death of Miss Eliza Jane Trowbridge, 85, occurred Wednesday afternoon at the home of Peter Chick, on the Gallup farm, Chaplin. Miss Trowbridge was born in Norwalk, Oct. 27, 1839, the daughter of John Stevens and Betsey Ann Waterbury Trowbridge. She is survived by a nephew, Albert Trowbridge, a grandniece, Mabel Trowbridge, and a grandnephew Paul Trowbridge, all of Chaplin.

Four children between the ages of 14 and 16, appeared at the common council chamber in the town hall Thursday morning before Archibald M. Buchanan, agent for the state board of education, to take oral and written educational tests required by the state before they are granted certificates to go to work.

About a dozen applicants for drivers' licenses appeared yesterday at the patrolmen's room in the police station and demonstrated their ability to operate a motor vehicle on the public highway, to State Policeman Edgar D. Abild of the Stafford Springs state police barracks, acting inspector of candidates for motor vehicle operators' licenses.

The death of John Sugrue, who has born and resided in this city for the greater part of his life, occurred Wednesday at Saranac Lake, N. Y. He is survived by a brother, Michael Sugrue, of Willimantic.

A mysterious accident occurring probably very early Tuesday morning at the hairpin turn, northwest of the bridge in Chaplin, resulted in the wrecking of the state road fence, where a machine evidently crashed into it. The identity of the driver and of the car is a mystery.

Funeral services for John Atwood were held Thursday afternoon, Rev. Frederick Foshay officiating. The body was placed in the receiving vault of the Willimantic cemetery.

The committee in charge of the series of old-fashioned dances to be given by the Youth's Welfare Association of St. Mary's church, will be, Edmund Dupont, chairman, Louis Veglard, Arthur Veterefeuille, Joseph Vincelette and Edward Grenier.

There were 23 tables in play at the whist party held Wednesday evening by members of Violet Rebecca lodge, No. 57 in I. O. O. F. hall. First prizes went to Mrs. Amy Foote and A. P. Benner, others to Miss Norma Rathbun and Harold Culpin.

Miss Janice Southward entertained about 20 of the W. W. G. Girls of the First Baptist church Wednesday evening. Supper was served and a social hour enjoyed.

The employes of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company gathered at the Y. M. C. A. here Thursday night, for a supper and meeting for the purpose of laying final plans for the customer ownership campaign, which will begin January 17. The speakers were M. J. Warner, secretary-treasurer of the company; Percy H. Whiting, manager of the customer ownership division of Henry L. Doherty and Company of New York, John F. Ahern, assistant treasurer of the local company and David Loree, superintendent. H. M. Whiting acted as toastmaster for the evening. A demonstration sale was put on by Ralph Gibson and Dan O'Brien. As a preliminary to the sale, advance letters are to be sent out and each employee will call on twenty customers of the company. There are but 750 shares available and the sale has been limited to ten days, the time limit being based on the experience of the sale in 1922 when the sales were oversubscribed.

A public whist was given Wednesday evening at St. Joseph's hall by the Social Whist club, with 30 tables playing. The first prize, a cut glass cheese dish, went to Mrs. Walter Costello; first gentlemen's prize, a pack of cards in leather case, to Louis Peters; second lady's prize, a half dozen linen handkerchiefs, to Miss Anna Assynesaunt; third, a pin try, to Miss Anna Tibchack, and keyring and purse, to Ernest Becker. The purchase of mystery packages containing articles donated by the club members and interested friends, selling for a dime, and liable to contain anything from a paper of pins to a Victrola record, delighted everybody, and added much to the enjoyment of the evening. Coffee and cake were served.

Among the changes taking place at the American Thread company plant is that of Miss Florence Chase, matron of The Elms since October, whose notice that her services would not be required after the first of February was received the first of the month. With it came the announcement that The Elms will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hill. Miss Chase is leaving for Boston.

Another change at The Elms is the resignation of the cook, Mrs. Norah Robinson, for whom a party was given Tuesday evening by a number of the girls. Dancing and games were enjoyed and cake, sandwiches, coffee and fruit served. Mrs. Robinson has a position with Dr. Turcotte, to do practical nursing.

The farm census taken by the government every five years is being taken in Hebron and Columbia by Town Clerk Hubert Collins of Columbia.

In the Center school, Hebron, the children have organized a new system of student government, in which they themselves act, not only as the governed, but as the governing body. Several weeks ago they had a formal meeting and elected a president, vice president, governing board and court of justice, before which last group all offenders and wrong-doers must appear for trial and a copious punishment. Most of the officers being among the children in the upper grades, the ones in the primary room are under the general oversight of a governor-general. The system seems to be working in a very successful direction.

The price of gasoline in Willimantic and vicinity is now 21 cents a gallon, an increase of two cents over the price four months ago. According to the local representatives of one of the three companies having supply depots in the city the reasons for the increase, the first since the first part of November, are to the effect that gasoline stocks east of the Rocky mountains have showed a steady decrease since the end of last May, when the peak figure was attained. By the end of November of last year the country's reserve supply was reduced 31.3 per cent.

Short Paragraphs.

Mrs. George K. Nason entertained the members of the Woman's Charitable Fund at her home Wednesday afternoon. It was decided to hold the annual whist later in the month. Lunch was served.

The Congregational Thimble club, of which Miss Edith Ticknor is leader, was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Knight. Mrs. Julia McFarlane was present as guest.

Mrs. Arthur Goodwin is the guest in New Haven of Mrs. August Roy, who is attending her brother, Phineas Gaudreau, who is seriously ill in the New Haven hospital.

ONE OF TRACY-ELLIOTT MILLS BURNED AT SO. COVENTRY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Jan. 15—A fire loss at the replacement value of over $100,000 was caused to one of the mills of the Tracy-Elliott Mills, Inc., plant in South Coventry, eight miles from here, Thursday afternoon, when fire broke out at 1:15 o'clock from an overheated hot air pipe in the rag baking department of the plant. The building, a two story stone structure which was renovated about a year ago, housed nearly $40,000 worth of new equipment used in the carbonizing of rags, the first step in the industry of producing wool extract and reworked wool, in which business the company is engaged in South Coventry and in Gloucester, R. I.

The fire was discovered by Albert Kamerhuis, in charge of the shoddy work on the lower floor. He notified Supt. Fred J. Pooler, who ordered the factory whistle blown and the operatives filed out to safety. Some fifteen employes were engaged in the destroyed mill. The blaze became more intense in spite of the efforts of a band of volunteer fire fighters and at 1.38 as S. O. S. call was sent in to Acting Mayor George W. Hickey who gave permission for the Rec Chemical wagon of Engine Company No. 1 to make the trip to South Coventry. Hoseman Charles A. Reynolds and Eugene F. Martin manned the apparatus and upon arrival there stationed themselves with a supply of chemicals on the roof of the T. H. Wood Co. Silk Fish Line factory opposite the road, to prevent a spreading of the blaze to that plant.

In the meantime the volunteers were having considerable difficulty to secure adequate water power. A hydrant beside the burning building was found frozen beyond use. Two lines of hose were run from other nearby hydrants, but the pressure was too low and one of the hydrants was shut. The remaining hose then had pressure to throw a stream about twenty feet. A request was made for the use of the local La-France pumper but Chief James J. Tighe deemed it advisable to refuse due to the road conditions and the fact that with its going the city would be left unprotected. The blaze had considerably abated some two hours later, leaving the interior of the building completely gutted. The roof had cavedin and the large exhaust pipes lay in a tangled mass on the lower flower.

According to Assistant Superintendent Thomas Flaherty the fire was caused by the overheating of one of the large metal pipes which carried excess heat from the bakers out through the roof. The heat ignited the wood roof and this part of the building was the first to burn. One of the largest crowds ever witnessed in Coventry gathered about the fire.

The destroyed mill is the largest in a series of eight structures which make up the Tracy-Elliott plant, where about sixty operatives are employed. Assistant Superintendent Flaherty stated that the loss would not halt operations for any considerable time, as the carbonizing of rags for the removal of cotton is a process which the firm could have done elsewhere, in sufficient quantities to maintain activities in the remainder of the plant.

The mill was built about a quarter of a century ago, from native rock, by E. A. Tracy of Southern Pines, S. C., and T. P. Flaherty, of South Coventry. Two years ago Dexter Elliott of Thompson, purchased the bulk of the industry and it became the Tracy-Elliott Mills, Inc. The plant has been doing a thriving business and is rushed with orders. Material to the value of $2,000 was lost along with the building.

About one year ago an entire new equipment of bakers, tube and heaters was installed making the plant an object of pride for the villagers of Coventry. It was stated that insurance covering the larger part of the loss was carried on the building and equipment. The loss is one of the largest ever suffered during the history of South Coventry. The four walls remained standing and it is believed that they will be used in rebuilding the mill. Talk during the fire drifted to the recent campaign to secure a light pumper truck for Coventry's fire fighting force. The plan took form shortly after the destruction of a wooden mill in the town, but the plan was never carried through. Many of the citizens argued that the loss could have been avoided for the greater part, Thursday, if the town had possessed a suitable piece of fire apparatus.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Willimantic, Jan. 15—About 200 people were present at the annual meeting of the First Baptist church which opened with a supper arranged by the Ladies' Aid. About 100 people responded to their names at the roll call. Reports were read from the treasurer of the trustees, W. M. Potter, who gave the receipts for the year at $5,833.25 with disbursements, $5,790.01; treasurer of the church, R. T. Rood; collector, Bernard Larkin; treasurer of benevolence, Miss Mabel Slate. Miss Slate's reports gave the receipts as being $1,833.85 with $1817.12. Reports were read by the clerk of the church, Russell Andrews, and treasurer of the improvement committee, Albert Fryer. This committee reported on the receipts for the year as $4216.11 with expenditures, $11,095.64, leaving on hand $40.07 with a note due for $6,000. Treasurer of the Sunday School George Bowen reported receipts for the year $279.30 with disbursements, $254.55. The societies of the church, the senior Christian Endeavor, the Intermediate Christian Endeavor and others were also given. Mrs. Charles Andrews represented the Ladies' Aid, Inez Bowen, the Cunningham fund, Mrs. Archie Rood, the Woman's Missionary Society. A solo was sung by Albert Caufield. His first public appearance in violin solo by Master Everett Shipnee delighted the audience who gave him an enthusiastic encore. A male quartet consisting of Albert Caufield, Russell Andrews, George Millhench and Frank Lee sang Tenting Tonight, responding to encore. The election of officers resulted as follows: Trustees for three years, David Moxon George Bowen, and Fred Rosebrooks; deaconesses, Mrs. John James, Miss Mary Clark; clerk of the church, Russell Andrews; church treasurer, Archie Rood; prudential committee, Miss Inez M. Brown, Miss Ada Bowen, Mrs. F. S. Pendleton, Mrs. William H. Peckham, Mrs. Clyde Larkin, Miss Mabel Slate; head usher, George Sutton; assistant, Charles Warrender. William H. Peckham; auditor, Charles L. Crane; Albert Fryer; collector, Bernard Larkin; superintendent of the Sunday school, Harold Nichols; assistant superintendents, Mrs. Charles Tryon and Mrs. Clyde Larkin; secretary and treasurer of the Sunday school, J. Hopier Hawkins; assistant secretary and treasurer, Stanley Andrews; superintendent of the primary department, Miss Clarrie Stiles; assistant superintendent Miss Inez Paton; superintendent of the home department, Miss Belle Martin; assistant superintendent, Miss Mabel Slate; missionary committee, Mrs. Harold Nichols, Gertrude Carlson, Miss Harriet Ellison; treasurer of benevolence, Miss Mabel Slate; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Clyde Larkin.

Following a few remarks by the pastor, Rev. Frederick Faucher, the Rev. E. E. Gates, secretary of the Connecticut State Baptist convention, congratulated the church on the evidences of its progress which he noticed and spoke on religion as a fundamental element of all prosperity. He gave instances from the Bible and significant circumstances in the lives of Washington, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Harding and Coolidge, to prove that the right-living people are the preserving element in the life of the community, the state, the nation and the world, finally quoting Roger Babson in that, "Religion is indispensable to our civilization."

COURT VERONICA HOLDS ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Jan. 15.—In honor of the fourth anniversary of Court Veronica of the Catholic Daughters of America a banquet was held Thursday evening at a local hotel with covers for 90. The decorations were in purple and gold with clusters of yellow carnations. The first speaker was Miss Agnes Fox of New Britain, district deputy. She was followed by Rev. William Kennedy, pastor of St. Mary's in South Coventry. Arthur Roy sang Roses of Piccardy, When Love Dies, and Marcheta. Miss Mary Hanley, grand regent of Court Isabella, Stafford, spoke on the work accomplished by her court. Rev. Charles Kelley gave a short talk on the need of unity in society. Rev. Henry Quinn, chaplain of the court and pastor of St. Joseph's, Willimantic, spoke on Unity and Charity. The toastmaster was Miss Veronica McQuillan, grand regent of Court Veronica. The banquet opened with the singing of America and the closing song was Auld Lang Syne, sung in chorus, after which dancing followed. Those present included 15 officers from Court Isabella, Stafford.

Expenditure of $10,900,000 for additional hospital facilities for World War Veterans is proposed in a bill introduced by Chairman Johnson of the house veterans' committee.

THE GREATEST OF MODERN MIGRATIONS

Bakhtiari tribesmen, again in revolt against the Persian government, provide a modern prototype of the march of the Children of Israel out of the wilderness, according to a bulletin from Washington D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Only in the case of the Bakhtiaris, who live in the 'wild west' of Persia, their pilgrimage is accomplished every six months and the trail traverses snow-covered mountains, icy streams, and other obstacles along what has been called the 'wickedest 200 miles in all the world.'

"Along with 50,000 of the men, women and children on their semi-annual Odyssey go some half a million cattle. The tribesmen live on the cattle and the cattle live on grass. Only during the winter months is there grazing on the scorching littoral of the Persian Gulf; and only in the summer months is there grass on the plateau country back of the Bakhtiari Mountain range. Hence people and cattle have to move with the seasons.

"When the Bakhtiaris knock down their black and orange and white tents to go in search of grass they pile their household effects on the backs of their animals, and atop these cargoes ride the lambs, the calves and the chickens. Their women strap to their backs their crude wooden cradles, in which they carry their babies and their husbands' guns.

"If an observer would get the epic quality of this mammoth migration he should station himself beside a stream —one of the torrential, icy mountain rivers. First the tribesmen make rafts underlaid with inflated goat skins and on these they entrust women and children, the younger animals and their meager household effects. Then they drive their horses to swim and, perhaps in return for the use of their dear comrades' skins, cross on the rafts.

"The roar of the falls above, the screeching of animals, the cries of the dying beasts caught in whirlpools, and the yelling of the men so to make up a din that is weird and unparalleled. Finally the men themselves take the icy plunge. This scene is not a matter of hours, but of days, and the crossing is continued through the moonlight nights.

"The next high light of the trip comes with the mountains where men and women discard shoes and break trails through snow-filled ravines and along icy passes, ever higher and higher, until when the summit is reached, the weaker humans and animals have been left bleeding, freezing and starving on the steep trails. A panorama of the serpentine line, twisting and twining from the valley below, as far as the eye can see, is one of the most picturesque spectacles of human geography. The climax of the mountain climbing comes with the ascent of the giant and seemingly inaccessible Zardeh Kuh, some 12,000 feet high.

"The Bakhtiaris do not bow to Tehran; they continually are at war with the Lurs and other neighboring tribesmen. They are ruled by tribal chieftans. Their men value women lightly, using them as beasts of burden, and pay slight attention to their daughters. Their sons they teach to shoot and swim and ride by the time they are nine or ten years old."

Triangular Trade Route

The name "Triangular Trade route" was applied to the route from the United States to the West Indies; from the West Indies to Europe; and from Europe to the United States. The mainland shipped food and lumber to the West Indies; the West Indies shipped sugar products to Europe; and Europe shipped manufactures to the American mainland, thus closing the transaction.

JUDGE THOMAS GIVES NOTICE TO LAWYERS

New Haven, Jan. 15.—Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in the United States district court here today, made it known to lawyers within the Connecticut district that commencing at once they will no longer be permitted to withdraw from any federal court cases, civil or criminal, without first giving notice to the clerk of the court of their intention of withdrawing and then appearing in court and giving a good and proper reason.

It also became known that no longer will a lawyer be permitted to enter a case after obtaining a fee and then later on withdrawing. From now on, it was said, it will be necessary for a lawyer to file written application to have his name erased as counsel in any case in which he has entered.

The clerk of the court is also instructed to erase from the court docket all cases in which no action has been taken during a five-year period. Lawyers concerned, however, are given the right to have the cases replaced on the docket by filing proper motions.

FIRE IN LAUNDRY AT CEDAR CREST SANATORIUM

Newington, Conn., Jan. 15.—A blaze which started in the boiler room of the $50,000 laundry building at Cedar Crest sanatorium about 11 o'clock tonight caused damage to the building estimated at $2,000. The fire was discovered soon after it had started, and the sanatorium fire department had the blaze under control in half an hour. Most of the damage was confined to the boiler room.

The laundry, which does all the laundry work for the various state sanatoriums, will not be in use for several days, according to sanatorium officials late tonight. They declared that the installation of a hydrant system several years ago following an appropriation by the state legislature without doubt, made it possible to get the blaze under control.

NUTTING AND COMPANIONS MAY STILL BE SAFE

Montreal, Jan. 15.—The "Lief Ericsson," with William Washburn Nutting of New York and two companions aboard, which disappeared on a trip along the Viking path between Iceland and Labrador, may still be safe, though driven off her course, in the opinion of H. B. Greening of Hamilton, Ont., president of the Touring club of America.

In a letter to George A. Wendt of the Canadian Westinghouse company, Montreal, who instituted a radio search for the missing craft at Christmas time, Mr. Greening said that the "Lief Ericsson" was a stout vessel and that her entire seagoing equipment was massive.

Ancient Pennies

A silver penny struck during the reign of Ethelred II., the Unready, 979-1016, at Sudbury, England, where at that time there was a royal mint, has been presented to the borough by the town clerk. It passed into his possession several years ago, and he has ascertained on high authority that it is genuine. The coin has been deposited in the borough technical institute.

Church Gets Old Bell

The famous old bell brought around Cape Horn in the early '60s and used as a fire bell in General Allen's time at Vancouver barracks at Vancouver, Wash., has been converted into a church bell to call worshipers to the Norwegian Lutheran church in Vancouver. The bell being of careful casting is more musical than the ordinary ringer used in fire stations.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Announcement was made Thursday morning that the Danielson Rod and Gun club offers a reward of $100 to any person or persons who bring about the arrest and conviction of any person or persons found guilty of setting snares and distributing poison that might be picked up by dogs or other animals, this applying to the town of Killingly. This is the club's first step to stop a dastardly practice that has grown to such proportions as to be alarming, at least to owners of valuable hunting dogs, and even those who have dogs for pets, for as many or more dogs are caught in snares or poisoned as there are foxes or deer caught by devilish devices that the laws of the state have declared illegal.

The reward was offered by the club through a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the organization Wednesday evening. The club will follow up this offer with an active effort through its membership to stop snaring and poison distribution in this territory. It can be done with the proper co-operation of the more than 200 members who make up the club, and the many others whose sympathy and assistance they will have in a laudable campaign.

In electing its officers for the ensuing year the club named L. S. Ingalls as president, Frederick E. Bitgood as vice president, Richard D. Banigan as secretary-treasurer, and Elijah H. Berriman as field captain. The board of directors is made up of R. D. Banigan, Harold B. Atwood, L. S. Ingalls, E. H. Berriman, F. E. Bitgood, Dr. F. P. Todd, William M. Franklin, Charles Franklin, E. L. Perry, Armand Henault and Ira A. Warren.

The club's committees are as follows: Executive, Sidney H. Perry, L. S. Ingalls, William M. Franklin, E. H. Berriman, Charles Franklin; membership, A. P. Burns, Joseph Miller, George LaBelle, Dana Shippee, Fred Swan; grounds, Charles Franklin, Sidney Perry, James Moran; handicap, E. H. Berriman, Dr. F. P. Todd, George Nuttall; entertainment, James Moran, Charles Franklin, John B. Bassett, E. H. Berriman, William Franklin; game, William M. Franklin, Armand Henault, Fred Swan, James Moran, Charles Franklin; rifle, Ira A. Warren, Charles W. Hale; legislative, L. S. Ingalls, George Ide, R. D. Banigan.

The legislative committee will keep in touch with the state fish and game commission and the legislature during the present session, carefully scrutinizing proposed laws and possibly offering some bills in the interest of the organization it represents.

Scores of people hereabouts have it figured out that they have just another week to live if the worst they apprehend befalls them, though they figure in any event that something terrible is going to happen to them. It is well within the bounds of possibility that some people will die in the community within the next eight days, but it is extremely unlikely that the total eclipse of the sun a week from tomorrow morning will have anything to do with their passing.

The coming eclipse is what has them all stirred up, however. Questioned as to the basis of their fears, they are entirely vague as to what causes their apprehension, but they are just plumb scared, nevertheless. They admit they are not afraid of a sunset nor the gradual coming of darkness that follows it, but point out to you that total eclipses of the sun happen in any given locality only once in two or three centuries, and the thing is so unusual that it must be unusual, or something to that effect.

All of which leads to the setting forth here that there are lots of people who do not expect anything to happen to them during the period of the eclipse, and, firm in their faith that they will be here after it is over, stand as willing prospective recipients of any gifts of property, real or personal, jewels and such like, that those who fear they are going to pass will have no furter use for, should their fears be realized.

Steps have been taken to acquaint Supt. J. W. Titcomb of the state fish and game organization with conditions existing in towns in this section of eastern Connecticut as to setting snares and the distribution of deadly poisons along fox runs. Men who are doing these things are commercial hunters—mercenaries—and a determined effort to get them is anticipated. Among other things to be done will be the filing of a request for increased penalties for the setters of snares, that they may be adequately punished once they are apprehended.

Many in this vicinity read with interest of a profit in excess of $8,000 made by the Stafford fair last fall. It is suggested that expansion of the Brooklyn fair, oldest established in America, might make the same splendid result possible. Brooklyn is rightly situated to make it possible.

A news item says that there are 550 makes of automobiles, and it may be added there are 499 kinds of one variety of them in the town of Killingly.

"I am going to buy a blue suit to match my feelings," remarked one of the most successful of Danielson's business men when he was having a gray hour Thursday; but he didn't mean it.

The Cloud Digger hasn't said it, but there is a weather prophet here who predicts that there will be plenty of rain after the solar eclipse of Jan. 24.

There is nothing like getting enthusiastic. At a recent party this idea was born: "Let's put all the tables together and split the checks"

The public will buy if it is tempted enough. There was evidence of this here Thursday when the Appreciation day advertising of Danielson's businessmen appeared. Eager buyers were on hand for a rat pick of specials reserved for Saturday only.

Those who can be prompt with all things are now engaged here with making out their income tax returns. Others who ar not so prompt have until March 15 to attend to this matter.

Fishermen in this territory are losing much of their enthusiasm. The ice is getting too thick to make chopping holes appear to be a part of an enjoyable outing.

Thursday was, in the early morning, one of the coldest of those produced by the current January. Here in the borough thermometers showed readings down to 2 above zero.

John F. Lewis of this place was elected a director of the L. A. W. corporation at the annual meeting of the organization held in Putnam on Tuesday of this week.

ARRESTED IN MAINE FOR PLAINFIELD BREAK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Jan. 15.—A press despatch out of Portland, Me., Thursday morning told of the arrest in that city of one Philip Owens, 19, on a charge of "breaking into an oil station at Danielson, Conn."

Owens' arrest apparently clears up, insofar as arrested persons are concerned, a break at Burdick's filling station in Plainfield on Dec. 1, at about 2 a. m. Somehow a confusion of facts in Thursday's despatch placed the break at Danielson.

Owens is the third youth to be arrested for the break in question. His two companions were arrested some time since at Bath, Me., in which city they stole a Reo car on Nov. 21 of last year, and arrived in this territory with it some ten days later.

Their escapade at the Burdick filling station in Plainfield was brought about by the fact that the car ran out of gasoline and was in need of lubricating oil. They had forced their way into the filling station building and had removed a can of oil when dogs in the Burdick home near by began to bark. This aroused the filling station owner and on getting up to let out the dogs he becam aware that something unusual was under way. The lights in the filling station can be switched on from the house and when they were turned on the trio of youths fled, abandoning their car, which later was taken back to Bath by the owner.

State police from the Danielson barracks investigated the case and were gratified to learn during the past month or two of the youths implicated in the affair. This pair were arrested in Maine, as was Owens, another Maine youth, the last to be taken to answer for his part in the affair that brought the group into this territory.

PUTNAM

Charles Berzuk was put on trial in superior court Thursday charged with violations of the liquor laws. There were six counts on the complaint: First, that on Nov. 13, 1924 he had two quarts of alcohol in his possession with intent to sell; second, that on Nov. 12, he sold a quart of alcohol to John Andrews for $4; third, on Nov. 13, he sold a quart to Leon Vionski; fourth, on Nov. 1, selling Arthur Turgeon two quarts for $4.50; fifth, on Nov. 20 selling Arthur Turgeon one quart for $2.25; on Nov. 20, with illegal transportation of liquor.

The trial is to a jury. After the jurors were sworn and Berzuk pleaded not guilty Judge Jennings announced that owing to the failure of the witnesses to arrive a recess would be taken until 2 o'clock. The court room was crowded at both sessions, in the afternoon there were twenty or thirty women among the spectators

Eric H. Johnson assisted State's Attorney Searls in the prosecution and Charles L. Torrey and George Shehan of Providence represented the defendant.

The only witnesses examined during the afternoon were John Andrews and Leon Vionski, detectives employed by the Bridgeman Agency at Hartford. They told about the same story that they did when Berzuk was presented in city court two weeks ago. They were sent here to try and "get sales" on people. Andrews testified that on November 13 he had bought a quart of alcohol from Berzuk in his store on Main street. The most of it was drunk then by the detectives, Mr. and Mrs. Berzuk and two other men. A small amount was put into a bottle which the witness sealed and delivered to his office. It was offered in evidence.

Leon Vinoski told practically the same story, except that on November 12 he and Andrews went to Berzuk's and the former bought a quart, paying $4.

Both witnesses were sharply cross examined but they adhered to the statements made in their direct testimony and were not shaken on any material point. In reply to a question by Mr. Shehan Vinoski as to how many places he had visited on November 12, and whether he had not taken numerous drinks during the day, he said that he could not recall the number.

At the close of the cross examination court adjourned until next Tuesday morning.

The jurors of the superior court were called Wednesday morning but as the trial of the New Haven employes was settled by the men pleading guilty they were excused until Thursday morning.

The jurors are: F. Louis Hall, Windham; Joseph Rivard, Putnam; Howard Goodwin, Ashford; Clinton E. Frink, Canterbury; Charles E. Howe, Chaplin; John Lewis, Hampton; Walter R. Fiske, Irving W. Davis, Killingly; Irving F. Palmer, Plainfield; F. H. Payne, George Platt, Pomfret; C. F. Gager, Scotland; George H. Gallup, Sterling; John Blake, Thompson; Frank Johnson, George Clarke, W. A. Howard, Woodstock.

The W. C. T. U. will meet in the community room of the Saving Bank this (Friday) afternoon at 3 p. m.

Ralph W. Bowen has been elected vice president of the Rhode Island Hospital Thust company, the oldest trust company in New England and one of the largest and most influential banking houses in the state.

Mr. Bowen is well known in Putnam having spent several weeks here during the organization of the Citizens National bank, assisting and directing in that work, and has been an occasional visitor since then.

He was the assistant secretary of the trust company and his election to a vice presidency is a marked recognition of his ability. His exceptional gifts as a banker was illustrated here in his direction of the steps to be taken by the new bank in perfecting its organization and getting under way. The announcement of his election was made at the meeting of the stockholders of the Citizens Bank Tuesday and was greeted with applause by the officials and others who came in contact with him while here.

There will be a meeting of the Quinebaug chapter, D. A. R., in the High School Auditorium Monday afternoon, January 19th, at 3.30. A full attendance is desired as plans for the year's work will be announced and committees appointed. After the business meeting there will be an entertainment, social hour and refreshments.

The Mechanicsville Athletic association will play the Towerville Tigers of Woonsocket, R. I., January 22, at the Tourtelotte Memorial High School, North Grosvenordale.

School Superintendent R. C. Jenkins was in New Haven Wednesday attending a boys' work conference of the thirteenth district of Rotary International, as the delegate from the Putnam Rotary club. The programme for the day included a banquet, speaking, discussions, visits to boys' clubs and a theatre party.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Meyers leave today (Friday) for a two weeks' visit with relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Steers of Georgiaville spent the week end with Mrs. Steere's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Austin, of Woodstock avenue.

Miss Nellie Weston, superintendent of the hospital of the Odd Fellows' home at Worcester is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. N. B. Burton of Grove street.

Miss Annie Sullivan of Bullock street is recovering at the Day Kimball hospital from an appendicitis operation.

Judge and Mrs. Frank R. Russell and daughter, Miss Constance, left on Monday night for Florida. They will visit in Jacksonville and several other places and will be gone for several weeks.

Mrs. Thomas Baker of Woodstock is in at the Day Kimball hospital with pneumonia. She is the mother of Rev. Henry Baker.

Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich will be at the Day Kimball hospital next Tuesday, January 21, to consult with any one who may wish to see him.

Stanley Leville, a student at the Tourtelotte High school at North Grosvenordale, has received a scholarship at Bates college at Lewiston, Maine. Stanley will graduate from the Tourtelotte High school in June and will enter Bates college in the fall.

Eugene Hibbard 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hibbard of Woodstock was operated upon for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital last Sunday.

The Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett of Putnam, as members of the Ladies' Festival Quintette of the Swarthmore Chautauqua, are being featured on the posters and other advertising of that organization. This is their second year on this circuit and they are growing in popular favor.

They spent their holiday vacation at their home here and then went to Swarthmore where they took part in an entertainment under the auspices of the Women's club. This year the Misses Bartlett are on the W. A. circuit which takes them to cities in Marvland and Delaware, after a month in Pennsylvania. The Quintette gave a portion of the programme at the Players' Club Revue in Swarthmore last Monday night. It was in the nature of a dress rehearsal for them and it is reported they took the audience by storm. The season began last Wednesday.

WILL TAKE THREE WEEKS TO DISTRIBUTE BANK CHECKS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Putnam, Jan. 15.—Checks for the first dividend, amounting to 40 per cent., to depositors and other claimants of the First National bank were received this morning from Washington by Receiver George M. Coffin, and the distribution of them will begin on Saturday afternoon of this week, Jan. 17, at 1 o'clock. They number 3,439 and their amounts aggregate $657,187.49.

It will be necessary for depositors and other creditors to go to the bank building in person in order to secure them, as a voucher and receipt have to be signed first. As it is estimated that not more than 200 can be given out in a day it will be about two weeks for the work of distribution is completed. Everything possible will be done to make it as comfortable and convenient as possible for those who may have to wait in line while vouchers, etc., are being signed. The distribution will be resumed at 9 o'clock Monday and continue after banking hours and during the evening, and if physical endurance will permit this same schedule will prevail until the last check is called for. But the person to whom the check is due can be assured that the check will be there when called for.

George M. Coffin, the receiver, has given out the following statement:

"The receiver of the First National bank of Putnam announces that he has received from Washington 3,439 checks, representing a first dividend of forty per cent. on proven claims of $1,642,968.52. The checks will disburse to creditors the sum of $657,187.49. They will be ready for distribution at the First National building at 1 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, Jan. 17.

"As it will be a physical impossibility to distribute so large a number of these checks in one day the receiver hopes and requests that creditors will govern themselves accordingly."

L. A. W. CORPORATION SHOWS PROSPEROUS YEAR IN 1924

Putnam, Jan. 15.—The fourth annual meeting of stockholders of the L. A. W. Acceptance corporation was held at its Putnam office, Jan. 13, at which time the following officers and directors were elected: Louis A. Wolfe, president, Worcester, Mass.; L. M. Carpenter, chairman of the board, Jewett City; J. F. Carpenter, vice president, Putnam; Dr. Elijah S. Burdsall, second vice president, Norwich; Thomas J. Howarth, Putnam, secretary and assistant treasurer; Maurice Friedman, Norwich, assistant secretary; C. A. Thompson, Worcester, Mass.; Raymond Jodoin, Baltic; John F. Lewis, Danielson; H. B. Chapman, Plainfield; Simon Kaminsky, Putnam.

Although the year 1924 was somewhat subnormal by reason of industrial conditions with which the public in general is familiar, the annual report of the treasurer showed the corporation to have made large profits during 1924 and to have earned a substantial amount of money to be added to its already comfortable surplus.

The annual audit showed the total outstanding of notes purchased and held by the corporation, as of December 31, 1924, approximately $35,000, of which less than $1,000 was as much as 30 days past due. This is considered a remarkable record and reflects the conservative and aggressive executive management of the corporation's affairs.

The regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock for the first quarter of 1925 was declared payable April 1, and in addition a dividend of $1 per share for the year 1924 was declared on the common stock payable in 7 per cent preferred stock April 1, 1925. This puts the units, in which the corporation has issued its shares, on a regular 8 per cent basis to the investor.

One important act of the board of directors was to authorize a life insurance policy on the life of the president, Louis A. Wolfe, in the sum of $100,000 to be paid to the corporation at his demise. This move is in keeping with the more or less general practice among large corporations who find it expedient to protect their credit, and indirectly the stockholders' interests, by means of insurance on the lives of the most important officials.

It was the consensus of opinion of the board members that 1925 will record fast and healthy progress in the corporation's affairs and that earnings should be substantially larger than any year in the company's history.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

John M. Larned of Stafford street has been appointed one of the assistant superintendents at the state capitol in Hartford.

Walter Murray, U. S. N., is home from Newark, N. J., on a few days' furlough.

Richard Dupre, U. S. N., is home from Boston for a brief furlough.

At the annual meeting of the First National bank of Stafford Springs Tuesday afternoon, directors were elected as follows: Christopher Allen, Robert W. Smith, Willis H. Reed, Freeman F. Patten, A. P. Mitchell, William Park, Charles B. Pinney, R. T. Jones and F. G. Sanford. The directors re-elected the following officers: President, F. F. Patten; vice president, A. P. Mitchell; cashier, F. G. Sanford.

A stubborn fire at the plant of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company on the river road, Wednesday night did considerable damage to the machinery before it was under control. Recent alterations and enlargements have been made and new machinery has been installed but these were not damaged much. The fire started in the cellar and it is thought that it started from a blow torch or stove. The alarm was rung in at 6.30 and the Stafford Springs fire department responded promptly and it took about two hours to get the fire under control. The lights in the borough went out immediately after the alarm and the Springs section of the town was in darkness until after nine o'clock. The high tension wires were tapped and the light were then turned on. The power was on as usual Thursday morning and the quick and efficient service rendered by the lighting company and its employes was very much appreciated.

The funeral of Edwin M. Whiton, 71, who died in Hampton, Mass., last Saturday, was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Stevens on Prospect street Monday afternoon. Rev. Charles H. Puffer of the Universalist church officiated and burial was in the Stafford Springs cemetery.

Mr. Whiton leaves two daughters, Mrs. Alfred H. Matthews of Terryville and Mrs. George Stevens of Stafford Springs and one sister, Mrs. Julia Amidon of Westford.

Superintendent Brick has already received 12 applications for the principalship of the Stafford High school to be vacated by Philip H. Dow Feb. 1st.

John P. Brown and R. A. Booth of the HoRow are attending the annual session of the Connecticut State Grange in Hartford this week.

There is nothing better than a cheap phonograph for starting undesirable callers on the homeward path.

GALES FERRY

The January meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held at the home of the vice president, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Hurlbutt was chairman of the program and the meeting opened with hymn, The Call, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt at the piano. Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt conducted the devotions. The secretary, Mrs. Fanny A. Mollrop, and treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Colver, gave their reports, which were approved. A piano duet, Revel of the Goblins, was rendered by Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and Miss Ethel Main; recitation, Song of the Pennies, by little Ruth Hurlbutt, followed by Mite Box Song, Mrs. George Smith Brown at the piano. The fourth chapter in the study book, Adventures in Brotherhood, was read by members alternately who impersonated teachers, Mrs. C. E. Colver, Mrs. Bertha Hoyt, Mrs. D. C. Perkins, Miss Sarah T. Latimer, Miss Alice Satterlee, Mrs. Molthrop and Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt. A social hour followed, and the hostess served chicken sandwiches, cake, cocoa and candy. The Misses Laura McGuire, Ethel Main and Edna Chapman assisted in serving.

Noyes B. Allyn, promoter and collector for a permanent fund for the Methodist Episcopal church of Gales Ferry, starting this fund 19 years ago last August, has issued the following statement covering the work of last year: The number of gifts in 1924 was 570, and the amount of money given $300. Mr. Allyn, who passed his 86th birthday anniversary last September, has been assisted during the past six months by ten collectors in the several sections about Gales Ferry. The assistant collectors and amounts collected by them has been announced as follows: Mrs. Avery Main $5.45, Mrs. J. Edmund Norman $5.60, Mrs. D. C. Perkins $43.70, D. C. Perkins $22.50, Miss Sarah T. Latimer $16.35, Mrs. Lucy B. Hempstead $15.55, Mrs. Nelson Parker $8, Mrs. John Harold $1.35, Mrs. P. L. Norman $1.75, Mrs. Emma S. Bennett $2.50; total $122.20. Donations to the fund, which have ranged from one cent to $150 by an individual, and $250 by a family during the 19 years of the persistent effort and zeal on the part of Mr. Allyn, amounted to $3,442 on Jan. 1, 1925.

The Long Cove auxiliary of the Ladies' Aid society of the Gales Ferry M. E. church held their Wednesday afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred W. Turner of that place, with a good attendance. The work was on a bedquilt.

Miss Mabel Peckham, who has been spending the holidays and some time with her brother, Preston Peckham, in Jamestown, R. I., and other relatives in Providence, returned to the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Justin H. Peckham, of the Breakwater, Wednesday.

The condition of Harmon L. Perkins, who has been in failing health at his home here for some months, became more serious the past week.

LEFFINGWELL

Mrs. Justine Bedat of Maple street, Norwich, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bedat.

Miss Ruth Lathrop of Bean Hill was a week end guest of Miss Mildred F. Leffingwell.

Mrs. N. E. Whiting was in charge of the Ladies' Aid society supper held in the church vestry Tuesday evening. The menu consisted of escalloped potato, cold sliced beef, pickles, rolls, coffee and pie. Games were played by the young people and everyone enjoyed a pleasant social hour.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Announcement was made Thursday morning that the Danielson Rod and Gun club offers a reward of $100 to any person or persons who bring about the arrest and conviction of any person or persons found guilty of setting snares and distributing poison that might be picked up by dogs or other animals, this applying to the town of Killingly. This is the club's first step to stop a dastardly practice that has grown to such proportions as to be alarming, at least to owners of valuable hunting dogs, and even those who have dogs for pets, for as many or more dogs are caught in snares or poisoned as there are foxes or deer caught by devilish devices that the laws of the state have declared illegal.

The reward was offered by the club through a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the organization Wednesday evening. The club will follow up this offer with an active effort through its membership to stop snaring and poison distribution in this territory. It can be done with the proper co-operation of the more than 200 members who make up the club, and the many others whose sympathy and assistance they will have in a laudable campaign.

In electing its officers for the ensuing year the club named L. S. Ingalls as president, Frederick E. Bitgood as vice president, Richard D. Banigan as secretary-treasurer, and Elijah H. Berriman as field captain. The board of directors is made up of R. D. Banigan, Harold B. Atwood, L. S. Ingalls, E. H. Berriman, F. E. Bitgood, Dr. F. P. Todd, William M. Franklin, Charles Franklin, E. L. Perry, Armand Heasult and Ira A. Warren.

The club's committees are as follows: Executive, Sidney H. Perry, L. S. Ingalls, William M. Franklin, E. H. Berriman, Charles Franklin; membership, A. P. Burns, Joseph Miller, George LaBelle, Dana Shippee, Fred Swan; grounds, Charles Franklin, Sidney Perry, James Moran; handicap, E. H. Berriman, Dr. F. P. Todd, George Nuttall; entertainment, James Moran, Charles Franklin, John B. Bassett, E. H. Berriman, William Franklin; game, William M. Franklin, Armand Heneault. Fred Swan, James Moran, Charles Franklin; rifle, Ira A. Warren, Charles W. Hale; legislative, L. S. Ingalls, George Ide, R. D. Banigan.

The legislative committee will keep in touch with the state fish and game commission and the legislature during the present session, carefully scrutinizing proposed laws and possibly offering some bills in the interest of the organization it represents.

Scores of people hereabouts have it figured out that they have just another week to live if the worst they apprehend befalls them, though they figure in any event that something terrible is going to happen to them. It is well within the bounds of possibility that some people will die in the community within the next eight days, but it is extremely unlikely that the total eclipse of the sun a week from tomorrow morning will have anything to do with their passing.

The coming eclipse is what has them all stirred up, however. Questioned as to the basis of their fears, they are entirely vague as to what causes their apprehension, but they are just plumb scared, nevertheless. They admit they are not afraid of a sunset nor the gradual coming of darkness that follows it, but point to you that total eclipses of the sun happen in any given locality only once in two or three centuries, and the thing is so unusual that it must be unusual, or something to that effect.

All of which leads to the setting forth here that there are lots of people who do not expect anything to happen to them during the period of the eclipse, and, firm in their faith that they will be here after it is over, stand as willing prospective recipients of any gifts of property, real or personal, jewels and such like, that those who fear they are going to pass will have no furter use for, should their fears be realized.

Steps have been taken to acquaint Supt. J. W. Titcomb of the state fish and game organization with conditions existing in towns in this section of eastern Connecticut as to setting snares and the distribution of deadly poisons along fox runs. Men who are doing these things are commercial hunters—mercenaries—and a determined effort to get them is anticipated. Among other things to be done will be the filing of a request for increased penalties for the setters of snares; that they may be adequately punished once they are apprehended.

Many in this vicinity read with interest of a profit in excess of $8,000 made by the Stafford fair last fall. It is suggested that expansion of the Brooklyn fair, oldest established in America, might make the same splendid result possible. Brooklyn is rightly situated to make it possible.

A news item says that there are 550 makes of automobiles, and it may be added there are 499 kinds of one variety of them in the town of Killingly.

"I am going to buy a blue suit to match my feelings," remarked one of the most successful of Danielson's business men when he was having a gray hour Thursday; but he didn't mean it.

The Cloud Digger hasn't said it, but there is a weather prophet here who predicts that there will be plenty of rain after the solar eclipse of Jan. 24.

There is nothing like getting enthusiastic. At a recent party this idea was born: "Let's put all the tables together and split the checks"

The public will buy if it is tempted enough. There was evidence of this here Thursday when the Appreciation day advertising of Danielson's businessmen appeared. Eager buyers were on hand for a rst pick of specials reserved for Saturday only.

Those who can be prompt with all things are now engaged here with making out their income tax returns. Others who ar not so prompt have until March 15 to attend to this matter.

Fishermen in this territory are losing much of their enthusiasm. The ice is getting too thick to make chopping holes appear to be a part of an enjoyable outing.

Thursday was, in the early morning, one of the coldest of those produced by the current January. Here in the borough thermometers showed readings down to 2 above zero.

John F. Lewis of this place was elected a director of the L. A. W. corporation at the annual meeting of the organization held in Putnam on Tuesday of this week.

ARRESTED IN MAINE FOR PLAINFIELD BREAK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Jan. 15.—A press despatch out of Portland, Me., Thursday morning told of the arrest in that city of one Philip Owens, 19, on a charge of "breaking into an oil station at Danielson, Conn."

Owens' arrest apparently clears up, insofar as arrested persons are concerned, a break at Burdick's filling station in Plainfield on Dec. 1, at about 2 a. m. Somehow a confusion of facts in Thursday's despatch placed the break at Danielson.

Owens is the third youth to be arrested for the break in question. His two companions were arrested some time since at Bath, Me., in which city they stole a Reo car on Nov. 21 of last year, and arrived in this territory with it some ten days later.

Their escapade at the Burdick filling station in Plainfield was brought about by the fact that the car ran out of gasoline and was in need of lubricating oil. They had forced their way into the filling station building and had removed a can of oil when dogs in the Burdick home near by began to bark. This aroused the filling station owner and on getting up to let out the dogs he becam aware that something unusual was under way. The lights in the filling station can be switched on from the house and when they were turned on the trio of youths fled, abandoning their car, which later was taken back to Bath by the owner.

State police from the Danielson barracks investigated the case and were gratified to learn during the past month or two of the youths implicated in the affair. This pair were arrested in Maine, as was Owens, another Maine youth, the last to be taken to answer for his part in the affair that brought the group into this territory.

Largest Nugget

The largest nugget of gold ever dug up was one known as the "Welcome" nugget, which was found at Bakery Hill, Ballarat, Australia, in 1856. Its weight was 2,217 ounces, and it was sold for $50,000.

If you don't believe that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach," just feed him chicken fried in Snowdrift—and see.

Charles Berzuk was put on trial in superior court Thursday charged with violations of the liquor laws. There were six counts on the complaint: First, that on Nov. 13, 1924 he had two quarts of alcohol in his possession with intent to sell; second, that on Nov. 13, he sold a quart of alcohol to John Andrews for $4; third, on Nov. 13, he sold a quart to Leon Vionski; fourth, on Nov. 1, selling Arthur Turgeon two quarts for $4.50; fifth, on Nov. 20 selling Arthur Turgeon one quart for $2.25; on Nov. 20, with illegal transportation of liquor.

The trial is to a jury. After the jurors weresworn and Berzuk pleaded not guilty Judge Jennings announced that owing to the failure of the witnesses to arrive a recess would be taken until 2 o'clock. The court room was crowded at both sessions, in the afternoon there were twenty or thirty women among the spectators

Eric H. Johnson assisted State's Attorney Searls in the prosecution and Charles L. Torrey and George Shehan of Providence represented the defendant.

The only witnesses examined during the afternoon were John Andrews and Leon Vionski, detectives employed by the Bridgeman Agency at Hartford. They told about the same story that they did when Berzuk was presented in city court two weeks ago. They were sent here to try and "get sales" on people. Andrews testified that on November 13 he had bought a quart of alcohol from Berzuk in his store on Main street. The most of it was drunk then by the detectives, Mr. and Mrs. Berzuk and two other men. A small amount was put into a bottle which the witness sealed and delivered to his office. It was offered in evidence.

Leon Vinoski told practically the same story, except that on November 13 he and Andrews went to Berzuk's and the former bought a quart, paying $4.

Both witnesses were sharply cross examined but they adhered to the statements made in their direct testimony and were not shaken on any material point. In reply to a question by Mr. Shehan Vinoski as to how many places he had visited on November 12, and whether he had not taken numerous drinks during the day, he said that he could not recall the number.

At the close of the cross-examination court adjourned until next Tuesday morning.

The jurors of the superior court were called Wednesday morning but as the trial of the New Haven employes was settled by the men pleading guilty they were excused until Thursday morning.

The jurors are: F. Louis Hall, Windham; Joseph Rivard, Putnam; Howard Goodwin, Ashford; Clinton E. Frink, Canterbury; Charles E. Howe, Chaplin; John Lewis, Hampton; Walter R. Fiske, Irving W. Davis, Killingly; Irving F. Palmer, Plainfield; F. H. Payne, George Platt, Pomfret; C. F. Gager, Scotland; George H. Gallup, Sterling; John Blake, Thompson; Frank Johnson, George Clarke, W. A. Howard, Woodstock.

The W. C. T. U. will meet in the community room of the Saving Bank this (Friday) afternoon at 3 p. m.

Ralph W. Bowen has been elected vice president of the Rhode Island Hospital Thust company, the oldest trust company in New England and one of the largest and most influential banking houses in the state.

Mr. Bowen is well known in Putnam having spent several weeks here during the organization of the Citizens National bank, assisting and directing in that work, and has been an occasional visitor since then.

He was the assistant secretary of the trust company and his election to a vice presidency is a marked recognition of his ability. His exceptional gifts as a banker was illustrated here in his direction of the steps to be taken by the new bank in perfecting its organization and getting under way. The announcement of his election was made at the meeting of the stockholders of the Citizens Bank Tuesday and was greeted with applause by the officials and others who came in contact with him while here.

There will be a meeting of the Quinebaug chapter, D. A. R., in the High School Auditorium Monday afternoon, January 19th, at 3.30. A full attendance is desired as plans for the year's work will be announced and committees appointed. After the business meeting there will be an entertainment, social hour and refreshments.

The Mechanicsville Athletic association will play the Towerville Tigers of Woonsocket, R. I., January 22, at the Tourtelotte Memorial High School, North Grosvenordale.

School Superintendent R. C. Jenkins was in New Haven Wednesday attending a boys' work conference of the thirteenth district of Rotary International, as the delegate from the Putnam Rotary club. The programme for the day included a banquet, speaking, discussions, visits to boys' clubs and a theatre party.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Meyers leave today (Friday) for a two weeks' visit with relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Steers of Georgiaville spent the week end with Mrs. Steere's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Austin, of Woodstock avenue.

Miss Nellie Weston, superintendent of the hospital of the Odd Fellows' home at Worcester is the guest Rev. and Mrs. N. B. Burton of Grove street.

Miss Annie Sullivan of Bullock street is recovering at the Day Kimball hospital from an appendicitis operation.

Judge and Mrs. Frank R. Russell and daughter, Miss Constance, left on Monday night for Florida. They will visit in Jacksonville and several other places and will be gone for several weeks.

Mrs. Thomas Baker of Woodstock is in at the Day Kimball hospital with pneumonia. She is the mother of Rev. Henry Baker.

Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich will be at the Day Kimball hospital next Tuesday, January 21, to consult with any one who may wish to see him.

Stanley Leville, a student at the Tourtelotte High school at North Grosvenordale, has received a scholarship at Bates college at Lowiston, Maine. Stanley will graduate from the Tourtelotte High school in June and will enter Bates college in the fall.

Eugene Hibbard, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hibbard of Woodstock was operated upon for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital last Sunday.

The Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett of Putnam, as members of the Ladies' Festival Quintette of the Swarthmore Chautauqua, are being featured on the posters and other advertising of that organization. This is their second year on this circuit and they are growing in popular favor.

They spent their holiday vacataion at their home here and then went to Swarthmore where they took part in an entertainment under the auspices of the Women's club. This year the Misses Bartlett are on the W. A. circuit which takes them to cities in Marvland and Delaware, after a month in Pennsylvania. The Quintette gave a portion of the programme at the Players' Club Revue in Swarthmore last Monday night. It was in the nature of a dress rehearsal for them and it is reported they took the audience by storm. The season began last Wednesday.

WILL TAKE THREE WEEKS TO DISTRIBUTE BANK CHECKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Jan. 15.—Checks for the first dividend, amounting to 40 per cent., to depositors and other claimants of the First National bank were received this morning from Washington by Receiver George M. Coffin, and the distribution of them will begin on Saturday afternoon of this week, Jan. 17, at 1 o'clock. They number 3,439 and their amounts aggregate $657,187.49.

It will be necessary for depositors and other creditors to go to the bank building in person in order to secure them, as a voucher and receipt have to be signed first. As it is estimated that not more than 200 can be given out in a day it will be about two weeks for the work of distribution is completed. Everything possible will be done to make it as comfortable and convenient as possible for those who may have to wait in line while vouchers, etc., are being signed. The distribution will be resumed at 9 o'clock Monday and continue after banking hours and during the evening, and if physical endurance will permit this same schedule will prevail until the last check is called for. But the person to whom the check is due can be assured that the check will be there when called for.

George M. Coffin, the receiver, has given out the following statement:

"The receiver of the First National bank of Putnam announces that he has received from Washington 3,439 checks representing a first dividend of forty per cent. on proven claims of $1,642,968.52. The checks will disburse to creditors the sum of $657,187.49. They will be ready for distribution at the First National building at 1 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, Jan. 17.

"As it will be a physical impossibility to distribute so large a number of these checks in one day the receiver hopes and requests that creditors will govern themselves accordingly."

L. A. W. CORPORATION SHOWS PROSPEROUS YEAR IN 1924

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Jan. 15.—The fourth annual meeting of stockholders of the L. A. W. Acceptance corporation was held at its Putnam office, Jan. 13, at which time the following officers and directors were elected: Louis A. Wolfe, president, Worcester, Mass.; L. M. Carpenter, chairman of the board, Jewett City; J. F. Carpenter, vice president, Putnam; Dr. Elijah S. Burdsall, second vice president, Norwich; Thomas J. Howarth, Putnam, secretary and assistant treasurer; Maurice Friedman, Norwich, assistant secretary; C. A. Thompson, Worcester, Mass.; Raymond Jodoin, Baltic; John F. Lewis, Danielson; H. B. Chapman, Plainfield; Simon Kaminsky, Putnam.

Although the year 1924 was somewhat subnormal by reason of industrial conditions with which the public in general is familiar, the annual report of the treasurer showed the corporation to have made large profits during 1924 and to have earned a substantial amount of money to be added to its already comfortable surplus.

The annual audit showed the total outstanding of notes purchased and held by the corporation, as of December 31, 1924, approximately $35,000, of which less than $1,000 was as much as 30 days past due. This is considered a remarkable record and reflects the conservative and aggressive executive management of the corporation's affairs.

The regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock for the first quarter of 1925 was declared payable April 1, and in addition a dividend of $1 per share for the year 1924 was declared on the common stock payable in 7 per cent preferred stock April 1, 1925. This puts the units, in which the corporation has issued its shares, on a regular 8 per cent basis to the investor.

One important act of the board of directors was to authorize a life insurance policy on the life of the president, Louis A. Wolfe, in the sum of $100,000 to be paid to the corporation at his demise. This move is in keeping with the more or less general practice among large corporations who find it expedient to protect their credit and indirectly the stockholders' interests by means of insurance on the lives of the most important officials.

It was the consensus of opinion of the board members that 1925 will record fast and healthy progress in the corporation's affairs and that earnings should be substantially larger than any year in the company's history.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

John M. Larned of Stafford street has been appointed one of the assistant superintendents at the state capitol in Hartford.

Walter Murray, U. S. N., is home from Newark, N. J., on a few days' furlough.

Richard Dupre, U. S. N., is home from Boston for a brief furlough.

At the annual meeting of the First National bank of Stafford Springs Tuesday afternoon, directors were elected as follows: Christopher Allen, Robert W. Smith, Willis H. Reed, Freeman F. Patten, A. P. Mitchell, William Park, Charles B. Pinney, R. T. Jones and F. G. Sanford. The directors re-elected the following officers: President, F. F. Patten; vice president, A. P. Mitchell; cashier, F. G. Sanford.

A stubborn fire at the plant of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company on the river road, Wednesday night did considerable damage to the machinery before it was under control. Recent alterations and enlargements have been made and new machinery has been installed but these were not damaged much. The fire started in the cellar and it is thought that it started from a blow torch or stove. The alarm was rung in at 6.30 and the Stafford Springs fire department responded promptly and it took about two hours to get the fire under control. The lights in the borough went out immediately after the alarm and the Springs section of the town was in darkness until after nine o'clock. The high tension wires were tapped and the light were then turned on. The power was on as usual Thursday morning and the quick and efficient service rendered by the lighting company and its employes was very much appreciated.

The funeral of Edwin M. Whiton, 71, who died in Hampton, Mass., last Saturday, was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Stevens on Prospect street Monday afternoon. Rev. Charles H. Puffer of the Universalist church officiated and burial was in the Stafford Springs cemetery.

Mr. Whiton leaves two daughters, Mrs. Alfred H. Matthews of Terryville and Mrs. George Stevens of Stafford Springs and one sister, Mrs. Julia Amidon of Westford.

Superintendent Brick has already received 13 applications for the principalship of the Stafford High school to be vacated by Philip H. Dow Feb. 1st.

John P. Brown and R. A. Booth of the HoNow are attending the annual session of the Connecticut State Grange in Hartford this week.

There is nothing better than a cheap phonograph for starting undesirable callers on the homeward path.

GALES FERRY

The January meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held at the home of the vice president, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Hurlbutt was chairman of the program and the meeting opened with hymn, The Call, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt at the piano. Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt conducted the devotions. The secretary, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop, and treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Colver, gave their reports, which were approved. A piano duet, Revel of the Goblins, was rendered by Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and Miss Ethel Main; recitation, Song of the Pennies, by little Ruth Hurlbutt, followed by Mite Box Song, Mrs. George Smith Brown at the piano. The fourth chapter in the study book, Adventures in Brotherhood, was read by members alternately who impersonated teachers, Mrs. C. E. Colver, Mrs. Bertha Hoyt, Mrs. D. C. Perkins, Miss Sarah T. Latimer, Miss Alice Satterlee, Mrs. Molthrop and Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt. A social hour followed, and the hostess served chicken sandwiches, cake, cocoa and candy. The Misses Laura McGuire, Ethel Main and Edna Chapman assisted in serving.

Noyes B. Allyn, promoter and collector for a permanent fund for the Methodist Episcopal church of Gales Ferry, starting this fund 19 years ago last August, has issued the following statement covering the work of last year: The number of gifts in 1834 was 570, and the amount of money given $300. Mr. Allyn, who passed his 86th birthday anniversary last September, has been assisted during the past six months by ten collectors in the several sections about Gales Ferry. The assistant collectors and amounts collected by them has been announced as follows: Mrs. Avery Main $5.25, Mrs. J. Edmund Norman $5.60, Mrs. D. C. Perkins $43.70, D. C. Perkins $22.50, Miss Sarah T. Latimer $16.35, Mrs. Lucy B. Hempstead $15.55, Mrs. Nelson Parker $8, Mrs. John Harold $1.25, Mrs. P. L. Norman $1.75, Mrs. Emma S. Bennett $2.50; total $122.30. Donations to the fund, which have ranged from one cent to $150 by an individual, and $250 by a family during the 19 years of the persistent effort and zeal on the part of Mr. Allyn, amounted to $3,442 on Jan. 1, 1925.

The Long Cove auxiliary of the Ladies' Aid society of the Gales Ferry M. E. church held their Wednesday afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred W. Turner of that place, with a good attendance. The work was on a bedquilt.

Miss Mabel Peckham, who has been spending the holidays and some time with her brother, Preston Peckham, in Jamestown, R. I., and other relatives in Providence, returned to the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Justin H. Peckham, of the Breakwater, Wednesday.

The condition of Harmon L. Perkins, who has been in failing health at his home here for some months, became more serious the past week.

LEFFINGWELL

Mrs. Justine Bedat of Maple street, Norwich, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bedat.

Miss Ruth Latinrop of Bean Hill was a week end guest of Miss Mildred F. Leffingwell.

Mrs. N. E. Whiting was in charge of the Ladies' Aid society supper held in the church vestry Tuesday evening. The menu consisted of escalloped potato, cold sliced beef, pickles, rolls, coffee and pie. Games were played by the young people and everyone enjoyed a pleasant social hour.

Miss Katherine Goldberg is confined in her home by illness.

SENATE AND MUSCLE SHOALS.

It required some time for the senate to get anywhere in regard to Muscle Shoals, but after much sparring it has made progress to the point of giving its approval to the amended Underwood bill. This shows the opposition to government operation and its support of the idea of leasing the plant to the best advantage. It likewise is against any further wait in regard to the utilization of its advantages and gives consideration to its use for power as well as nitrate purposes.

The senate went all around Robin Hood's barn before it got anywhere. It indicated for a time that most any proposition could get approval for the time being, but when it came to taking a definite stand it expressed itself as it was indicated it would some days ago when the Underwood measure was seen to stand in much more favor than the Norris proposition.

While the house has expressed itself favorably to the Ford offer, the fact that such has been withdrawn leaves it without having taken action on the Underwood bill, or in fact any bill that is now before congress. Muscle Shoals must therefore run the gauntlet of the house again, but with the fact understood that it has already declared itself disposed to dismiss the plant to private capital and for a much longer period than is involved under the Underwood plan. It would therefore seem to be so similar in nature to what it has already approved that there would be no great delay in getting action along the lines followed by the senate.

It has been said that Mr. Ford is out of the field of aspirants for the plant. The withdrawal of his offer strengthens that belief, but with congress definitely setting forth the terms under which it is to be leased and making bids there appears to be nothing to prevent Mr. Ford from bidding with the rest, and no one knows but what his bid may be the highest. Perhaps he and congress can be better satisfied through such a course. Certainly the senate has indicated that it will be.

STOPPING CRIME.

Massachusetts is applauding the action of a judge in the superior court in dealing with a self confessed gunman and robber. No little terror has been created in eastern Massachusetts because of the operation of such individuals, and circumstances have been such as to call for punishment that would have its good effect not only upon the individual sought but upon any and all others engaged or disposed to engage in that kind of activity.

Indicted for three robberies, the accused pleaded guilty and upon the recommendation of the district attorney was given a sentence of 25 to 40 years in state prison. That is an unusual punishment, but as has been pointed out it is required by present day conditions. Leniency has been in vogue for too long. The impression has been gained that law enforcement is growing weaker, that respect for law is not insisted upon and that when there are violations of the law it is easy to get around the law and the courts and escape with little or no punishment.

What is apparently needed, and what is evidently recognized to a certain extent by some of the Massachusetts authorities, is firmer stand in behalf of law and order and less leniency for those engaged in crime.

For a considerable period of time the registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts has been endeavoring to get the courts to do their part in the enforcement of the laws. He has been making a much needed fight in behalf of greater highway safety, but strange as it may seem he gets far more support than the record of conditions on the highways warrant.

Let it be demonstrated by the action of the courts that there are real penalties attached to criminal acts and they will get more serious attention from those for whom penalties are intended. The endorsement of the sentence imposed upon the young Massachusetts robber indicates the attitude of the people of that state regarding such cases. When it becomes a general practice the best results will be obtained.

SHORTSIGHTED POLICY.

In recognition of the merits of hydro-electric plants and their advantages in providing cheaper power and meeting the fuel situation, much has been expected from the opportunities for development which lie in Canada. Waterpower is going to waste in great quantities every day because it is not harnessed. The situation is no worse than at many points in this country, except that it be the waste on a much larger scale in Canada because the waterpower is available in greater quantity there. The great resources haven't been tapped and there is no telling how soon they will be if the policy which is advocated by the premier of Quebec is followed.

Following the discovery of the means of sending electric current over long distances, plans were made for the development of power plants on the rivers and streams of that province. It was understood that it would not be possible to dispose of it all in Canada, but the demand for it in this country, and especially New England, is such that there would be no difficulty in finding a market for it. The premier of Quebec doesn't fall in with the idea. He is for saving all such power for Canada. He says it would not be possible to sell it to others until Canada might want it and then stop the delivery to this country. He advocates this plan in spite of the fact that he knows the power is now going to waste, will continue to do so for many years to come and there is no telling whether Canadian demand will be such as to use all that can be produced on the Canadian streams.

This policy simply means the insistence upon waste. What the Quebec legislature will say to it is not indicated. Perhaps it will be impressed by the demand for continued waste, but it must be looked upon as a short sighted policy. It not only stands in the way of those who can make good use of such electric current but it blocks much development that might otherwise be attracted to Canada. If followed it will keep much capital out of the dominion.

MARINES RECALLED.

Coupled with the news that the American marines are coming home from Nicaragua is the statement that this government may soon extend the recognition which has been withheld for some time. Both of these announcements indicate a marked improvement in conditions in that Central American republic, a change for the better for which other nations will be pleased and in which it must be recognized that this government has played no small part.

American marines haven't been maintained in Managua, the capital of Nicaragua because this country was imposing hardships upon that republic and taking this method of enforcement. Marines have been kept there for the good of Nicaragua. Our purpose has been wholly altruistic. When Nicaragua was unable to control itself the stabilization of conditions in that republic was much needed. For the good of Nicaragua the marines were sent there. Their influence has been beneficial and our good services is appreciated by those who have the welfare of the country at heart. Perhaps this cannot be indicated in any better way than the expressed desire to have the marines remain.

Those who insist that there never should have been any interference on the part of this government with conditions in Nicaragua would probably welcome the return of revolutionary tactics and the type of a government that could not insure protection to representatives of other government within its borders. Nicaragua may be far from having an ideal government, but there is satisfaction that conditions are better than when marines were landed there. It is impossible to hide the belief that this improvement is due in part at least to our policy of working for peaceful conditions.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

Last October there was much speculation as to what would happen if there was not a majority in the electoral college and what would happen if the national election should be thrown into congress. Hours were spent figuring out the possibilities and studying the situation from the many angles. Because of the three-cornered contest there was more thought given to the activity of the electoral college than is usually the case.

From the interest taken in its session this week, however, one would never suppose it was the same electoral college that was so much before the people a few months ago. On Monday those chosen to vote in it by the people met and cast their ballots for president and vice president. It had been so definitely decided what the people wanted, and therefore how the presidential electors from the various states were going to vote, that the formality of actually voting for the different presidential candidates passed with slight attention.

Just what the result of that balloting is is not known. The electors are morally bound to vote as those who elected them indicated by their ballots. That they have done so is not doubted, but it is impossible to overlook the contrast that exists in the actual session of the electoral college and that which had been forecasted by some of the pre-election calling and fears. The election of course was the reason for it, and the electors have been guided by the orders received then.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

What success are you having in the saving of city water?

This is, of course, an excellent time for the study of the attractive seed catalogues.

The resumption of fighting in China indicates that it must have stopped raining.

A New Jersey woman started a fire with gasoline and seven were burned to death. Next!

The fact that there are 3,000,000 starving in Korea doesn't relieve the situation for the Maine potato raisers.

The man on the corner says: Possibly economy will become as far reaching as the crossword puzzle craze.

Mr. Coolidge isn't refraining from picking his cabinet members just because the electoral college vote awaits counting and tabulation.

President Coolidge sets forth that the economy programme includes the elimination of expensive pomp at the inauguration ceremony. He knows the money can be put to better use elsewhere.

When Senator La Follette arranges to go to Florida for the rest of the winter he apparently figures that congress can get along without him. It must be regarded as giving it a chance to do something.

BEING ECONOMICAL

"I tried to be very saving this year," sighed Loretta wearily. "But I am never going to do it again. Next year I am going to be just as extravagant as I possibly can. So there!"

"Gracious, but you sound fierce!" exclaimed her brother. "May I inquire just what has happened to make you express yourself thus?"

"Maybe you remember that blue coat of mine?" Loretta said. "Anyhow, even if you don't, the fact remains that I had an old blue coat."

"The blue coat I remember was really quite new," said her brother. "You bought it only recently."

"Recently!" sniffed Loretta. "Anybody'd think you'd been married ten years, you talk so like a husband!"

"And how do you know how husbands talk?" asked her brother with a chuckle. "All the husbands you see are on their best behavior when you're around."

"Well, anyway, I had an old blue coat," continued Loretta. "And I was going to present it to the laundress to use in making over for her little girl, when I had the brilliant inspiration to have it made over for myself. So, I took it to the tailor and he was quite enthusiastic about it. The style had changed enough in three years to let him make it over into one of those new 'fitted-in' backs; that look so nice. So I told him to go ahead and he promised to charge a very small amount.

"He really turned out a very nice-looking coat and his price was quite reasonable. The only trouble was that it was made so close-fitting in new places that I found I could not wear my blue dress under it. I've had that dress a year, but I thought it could be freshened up and make me a good winter gown for common, what used to be called a back dress.

"And now that we don't ride in hacks," her brother suggested, "I suppose you call it a taxi dress."

"I took the dress to the dressmaker, but she shook her head over it from the start," Loretta went on. "She said it was so cut up in funny ways that it would be impossible to do anything with it, so I decided to keep it for a morning house frock and I went down into a department store basement and picked up a really pretty blue dress that looked very well under that coat.

"I have the gray hat I wore last spring still," added Loretta. "And I decided to make it look fresh and new with some blue trimmings. So I sat up till after midnight one night working on it."

"Why the dickens women sit up till midnight sewing on things I can't understand," exclaimed her brother.

"Probably for the same reason that you sit up till 1 struggling with a cross word puzzle," cried Loretta. "Anyhow, I got the hat done and I discovered that it looked perfectly tacky with the coat and dress, so I had to run down and get a new one to go with them. For the fresh gloves I spent some birthday money, for I thought it would make a good costume."

"Gracious," exclaimed her brother, "I bet you look like a million dollars in that outfit. But just where did you begin to economize?"

"I told you," said Loretta patiently. "The coat cost me practically nothing and so I felt that I could get the dress and hat out of the money I saved on the coat. I had planned to have a brown outfit this year but it was much more economical to keep on with the blue, since I had that coat."

"So you got a complete outfit for what a coat would have cost," said her brother admiringly. "I congratulate you! Let me see that wonderful cloak!"

"Well, you see," Loretta said hesitantingly, "That's what I meant about economizing. When I got the things all together I found that the coat looked a little worn in places and I had to go down and get a new coat today."—Chicago News.

Boomer, the Stenographer

When Lucius M. Boomer learned that he must go to work he had to choose a career that might lead to fame, or a bread-and-butter job. His money was limited and he had to act quickly.

Born near Chicago he had attended public school and the University of Chicago. At five he had begun to play the violin and two years afterward he appeared in public entertainments. His father was indulgent and the boy had had little to worry about until his parent died suddenly and left him barely enough money to last two months.

A violin maker offered to send him to Europe to study the violin, but Boomer decided that there was little chance for Americans in that field. By studying stenography night and day he was able to obtain a position, with the prescribed two months, with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at $50 a month. Soon afterward he was making $5 a month but not having learned to save, he faced winter without an overcoat.

After begging a pass from a railroad, he obtained a position as stenographer with a Flagler hotel in Florida, then spent most of the winter in a hospital with typhoid. Next a stock boy in a hotel at Manhattan Beach, N. Y., he accepted a position as bookkeeper in Florida, and then learned through reading how to keep books.

Deciding to be a lawyer, he studied while managing summer resort hotels in Canada and working for the Flagler system, but had to give up the law because of eye trouble. Seeking the position of manager of the Hotel Plaza, in New York, he accepted that of secretary to the manager, but within two years started, in partnership with the Plaza accountant, to manage the Lenox hotel at Boston.

Taking over the Nassau Hotel at Long Beach, N. Y., he found it uncompleted and in financial difficulties, but induced the contractors to continue, and made a success of the venture. This achievement won for him the management of the McAlpin Hotel, at New York. He became president of the company and now, at 45, is president and manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, the New Willard, in Washington and the Bellevue Stratford, in Philadelphia and heads many other companies.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Postcards by Air Mail

Mr. Editor: Why not a special rate for post cards by air mail? A post card weighs only 1-10th (one-tenth) of an ounce. Yet it costs 24c to send it across the continent by air mail.

That is at the rate of $2.40 per ounce, $38.40 per pound, or $76,800.00 per ton.

Post cards are the one class of mail on which the air mail service can make large profits at reduced rates. But this business will not develop until the rates are reduced. They should be cut 75 per cent. Then much correspondence that now goes by slow letter would go by post card via air mail.

The air mail would soon be carrying a billion post cards a year at an average rate of 4c, (two zones), giving a revenue of $40,000,000 a year from postcards alone. The service would expand rapidly, and give us the strength in the air which we need.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Major General Charles P. Summerall, who succeeds Gen. Bullard in command of the 2nd Corps Area, with [illegible] at Governor's Island, is one of the general officers recommended by Gen. Pershing in his final report as Chief of Staff for promotion to the permanent rank of lieutenant general. Gen. Summerall was born in Lake City, Fla., and appointed to West Point from that state in 1888. He was a colonel of artillery when the United States entered the World war. In addition to active participation in the hostilities in France as brigade, division and corps commander, he represented the United States on the inter-Allied mission appointed by the Supreme war council. Upon his return to the United States he commanded the First Division at Camp Taylor Ky and at Camp Dix, N. J. In 1921 he was assigned to command the Hawaiian department, and more recently he has been in command of the Eighth Corps Area, with headquarters at San Antonio.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Reductions This Year

The normal rate of tax under the revenue act of 1924 is 2 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemption, credit for dependents, etc., 4 per cent on the next $4,000 and 6 per cent on the balance. The surtax is a graduated tax upon the net income of any individual in excess of $10,000. The rate of tax begins at 1 per cent of the amount in excess of $10,000, but not in excess of $14,000. Upon incomes of $14,000 there is a tax of $40 with rising graduations until finally the tax is $170,020 upon net incomes of $500,000 and upon net incomes in excess of $500,000 in addition, 40 per cent of such excess. Under the preceding act the normal rates were 4 per cent in the first $4,000 of net income above the exemptions and credits and 8 per cent on the remainder of net income, while the surtax rates ranged from 1 per cent in the amount by which the net income exceeded $6,000 and did not exceed $10,000 to 50 per cent of the amount by which the net income exceeded $200,000.

The revenue act of 1924 contains a special provision for reduced taxes, which did not appear in previous laws. All net income up to the amount of $5,000 is deemed to be earned income. On this amount the taxpayer is entitled to a credit of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax. For example, a taxpayer, unmarried and with no dependents, whose net income for 1924 was $5,000 would pay without this reduction a tax of $80. His actual tax is $60. From his net income of $5,000 he is allowed a personal exemption of $1,000; the tax of 2 per cent on the first $4,000 is $80, one-fourth of which, or $20, may be deducted.

In no case is the earned income considered to be in excess of $10,000. As an instance a taxpayer married and with two dependent children received in 1924 a salary of $12,000. His total tax, including normal and surtax, without the 25 per cent reduction on earned income would amount to $302. However, he may deduct from $10,000, the maximum amount of earned net income, $3,400—a personal exemption of $2,500, plus a $400 credit for each dependent. On the remaining $6,700, his tax amounts to $183—2 per cent on the first $4,000 and 4 per cent on the $2,700. One-fourth of this amount, or $47, deducted from $302 leaves $255 as the amount of tax due.

Another example is that of a married man with no dependents whose salary was $3,000 and who made in a real estate transaction a profit of $4,000. On a net income of $7,000 his tax without the benefit of the 25 per cent reduction, would amount to $106—$7,000 less a personal exemption of $2,500, equalling $4,500, on which the tax on the first $4,000 at 2 per cent is $80 and on the remaining $500 at 4 per cent is $20. But while his net income from salary was only $3,000, the act provides that $5,000 shall be considered as earned income. From $5,000, therefore, is deducted his personal exemption of $2,500, the tax on the remainder at 2 per cent amounting to $50. One-fourth of this amount, or $12.50, may be deducted from $100, leaving $37.50 as the amount due.

Stories That Recall Others

How Many?

He ambled shyly up to the desk in search of a marriage license.

To the clerk he said, "I want to get a marriage license blank?" supposing that was the proper question.

"How many?" asked the clerk.

"One, Do you think I'm a Turk?" he asked.

They Keep Warm, All Right.

A school official on a visit to a rural school was attracted by two robust youngsters, apparently brothers, whose appearance suggested neglect of use of soap and water. Inquiry of the two as to whether they had sufficient food each day brought a very positive affirmative answer. Also the two assured the officer that the fire in the living room of the home was kept burning lively.

"Do you keep warm in bed at night?" was the next question.

"I'll say we do," chirped in the smaller of the two. "We've got a couple of dogs that we sleep with and they keep us warm."

And the older lad assured the officer that his brother was right.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

KILIMANJARO

Kilimanjaro mountain of Tanganyika territory, which has been the object of a recent expedition, is one of the most notable "violent contrasts" in Africa, sometimes termed the continent of "violent contrasts."

"Although Africa spreads itself in both temperate zones," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society, "by whim of geography its only notable snow peaks are under the sun's most direct glare and, of its high spots near the Equator, Kilimanjaro is chief.

"Kilimanjaro was unknown to the world a century ago, and unscaled until 1889, but now a railway from Mombasa approaches its flanks. In its way it affords Africa claim to the greatest mountain on the face of the earth. Everest, at 29,002 altitude is almost 10,000 feet higher than Kilimanjaro; there are even peaks having similar volcanic origin rising higher in South and Central America, but all of these great ones rise on the backs of their neighbors. Kilimanjaro stands alone in the heat-scorched wind-swept plain. Without even the company of a mountain ridge it rises solitary from a plateau at 2,500 to 4,000 feet to the snow capped majesty of 19,315 feet.

"Europe is proud of its Alps and Pyrenees and the United States considers the Rockies mighty mountains, yet Kilimanjaro is nearly a mile higher than Mt. Whitney, America's tallest peak. It is almost 4,000 feet higher than Mt. Blanc, Europe's leading summit. Kilimanjaro has for company on the Equator Mt. Kenya, just over the border, giving its name to Kenya colony and 'the Mountains of the Moon,' officially Ruwenzori, in Uganda, feeding the White Nile with water for Egypt.

"Natives inhabiting the slopes of Kilimanjaro have the legend that the mountain has a silver peak. To tribes who have never seen snow, this seemed the most satisfactory explanation for the gleaming white cap. They associated it with their gods and the first white men to explore it had great difficulty satisfying the natives that they would not drive away Rayil, the god in the form of a giant cow inhabiting the mountain's high plains.

"The mountain is a small world in itself, or more properly half a world. The snow can is its polar cap; the high cold ridges, without vegetation, are like Labrador or the Alaskan steppe, but instead of harboring reindeer, they support flocks of eland. The mountain is a game preserve and the flocks thrive.

"Next comes a belt of heather similar to that of the Scotch highlands. Then as the elevation drops, the region of heavy precipitation appears and with it the rain-forest, almost constantly swathed in mist. This thins to the ordinary tropical forest and then dwindles to the mountain's 'temperate zone' where the aribesmen live. It is estimated 125,000 people now reside on the slopes of Kilimanjaro and they are counted by some explorers among the most intelligent and progressive natives of Africa.

"The Chagga and other tribes even employ irrigation to grow their crops of bananas, sweet potatoes and grains. Sometimes they merely divert a mountain stream but frequently considerable engineering skill is used to bring water through tubes or channels considerable distances. The forest belt, not Kilimanjaro's glaciers, supply most of this life-giving water. The rain-forest is a vast sponge, drinking up the rain and squeezing it out in springs.

"Below the agricultural belt is the scorched dry plain. It is almost impossible to get the natives to venture down to the hot plain as to get them to approach the ice capped crater.

"Elephants inhabit the thick forests of Kilimanjaro's slopes. Explorers often see their spoors on banks seemingly impossible for such huge animals to manage. One writer reports seeing marks indicating that the elephants thrust their tusks into the ground to steady themselves on a descent and that scruffed bark showed that they wound their trunks about trees to help themselves up to greater positions."

If a woman can't think of any other excuse, she can have a headache.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How to Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well — everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the illsmelling, horrible tasting stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Lee & Osgood or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 6 pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, skinny, backward, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets — 60 Tablets—60 cents.

OBITUARY

Zigmund Olaf

Word was received in Norwich Wednesday of the death the previous week of Zigmund Olaf, 36, of Morgan, N. J., following only a few hours illness. Mr. Olaf, who was apparently in perfect health, being of robust build, was seized with a pain in his head at eight o'clock Wednesday evening, January 7th, and became unconscious. He was taken to Perth Amboy hospital where he died at 1 o'clock Thursday morning just five hours later, from hemorrhage of the brain.

About six weeks ago his little daughter and only child four years old, died of pneumonia, since which he had grieved constantly and it was thought that his brooding over the child's death was to an extent greatly responsible for his death.

Mr. Olaf, with his family has resided in Morgan for the past four years, conducting a successful garage business during that time in Perth Amboy. He was buried Saturday last in Philadelphia, Penn., where his little daughter was buried a few weeks previous.

The family at one time before locating in New Jersey resided in Pennsylvania. Mr. Olaf was the eldest son of John Olaf, formerly of Yantic. His mother died a few years ago, since which the home was sold and members of the family located elsewhere. Besides his wife he is survived by his father and several sisters and brothers. One of his sisters, Miss Elizabeth A. Olaf, a few years ago prominent in musical circles in Norwich where she delighted many with her beautiful soprano voice, has been located in New York for the past few years.

Just prior to Christmas Miss Olaf underwent a very serious operation for appendicitis in a New York hospital, but she is reported to be very much improved and has practically recovered from her illness.

WEDDING.

Froscello—Keehan.

At the Sacred Heart church, Taftville, Wednesday morning Michael Froscello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raffaill Froscello of 77 School street, and Miss Catherine Keehan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Keehan of Taftville, were united in marriage by Rev. Henri Chagnon. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. Froscello was born in this city and is well known to many Norwich people. His bride has resided in Taftville for some time and is well known and popular with her many friends.

Howard—Parks

Miss Beatrice E. Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fern Parks of 69 Norwood avenue, New London, was married at the parish house of the Central Baptist church in Norwich Tuesday to Raymond Howard of 21 Tilley street, New London, formerly of Norwich. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor. There were no attendants. The couple are making their home at 21 Tilley street. Mr. and Mrs. Howard are both employed at the Crocker house.

BROTHERS INJURED IN COASTING ACCIDENT

When the sled on which they were sliding on the Colchester-Norwich highway ran into a state highway truck Wednesday afternoon, Chesław Shawinski, 10, and Zipnelph Shawinski, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Shawinski of Lebanon, received concussion of the brain. They are patients at the W. W. Backus hospital. The truck was driven by Benjamin Green of Yantic.

The accident happened shortly after the two children had left the Lebanon school at the close of the afternoon session. They were sliding from the school yard across the road.

Mr. Green endeavored to swing the truck clear of the sled but the sled ran under the tool box on the truck. The truck driver took the injured children into the school and called Dr. Edward J. Howland, who ordered them taken to the hospital. An investigation was made by the state police and the driver was held blameless for the accident.

THURSDAY PINOCHLE CLUB MET WITH MRS. WRIGHT

When the Thursday Afternoon Pinochle club met this week, Mrs. Charles Wright of Bentley avenue was the hostess. The first prize for the afternoon was won by Mrs. Herman Pukallus, with a score of 6,825, while Mrs. William Murray took second prize, with a score of 6,340.

The scores to date are as follows: Mrs. John O. Peckham, 47,966; Mrs. Roswell J. P. Brown, 47,645; Mrs. Herman Pukallus, 46,645; Mrs. Charles Wright, 46,210; Mrs. William Murray, 46,055; Mrs. Milo H. Waters, 45,320; Mrs. George Breen, 44,720; Mrs. Henry Geer, 44,550; Mrs. Harry Mason, 44,225; Mrs. Frederick Evarts, 43,685; Mrs. Louis Mitchell, 43,350; Mrs. Carl Geib, 42,420.

The hostess served refreshments at the close of the play.

City Court Cases.

Lee Debarros of 5 Forest street was before the city court Thursday morning on the charge of violation of the liquor law in making a sale to Chauncey Williams, who had been sent into the Debarros place by the police to get the evidence. When Williams came to testify in court he claimed the alleged "white mule" had been given to him as a gift. On that evidence Debarros was discharged.

One man who made trouble in his home while drunk was sent to jail for three months, another was sent to the state farm for six months, three men went to jail as they could not pay fines for intoxication, but another paid his fine.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The next meeting of the Monday Study Club will be with Mrs. Francis Gilman.

Tully Armisted Joynes has returned after visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coit of Broadway.

Mrs. Clarence P. Roath and son, Louis Roath, are at home on Broadway, following several weeks' stay at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Gaetan Cabaud, passengers on S. S. Paris, that their steamer reached Havre Jan. 13th.

TWO CITY CHURCHES MAKE REPORTS OF BUSY TIMES IN PAST YEAR

Two churches of the city, the Central Baptist and Park Congregational, held their annual meetings on Thursday evening, hearing reports from the different departments that indicated a year of notable activity in the past 12 months.

Central Baptist Church.

An excellent supper served at 6.15, with the tables set for 280, preceded the annual meeting of the Central Baptist church, which was called to order by the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., at 7.15. Following the acceptances of the minutes of the preceding annual meeting, read by Clerk George A. Ashbey, the annual reports were presented in the usual printed form. That of the clerk showed a total membership of 849, of which 629 are resident and 200 non-resident. The net gain for the year was 49. Additions have been 94, of which 70 were by baptism, 19 by letter, five by experience. The decreases were 15 by death and 30 by letter.

The report of the treasurer, John P. Post, showed total receipts for benevolences and operating of $26,625, which combined with receipts in other departments showed an approximate total of $35,000 raised and contributed by the church membership in the year.

In making his report for the board of managers, C. D. Noyes, president of the board, stated that there had been an addition of $1,800 to the trust funds during the year and that new gifts which have already been announced indicated that these funds would be increased by about $40,000 during the present year.

Upon motion of Mr. Noyes the meeting voted to send a fraternal greeting to Thatcher Otis, one of the board of trustees, who is convalescing after a serious illness.

An amendment to the by-laws was passed creating five trustees, instead of three, to be elected one each year for terms of five years.

Gifts Presented.

Recognition of faithful service as secretary of the Sunday school for two years was made in the gift to Miss Bessie A. Grimes of a fountain pen and a purse of $25 was presented to Horace F. Church in recognition of his unusual record of 25 years successive years of perfect attendance at the Sunday school sessions. Both presentations were made by Harold S. Burt, the newly elected superintendent.

Deacon C. Edward Smith presented Rev. Dr. Pitt, the pastor, a purse of approximately $400 as a token of the church's sympathy with his family in severe illness which had visited them in the past year, and James L. Case represented the church in presenting to Mrs. Henrietta Tefft a purse of $10 in recognition of her faithful service for 13 years as the chairman of the committee in charge of serving supper at the church.

Gift to Church.

Deacon F. D. Ferguson presented the report of the committee on non-resident members, announcing with it that Charles F. Noyes of New York, formerly of this city, has arranged to present to the church a set of suitable chairs for the communion table, a handsome gift expressing his own interest and sympathy and that of his family in the welfare and work of the church.

In Memory of Judas Brown.

Secretary Ashbey read a letter announcing the gift to the church of a fund of $1,000 in memory of Judge Lucius Brown, which is made by his widow and three sons, Mrs. Hannah Larrabee Brown, Judge Allyn L. Brown, Carl W. Brown and Daniel L. Brown. The income is to be used for providing flowers for the church and the sick between Nov. 1 and May 1, or for the general uses of the church.

Announcement of the gift was followed by a vote accepting it which was taken by the congregation rising in silence and standing for a moment in silent prayer in memory of those who have passed away in the past year.

It was voted to send a night letter of love and affection to Mrs. Lora A. Gallup of Providence, formerly of this city, now residing with her son, Rev. Charles M. Gallup. Mrs. Gallup recently had the misfortune to fall and break her hip.

Charles L. Stewart read a proposed amendment to the by-laws establishing a board of religious education and it was voted to instruct the board of managers to confer with this committee and report by June 1, 1925, upon the pastor's recommendation that a study of the future program of the church should be made in line with suggestions made in the prize contest suggestions made in the prize contest held during the year.

Officers Elected

Votes of thanks were passed to a number of the church officers and the list of officers presented by the nominating committee, Charles L. Stewart, chairman, were elected as follows:

Clerk, George A. Ashbey; assistant clerk, Joseph S. Adams; treasurer, Edward Y. Messinger; assistant treasurer, John P. Post; deacons, Allyn L. Brown, James M. Young (6 years); Arthur F. Wyman, (5 years); Emery H. Davis (4 years); board of managers, James L. Case, Henry G. Aurelio, Harrison C. Noyes; board of trustees, John H. Powelson (5 years); Andrew D. Davies (4 years); George A. Ashbey, (3 years); nominating committee, Gilbert S. Raymond, N. Eugene Smith, Richard Young, H. H. Pettis, Charles L. Stewart; printing committee, Charles F. Whitney, Gilbert S. Raymond, Miss Helen B. Moore. The officers elected by the Sunday school were ratified, and after Frank L. Arnold of the finance committee had announced that 516 pledges for approximately $14,000 had been received for this year, the meeting adjourned with prayer.

Park Congregational Church

With 120 present the annual meeting of Park Congregational church was held Thursday evening at the Osgood Memorial. Preceeding the business meeting a supper was served with the following menu: Roast lamb, riced potatoes, peas, celery, jelly, rolls, coffee, sherbert social cakes. Mrs. John F. Rogers was chairman of the supper committee and was assisted by Miss Amy Cogswell, Mrs. Neville Bilcq, Mrs. Frank H. Pullen, Mrs. Kenneth Church, Mrs. James Morton and Mrs. Richard Lewis. Mrs. Robert A. Smith had charge of the dining room and the decorations were in charge of Miss Margaret Sayles. The waitresses were Miss Evon M. Broadhurst, chairman; Miss Helen Clapp, Miss Janet Blackstone, Miss Beatrice Leonard, Miss Helen Tirrell, Miss Harriet Geer, Miss Elizabeth Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Collins, Miss Virginia Smith and Miss Esther Evans.

The business meeting was called to order after the supper and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted as read. The clerk, Weston C. Pullen submitted his annual report and the report was accepted as read. The report follows:

A general resume of the activities of Park church for the year 1924 is a most interesting one in as much as the church noted its arrival at the half century mark with two notable days, namely Sunday and Monday, April 27 and 28. One these two days most interesting programs were carried out, accounts of which, as published in the daily papers, are filed herewith for future reference, as well as the printed programs distributed. The success of the anniversary was due to the committee consisting of Mrs. Frederic W. Cary, chairman, Mrs. Junius A. Brand, Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, Ebenezer Learned, Frederic W. Cary, Miss Alice W. Cogswell, secretary; Oliver L. Johnson, Miss Amy Cogswell, Henry A. Tirrell and James M. Morton.

During the year's work the church committee has held its usual number of meetings to act upon the admittance and dismissal of members, together with the appropriations for Christian work regularly cared for by our church.

The membership of the church during the year shows a gain of eight above that of the previous year, the total now standing at 342. There were 13 admissions by letter and 6 on confession of faith, showing a total of 19 admissions. Death has taken from our membership a total of six while five have been dismissed by letter. There were seven baptisms of infants, whose parents were associated with the activities of our church.

The present clerk was appointed by the church committee on April 6 to succeed one who had been identified with Park church since childhood and who was so suddenly called by his Heavenly Master. I wish right here to pay my small tribute to Robert Colt Johnson, with whom I had been happily associated in the Sunday school as well as in different branches of church work. Not only has the church suffered this loss but it also has been deprived of two beautiful characters widely known for their long service in this community, namely Mrs. Henry T. Arnold and Mrs. George D. Colt.

In closing the report, the clerk recommended the adoption of a resolution expressing the great loss to the church and the community in the deaths of Mrs. Henry T. Arnold, Mrs. George D. Colt and Robert Colt Johnson.

Reports of Departments

Dr. F. S. Bunnell, retiring chairman of the society committee, reported on the activities of his committee for the year and Mrs. J. S. Blackmar reported for the Women's Federation. Other reports were given as follows:

Report of the treasurer of the Women's Federation, Mrs. R. C. Jones; financial report of the Camp Fire Girls, Mrs. Louis Waldron; church treasurer's report, by Henry D. Johnson, auditor, in the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Allen Latham; report on the men's club, by the president, James M. Morton; report of the Sunday school, superintendent, Geo. L. Ingalls; report of the Sunday school treasurer, John Evans; report of the Sunday school secretary, Elliott Graham; report on Troop 12, Boy Scouts, by Johnathan L. Johnson.

Election of Officers

Frederic W. Cary and Weston C. Pullen, the nominating committee submitted their report and it was accepted. The clerk was empowered to cast one ballot for the election of the deacons and the remaining officers were unanimously elected by acclamation. The list of officers elected follows:

Deacons for three years, F. W. Browning, F. W. Cary; honorary deacon, for three years, Leonard O. Smith; church committee, Miss Adelaide L. Butts, Miss Hannah Crowell, Wallace S. Allis and Albert M. VanWagenen; church clerk, W. H. Collins; church treasurer, Mrs. Allen Latham; assistant treasurer, Allen Latham; auditor, Henry D. Johnson; offertory officers, (two committees), Henry D. Johnson, chairman, W. G. Fletcher, R. W. Perkins, Allen Latham and A. E. Story. Dr. W. W. Leonard, chairman; Neville Bilcq, Robert Cochran, Edward J. Graham and Hibbard B. Norman; Sunday school superintendent, George L. Ingalls; assistant Sunday school superintendent, Johnathan L. Johnson; superintendent primary department, Mrs. George L. Ingalls; assistant superintendents primary department, Mrs. Frank Crowell, Miss Constance Clapp, Miss Ruth Loring; secretary, Sunday school, Elliott Graham; treasurer, Sunday school, John Evans; librarian, Cyrus W. Woodman; assistant librarian, Elliott Graham; chairman ushering committee, Samuel E. Smiley.

Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of the church, spoke on the question of creating deaconesses for the church, the plan of having deaconesses in churches becoming more or less general. On motion of George L. Ingalls the meeting voted that the office of deaconess be created and that three women be elected to hold such office. The motion was adopted and the following were named deaconesses, Mrs. F. W. Cary, Miss Mary A. V. Avery and Mrs. Henry D. Johnson. The meeting adjourned about 8.45.

BARBER'S UNION HAS ITS OFFICERS INSTALLED

The recently elected officers of the local barbers' union, No. 337, were installed Thursday evening by Past President Walter Abendroth at a meeting in Buckingham Memorial. The meeting was called at 8 o'clock and the officers were installed as follows:

President, James McNulty; vice president, George Lambert; recorder, A. M. Rouleau; secretary and treasurer, William Farrell; guide, Chas. Bellone; guardian, Emile Laurinelle; press secretary, A. M. Rouleau; trustees, A. Heinel, George Lord, Jas. Coyne; financial committee, A. M. Rouleau; George Lambert and J. Ravenell.

Following the installation a delicious chowder was served by the entertainment committee, A. M. Rouleau, J. Ravenell, George Lambert, and James McNulty.

Planning Social Event.

The officers of the Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary's church held a special meeting Wednesday evening to plan a social evening for the members of the society and their lady and gentlemen friends next Tuesday evening in St. Mary's Memorial hall. Cards and music will furnish the evening's entertainment. Several other social events are planned for the remainder of the winter.

Culpability is about the only ability some men possess.

PUBLIC WELFARE REPORT MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS

The preliminary report of the Department of Public Welfare for the biennial period 1923-24 was presented Thursday afternoon to Governor Trumbull for transmittal by him to the General Assembly. It contains three recommendations for action by the General Assembly as follows:

1. That suitable provision be made for the needs of the State Farm for Women.

2. That an adequate program be adopted for the care of the feeble-minded and the insane.

3. That a State Infirmary be established for the care and treatment of aged and infirm persons and persons diseased, deformed, and incurable for whom no treatment is available in existing institutions.

The Department expresses its belief that the State Farm for Women has never been able to demonstrate the possibilities of such an institution on account of its lack of facilities and feels that an institution of this sort, adequately housed and equipped, is greatly needed in Connecticut.

Attention is called to the serious condition of overcrowding at the Connecticut State Hospital, Middletown, where an average population of about 2680 patients has been maintained in buildings that have a normal capacity for 2200. Substantial development is noted in the plant at the Norwich State Hospital and it is stated that the completion of the buildings now in course of construction will give that institution total accommodations for about two thousand patients. The total average number of insane persons cared for in Connecticut institutions in 1924 was 5114, which is in the ratio of 3.44 to each 1000 of the population estimated as 1,486,981 for that year. The small number of insane persons (44) reported as present in almshouses shows the result of efforts made to secure compliance with the law which forbids their retention in such places.

No lessening is noted in the demand for admission to the Mansfield State School for the Feeble-Minded and the hundreds of such persons whose applications for entrance are already on file, together with many others who are inmates of institutions not adapted to their needs or who are still without care in their several communities, are said to present a problem of the gravest import. The inadequate water supply at the Mansfield School is declared to be a serious handicap to the much-needed development of the institution for which some remedy should be provided without delay.

Proposed State Infirmary

The report strongly advocates the establishment of a state infirmary. It declares that 148 towns and cities report more than 400 persons who would be eligible for admission to such an institution. The department frequently finds in the course of its visits to almshouses distressing cases of cancer, paralysis, syphilis, and other serious diseases which can not be given suitable care in these places and which the general hospitals will not receive. In nearly one-fourth of the sixty almshouses in operation in the state, the number of inmates cared for each year is five or less and there is little doubt that these dependent persons, many of them diseased and infirm, could be given much better care in a State Infirmary than they are now receiving and at a decreased cost to their several communities.

Fire Protection

The department is gratified to report that an arrangement was made during the past year with the Aetna Insurance Company of Hartford by which the engineering division of that company is making an examination of the institutions that come within the department's jurisdiction with especial reference to existing fire-hazards. This comprehensive and valuable piece of work has been conducted without expense to the State and the Department feels that the Aetna Insurance Company deserves an expression of appreciation of its public-spirited service. There is reason to believe that a definite step forward has been taken to insure protection for the thousands of inmates helpless in many cases, of the charitable and correctional institutions in Connecticut.

After three years of the work of the Bureau of Child Welfare, four points may be accepted as well established. First: The increasing value and importance of the inspection and licensing by the Bureau of family boarding homes for children; second: the ability of the Bureau to hold at a greatly lowered figure the number of children committed to County Temporary Homes; third: the inability of the Bureau under the present system of free home placement, to bring about through the placement of children in free family homes any large reduction in County Home population; fourth; the fact that a large number, probably about one-fifth, of the children in the County Temporary Homes are mentally deficient and consequently should receive special instruction and training.

The Bureau was changed by statute with the duty of inspecting and licensing boarding homes for children. These are family homes in which any parent forced by circumstances so to do may place a child to be boarded. More than 200 homes are now boarding children under license from the Bureau. There are more than 500 well-cared-for children in these homes. Here parents who are obliged to place their children out to board may place them with confidence that they are in a good home. Forty-eight boarding places for children have been closed by the Bureau because of unsatisfactory conditions existing therein.

Fewer Children Committed.

The average number of children committed yearly to County Temporary Homes from 1884 (the first year of which we have statistics and the first full year of the existence of the homes following the passage in 1883 of the law establishing them) to 1891 was 308; the average so committed yearly during a period of ten years prior to the establishment of the Bureau, was 868. During the first year of the Bureau's work 261 children were so committed, during the second year 171 and during the third year 207.

This reduction in the number of County Home commitments has been brought about and can be largely maintained in the future through careful investigation of proposed commitments and through wise planning for the children involved, with a view to securing for them good homes, without making them public charges.

Free Home Placement Inadequate.

Free homes are available for the placement of the County Home children usually only with persons who are without a child and desire a child for adoption or with persons who want a child to work for them. The great group of children between the ages of seven and thirteen are in general too old to be placed for adoption and too young to be placed to work. The matters of religious faith and racial stock are important considerations in the matter of placement.

Eight hundred sixty-nine children in six of the County Temporary Homes, not including New London county and Litchfield County Homes, contained 516 children between the ages of nine and thirteen—246 children of Italian racial stock, 102 of Polish, 20 of Russian and 177 of other foreign stock, while there were in this number 235 of American stock. Six hundred seventeen of these were of Catholic faith and 252 of Protestant faith.

Mental tests of all the children in four County Temporary Homes showed about 26 per cent. to be normal or superior intelligence, or about 31 per cent. dull, about 25 per cent. on the border line of feeblemindedness and about eighteen per cent. mentally deficient.

The low mentality of many of the children, the restrictions as to age, race and religion and the comparatively small number of persons who wish to give a child a free home all militate against any large reduction in County Home population through placement in free family homes.

There had been an almost unbroken increase in County Home population since the establishment of the Homes. Since the Bureau of Child Welfare began its work, however, there has been a slight decrease in the population.

The present system of free home placement should be supplemented by the boarding-out of children. This should not be undertaken as a substitute for the County Home system but rather as a means of giving that system greater flexibility.

The presence of nearly 200 mentally deficient children in our County Homes demands action looking to their particular welfare. They should be put together in one institution and should be trained in useful service.

Expenditures by the State.

The report shows that there are in the state for the care of delinquent, defective, and dependent persons 197 institutions, almost all of which come within the statutory supervision of the department and are visited at intervals by the department's members and representatives. Approximately seventy of these institutions receive financial support or aid from the state treasury. In behalf of these institutions and certain other kindred agencies, the report shows that the net expenditures of the state, for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1923, for maintenance, supervision, etc., was $3,603,529.03. In addition, the capital expenditure by the state in the same year for buildings, equipment, land, etc., at the institutions concerned was $705,679.84, making a total expenditure for the year of $4,309,008.87. For the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1924, the net expenditure by the state for maintenance, supervision, etc., was $3,795,605.05 and the capital expenditure for buildings, equipment, land, etc., was $660,907.11, making a total of $4,456,512.16 for the year.

The annual expenditure by the state for maintenance, supervision, etc., shows a moderate increase from year to year. The capital expenditures for buildings, equipment and land fluctuate greatly from year to year according to the appropriations granted by successive legislatures. In addition to the amount expended by the state for the objects mentioned the cost to the towns and cities for the support and relief of dependents and defectives for their fiscal year 1923, (closing at different dates in various communities), was $1,770,305. This amount shows a reasonable increase over the total expenditure by the towns in 1921 but is much less than the $2,256,047 reported as expended in 1922 when there was a serious condition of unemployment in the early part of the year.

The general report is signed by the five members of the department as follows: George C. F. Williams, president, Hartford; Martha H. C. Mitchell, Norwich; Mary A. Wise, Hartford; Eliot Wadhams, New Haven; Walter H. Clark, Hartford. The special reports on the work of the Adult Welfare and Child Welfare Bureaus are signed respectively by Charles P. Kellogg, secretary, and Charles E. Dow, commissioner.

FOUR CHURCHES UNITING FOR VISITATION EVANGELISM

Rev. Earl Kernahan is coming here Sunday for a week of visitation evangelism in which the First Baptist, the Central Baptist, the Greeneville Congregational and Trinity Methodist churches are uniting.

The first service at which he will preach will be at the Greeneville Congregational church Sunday morning and in the evening he will address a big meeting at the Central Baptist church. Sunday afternoon he will meet the church workers at the Central Baptist church and again there on Monday evening. On the other evenings of next week there will be meetings with the workers at the other churches.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

No matter how long you have suffered from this dreadful and annoying complaint, a speedy and effective relief from your suffering is now offered to you in CAMPHOROLE, whose wonderful results are realized at the very first trial. The most stubborn case will quickly yield to CAMPHOROLE.

"I would like every sufferer from Catarrh in this city to try my CAMPHOROLE," says Dr. Brigadell. Go to your druggist and get a 35c jar of my CAMPHOROLE, and if it fails to give immediate relief and is not better than anything you have ever used, return the jar to your druggist, who is authorized to refund your money. Once you have tried CAMPHOROLE, you'll then realize how good it is, not only for Catarrh of nose and throat, but also for Asthma and Bronchitis.

Three Ways

There are three ways to learn the value of a dollar. The first is—to spend it and see what you'll get for it. The second is to earn it and see what you give for it. The third is to save it and yearn for the things it might buy if you were weak enough to spend it.—Boston Transcript.

Let the Mind Counsel

Let the council of thy own heart stand, for there is no man more faithful to thee than it. For a man's mind is sometimes wont to show him more than seven watchmen who sit above in a high tower.—Kipling.

Crusader Of Woman's Rights

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, who has been on the battlefields of the late World War, as war correspondent, and at the front in Russia with the famous Women's "Battalion of Death," and nearly all her life has been to the front in more diversified battles staged on the field of humanity and progress than any other fight of her sex in this generation. For the past twenty years, Mrs. Dorr has fought for woman's rights, and is keeping up the work. Believing as she says, "I expect to die with my boots on, for the leveling of all sex distinction, for the free and equal rights of human beings to love, work and the pursuit of happiness." She is a native of Lincoln, Nebraska, and when 12 years of age heard Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony present the great principle which has motivated her all life.

Capital's First Newspaper

The first newspaper published in what is now the city of Washington was the Times and Potowmack Pocket. It started in February, 1789, the exact date being uncertain. The paper was delivered to subscribers in town by "carrier" at their houses weekly, on Wednesday, and to those at a distance by the quickest conveyance.

Combinations of Cards

The accepted formula used to determine in how many ways any number of playing cards may be arranged is as follows: Multiply together all the numbers used in counting the things; thus, the number of ways that ten cards can be arranged is 1x2x3x4x5x6x7x8x9x10 or 3,628,800.

Form of Baptism

Baptism in the Catholic church was originally by immersion. According to the Catholic Encyclopedia, immersion as a regular method of baptism prevailed until about the Twelfth century in some places individual Catholic churches baptized by immersion until several hundred years later.

NURMI SHATTERS THREE MORE WORLD'S RECORDS ON MADISON SQUARE TRACK

Madison Square Garden, New York, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—The flying feet of Paavo Nurmi, showed their heels again to time tonight when the phantom Finn ran away from Willie Ritola and three other rivals on a 3,000 metre race and shattered three world's records.

Two hours later Nurmi was on his way to Chicago to run tomorrow night, then speed back to New York for his third race in as many nights of an unprecedented endurance test.

Displaying even more spectacular form than when he made his American debut last week and seemingly anxious not to take any chances of missing his train for the west, Nurmi lapped three of his four opponents, finished sixty five yards ahead of Ritola and set new indoor standards for one mile and three quarters, 3,000 metres and one mile and seven eighths.

The dazzling display of speed marking the sixth world record Nurmi has toppled in three races, all breaking former marks of Joie Ray, was the feature of the Municipal A. A. games and national indoor junior championships, which were won by the New York Athletic club in a battle marked by the setting of three new championship records and tying of one other.

The New York A. C., captured five of the 14 events and piled up a winning total of 29 points to take the title won last year by the Illinois A. C. Georgetown finished second with 19 points while Columbia university and the Newark A. C. tied for third with 17 points each.

Other point scores were: Boston A. A. and Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A. seven; Stuyvesant high school, New York, six; University of Pennsylvania and Baltimore Police department, five each.

The phantom Finn was even in more astonishing form than when he made his spectacular debut here last week, for he ran his most feared rival, Ritola, into the ground early in the race and uncorked a brilliant flash of speed at the close to slice seconds off the former world's mark, all of which were held by Joie Ray, of Chicago.

Nurmi set the new mile and three-quarters mark at 7 minutes, 05 3-5 seconds, as compared with Ray's former standard of 7:07 4-5, and was clocked at the 3,000 metre finish mark in 8:20 4-5 as compared with the former time of 8:31 1-5. Nurmi then carried his speed alone to the one mile and seven-eighths post, where his time was 8:39, as against the old record of 8:34 3-5. All of Ray's old marks were set in 1923 in New York.

FINNISH MARATHONER COMING TO AMERICA

New York, Jan. 15 (By the A. P.)—Albin Stenroos, 40 year old woodworker, who carried Finland's colors to victory in the Olympic Marathon at Paris last July, plans to visit the United States this spring, arriving probably the latter part of March, according to advices received today from Finland.

The advent of Stenroos would cap the climax of the invasion of America this year by Finland's Olympic heroes which already has taken on spectacular proportions by Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola in the spotlight. These stars were the "big three" of the Finnish team which cleaned up in the distance races at Paris from 1,500 metres to the Marathon.

While definite details of Stenroos' plans were lacking here, one of his main objectives is expected to be the historic Boston A. A. Marathon, which this year has been designated officially as the American championship. This event annually is held on Patriots' day, April 19, but as that date comes on Sunday this year, the race probably will take place April 20.

It also is understood that the Finnish-American Athletic club, which sponsored Nurmi's first appearance here last week, plans an event for the spring featuring Finland's distance stars. A race at a distance such as 10,000 metres would be suited to the capabilities of Nurmi, Ritola and Stenroos, according to advices from Finland, has set his heart on keeping in condition for the 1928 Olympics, and as attempt to win the Marathon title for the second time, a feat no other performer has ever accomplished. For that reason, it was said, he is not anxious to take on too much competition in the United States, so as not to jeopardise his future form.

TWENTY-FOUR NAMES ADDED TO YALE BLACK LIST

New Haven, Jan. 15.—Speculation in tickets for the big football games in New Haven, the measures taken by the Yale Athletic association to meet the situation are discussed by Harold V. Woodcock, general manager of the association in the current issue of the Yale Alumni weekly.

Manager Woodcock also touched upon the "black list," a list of names said to be continually growing, of graduates and undergraduates whose tickets for the football games have been found in the hands of speculators.

Mr. Woodcock says that the association has considered the taking of signatures of ticket holders at games, but this expedient has not been found absolutely necessary and is undersirable except as a last resort, he declares.

"The black list," Mr. Woodcock says, "contains the names of both graduates and under-graduates and representatives of practically all departments of the university. The percentage of those on the black list who have directly speculated or realised affy gain from the disposition of these tickets is very slight, and in many cases the tickets have ultimately gone astray in some most unexpected manner."

Twenty-four names were added to the black list after the close of the 1924 football season, making a total of 135 Yale men on the black list at the present time, according to Mr. Woodcock.

AMATEUR BOUTS AT WESTERLY PROVE ATTRACTIVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., Jan. 15.—More than 400 fans were in attendance at the Lorraine Community house to witness the wrestling and boxing bouts in Pawcatuck on Thursday evening. These bouts were put on by Matchmaker Robert Sacre and Phil Fortin, assistant matchmaker, for the Lorraine Community club.

The first number carded was a wrestling bout, Brenna vs. Stepheski, in which the former got the first fall in six minutes and the second by Stephenski, who made the better showing in three more minutes time. Finister was the referee.

William Sposoto vs. Charles Boumenot was a four round go as a curtain raiser for the boxing bouts. LaPiere vs. Sposota at 125 pounds was a four round bout of two minutes each with plenty of pep and action.

Young Reita of Westerly met K. O. Cobb of Jewett City at 135 pounds. This was followed by Main vs. Harvey at 140 pounds and the feature bout was Jim Ross of Westerly vs. Smiler McCormick of Stonington at 150 pounds. Jos. Finster was referee and John Stephenski the timekeeper.

CLAIMS PLAINFIELD REFUSES TO PLAY BALTIC WANDERERS

Manager Harry Collins of the Baltic Wanderers is not very well pleased with the way he claims he has been treated by the Plainfield team. He claims that he had a game scheduled with Plainfield for Wednesday, Jan. 21, but as some of Plainfield's players refused to play in Baltic Manager Salisbury cancelled the engagement. He says that he is offering a larger guarantee than was given him and sees no reason why Plainfield should refuse to play.

However Baltic is looking for a game for next Wednesday night with any team that would like to come to Baltic. Baltic loses one of its star players this week when Walter Condy leaves to take up a position in New Haven. Condy has been a star for the Wanderers at both the guard position and at center.

FLOWERS-DELANEY BOUT TO DRAW BIG CROWD

New York, Jan. 15.—Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga., negro middleweight, and Jack Delaney, Bridgeport, Conn., middleweight, will meet in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Flowers, conquerer of Johnny Wilson, former world's middleweight champion, will meet one of the best men in his class in Delaney, who gained his present height on the pugilistic ladder by knocking out Paul Berlenbach when the latter was right at the peak of his rapid rise to fame.

Madison Square Garden officials reported today that every ringside ticket had been sold two days before the match.

In the semi-final match, Larry Estridge, negro middleweight, will meet Charley Nashert of Newark.

Flowers signed a contract today to meet Ted More, English middleweight at the National Sportsman's club in Newark, February 2.

WILLS' HANDS PREVENT HIM FROM FIGHTING

New York, Jan. 15.—Harry Wills' brittle hands, which handicapped a good share of his static program last year, again stand in the way of the big negro's ring activity.

Wills, it was learned today, has turned down an offer to fight Quintin Romero, Chilean heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden, because of the effect of damage sustained to the negro's hands in his bout with Luis Firpo at Boyle's Thirty Acres last September. It will be three months before Wills is able to resume ring work, according to his doctor, thus eliminating likelihood of any engagements before the outdoor season.

PENNOCK UNABLE TO MAKE TERMS WITH YANKS

New York, Jan. 15.—Herb Pennock, veteran southpaw star of the New York Yankees, has not yet come to terms with the club for 1925, although official denial was made today to reports that he is a holdout. Pennock, it was said, had a recent conference with Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, over salary matters, but has not yet been asked to sign a formal contract.

Pennock is said to have received $13,000 last season.

PERRY ASKS LANDIS TO REINSTATE HIM

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Scott Perry, former pitcher of the Philadelphia Americans, tonight filed application with Commissioner Landis for reinstatement in organized baseball. Perry, who came to the Athletics in June, 1918, was suspended in June, 1921, because he left the club without permission and played outlaw ball. The old national commission once reinstated Perry when he "jumped" the Athletics in 1919.

NEW LONDON BASKETBALL TEAMS HAVE BUSY WEEK END

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 15.—Practically every team showing any knowledge in basketball will be seen in action over the week end. Some important contests will take place in the city, while other leading cities will be invaded in an effort to climax the week end in a successful one in basketball.

Bulkeley Contests.

Bulkeley will engage in two games, both equally important in nature. One of the games will be played away from home while the other contest will be played at home and will decide whether basketball will be a permanent fixture in the school athletic curriculum. The first game will be played on Friday with the strong Deep River aggregation the opponents of the Orange and Black. Deep River has produced an unusually strong quintet this year, and the defeat handed to Chapman Tech on January second, which was 13 points more than the Red and Black machine was able to register, presents a problem to the Buckeley team, and that to come out the winner on Friday evening.

The second contest will find Bulkeley opening up what may prove to be a regular Saturday night game at the State Armory. Hartford High will oppose the weak Bulkeley team, coming here with victories over the potent Collegiate Prep five and Weaver High. Bridgeport High is the only school to mar the record of the Hartford team, winning from the Capitol City five in an overtime game.

The local State Armory will be the scene of the two Navy teams in action, when the Submarine Base will attempt to break into the winning column after losing four straight contests. The Base's opponent will be the Newport Torpedo Station five with its strong array of former college stars. This contest will mark the beginning of the contests with Service teams and will count toward the Service championship which will be decided in the series of games which are planned with teams in the service. Besides the Sub Base-Newport Torpedo Station game which will get under way at 8.15 a preliminary contest will see the Army five of the House league opposing the First Lieutenant's department of the Base.

Chapman Tech at Windham.

Chapman Tech will show its wares away from this city on Friday evening when the Eastern Connecticut basketball champs invade the Thread City, opposing Windham High at the Willimantic High school gymnasium. With the victory at the expense of Bacon Academy tucked away, efforts will be pointed towards the teams which are proving to be an obstacle in the path of the Red and Black machine as it is moving on its way toward another championship.

Windham High it will be remembered was one of the teams which entered in the Connecticut Aggies tournament and lost out to the smoother Tech five. As far as it can be understood both Tech and Windham will enter the Storrs tournament again this year. These games outside of the tournament will have some bearing upon the winner of the tourney.

As usual the games in the Industrial League will be played at the Y. M. C. A. with several other contests scheduled with inferior teams.

Plainfield vs. Putnam.

This (Friday) evening the Plainfield High basketball squad journeys to Putnam to play the fast Putnam High quintet. A hard contest is expected and Coaches Emery and Collins have spent the week in perfecting their five-man defense. Captain Allard, who has already earned an enviable reputation in high school athletic circles in Eastern Connecticut, will lead his team throughout the four periods. "Jackie" Mercier, star forward, will also perform and this boy will no doubt play a heavy part in the Plainfield scoring. The guard positions will be held down by "Art" Gallup and Le Favre. Tyler will play at center.

As a preliminary contest the girls' basketball team of Plainfield will meet their feminine rivals of Putnam High.

MIDWEST POLOISTS PROVE SUPERIOR TO EASTERNERS

Chicago, Jan. 15.—The middle west today triumphed over the east in the consolidation games of the inter-city indoor polo tournament here when Detroit defeated Philadelphia, 16 1-2 to 1, and Cleveland beat Newark 14 to 3 1-2.

The Philadelphia-Detroit result was a surprise as the eastern trio had been considered the best and had entered the match with a one goal handicap. Detroit by brilliant riding romped away to an easy victory, however, the mallet work of Eicher and McCarthy featuring the triumph, the former counting eight goals and the latter seven.

Brilliant team work and individual playing gave Cleveland its victory. Gessford was the best marksman on the Newark team and his defense play and riding was one of the features of the match.

Tonight Chicago met New York and Brooklyn engaged Cincinnati in the tournament semi-finals. The finals will be played Saturday.

LEONARD ANNOUNCES HIS RETIREMENT FROM RING

New York, Jan. 15.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, announced his retirement from the prize ring here tonight.

The lightweight champion, in a letter to his friends, said he was giving up the game because his mother not only had requested him to do so but because her health was failing visibly as a result of his continuance in the ring.

THE PERSEVERING MAN

The steadfast, ever patient man,
Gets gladness out of life
By nurturing the smiles began
When first he won in strife.
He seeks a place among the strong
To demonstrate his worth,
And wisely wends his way along
The plaguing path of earth.
He shuts his lips in anger's heat
And minds his own affairs,
For he knows how to be discreet
By shunning alien cares.
His kit is full, so why should he
Pile weight upon his load,
While straining thew and bone to be
The master of the road?
The goal he visions lies ahead,
Far up unconquered steeps;
By rising early from his bed,
He plows and sows and reaps.
If he elects his brain to train
That he may gather lore,
He pulls with undiminished main
And opens Wisdom's door.
When others can no longer trace
The trend that takes to right,
He wavers not throughout the race
Though panting in his plight.
And in the last, decisive bound,
As tumult greets his ears,
The splendid honors he has found,
He shares with his compeers!

NEW YORK STATE MAY PROSECUTE DOLAN AND O'CONNEL FOR BRIBERY

New York, Jan. 15.—The aftermath of the Dolan-O'Connell bribery scandal developed a new angle today when Attorney Banton of New York announced he would prosecute the principals under a law specifically covering such offenses, if Baseball Commissioner Landis provided him with the necessary evidence. Mr. Banton indicated that he would take no initiative himself in the matter.

The possibility that O'Connell and Dolan would be indicted and prosecuted for their part in the deal to bribe Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, was revealed when a New York newspaper published the special section of the penal laws covering baseball bribery, classifying it as a felony and providing a maximum punishment of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League and a leading figure in the Dolan-O'Connell investigation, declined to express himself officially on the question until he had studied the law. He intimated, however, he was not in favor of public prosecution, pointing out that since the bribery deal had fallen through and the two players banished from the game, there seemed no need for action of that sort.

The text of the law bearing on the case, which was adopted in 1921 after the exposure of the White Sox scandal, follows:

"Bribery of Baseball Players.—Whoever gives, promises or offers to any professional baseball player any valuable thing with intent to influence him to lose or try to lose a baseball game in which such player is taking part or expects to take part, and whoever, being a professional player, solicits or accepts any valuable thing to influence him to lose a baseball game in which he is taking part or expects to take part, is guilty of a felony, punishable by imprisonment of not less than one year nor more than five years and by a fine of not more than $10,000."

BAN JOHNSON DENIES HE FAVORS GOVERNMENT CONTROL

Chicago, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—President Ban Johnson of the American league today disclaimed responsibility for published assertions that he favored government control of baseball and said that he had not endorsed such a movement.

"The government should be of aid to us in suppression of gambling and curbing of gamblers operating nation-wide," President Johnson said, But any such details for rules and regulations by government commission did not originate with me in any way."

TRIS SPEAKER SIGNS UP IN MATRIMONY LEAGUE

Cleveland, Jan. 15.—Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, and Miss Mary Frances Cudahy were married here late today. The marriage was the culmination of a romance which had its inception in the fall of 1919. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Washington from where they will go to Lakeland, Fla., the Indians' training camp, for a brief stay.

JOHNSON OFFERED WACO BASEBALL FRANCHISE

Waco, Texas, Jan. 15.—Walter Johnson, star pitcher of the Washington Senators, has been asked to consider the proposition of taking over the local baseball franchise.

In a telegram sent to Johnson today, R. E. Bellow, representing a committee of Waco business men enumerated the advantages which this city offers as a baseball center and urged a prompt decision of the proposition of interesting himself in the local club.

Waco for the last few years has been a member of the Texas association, a Class D circuit.

KAPLAN GIVEN BANQUET BY HOME-TOWN FOLKS

Meriden, Jan. 15.—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, featherweight champion of the world, was the special guest tonight of the X. Y. Z. club in a testimonial banquet here at a local hotel. The club presented the new champion with a silver cup. Kaplan in return gave the gloves he wore in defeating Kramer, to the organization which has been strongly behind him in his different ring appearances.

The celebration was one of the greatest ever tendered a local celebrity. Representatives of the New York city and state newspapers, the [illegible] association, promoters and friends united to greet the featherweight champion. Gifts of silver were presented to honored guests.

Rice Is Silent.

London, Jan. 15.—Up to a late hour this evening Arthur F. Bettison, the manager of the National Sporting club, had received no details from Thomas S. Rice, a Brooklyn newspaperman representing London promoters, concerning the reported offer of Tommy Gibbons, the American heavyweight, to fight Luis Angel Firpo in England.

Advertisers' Golf Tourney.

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 15.—Robert Finney, Baltimore, N. J., and George Hartman, Chicago, will meet tomorrow in the finals of the championship division of the Winter Golf league of advertising interests. Finney today defeated George C. Dutton, Boston, one up in the semi-finals, and Hartman defeated Dr. Archibald R. Gardiner, New York, by the same score.

Barnsley Beats Milwall.

London, Jan. 15.—In a relayed first round game in the cup competition of the English Football association today Barnsley defeated Milwall by 6 to 1. The Barnsley meets Bradford City in the second round.

Broadway Theater

Marty Dupree's Musical Follies is still packing them in at the Broadway theater. There's a reason; and the new show this fine company offered for the last half of this week makes the reason very obvious. Gallagher and Shean sone again made a great hit. If you want to see something worthwhile don't miss this show.

Baring human souls, and affording the audience a glimpse into the innermost circles of an American family, "The Turmoil," Universale's Hobart Henley dramatization of Booth Tarkington's famous novel, opened last night at the Broadway theater. The Turmoil, predominating topic among picture folk today, comes by its honors honestly. It is more than a mere play; a mere entertainment, although it is gripplingly entertaining and real. George Hackathorne and Eleanor Boardman are the outstanding players in the cast.

Paul Brown's Ladies' Garment Shop

Through an advertisement on another page of this edition announcement is made of the opening of the shop of Paul A. Brown in rooms 114 and 115, Disco building, 1st floor.

In opening this new ladies garment shop in Norwich, Mr. Brown has given most careful attention to detail. Everything in the shop has been arranged to give a homelike atmosphere. The two rooms have been prettily trimmed in blue and gray and are furnished like many a living room in local homes, where patrons may have comforts and conveniences while selecting their purchases.

Mr. Brown has had a wide experience in the ladies garment line and presents garments of the better kind, for his patrons. For five years Mr. Brown was a buyer of merchandise for May Co., of Cleveland. Later he was buyer of ladies garments for Wallace Co., of Schenectady and for the past year has been buyer for a Norwich house.

An invitation is extended to all his old friends and the women of Norwich and vicinity to come to the shop and look over the select stock of garments now on display. Mr. Brown is now specializing in ladies' garments only but will soon add coats and millinery to his stock of merchandise.

At The Community House

This Friday evening, Jan. 16th at 8 o'clock in Community House, Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of mammals and reptiles at the New York Zoological Park and author of The Book of Nature will appear under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the United Church.

He is one of the world's greatest authorities on animal life and his lecture, Our Animal Friends and Foes, is infinitely interesting in its portrayal of animal traits and the life of the wild.

Dr. Ditmars lecture is illustrated with the most remarkable series of motion pictures ever produced. To obtain his unique pictorial records of animal life he erected at Scarsdale a most complete motion picture studio, equipped with highly complicated appliances for searching into the secrets of nature and causing them to live on the screen. His motion pictures are the most wonderful pictures of animals ever produced and are being shown in the greatest photoplay theaters of America and Europe.

Among the organizations before which Mr. Ditmars has appeared are the following: The National Geographical Society, Vassar College, New York University, The Yale Club, Lotos club, American Museum of Natural History, The University club, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences and Buffalo club. His lectures and wonderful motion pictures have been enthusiastically received wherever he has appeared. Special rates are offered for children and parents are urged to give the children the opportunity of hearing Dr. Ditmars fascinating talk on animals and of seeing the wonderful pictures. Tickets for adults $1.00. For children 25 cents. Tax exempt.

Breed Theater

The girl, as honest as she's fair to look upon, double-crosses the hero who has saved her life, imperilled in a runaway stage coach. As a result of the girl's double-cross, the handcuffed hero, innocently arrested for highway robbery and murder is in danger of being hanged, if not lynched first by the howling mob.

That's the unique, tense dramatic situation in The Desert Outlaw, the splendid new William Fox attraction, which comes to the Breed theater today and Saturday, starring Buck Jones.

At bay, handcuffed, aboard his faithful horse Silver, Buck as the hero, Sam Langdon, a two-fisted prospector, defies fate and bucks bad luck in the most unexpected manner, freeing himself of the handcuffs in a unique, sensational stunt that will give a new thrill of surprise and suspense to Buck Jones' fans.

And the girl, a real peach, played by attractive young Evelyn Brent, wipes out her thoughtless "double-cross" with all that woman can give.

The tenth chapter of Days of 49, the Pathe news and an Imperial comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Broadway Sunday

If there are any benighted individuals who are still of the opinion that women are "the weaker sex," We bid them hasten down to the Broadway Sunday where The Female, Betty Compson's latest starring vehicle will be the feature. We guarantee that after they have viewed this Paramount-Sam Wood production they will be willing to admit that they were all wrong.

Betty Compson has the title role of Dalia, the snarling, savage daughter of an African farmer who becomes a polished, cultured woman of the world. It is a part ideally suited to Miss Compson's temperament and she makes the most of the wide dramatic scope that the characterization affords her. Warner Baxter as the hero, gives a highly creditable performance; Noah Beery does his usual good work; Dorothy Cumming and Freeman Wood are more than acceptable in their respective parts; as are the rest of the supporting cast.

At the Strand.

Two big photoplay features will mark the opening of the Strand theatre on Sunday evening and will continue through Monday and Tuesday. The features will be Thundering Hoofs, a real western drama, featuring that superb western actor, Fred Thompson. The other feature will be Girls Men Forget, a Monte Banks comedy, with that delicious comedienne, Patsy Ruth Miller, in the leading feminine role and irresistible Johnny Walker playing opposite her. The new serial, Riddle Rider, will also be shown as well as the short subjects.

The policy of the house is to give Norwich people the very best in motion pictures and Mr. MacNaughton, manager of the theater, is in New York signing up for first releases which will be shown at the Strand during the coming months. The bill at the Strand will change three times a week, Sunday, Wednesday and Friday. The admission will be small, matinees being ten cents with the exception of Saturday when evening prices will prevail. The evening prices will be ten and twenty cents. Herb Smith's orchestra will be in the pit so the public is assured of real good music at every performance. The score played by the orchestra will be specially picked and adapted to each picture.

PROPOSE NEW PLAN FOR SCHOOL GRANTS FOR TOWNS

A new plan for apportionment of state grants for the support of public schools has been proposed to take the place of the present state grant system. The proposed plan affects the following present grants: the enumeration, the support of schools, the special aid, the high school tuition and the high school transportation grants. The new plan retains the enumeration grant in amount but provides certain new conditions under which it shall be paid; for the remaining present grants to be paid under conditions radically different from those attaching to the present grants. The proposed plan omits all provision for special grants designed to promote special activities. Such grants it is held are best determined as special occasions for them arises, and in each case in accordance with the special conditions that have to be met.

The proposed new plan of state grants is designed to achieve three closely related, but clearly defined purposes, and to achieve these by the apportionment of state aid sufficiently and equitably adjusted in amount to each town's need and own effort. Briefly, these three purposes and the method of their achievement are as follows:

1. To secure the maintenance in every town and city in the state, regardless of local financial resources, this minimum standard of elementary education: the best that can be maintained in each town or city at an annual expenditure for current maintenance of $60 per pupil in average daily attendance. This is not a high standard. It is already surpassed by 74 per cent of the 169 towns of the state. The average expenditure per pupil for the state was $72.23 in 1922-23.

The methods proposed for securing the maintenance of this minimum elementary standard are, on the one hand, to withhold all state grants, including the Enumeration Grant, from any town or city that fails to maintain this standard; and, on the other hand to assure to every town meeting aid, a sufficient grant to enable that town to maintain this standard, provided the town makes the same reasonable effort that every other town must make to qualify for aid.

Concretely expressed, the levying of a local school tax equal to five mills on the equalized grand list is considered to represent a reasonable, not a severe, local effort. In justification of this required effort, it may be stated that a large majority of all the towns of the state now levy a tax in excess of five mills for the maintenance of their schools; in several, the rate exceeds nine mills even. The plan provides that any town in which the proceeds of a five mill levy, increased by the Enumeration Grant, yields a sum equal to less than $60 per pupil in average daily attendance, shall receive from the state a Minimum Standard Grant, in the form of reimbursement, sufficient in amount per pupil to bring the local funds, plus the Enumeration Grant up to $60.

2. To encourage the maintenance of elementary standards higher than the defined minimum, towns receiving a Minimum Standard Grant are offered further aid in the form of an Encouragement Grant, which, by way of reimbursement, makes it possible for any town that makes the same degree of local effort required of every other town qualifying for an Encouragement Grant to maintain a standard expressed by an expenditure per pupil in excess of $60 up to $75, which is the limit to which the Encouragement Grant is applicable.

It should be noted here the Encouragement ceases to function in the support of education costing in excess of $75 per pupil not because this standard is considered the maximum beyond which expenditures are not justified. This maximum of state aid is fixed for the purpose of making it possible to calculate definitely the maximum amount of aid to which the state may be obligating itself. It is also believed that the majority of the towns affected will hardly be prepared to exceed this standard in the immediate future. That it is not a high standard, however, is made evident from the fact that it exceeds the average for the state by only $2.77, and that in more than one-fourth of the towns of the state this standard is already surpassed.

3. The High School Grant is designed to assure to every youth of the state the opportunity of a high school education of approved standard, and to enable every town, through aid adjusted equitably to the town's need, to provide such education either in its own school or through the payment of transportation to and tuition in approved schools maintained by other towns.

Essential provisions of a law necessary to give effect to this proposed plan of the state grants:

1. The Enumeration Grant. ($2.25 per enumerated child as at present) shall be paid to any town or city only on the certification of the State Board of Education that said town or city maintained its schools in the preceding year in accordance with all the provisions of the state law, and that the current expense of so maintaining the elementary schools involved an expenditure equal to not less than $60 per elementary pupil in average daily attendance.

2. The Minimum Standard Grant. Any town or city that in the preceding year has maintained its schools in accordance with the law and has expended for current maintenance of elementary schools, without the disapproval of the State Board of Education, a sum equal to not less than $60 per pupil in average daily attendance, shall receive reimbursement from the state of a sum per pupil equal to the amount by which the proceeds of a local five mill levy, on the basis of the equalized grand list, increased by the enumeration grant, falls short of a sum equal to $60 per pupil in average daily attendance.

3. The Encouragement Grant. Any town or city fulfilling all the above conditions entitling said town or city to a Minimum Standard Grant, which expends on its elementary schools, without the disapproval of the State Board of Education, a sum in excess of $60 per pupil for current maintenance, shall be entitled to reimbursement by the state of a certain portion of its expenditure in excess of $60 and not exceeding $75 per elementary pupil in average daily attendance. The percentage of reimbursement to which each such town or city is entitled shall be determined by the following formula:

Towns in which a one mill levy on the equalized grand list yields per pupil in average daily attendance:

		Reimbursement
$11	but less than $12	10 per cent.
10	but less than 11	20 per cent.
9	but less than 10	30 per cent.
8	but less than 9	40 per cent.
7	but less than 8	50 per cent.
6	but less than 7	60 per cent.
5	but less than 6	70 per cent.
4	but less than 5	80 per cent.
Less than	4	90 per cent.

4. The High School Grant. Any town or city that fulfils both of the two following conditions shall be entitled to reimbursement by the state of a certain portion of its expenditure on high school education, said portion to be determined in accordance with the formula under 3 above:

(1) Expends money under the approval of the state board for any or all of these purposes:

(a) Payment of tuition of high school pupils.

(b) Payment of transportation of high school pupils attending out of town school.

(c) Maintenance of a high school.

(2) Produces by 1 mill levy an amount equivalent to less than $12 per elementary pupil in average daily attendance.

5 Limitation of total amount of total grants to any one town or city. The total amount of the state grants designated as Maintenance of Minimum Standard, Encouragement and High School Grants, apportioned to any single town or city in one year shall not exceed the sum of $15,000.

(There are at least three cogent reasons for fixing a total maximum of grants to be awarded to any one town in a single year. In practice, no strictly rural town can become eligible for grants totaling in excess of the above fixed limit. It is only certain larger towns and small cities with most of the population concentrated and occupied industrially and commercially, rather than agriculturally, and with a comparatively large number of pupils, that can qualify for grants, in accordance with the conditions, which would total more than $15,000. There are two sound reasons for limiting the amount of aid which should be equitably granted to communities of this type. First, it is generally recognized and admitted that in such communities the annual income, out of which taxes and all other expenses must be paid, is greater in proportion to the equalized grand list than it is in rural communities. Just how much greater, there is no data on which anyone could reasonably assume to make a definite statement. Second, it is further well known that the cost of providing certain standard educational advantages is likely to be less, on the whole, in a concentrated than in a scattered school population. Finally, a third reason for fixing a limit to the total of grants to any one town is the very practical one of fixing definite and calculable limits to the total obligations that the state assumes, and of so fixing those limits that the total will be within the state's financial capacity.)

Criticism of the plan herewith proposed: It is not maintained, let it be said emphatically at the outset, that this proposed plan is perfect, that it is beyond criticism. No one can recognize its defects more clearly than those who have spent much time in formulating and critically discussing it. It is maintained, however, that at every essential point this proposed plan is superior to present methods. It is superior in requiring a reasonable degree of local effort as a condition of eligibility to any state aid; in encouraging efficiency, especially through consolidation of schools; in practically assuring standard of education, accurately defined and easily determined; in assuring to every town funds sufficient to maintain this minimum standard of education, provided the town makes the minimum effort that every other town qualifying for aid must make to provide the same minimum standard; in encouraging the maintenance of standards beyond the minimum, by offering to all towns qualifying for aid in the maintenance of the minimum standard, further aid, equitably adjusted in amount to need and local effort in support of higher standards.

The plan is fairly open to three types of criticism. First, the fundamental purposes and principles may be criticised as to their soundness; second, the details, and, finally, the whole plan may be criticised in comparison with the plan at present in operation, or with any other plan that may be formulated.

The fullest criticisms along any or all of these lines are invited. It may, however, be in order to submit two suggestions concerning the direction of criticisms best calculated to serve the interests of education, broadly considered. First, critics who find the fundamental purposes and principles of the plan sound and desirable, can best serve educational interests by criticising details constructively, for the purpose of finding more effective ways of putting the accepted purposes and principles into operation. Second, critics who find in the plan many defects that apparently can not be remedied, should not forthwith reject the plan as impractical or undesirable, but should rather address themselves to a critical comparison of the plan as a whole, including its defects, with the plan at present in operation, not forgetting to include also its defects; or, if such critics find both the present and the proposed plan inferior to some other plan, they can render great service by outlining the superior plan.

Comparison of the effect of the town plans, present and proposed, on the number of towns receiving state aid and the relative amount received.

	Present Plan	Basis Actual Expenditures	Had Expend Reached $60 Per El. Pupil	Had Expend Reached $75 Per El. Pupil
		Proposed Plan

"Zinovieff, The Flame"

M. Zinovieff, one of the triumvirate which now rules Russia, who is regarded as the man who will supplant Leon Trotsky, whom it is said "is at the end of his power in Russia." Trotsky's constant utterances, and writings, which in some little way, hurt the new Government, had consequently gained him no little enmity among his co-workers, except the army, which stood man for man, back of Trotsky, due to his wonderful organization of the fighting forces. Now with the change in the military system, Trotsky's power is broken. Zinovieff, long known as a fiery orator, and the man who led the fight on Trotsky, is the ultimate leader.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Radio

Well, I'm glad to be able to say right at the beginning of this story that it didn't take long for the Big Brown Bear and the kind Policeman Dog to drag the sled with the barrel of lollypops up the hill to the Cosy Cave. And as soon as the barrel was safe in the woodshed the Big Brown Bear invited the Policeman Dog and Little Jack Rabbit to come in and rest awhile. "You can listen in on my radio," he said pulling up an arm chair and a little stool. Sure enough, the evening program had commenced and Professor Jim Crow was announcing that Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot, President of the Rabbitville Bank and the Welsh Rarebit Club, would give a talk from Bunny Station, ABC, Shady Forest, Tall Pine Tree.

"Hello, Folks," began the dear old gentleman bunny, "I wish to explain why there has been such a shortage of carrot cents lately. It's because everybody has stored away the carrots for the winter. We shall have a hard, long winter the Kind Farmer's Almanac tells us. We have plenty of Lettuce Leaf Dollar Bills, but what are the children to do if we have no carrot cents? So your Uncle Lucky has hit upon a plan. My bank is now turning out Pumpkin Pennies for the little boy bunnies and the little rabbit girls.

With a small round tin cover we cut little round pennies from the old pumpkin shells and all the bunny children in Rabbitland may come down tomorrow to my bank and get a dollar's worth for nothing. Your old Uncle Lucky won't let the children go without pennies, not as long as he is president of the bank and owns a circus."

As the dear old gentleman rabbit finished his talk, Professor Jim Crow announced:

"This is Bunny Station ABC, Shady Forest, Tall Pine Tree. You have just heard Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot's talk on the new pumpkin Pennies. The next feature on our programme is a song by our old friend, the Yellow Dog Tramp."

"Oh, oh, oh!" cried the little rabbit hopping on the three legged stool and skip-toeing about the room, "I wish I could see him."

"Listen," whispered the Big Brown Bear. "Here comes his song," and lifting the bunny boy on his lap, he smiled at the kind Policeman Dog.

"Oh, when the woods are sweet and green,
With sunbeams twinkling in between
The tall high branches thick with leaves,
I love to lie beneath the tree
And listen to the wind's sweet song:
Yes, I could listen all day long.
I hear again the sweet refrain
Of cow-bells tinkling down the lane,
My dear old mother's happy bark,
The carol of the meadow lark.
The farmer's whistle, sharp and clear,
Down on the farm in New Hampshire."

"Gracious me," sighed the kind Policeman Dog, as the song ended. "I feel homesick all of a sudden. Guess I'll trot home to my wife and little bow wows. Goodbye," and away he went to Rabbitville.

"May I call up Mother on the 'phone to find out if she is lonely?" asked the little rabbit, looking up at the two tears that glistened in the Big Brown Bear's kind old face. And in the next story.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

EAST HADDAM

Morris Levine, who recently purchased the business of W. W. Gates, arrived last week from Elizabeth, N. J., to take charge of it.

Mrs. R. J. Boquist, who has been a visitor at the home of her father, Louis Wippert, the past two weeks, has returned to her home in Worcester, Mass.

Edward C. Worthington is laid up for a few days by a severe crash in the leg, received while chopping in the woods. He went to East Hampton and had the wound dressed.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gandy of Deep River, were recent guests of Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Cook.

Miss Dorothy Duncan, who has been a visitor at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Harold R. Smith, has returned to Brooklyn, N. Y.

The icehouse of the fish and game club has been filled with 10-inch ice from Lake Bashan.

Charles Malinquist, a former resident of East Haddam, died at his home in New Haven last week. He was a member of Columbia lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M.

Mrs. Elmer N. Peck, who has been receiving treatment at the Middlesex hospital, is expected home this week.

Miss Mary V. Wakeman is spending some time with Mrs. N. W. Rathbun.

Mrs. G. B. Vroom entertained informally a few friends at an afternoon party last Friday. Those who attended report a very pleasant time.

Miss Mary Whitmore of Middletown has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smith.

William, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Heber Ely, has been ill the past week. Her mother, Mrs. William Price of New York city, has been helping care for him.

Old Watering Place

In Greece there are still remnants of a city that was a famous watering place long before the Christian era. It is the town of Odipos and the emperors of Rome went there to take sulphur baths and rests. The boiling sulphur waters still pour out of the crevices in the rocks, and ruins of the buildings are still apparent. The streets of the little village are bordered on each side with streams of hot sulphur water.

If our neighbors would only do things as we think they should, how much easier it would be to love them!

Have You Piles?

Dr. Leonhardt's Hemroid will surely and safely relieve any form of piles—quick action in even old stubborn cases. No cutting—no greasy salves. A harmless tablet that removes the cause. Money back if not satisfied. Ask Lee & Osgood Co. or any good druggist for Hemroid. Be sure it's Dr. Leonhardt's.

EDUCATION AND ITS USE

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

In the old days of "the little red school house," one knew fairly well what people meant when they talked of getting an education.

It meant a thorough grounding in the three R's—reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. It meant the learning certain fundamental rules of grammar and the application of them by "parsing," usually from Pope's Essay on Man. It meant a primary knowledge of geography, enough at least to "bound" your own state and give, off-hand, the names of the capitals of the thirty states which then made up the Union. It sometimes included a little history. That about completed the studies attempted in the common schools. If one had the urge and opportunity for going further, he might study algebra and geometry and trigonometry and Latin and Greek and chemistry and ancient history and logic and botany and geology and astronomy at high school and college.

There were two ideas at the bottom of that old education. One was the abominable and never-enough-to-be-deplored superstition of affording "mental discipline." The other was the more wholesome plan of giving the lads and lassies a start-off along the lines of scholarship. The common school gave them such rudiments as enabled them to meet the common exigencies of common life; the high school introduced those of greater ambition to a line of somewhat higher study; the college opened the doors a little upon the vaster corridors of knowledge, and gave the freshmen and sophomores a glimpse of the routes they must tread if they wished to become highly educated in later life. None of the schools, low or high, even pretended to cover the whole area of human knowledge, comparatively narrow as it was at that time. They gave the young folks a fair and even start, from which they could develop themselves along such lines as they felt impelled to follow.

They didn't assume to turn out fully educated graduates. The rounding out of a complete education was, even then, recognized as the work of a life—one to be continued so long as the will towards knowledge persisted.

What the schools teach—or pre- [illegible]-how-a-days, I confess [illegible] recently overheard [illegible] girl talking about her [illegible]. And I once saw a lad [illegible] exhibit to his doc[illegible] some samples of free-[illegible]. He had done it, course, [illegible] entrusted in the [illegible] ling grades [illegible] to [illegible] somewhere he'd [illegible] to indulge about every-[illegible] minutes of counter-[illegible]ing. The [illegible] give the young-[illegible] of exactness, [illegible] It is, of course, self-evi[illegible] that they cannot be so-ho[illegible] rounded in any studies. It all looks [illegible] like a course in [illegible] skip and jump," touching a thousand things and grasping none.

What is education, anyway? We farmers and farmers' children have the right to as good an education as is obtainable. But, before we try to get it, we must know what it is. It would be quite as great folly for us to follow a will-o'-the-wisp into a quagmire as for the silly people in the old fable.

For one thing, education is NOT merely the accumulation of facts or rules in a higgledy-piggledy agglomeration. It is not a sign of education merely to know one's A-B-C's and arithmetic up to decimal fractions. Nor is it an evidence of education to be able to cross Euclid's Pons Asinorum or repeat by rote the order of the premises in a logical syllogism.

In other words, education is not a matter of the things we are taught, but most emphatically a matter of the things we learn. There is a world-wide difference between those two. A dog may be taught to jump through rings or sit up and beg or fall down and be "dead." Much good such tricks do the dog. But when he's learned for himself how to lie in wait for a woodchuck or head off a skyoodlin' rabbit or recognize the difference between a prowling tramp and a calling neighbor, he's started on a line of real dog education.

Huxley, the famous scientist, was a man of extraordinary knowledge. As the trite saying has it, he had forgotten more things than most of us know or ever will know. Therefore I was intensely interested to chance upon Huxley's ideas about education, the other day.

According to Huxley, the most valuable result of education is "the ability it gives you to make yourself do the thing you ought to do, when it ought to be done, and whether you like doing it or no."

Now Huxley could tell at a glance whether the old fossil bone you dug up was a part of the skeleton of a dinosaur or a hairy mammoth. He could measure the parallax of Mars or tell you exactly how sunlight and air and chlorophyll made a weed grow. With a good many other things that you and I couldn't even make a decent guess at. But he didn't consider this knowledge in itself an education or even the most valuable result of education.

True education, in his eyes, was that training which actually compelled you to do the right thing, at the right time, in the right way, whether you felt like it or not.

Please think that over a few minutes. Don't let it just graze the periphery of your mind and glide off like water from the duck's back. Let it sink in, please. See if you can absorb it.

You and I are farmers—just plain everyday farmers. Probably we have been accustomed to look at the preacher and the doctor and the lawyer and the professor as better educated men that we are. Perhaps they are.

But there's nothing in our calling, commonplace and even sordid though it be, to prevent our reaching as high if not a higher degree of true education than any of them. For they don't any of them, always do the thing they ought to do when it ought to be done, and regardless of momentarily protesting interests or shiftlessnesses. We don't either. But the fact that we don't is no reason why we can't. We can, if only we've got the nerve and the backbone and the compelling will to do it.

From which it is not only logically demonstrable but openly and startlingly evident that we can educate ourselves to the highest attainable level—if only we care enough about it.

This view of what education really is comes to me as a vivid illustration of the opportunities open to us farmers, as to every one else. The value of a lawyer's education does not consist chiefly in his ability to tell you, off-hand, the difference between a writ of certiorari and a mandamus. It consists in his capacity to make out and serve and enforce the right writ to save your property or protect your rights. The test of a doctor's education is not mainly in his ability to tell you the definitions of pleurisy and spinal meningitis, but in his prompt and right application of the remedy or alleviation demanded.

The highest value of a farmer's education is not that he can tell you, without blinking, the exact proteid and carbohydrate contents of ground corn and oats, but that he can and will feed them at the right time, in the right proportions and the right quantities. So matter how much he may want to go fishing or hunting at the time, or how much snow he must shovel to get to the barn.

It is, of course, useful for him to know what his soil is composed of and what treatment of fertilization and cultivation it requires to develop best crops. But all such knowledge in the world won't raise crops, unless he puts on the fertilizer and tills the soil at the right time and in the right way, no matter how much he may want to do something else—or nothing—just that day.

It isn't the mere knowing things that constitutes education. It is the capacity and the will to transmute your knowledge into accomplishment, whether that accomplishment consists in measuring the diameter of Betelgeuse, up in Orion's starry shoulder, or in making two blades of grass or two stalks of corn grow where one grew before.

Most of us farmers, especially those of the older generation, had to be content in our young days with what the district schools could give us. We all of us recognized that donation was sadly incomplete and have, too often, settled down into the conviction that it ended our hope of education. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Education is not a breakfast which we are compelled to hurry through in the morning and make an end of. It is a continuing diet, lasting through the longest life and within the competence of every man Jack of us.

In fact, all that school or academy or college really does for any of us is to open the door to education and then permit us to voyage therein in whatever direction and to whatever extent our wishes and capacities may incite. True education comes later.

Nor is there any calling on God's big earth which affords such opportunities for increasing and enlarging education as farming. If we don't take advantage of them it is not their fault, but our own.

It isn't a case, either, where opportunity knocks once and once only. It is knocking all the time. It keeps up a steady and persistent rat-tat-too on the panels of all our doors.

It is more often self-indulgence or cowardice or shiftlessness or sheer laziness which stands in the way of education than lack of opportunity.

To do the right thing, in the right way, at the right time, at no matter what cost to our comfort or our indolence—that is the most valuable result of real education

It is also the hall-mark of the highest manhood.

The mail is brought from the railroad and is hung in weatherproof bags on the side of a long cabin, whence it is taken by the residents within a radius of five miles, who are permitted to help themselves.

A Charge Of Women's Conference For Peace

With the weight of what will probably be the most significant gathering of women in the year upon her shoulders, Miss Josephine Schain, of the National League of Woman Voters, can still smile. Miss Schain is Secretary of the Conference of the Cause and Cure of War, to which eight national women's organizations are sending delegates to the Capital January 18 to 24. A group of brilliant speakers and experts on international affairs will be present.

FIRST MESSAGE IN U. S. BY WOMAN GOVERNOR

Cheyenne, Wyo., Jan. 15.—The first message of a woman governor today was addressed to the Wyoming legislature by Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross.

She asserted that she appeared before the legislature, not to represent any special class or interest, but approached her task purposing to do it for the advancement of the common interest of all.

She reviewed the progress of the state since her late husband took over the reins two years ago, and lauched directly into the question of state expenditures, which was the chief burden of her message.

Mrs. Ross called attention to huge overdrafts in the general fund and declared for an equalization of taxes. "In the past our system of taxation has been based largely on the needs of a stock raising and agricultural community," she said. "During the past decade an increasing proportion of our people and of the capital that has come into the state is engaged in the development of our natural resources. * * * It is certain that small property holders are paying more than their proportionate share. * * * I urge you, therefore, in the most emphatic terms I can command, to make such provision, by appropriate legislation, that all forms of wealth shall bear their full share."

Governor Ross recommended the "adoption of a law that will make a budget and its publicity obligatory upon every county school board and city council before any expenditure can ben made."

She expressed the hope that "our progressive young state will be among the first to ratify the child labor amendment."

KELLOGG TO SAIL FOR THE U. S. IN FEBRUARY

London, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—American Ambassador Kellogg intends to sail for the United States some time between the 12th and 25th of February, to take up his duties as secretary of state, it was said this afternoon at the American embassy.

While Mr. Kellogg's health is good, according to his intimates at the embassy, it is obvious that it is not robust. He feels, however, that if he can get a couple of afternoon off from his duties at the state department each week for golf, he will be physically equal to the tasks confronting him in his new post.

Regularly, during his stay in London, Ambassador Kellogg has kept up his golf. He has usually averaged a couple of rounds weekly. His best score of 87 was made over the Abington course, where he has often played. He has played, however, at Coombe Hill, Sunningdale and Walton Heath, three well- known English courses.

During his absence on the continent, invitations from all kinds of Anglo-American organizations poured into his office seeking to have him attend farewell dinners and luncheons in his honor. It is unlikely that he will be able to accept any of them, except that of the Pilgrims, at whose banqueting boards it is traditional for American ambassadors to make their salutatories and valedictories.

$500 Worth of Liquors Seized

Assorted liquors valued at $500 were seized by state police during a midnight raid on the home of Thomas Paton, Baker's Cove, Eastern Point, Wednesday night. Paton was placed under arrest on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell and released under cash bond of $500 pending hearing Monday morning before Judge C. C. Costello in Groton town court. The raid was conducted by Sergeant Clifford N. Gorgas and State Policemen Fred T. Caron and Henry L. Albright.

That all-in, dragged-out feeling

What a way to go through life—dragging through each day, tired after a night's sleep, listless, just going on from one day to the next. In nine cases out of ten, such a condition is the result of constipation. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure, safe relief from this disease.

"Half the world is half-asleep"

ALL over the country you will find men and women who have to drive themselves to keep their minds on their work. They can't concentrate. Everything is an effort. They are tired out all the time.

Why?

Because nine-tenths of them are suffering from constipation. It is the world's most universal disease.

There are other thousands whose minds are keen—whose bodies are vigorous—who have driven the sluggishness out of their system, with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN; the sure, safe way of relieving constipation permanently.

This is why Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sure—as it journeys through the body its fiber remains unchanged. It is what doctors call a bulk food. ALL-BRAN sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It stimulates the flow of the digestive juices. It absorbs and carries moisture into the intestine and prompts it to natural, healthy action. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works as nature works. You never have to increase the amount eaten.

Habit-forming pills and drugs become ineffective unless the dose is increased from time to time. Drugs and pills irritate the intestine.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Choose your own way to eat it—with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals, in soups, cooked with hot cereals, or made into the many delicious recipes given on every package. Delicious with fruits too—baked apple, etc.

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN

To be effective, bran fiber must go through the various digestive processes without submitting to any of them. It must pass through the entire alimentary tract without its form being changed.

What happens when a bran food is eaten?

After the saliva has acted upon it, it passes through the stomach and into the intestines where every part which is not fiber is absorbed.

In ALL-BRAN the quantity of fiber is so great that it furnishes bulk enough to prevent and relieve constipation.

In a part-bran food, the quantity of fiber is so small that there is only a puny amount to do a herculean task.

ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Demand it.

Far too important to be ignored

Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Beware of a product which is only part bran. At best, it can bring only part results. Too many times it may bring none at all. It is because Kellogg's is ALL-BRAN that doctors recommend it.

Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. Its results are known—proved in thousands of successful cases. Let it drive the vicious poisons of constipation out of your system for good and all. Your grocer sells Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Get a package today. You'll feel better in a week. Also served in all leading restaurants.

FIRST DAY OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Associate Justice Kellogg's name also went in for an eight year term.

It is expected that the committee on executive nominations will have an early meeting as the recess appointments of Governor Templeton expire shortly. Upon Judge Simpson's confirmation the vacancy in the New Haven common pleas court will be filled without much delay.

In both branches bills and resolutions appeared. The house voted $50 to Judge L. J. Nickerson for organizing the present house which is customary, and adjourned until next Tuesday when seats will be assigned.

In the senate over which Mr. Brainard presided for the first time as acting lieutenant governor there was more business. Many bills were of regional or private character and none of general scope. Senator Tone, democrat, offered a bill for an appropriation for an armory at New Haven.

After the session many of the committeemen met to organize and elect clerks. The committees which jointly name the clerk of bills and engrossing clerk will meet Tuesday.

EASTERN CONN. MEN ON IMPORTANT COMMITTEES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Jan. 15.—The house assembled this morning with nearly all the members present.

They were called to order by Speaker E. L. Darbie promptly at 11.15. Prayer was offered by Rev. Arthur F. Lewis of Naugatuck. The temperature of the house was low for comfort but it did not dim the hearty greetings that were heard on every side as the members met after a week's recess. Announcement of the appointment of Rev. Arthur F. Lewis of Naugatuck as chaplain of the house was made by Speaker Darbie and by resolution was confirmed.

A resolution was passed paying Hon. L. J. Nickerson $50 as speaker of the last house for organizing the present house.

In the senate the principal business was the appointment of the standing committees. Communications were received from the governor, nominating Judge Ernest Simpson of New Haven, for a judge of the superior court to succeed Judge Peaseley, an interim appointment of Governor Templeton and of Isadore Wise of Hartford to succeed the late Frank C. Sumner, on the state prison board. Both were referred to the senate committee on executive nominations.

But little business was received in the house, the first piece being a resolution authorizing the borough of Groton to issue $150,000 refunding bonds and $235,000 of consolidating bonds.

Other items introduced were resolutions appropriating $3,000 to the Fort Griswold for the care and maintenance of the building and grounds for two years and $1,000 for each year thereafter, one authorizing the town of Windham to make an appropriation to the Willimantic Normal school and an act validating the action of the Mystic Power company in increasing its capital stock.

Killingly Court.

Resolutions represented appointing J. Fenner Woodard judge and Charles S. Francis, deputy judge of the town court of Killingly. The contested election case of Norman C. Baker for the seat in the house awarded to Allen G. Lincoln of Ashford was reported by the special committee in favor of Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Baker was given leave to withdraw.

Senator Robbin's Appointment.

Interest was centered in the probable committee appointments in both the senate and house. The Norwich members drew lucky numbers all being on the major committees. In the senate, Robbins is made chairman of the committee on claims and chairman of the committee of capitol furniture and grounds and a member on manual and roll.

The other senate appointments from eastern Connecticut are: Childs of Woodstock, as agriculture chairman, Cronin of New London on engrossed bills, Beckwith of Lyme on excise, LaFrance of Plainfield on humane institutions and manual and roll, Cronin of New London was put on the judiciary, which carries with it the leadership of the senate. Beckwith of Lyme is also placed on the roads, rivers and bridges.

Engler and Cassidy Named.

On committees in the house, Norwich drew good appointments. Engler was placed on humane institutions and capitol furniture and grounds; Cassidy is made chairman of the house committee on constitutional amendments and a member of the important committee on cities and boroughs. New London county fared well on the judiciary committee with Senator Cronin of New London as chairman and associated with him are Floyd of Waterford and Burrows of Groton. Other house appointments from eastern Connecticut were, Davis of Franklin and Clark of Canterbury on agriculture; Wetherhead of Windham and Brown of Colchester on appropriations, Brockway of Lyme on banks; Cassidy of Norwich and Pomeroy of Windham on cities and boroughs; Mrs. Raymond of Lyme and Hutchins of Thompson on congressional and senatorial districts, Sisson of New London on capitol furniture and grounds; Leonard of Killingly on constitutional amendments. (Jointly.)

Other Connecticut Places.

Cassidy of Norwich, Bugbee of Old Lyme and Fournier of Plainfield were put on constitutional amendments (house); Morgan of North Stonington and Avery of Ledyard, relations; Proctor of Bozrah on excise; Payson of Lebanon on federal relations; Drescher of Sprague on finance; Manning of Lebanon on fish and game.

Clark of Canterbury and Troland of New London were named on contingent expenses; Bates of Pomfret on forfeited rights; Engler of Norwich and Rich of Putnam on humane institutions; Lewis of North Stonington on incorporations; Potter of Brooklyn on manual and roll; Leonard of Killingly and Whitaker of Lisbon on insurance; DeSaulniers of Thompson and James of Voluntown on labor; Browning of Preston on legislative expenses; Neisser of Colchester and Pecrie of Putnam on manufactures; Platt of Pomfret, Troland of New London, Hanney of East Lyme and Manning of Stonington on military affairs; Frink of Canterbury on new counties and county seats, Pechie of Putnam and Manning of Lebanon on new towns and probate districts; Higgins of Coventry (ch) and Jennings of Griswold and Tatem of Eastford on public health and safety; Marriot of Sterling and Johnson of Scotland on rail roads; Sullivan of Montville and Johnson of Scotland on roads, rivers and bridges; Brown of Colchester, Main of Preston and Tatem of Eastford on sale of lands.

Engler of Norwich and Champlin of Stonington were placed on school fund; Allyn of Groton shell fisheries; Malona of Salem on state parks and reservations; Hutchins of Thompson, Maine of Preston and James of Voluntown on state prison; Mrs. Raymond of Lyme and Buck of Ashford on state library; Sisson of New London and DeSaulniers of Thompson on unfinished business; Lincoln of Ashford on woman suffrage.

Charles A. Wheeler of Stamford was made chairman of the fish and game committee and Senator F. K. Wolcott of Norfolk heads the finance committee.

S. H. Reeves Appointed.

The comptroller announced the appointment of Stephen H. Reeves as assistant to the superintendent for the session. It was a popular appointment as Mr. Reeves has many friends among the membership of the assembly.

At 12.25 the house adjourned till Tuesday next at 11.15.

Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell completed his duties as patrolman on the Westerly police force this (Friday) morning after being a member of the Westerly police force for 16 years, his recent election as high sheriff of Washington county, causing his resignation. Motorcycle Officer George Madison will begin duty as patrolman in Officer Mitchell's place.

The Purple Collegians of Worcester, Mass., who will play the Armory Five here Saturday night, is undoubtedly the fastest basket ball team to ever visit Westerly, according to the management of the local team. With such stars as Riopel, Simendinger, Golembeski of Holy Cross, and Allen and Conway of the Springfield Training school, the Worcester team is said to be the best team outside the Celtics to appear in New England. The Armory Five will have the same lineup as usual and a hotly fought contest is assured. Whichever team wins, the score will be close.

The Westerly Cycle club team defeated Team 1 of the Masonic club by a margin of 1422 points last night in one of a series of interclub bridge whist matches. The match last night was played at the rooms of the Masonic club.

The scores follow:

W. C. C.: Joe Law and Cook, 2545; S. Marne and E. Parker, 4588; Christy and H. Mayne, 2273; Jack Law and I. McGowan, 2386; Phillips and Peabody, 861. Total, 15,771.

M. C.: Hozis and Spargo, 2064; Datson and Smith, 2705; H. Saunders and Crandall, 1538; MacLoren and Stahle, 2361; Lamb and Hodgson, 3529. Total 14,279.

Andrew V. Cavanaugh of Pawtucket reports that his summer cottage at Watchaug pond was recently broken into and looted of about all its furnishings, which could not have been removed without the aid of either an auto truck, automobiles or a team. They stripped the cottage of about everything, taking furniture, tables, chairs, a round table, bedding and minor furnishings. Also about $100 worth of canned goods and other groceries. Only four articles of furniture, a dining table, a china closet and a stove were left and the stove bore evidence of recent use. So far as is known no clue has yet been discovered as to who committed the robbery.

Hancock Women's Relief corps, No. 20, installed their officer for the year on Tuesday evening, the installation being conducted by Mrs. Ervilla Payne. The officers are as follows: President, Mildred Collins; senior vice president, Irmina Clark; junior vice president, Lillian Bromley; secretary, Carrie Dawley; treasurer, Hattie J. Coon; chaplain, Ruth Nash; guard, Lillian Weller; patriotic instructor, Sarah E. Vredenburg; press correspondent, Grace W. Smith; musician, Mattie Eccleston; assistant guard, Minnie Pierce; color bearer, No. 1, Myra Collins; color bearer No. 2, Irene Murray; color bearer, No. 4, Ruth O'Neil.

Mrs. Payne was presented with a box of cut flowers, and the corps also gave the retiring president, Sarah Vredenberg, a gold piece. Mrs. Vredenburg thanked the corps women for the kindness they had shown her during her term of office. Mrs. Vredenburg then gave Secretary Hattie J. Coon a bar pin in return for her services during the past year. Mrs. Lillian Slocum, who was made president of Hancock Women's Relief corps thirty years ago, told the corps she had been a member 37 years and that she attended a meeting of the W. W. Perkins corps of New London last week, when their officers were installed. There was a social time after the meeting with a Christmas tree and presents for all.

The sewing society will meet next Thursday with Carrie Dawley.

Representatives of the Providence company have been to Clark's Falls to investigate the water privilege which is for the mill and other buildings.

It is said that the Admiral Braid company, which now has a mill at 273 Admiral street, Providence, is working day and night to fill orders. With the establishing of another plant in Clark's Falls work will be provided for a number of people in that vicinity and it is also expected that a number of employes will be brought there from Providence.

WAS SENDING DYNAMITE BY WESTERLY EXPRESS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., Jan. 15.—When James W. Shaw, a clerk at the Westerly branch of American Railway Express company, received a wooden box addressed to "V. Lupo, 25 New Kirk Plaza, Brooklyn, N. Y." about 2.30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon his suspicions were aroused when the shipper reluctantly supplied the sender's address, which was marked "Angelo Stella, 53 Pierce street, Westerly, R. I." Reporting to Westerly express agent Herbert E. Cooke, the wooden box was opened and startling contents revealed. The box, a makeshift affair, was found to contain six or eight sticks of dynamite tied with a piece of an old shirt, fuse caps, old burlap bags, paper and old excelsior fillers.

Agent Cook called Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and a complete investigation followed. An express messenger was sent and returned with the shipper who had been informed that the box had come to pieces. Chief Brown met and questioned the man, who runs a small variety store and was informed by him that a man had left the box to be expressed and he had just gotten round to do it. He claimed to have sent other packages, some to have gone to Chicago. The man signing at "Angelo Stella" is thought to be Demitrio Selvidio, 33, formerly residing in Jersey City, who came to Westerly seven or eight years ago. For a period of a year and a half he and his wife have run the small store on Pierce street, near Pond street. Selvidio was taken to the Westerly police station and placed in a cell for the night.

Town Solicitor John Ferguson Jr., was called into the case and notified the United States district attorney in Providence, as the shipment was an interstate one. A telegram was sent to the United States Bureau of Explosives, No. 30 Vesey street, New York, and a request made to the New York authorities to look up the addressee in Brooklyn.

COLUMBIA

Every available source of water supply on the green is being utilized at present. A well near the residence of Miss Eliza Hutchins which has had no outside pump for some time, has recently been supplied with one, and the well at the barn of Charles K. Hitchcock is being used, as the well at the house has been entirely dry for some time. It is becoming an increasingly serious condition, as everyone is complaining of the scarcity of water, no rain of any account having fallen in several months.

The school at the Center reopened on Monday, having been closed during the past week, as the teacher, Miss Marion Holmes, was attending her sister, Miss Madeline, who is ill at the Hartford hospital.

The public buildings on the Green were well illuminated on Monday evening, the library being open as usual, followed by the annual meeting, the chapel being used by the Christian Endeavor society for the rehearsal of a play to be given by them shortly, and the town hall being used unstairs by members of the A. O. U. W. and downstairs by Prof. A. E. Lyman and his orchestra for a rehearsal. The lights in all these buildings are furnished by a plant in the cellar of Yeomans' hall.

The Saxton B. Little Free Library association held its annual meeting at the library Monday evening, nine members being present. Fred A. Hunt, president of the association presided. Edw. P. Lyman, treasurer, reported cash on hand Jan. 1, 1924, $1,882; interest on endowment funds received from trustee $159.53; payments $135-35; cash on hand Jan. 1st, 1925, $43. Alonzo Little, trustee, reported about $5900 endowment funds in his hands. Mrs. Howard Rice, the librarian, made the following report: The library was open every Monday and Friday evening with the exception of July 4th during the past year, being a total of 103 times.

The largest attendance was in August and the smallest in December, the aggregate attendance being 2875. The aggregate circulation was 3870 volumes, being 50 families in the community, comprising 120 readers and 60 summer people.

Eighty books were added to the library, 19 being purchased, 58 the gift of the state, and 3 from individuals, 23 being fiction, 20 for schools and 37 non-fiction. The circulation was divided as follows: Fiction, 1957; periodicals 846; juvenile 514; schools 200; all other classes 353; total 3570. The amount collected for fines during the year was $3.20.

The officers elected were, Fred A. Hunt, president; Howard A. Rice, vice president; Clayton E. Hunt, secretary; Edward P. Lyman, treasurer; Mrs. Howard A. Rice, librarian; Alonzo Little, trustee; Edward P. Lyman, associate trustee; library committee Miss Amelia Fuller and Clayton E. Hun.

There is just enough snow and ice on the state roads to make coasting on the hill very pleasant, so the young people are taking advantage of the opportunity.

BALTIC

Tuesday evening in St. Jean Baptist hall the installation of officers and initiation of 35 new candidates into the ranks of Councils No. 147 and 183 of L'U. St. J. B. d'Amerique took place. The ceremonies were conducted by Henri T. Ledoux, general president of the order, ably assisted by Miss Albina Lavroix and Albert Beaudette, both masters of ceremonies. A guard composed of eight young ladies dressed all in white captained by Miss Dorilla Lacroix, led candidates and officers to their respective station during the ceremonies. Members of the guard carried canes with bows attached, trimmed in red, white an dblue. Remarks were made by the chaplain, Rev. W. T. O'Brien and other speakers, after which the benefits derived by belonging to the order were explained by General President, Henri T. Ledoux. An excellent program followed by lunch closed the exercises. Visitors were present from Woonsocket, R. I., Dayville Danielson, Jewett City, Norwich, Taftville, Willimantic and Occum. Music for the evening was furnished by Lafreniere's orchestra.

Old European Festival

Midsummer eve falls on the night before the festival of St. John the Baptist, June 24. This used to be observed in all parts of Europe. Fires were kindled in the market places and the young people leaped over the flames or threw garlands into them. Dancing and singing played a part in the festival.

Beeswax Substitute

A substitute for beeswax has been discovered in Madagascar. It is made from the leaves of the rafia palm by reducing the dried leaves to small bits and boiling them. The wax thus produced is like beeswax.

GROTON AUTHORITIES TAKING STEPS TO STOP SPREAD OF SCARLET FEVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 15. — The authorities of Groton have taken steps to put an end to the increase of scarlet fever, which recently attacked children of the borough. Although the number of cases to already exist is not large additional cases are being reported almost daily and as a precautionary measure it has been deemed advisable to take drastic action. Health Officer Frank H. Howes has issued an order compelling all children residing in the borough, but who attend school in New London or elsewhere to submit to an examination for the purpose of determining whether the germ is lurking in the system of the student. Already these examinations have started and wherever the smallest is found to contain the germ infection is placed under quarantine.

Woodhull Davis, Monument [illegible], is spending a few days with relatives at Port Jefferson, L. I.

Several weeks ago complaint was made to Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin that obscene and suggestive literature was being sold to youths attending sessions at Bulkeley High school with the result that Prosecutor Cronin ordered the sale of the magazines and periodicals complained of stopped. Late this afternoon Homer Underwood, teacher at the school, informed the police that one of the magazines complained against, "Hot Dog," was on sale at a Bank street news store.

James D. Curran, has returned to his home in Springfield, Mass., after having spent several days in this city.

Tyler McNamara, formerly of New London, now located in Bridgeport, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Peter Hyde, Howard street, and Miss Esther Grinsted, Main street, Stonington, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were able to return to their respective abodes today.

Fire threatened to cause serious damage this morning to the residence of George G. Avery, 241 Broad street, when a quantity of soot was discovered ablaze in the chimney. Because of the intense cold the fires in the house had been forced and this resulted in the ignition of the soot. About 11 o'clock the blaze was discovered and a still alarm was sent to the headquarters resulting in Allen Hook and Ladder company and Northwest Mass company responding. Chemicals were emptied into the chimney and the blaze was extinguished before the woodwork had ignited.

The sidewalk in front of the property, 127 State street and while the hatchway sets into the cement, was discovered to be in a dangerous condition early this morning by Patrolman Howard Sloan. The danger spot was reported to the highway department and arrangements made to put the walk in a safe condition.

Mrs. Nathan Elkin and infant son, Hempstead street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

Andrew Ginty, laborer, employed at the Central Vermont railroad depot, East New London, and residing at 126 Golden street, who was taken into custody yesterday afternoon on North Bank street, where he was acting queerly, was liberated this morning.

The neighborhood in the vicinity of Washington and Colt street was aroused at an early hour this morning by the screams of a young woman and when some residents of that section arose from their beds and peered through their windows they observed a girl of about 25 leaping from a motionless automobile and with her ailment considerably torn. The girl continued to shriek as she ran to the veranda of a nearby house where she attempted to seek protection. Before any of the occupants of the house could attire himself the operator of the automobile started the engine and drove rapidly away, leaving the girl on the veranda. By the time that a male member of the house reached the doorway the girl had disappeared. No report of the incident, however, has been made to the police.

A few days ago John F. Smith, probation officer of New York requested the police for the police court record of John Gaydis, alias John Kushner, who is under arrest in New York, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and who, Smith alleged, received a sentence of not less than one year nor more than two years here for a similar offense several years ago. No record of Gaydis' arrest was found in the local court. Today Attorney Clayton B. Smith notified Captain Charles A. Pinney that five or six years ago he defended John Kushner, who was charged in the superior court with obtaining money under false pretenses in a place somewhere in New London county and for the offense Kushner received an indeterminate sentence of not less than one year nor more than two years in state's prison. When liberated Kushner was taken to Torrington, in which county, he answered a similar charge and received the same penalization. Upon obtaining his freedom again Kushner disappeared. At the time Kushner's father resided in Niantic and at one time was employed by the Standard Oil company at Bayonne, N. J.

Walter Aubin, a sailor, stationed at the submarine base, complained to the police this evening that his locker at the Army and Navy club, located in the Salvation Army building, corner of State and Atlantic street, had been entered and its contents consisting of a gray overcoat, blue suit of clothes, pair of slippers, gold cuff links, three shirts and collars, pen knife and traveling bag had been stolen.

When spring comes around, there will be a lot of sidewalks to be relaid and new ones to put down. There are in various sections of the city walks that are a menace to limbs and comment is very general about them. There is no excuse for tolerating defective walks now, for the residents whose property they abut can have the work relaid upon application and go to one-half the expense of having the satisfactory walk. On Pearl street there is a long stretch of walk that will have to be relaid and on Montauk avenue there is another stretch that is in breakneck condition.

It is understood that legislation is to be sought at the present session of the legislature that will govern the rate of interest that beneficial loan associations will be allowed to charge their clients. Such a law is on the statute books at present but a more stringent measure is likely to be enacted.

There is a vacant store on Green street at present the first that has been for rent there in many years.

The police say that the past fortnight has been the slowest they have known in many months. The number of arrests have been fewer and the offenses for which persons have been detained have been of a trivial nature and the offenses such as are often overlooked.

Lights on the lower end of Bank street were out of service for a brief time this evening but the cause was not apparent.

It is claimed that there is less liquor in storage at the custom house in this city now than has been there at any time since seizures were begun from boats in this vicinity. The liquor that is in storage is declared to be of the sort that makes men wild and that is kept from them unless they get it from the meanest sort of bootleggers. When the coast guard gets the ten new steel motor boats that have been contracted for it is believed that there will be an addition to the quantity of liquor seized.

The Elks lodge is expecting a report from the committee that was appointed some time ago to endeavor to run down the clues that have been obtained as to the parties who robbed the safe in the clubhouse. The bowling journey which the lodge has started is attracting interest among the membership and when the league is well started more teams are likely to be formed.

The big garage which is in course of construction on Howard street is covered in now and the work will be rushed to completion. The task of erecting it has gone along with more speed than but is generally conducted with in this city.

The operators of automobiles declare that the establishment of a parking place at Ocean beach will be a money-saving scheme for the parties who undertake it.

With the eclipse of the sun occurring a week from Saturday next the Connecticut company is to arrange to have the cars stop running for a brief time before and after the hour at which the sun is to be darkened. Storekeepers are disposed to comply with the request to obscure their windows so far as light is a factor in that operation. The eclipse occurs at 9 a. m. so that there will be little inconvenience to anyone who uses artificial light at that hour.

New London and Groton and Waterford members of the general assembly fared well in committee assignments in the senate and in the house. Daniel M. Cronin, the senator from the New London-Groton district, was assigned to the chairmanship of the judiciary committee, and he has as associates on that committee Messrs. Warren Burrows of Groton and James L. Floyd of Waterford; on the capitol grounds committee, this year and important one, is George W. Sisson of New London. Thomas E. Troland, member of the house from New London, is assigned to the military affairs committee and to that on contingent expenses. Mr. Sisson is also on the committee on unfinished business. Senator Cronin is also on the rules committee.

Louis J. Pierson, a driver for the Chappell Coal company, instead of taking on a load of anthracite yesterday, loaded up with poor booze. He said an Italian came along and invited him to drink. He went to the home of Mrs. James Rabishaw at 20 High street, and there annoyed her so that she complained to the police. Pierson was arrested and locked up by Sergeant Cavanaugh and Patrolman Babcock. He told the best story he could in court this morning, which was to the effect that he was married and was the father of four children. Judge Prince disliked to send such a man to jail, so he fined him $10 and then suspended the execution of the judgment and gave Pierson some advice that he will be wise to follow. Probation Officer Mansfield took charge of Pierson and further directed him in the way he should travel hereafter.

Strangers, especially drummers, make a practice of leaving their automobiles parked in the highways all night. They run a big risk, by so doing, but that does not seem to deter them and they take a chance. Last night an automobile was parked in Golden street and when the owner sought the machine today he found that much of its contents, samples, etc., had been stolen. He reported the matter to the police, but there was little satisfaction in that, for the drummer had no one to blame but himself. There are garages galore in this city and they are for the accommodation of just such persons as Mr. Drummer, but, ostensibly, to save the expense he preferred to leave the car in the highway. There has been an effort made before the city council to compel the housing of automobiles at night, but it failed of passage and the limit of time was unrestricted. Another reprehensible practice is that of allowing cars to stand at the curbing all night without displaying lights upon them. There is a restriction that compels the autos to be within a specified distance of a street light, but even that restriction is not observed and owners leave their cars far from the zone in which the statutes allow them to be left. A few collisions will wake up the owners and the city council as well, and insistence on observance of the laws will be the order. It is the duty of the police to report such violations of the parking law as they observe, but this is not always done.

An automobile owned and operated by William Watrous of Noank, and a machine owned and operated by a man named Crane, of Niantic, were in collision late yesterday on Bank street, near the corner of Tilley street. Both cars were damaged.

A Ford touring car laden with merchandise was discovered parked on Golden street, between Green and Bank streets at 2.30 o'clock this morning, the machine having been beside the curb since early evening. Fearing that the car might be molested because of its contents, Patrolman John Clifford caused the merchandise to be transferred to the police station and the car was then placed in a garage. This morning Haskell Benjamin, Winthrop, Mass., appeared at the police station and claimed his property, then going to the garage where the car was in storage, took possession of it and started on his way to Massachusetts.

Letitia M. Gardner, guardian of Diana Gardner, has sold a tract of land on Gardner avenue to John and Catherine Dolan.

Letitia M. Gardner has sold to Richard and Edith E. Warren a parcel of land on Niles Hill road.

Thomas J. Lavan, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Lavan, of 249 Huntington street, died late yesterday at Lawrence hospital, where he had been under treatment but a few days. Besides his parents the boy is survived by several brothers and sisters.

Gordon R. McIntosh, 31 Blinman street, complained to the police this afternoon that while his automobile was parked in front of his residence an unidentified car collided with the automobile and damaged it.

The property at Nos. 413-419 Bank street, owned by Mrs. Mary J. Rogers, was sold today to Barnet Gorers, the price being $22,500. The property consists of two stores, one occupied by Peabody Brothers, marketmen and the other by the Modern Electric company, and on the upper floor for residential purposes. The property has a frontage on Bank street of about 100 feet and runs to a depth of 250 feet to Blinman street, with entrance from that street.

JEWETT CITY

Beginning January 1 a new system of block and clearance was put into operation at the local railway station. The new rulings are calculated to work for complete safety for all trains approaching Jewett City when yard shifting is being completed. The new idea contemplates making it an impossibility for recent accidents to occur again. When work trains are occupying the main iron, no other train may enter this block, unless special "close-in" orders are issued by the dispatcher, allowing them to approach to the protecting flag of the train occupying or using the main.

Old Cluey Watson was over to the town the other day, and went down to get a pane of glass to smoke, so as to observe the solar eclipse of the sun Jan. 24th.

Mount Misery is right in the path of totality, and as there are a great many trees where he lives, he says he proposes to be right on the top of the mountain at twelve minutes past nine, when from his point of vantage the sun will be entirely obscured just 2 minutes.

The old man, like many others, was entirely at loss to see how these almanac fellows had figured down so fine, when the great celestrial phenomenon was to take place, so many thousand miles away. And added that he was glad that people in general seemed to have more faith in the eclipse taking place as scheduled, then they do on certain weather predictions that he knows of.

A man who saw the merry horde of school children that filled the Finn Opera house Thursday afternoon to see the play of America, wondered what ever could be done to house the 600 pupils of the borough without the practically new St. Mary's and Riverside schools. It is a fact not generally remembered now, that thirty years ago, the late William A. Slater of Norwich gave the land at Riverside where the school house stands. At that time, it is now recalled, it was much deplored that such a fine building should of necessity be off the main street, and entirely out of sight of the thousands who would admire it as they passed through the town.

On Saturday evening, Jan. 13 1836, a meeting was held in the old school house where it was voted to build a new school house, which was to be fitted with all the modern conveniences that belong to a building of its kind. The building committee was elected and included Dr. C. H. Jennings, Geo. A. Haskell, Robert S. Tyler, James H. Finn, Alfred A. Young, Ira F. Lewis, and A. R. Young. Of this committee, who made the splendid building possible, Dr. Jennings, Mr. Tyler and A. R. Young, alone survive.

A clipping from The Bulletin of Jan. 20, 1896, reads: This is another one of the many times that Mr. Slater has proved by his acts of kindness, how much he is interested in this village, where his large mills are situated. The clipping also states that it was due to the indomitable efforts of Dr. Jennings that the school house was built.

Today it is believed to illustrate how view points change with changing times, that a referendum vote in the town in regard to the site of the Riverside Grammar school, would not show a dozen votes favoring any place other than where it now stands.

Mrs. E. F. Burleson assisted by Miss Alice Brown entertained the Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., at her home in Sylvandale on Wednesday afternoon. The regent, Mrs. Henry Olson, presided. During the business session, fifteen dollars was voted to be sent to the International College at Springfield, and five dollars to Oxford college, in Oxford, Ohio. A dormitory is to be given to this college in memory of Caroline Scott Harrison, the first president general of the D. A. R., as she was an alumnus of the college. The regent is the delegate to the National congress on April 20, in Washington, D. C. The alternates appointed were Mrs. J. H. Tracy, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. Eva Burdick, Miss Ida Foster, Mrs. E. F. Burleson, Miss Ethel Burdick, Miss Idella Young, Mrs. F. C. Whiting, Mrs. B. C. Bliss and Mrs. Herbert Wyatt. The congress this year is to be held in the new Washington Auditorium, which has a seating capacity of six thousand. On account of increasing membership Continental hall is to be enlarged to accommodate the congress. The regent gave her report of the state meeting at Rockville. The paper of the afternoon was given by Miss Idella Young. She is a direct descendent of Benjamin Franklin, and he was the subject of her paper. She also has a fine collection of stamps dating back to 1870, many of them bearing the likeness of her ancestor, and these stamps were exhibited as well as a large number of pictures pertaining to the subject. Mrs. John P. Post played two piano numbers the recessional Lest We Forget by DeKoven, and Smilin' Thro. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Misses Jean Burleson and Priscilla Scates.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. L. G. Buckingham Thursday afternoon. The officers re-elected were: President, Mrs. E. A. Faust; vice president, Mrs. C. D. Wolf; secretary, Mrs. F. E. Robinson and treasurer, Mrs. Walter Marshall. Mrs. L. G. Buckingham was appointed sick committee. It was voted that the society co-operate with the Christian Endeavor society in giving a supper next month. Mrs. F. E. Robinson to be chairman of the committee from the Ladies' society. Mrs. Abraham Zeeger was appointed chairman for a food sale. Mrs. C. D. Wolf is to secure the hostesses for each month. During this last year the society has raised seven hundred dollars. Mrs. Buckingham was assisted by Mrs. F. D. Ballou, Mrs. Walter Richardson and Mrs. Abraham Zeeger.

Miss Theresa Raney's telephone number is 55-3 and is incorrectly printed in the new directories.

Mrs. A. M. Brown entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church at her home Thursday afternoon. She was assisted by Mrs. A. E. Prior, Mrs. S. F. Brown, Mrs. Robert Willis, Mrs. J. P. Post and Mrs. H. B. Church.

PLEDGE OF $1,000 TO BUY PUMPER FOR JEWETT CITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, Jan. 15.—Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton of Norwich addressed a largely attended meeting of corporation representatives, property owners and fire fighters, at the engine house in Jewett City Thursday evening. The chief gave the meeting the benefit of his experience and knowledge relative to the purchase and the use of pumping fire apparatus. Far from condemning the present chemical, now in use here he declared that it is still looked upon as a second piece of apparatus for years of service. The opinions he gave to the meeting relative to the needs of Jewett City were of the greatest value and his ideas concerning a 750 gallon pumper were backed by his actual, practical knowledge. Everyone present was in favor of his views and they were practically accepted by the meeting. In case $6,000 is raised to buy such a pumper E. A. Faust was able to promise $1,000 from the Aspinook Co. Other substantial donations have already been secured. The meeting voted that a committee, Chief Thomas Wakely, John W. Briggs and Louis Masse wait upon and interview E. A. Faust of the Aspinook Co., F. D. Ballou of the Ninigret Co., L. M. Carpenter of the Ashland Cotton Co., Alex McNicol of the Textile Novelty Co., and A. B. Burleson of the A. B. Burleson Co., Inc. At the close the meeting gave Chief Stanton a rising vote of thanks for his coming to Jewett City to give his valuable information in regard to the purchase of suitable fire equipment.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

New York, Jan. 15.—Reactionary tendencies again predominated in today's stock market, losses of 1 to 4 points again being scattered throughout the list with even sharper breaks taking place in some of the originally inactive issues. Selling is believed to have been inspired largely by rumors that the local Federal Reserve bank would increase its rediscount rate, which later proved to be unfounded, and unconfirmed reports of serious political developments in Italy.

United States Steel common closed a point lower at 123; Baldwin showed a net loss of 2 1-2 at 132 1-8 and American Can, which had crossed 163 in the early dealings, fell back to 159 1-2, where it was off 2 3-8 points on the day. Studebaker, the other member of the so-called "big four," closed 3-4 lower.

Nash Motors was the individual feature, soaring 30 points to 260 and then dropping 10 points from the top. Atlantic Refining recovered six points of its nine point drop of yesterday. S. S. Kresge sold at 475, or 23 points below the previous sale and Iron Products broke 11 points to 82.

Other outstanding weak spots included the Commercial Solvents issues, Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance, Sears Roebuck, Phillips-Jones, Woolworth and Worthington Pump, all of which closed from 3 to 6 points lower.

Most of the oil shares yielded with the rest of the list, despite extensive gasoline price advances in eastern territory. These were offset by the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute, showing a sharp increase in crude oil output for the week ended Jan. 10. Shell Union, however, was in good demand throughout the session, closing fractionally higher at 25 3-8.

American Sugar dropped two points to 48 on the announcement that plans for the absorption of the National Sugar Refining company had been abandoned. Fisk Rubber first preferred broke six points to 79 despite the resumption of dividends on that issue. Brooklyn Union Gas closed nearly two points higher on reports that a stock dividend was in contemplation. Good buying also was noted in Brooklyn Edison, Coca Cola, Underwood Typewriter, United Fruit and Utah Copper, the net gains ranging from 1 3-4 to 7 points.

With the exception of Chesapeake and Ohio, which improved fractionally apparently in reflection of the efforts being made by minority stockholders to secure better lease terms from the Van Sweringens, most of the popular rails lost ground. Net losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded by New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Reading, Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast line, Jersey Central, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific preferred.

Call money opened at 3 1-2 per cent, and then advanced to 4, where it closed. Time money and Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Weakness of Italian lire, which dropped 7 1-2 points to 4.04 1-2 cents, the lowest rate in over a year, in reflection of unfavorable political developments in Rome, was the feature of the foreign echange market. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.77 3-4 and French francs held steady around 5.36 cents, Danish exchange rallied briskly on the announcement that the National City Bank's $40,000,000 credit to the Danish government had been renewed for one year.

Rub It On At Bed-Time

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

AS GOOD AS A BOND!

In every community there are business men whose pledged word is said to be "as good as a bond." Such men have been tested; their word is a guarantee of performance.

Continuity of Dividends of the Tidewater Power Company Preferred Stock is a record of years of performance.

CURB MARKET

New York, Jan. 15.—Prices in today's curb market lost ground in sympathy with the reactionary movement on the "big board." Gasoline stock advances had no effect on the oil shares, which yielded with the rest of the list although net losses were held to a point or less.

Public utility issues were mixed. American Light & Traction common showed a net gain of about 4 points at 141 but Commonwealth Power, Lehigh Power securities and Middle West Utilities fell back moderately.

Radio shares displayed considerable irregularity. Sleeper touched another new high at 18 and Thermodyne and Dubilier improved slightly, but most of the other issues closed lower on the day.

A jump of 4 points in Curtiss Airplane preferred was one of the features of the industrial list. Goodyear Tire, one of the most active issues, closed a point lower.

Chief interest in the bond list centered in Central Leather 6's of 1954, which yielded slightly on active trading.

BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 15.—Bond prices held steady in today's fairly active market, which was featured by several independent points of strength and weakness. Some hesitancy developed toward the close on fears that the New York Federal Reserve bank might increase its rediscount rate, but no change was made by the directors at their meeting later in the day.

Prospects that the resumption of interest payments on Mexico's debt will be discussed at conferences between international bankers and Secretary of the Treasury Pani, on his forthcoming visit to New York contributed to a rally in Mexican bonds. Moderate gains were scored by the most assented government issue.

Conflicting price movements marked trading in the railroad group. Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5's moved up on indications that an attempt would be made to obtain more favorable terms for the road's security holders under the proposed "Nickel Plate" merger. "Katy" adjustment 5's also improved.

Uncertainty regarding interest payments on the new Denver and Rio Grande western bonds caused further breaks of 1 1-4 to 3 3-4 points in the roads issues. St. Paul obligations also worked lower as directors authorized an examination of the road's financial position preparatory to drafting plans for meeting 1925 maturities of $43,000,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—All grain averaged a good deal higher in price today, with September delivery of wheat and all deliveries of corn establishing new top records for the season. An unexpected advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool was a stimulating factor, but heavy profit-taking sales here led to down turns at the last. Wheat closed unsettled at 5-8c net decline to 1 1-4c gain, May 1.34 to 1.34 1-8 and July 1.33 1-4 to 1.33 3-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8c higher, oats unchanged to 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged at 30c lower.

Circumstances accentuating the unlooked for strength of the Liverpool wheat market included reports that heavy rains in Australia were damaging crops and curtailing receipts. It was also pointed out that large amounts of wheat under contract to be shipped from Australia would have to be obtained elsewhere if the dock strike remained unsettled very long.

Enlarged general buying of future deliveries of corn was based to a great extent on opinions current that corn ought to bring more money in comparison with wheat and that an abrupt falling off in the volume of corn receipts might be looked for. Most of the day's advance in corn, however, was lost when wheat turned relatively weak. Oats followed corn. Barley available for use at once commanded the highest price yet this season.

Weakness of the hogmarket finally pulled down provisions.

Lung and Bronchial Coughs

Seldom Wear Off Without the Help of Medicine

If neglected they often lead to Pleuro or Broncho-Pneumonia, or to Consumption. You know from experience that these coughs resist medical treatment and possibly you have become discouraged, you have tried various remedies supposed to be good, without noticeable results and you have about given up medicine in disgust. Yet there is a medicine that is performing miracles in curing these obstinate lung and bronchial coughs when every other medicine has failed.

ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER

has cured thousands of people who today are sounding its praises far and wide and who will tell you that it is all we claim it to be and more. Its antiseptic healing and germicidal properties combine to make it a wonderfully effective remedy. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. Sold in Norwich by Lerou's Pharmacy, Engler's Pharmacy.

ECLIPSE MAY AFFECT RADIO RECEPTION

All radio fans are asked to listen in during the period of the solar eclipse on January 24th and to report their findings to the bureau of standards at Washington, which is investigating the absorption of radio rays by the sun. It is believed that the moon's shadow will produce for the time being the usual night results as far as reception is concerned. Every listener know that the signals received at night are much more powerful than those in the daytime.

As a matter of universal interest, as a contribution to radio knowledge, and as a service to the government, radio fans should make it a point, if it is at all possible, to listen in and report as to what happens during the eclipse, during the time of which several stations will be sending special programs. Listen for long distance stations that are heard only at night.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Charles Reeves, who is supplying at the Congregational church in Central Village, is to preach at the First Congregational church, Sunday morning, in exchange with the pastor, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey.

Rev. and Mrs. Reeves are making their home in Norwich Town, for the winter.

At the Congregational Young Peoples Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock, Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro will speak on Medical Missions in India.

The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Burton Jopson, chairman of the C. E. Missionary committee.

Miss Jennie E. Hyde of Washington street, returned the early part of the week from Hartford, where on Monday evening, Miss Hyde, who is one of the directors of Connecticut Christian Endeavor union, attended the executive meeting.

While there she was the guest over Monday night of Mrs. Samuel G. Huntington, and on Tuesday Miss Hyde was entertained at the home of Field Secretary and Mrs. Herbert W. Hicks.

The Ladies' Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church is negotiating plans to send within the next ten days or so, a package containing all kinds of clothing, suitable for men, women and children, to Miss Ruth Beebe, a member of the faculty of Trinity School, Athens, Alabama; also one to Frederick J. Werking, to be used in his work among the people of the South.

During the winter, meetings have been held in the homes of several members, also in the Congregational chapel, at which times a bed quilt has been pieced, tied and practically finished, to be included among other things to be sent to Mr. Werking.

Rev. L. E. W. Mitchell and choir of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Greenville, will have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

TALK ON POQUETANUCK FOR PARENT-TEACHERS

The monthly meeting of the Preston Parent-Teachers association was held Wednesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Appleton Main. Rev. Thomas H. M. Ockford gave an interesting talk on the history of Poquetanuck and Mrs. Fred Miller and Mrs. Arthur Smith entertained with a well rendered duet. The rest of the evening was spent in a social way. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Main. The programme committee for the next meeting is Mrs. Harry Beckwith, Mrs. Charles Harkness and Rev. Mr. Ockford.

Friday Day of Ill Luck

Among the superstitious Irish peasantry Friday is regarded as a very unlucky day. The door should never be opened to a stranger on that day, nor should a cat be taken from one house to another, the Irish believe.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

LOOK OUT FOR FIELD MICE, WARNING TO ORCHARDISTS

Look out for short-tailed field mice this year, is the admonition of the biological survey, United States department of agriculture. Injury to trees and other plant life by these mice occurs at more or less regular intervals or cycles. Following a year of maximum abundance there is apt to be a year of comparative scarcity, after which several years are usually required to recuperate the losses and to restore the mice to their usual abundance. These mice are among the most prolific of all mammals and during a single exceptionally favorable season they may increase as if by magic to menacing proportions, and this tends to shorten the interval between periods of great abundance and destructiveness. Large numbers of mice in a locality not only set up conditions favorable for epizootic diseases among them, but also attract unusual numbers of their natural enemies, and these conditions account for the equally sudden disappearance of the mice.

During the last two seasons there has been relatively little field-mouse injury, so that considerable damage may be expected within the next season or two. That some injury at least is due for the present winter is certain, according to the rodent-control workers of the Biological Survey, who during November found a number of large apple trees as well as small ones girdled by field mice. These observers have found the mice to be abundant in certain sections this year while relatively scarce in others. They advise that every orchardist examine his trees and the vicinity of his orchard at this time, and where signs of mice are present take action to prevent injury and serious future losses.

OIL EMULSIONS AS INSECTICIDES

A thorough study of oil emulsions for use as insecticides has been begun by the Bureau of Entomology of the United States department of agriculture during the past year, and important progress has been made, especially toward increasing the stability of emulsions in hard water and lime-sulphur solutions. The investigation of miscellaneous insecticides has been continued at the laboratories in Washington and at the nearby field station at Silver Spring, Md., and cooperative tests on a commercial scale are made by the Washington laboratories and various field stations on new or improved preparations. What appears to be a new contact insecticide which will in many instances be a suitable substitute for nicotine at a lower cost has been developed by two offices of the bureau cooperatively. This insecticide mixes well with oil emulsions and, it is believed, will make an excellent spray for the delayed dormant treatment for the simultaneous control of the San Jose scale and apple aphide.

DON'T OVERFEED HORSES THROUGH THE WINTER

No grain is needed to carry idle horses through the winter in good flesh where clover or alfalfa hay is fed, according to J. A. Simms of the extension service at Connecticut Agricultural college. Horses doing light work are often fed alfalfa hay alone in some sections of the west. Farmers and others find that this hay keeps their horses going when they do not work more than half a day at a time on ordinary work. These legume hays being much richer than grass hays, being more comparable to grain in this respect, and the amount fed must be limited for best results.

Idle horses weighing 1,200 to 1,500 pounds require 15 to 20 pounds of alfalfa or clover hay daily to keep them in fair condition though three to four pounds of oat straw or similar cheap doughage should also be provided, says Mr. Simms. The best grade of first cutting alfalfa, or later cuttings of alfalfa, or clover which is a little too old for most satisfactory use in dairy feeding, is best for horses. Early cut fine alfalfa or clover hay is a little washy for horses and is not so well cleaned up by them. Where these hays are fed the feed cost per day for idle horses should not exceed thirty cents on an average.

Where grass hay is used, feed 15 to 30 pounds daily with one pound linseed meal and three pounds wheat bran. Unless the grass hay is good somewhat more concentrates may be required. The wheat bran and linseed meal are preferable to oats because they contain quite a bit more protein and, being more laxative, keep the horses' digestive systems in better condition.

RAISING OF EASTER BROILERS PROFITABLE

One of the best market propositions for the poultryman is that of Easter broilers. A price of 75c per pound is not unusual. The production of broilers for the Easter market is, of course, more expensive than the same operation for a late spring trade. Hatching eggs are scarce and higher priced, and brooding chicks in February and March means more care and greater expense. Nevertheless, poultrymen having the proper equipment can utilize it for this early season work and should be able to make a good profit in the operation.

In order to get broilers that will average 1 1-2 to 2 pounds by Easter time, the eggs should be set between Jan. 18 and Jan. 24, for it takes eight to 10 weeks to grow such broilers.

Hatching eggs should be carefully selected as hatchability is lower in January than in the spring months.

Brooding these chicks means providing a good house and ample heating equipment. It means that plenty of exercise room must be allowed indoors. The whole operation will have to be carried out indoors. Each chick will need about a square foot of floor space ultimately, although a scant half this allowance will do for the first four weeks.

Chicks can be reared successfully if the house is kept warm, well ventilated, well lighted and provided with plenty of clean litter. The feeding is the most important feature of the whole operation. Incubator eggs or end layer oil must be supplied in the station until the last two weeks when this should be dropped. Besides the dry mash and scratch grain, another essential is that the chicks receive skim milk or butter milk instead of water. Some green feed should be fed if possible.

USE NEW EXPLOSIVE IN BLASTING STUMPS

Tests to demonstrate the value of pyrotol for removing stumps and trees were made recently on the Sand experiment field, operated by the agricultural experiment station of Purdue university. This material is the government explosive which is being distributed through the state experiment stations at a low cost.

The test proved pyrotol to be very effective and economical in blasting out heavily anchored stumps when the charges were properly placed and a blasting machine used for setting them off. Twelve pounds of the explosive packed into four charges, lifted a heavily rooted wild cherry stump three feet in diameter completely out of the ground in sections.

The sections which were not thrown clear of the hole were so loosened that they could easily be shaken by hand and required little effort with a team and ax to remove. The charges were placed under four large anchor roots at the edge of the stump so as to get the maximum lift without losing the force of the explosion by bursting out through the center of the stump.

The material consumed cost about $1.08, which is considered low for blasting a stump of this size on sand soil.

Fourteen pounds of the explosive were placed in three charges under a hickory tree about three feet in diameter at the base. The charges were packed against three sides of a very large tap root, care being taken to get them as far under the tree trunk as possible. When these charges were set off simultaneously with the blasting machine the tap root was shattered and the tree lifted enough to cause it to fall. The anchor roots were pulled loose enough to make their removal an easy matter.

"In blasting large stumps it is decided advantageous to place the explosive under heavy roots in three or more charges," said T. E. Heinton, of the rural engineering department of the Purdue experiment station, who conducted the test. "This is especially true in sand soils," he said.

Several other stumps were blown during the test, and these, with the hickory tree, are to be left for some time to give any farmers who desire to see the results an opportunity to do so.

Date of Creation Unknown

Many theologians have occupied themselves with the problem of the actual date of creation. Bishop Ussher computed the year at 4004 B. C. A universal history, a work of 42 volumes, published in London in 1779, devotes some space to the fixing of the actual time. It discusses the probability of its being March 21, 4004 B. C., and September 21, 4004 B. C., and inclines toward the latter date.

The Humanities

The humanities are those branches of education or study which are included in what are called elegant learning, as languages, grammar, philosophy and poetry, including the ancient classics. The name implies that the study of these branches has a tendency to humanize man, to cultivate particularly those faculties which distinguish him as a man in all his relations, social and moral; that is, which make him a truly cultured man.

DYNAMITE SHIPPER IS TAKEN TO PROVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Jan. 15.—Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and American Railway Express Agent Herbert E. Cooke went to Providence this afternoon to obtain a warrant for the arrest of Demitri Selvadio, who was held at the Westerly police station for an attempt to ship dynamite by express to Brooklyn, N. Y. Securing the warrant, an officer from the United States marshal's office in Providence came to Westerly and returned with him on the 6 o'clock express for Providence.

Selvadio persisted in his story that he did not know the name of the man who brought the explosives to his store on Pierce street last Friday, for shipment. He described the man, who reported himself from Chicago, as being of good size, with mustache and wearing a striped suit and cap, of easy manner and good address, and saying that he came from the same province in Italy as he did himself. He remembered having seen him before, although to Selvadio he was a stranger.

After coming to Westerly from Jersey City Selvadio worked for the Monroe greenhouses until he went to the Lawrence Memorial hospital in New London for treatment. Returning to Westerly he opened his variety store which he has run for a year and a half. His wife's name is Angelina and there are no children.

It is understood that Selvadio will appear Friday before the United States commission at Providence.

EVENING OF WHIST BY A. O. H. AUXILIARY

An evening of whist was conducted with great success Thursday night in A. O. H. hall, 99 Main street, by Division No. 54, Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H. Twenty-five tables participated in the play which resulted in the following prize awards: Ladies, first, Mrs. Fred Herman, towels; second, Mrs. Herbert Brown, china dish; consolation, Mrs. M. McCaffrey; gentlemen first, John Sullivan, silk socks; second, Edward Sullivan, silk scarf; consolation, Paul Waters. The fruit cake, which was the door prize, was awarded to Mrs. Herbert Brown. The scorers were the Misses Elizabeth Sullivan, Madeline Larochelle, Mary Sullivan, Mary Fallon, Edith McGrevy, Kitty McMullen and Anne O'Neil.

Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served and Irish songs by Joseph Dougherty were enthusiastically applauded. Dancing for which Crowley's Hyperion orchestra played, closed the pleasant social evening, which was in charge of the committee consisting of Mrs. Bridget Wildamn chairman Mrs. Mary Brewer, Miss Mary Cox Mrs. Julia Breen, Mrs. Nellie Moore McHale, Mrs. Margaret Coughlin, Mrs. Margaret Potterson, Miss Mae Caulfield.

Eagles Continue Pinochle.

With five tables playing at the weekly pinochle held at the Eagles club Thursday evening, the following high scores were made: Thomas Fields 7290; H. A. Congdon 7120; C. Schlinz 7100. The third of the series will be held next Thursday.

AUTOMOBILES LEAD IN CAUSES OF VIOLENT DEATHS IN THIS COUNTRY

Coroner J. J. Desmond's report for the last three months shows 53 cases of sudden violent or accidental death in New London county 23 of which were in Norwich and 15 in New London.

In the causes of violent death automobile accidents exceeded all others, having eight from this cause. Three were cases of suicide and three deaths through railroad accidents.

The following was the record for the quarter:

Norwich.

Oct. 3—Joseph Rozanski, 4, valvulus acute peritonitis.

Oct. 6—August Juneau, 61, cerebral hemorrhage.

Oct. 10—Katarzyna Stazenski, 56, endocarditis.

Oct. 13—Christopher John Durr, 43, chronic endocarditis.

Oct. 20—Henry F. Palmer, 82, acute cardiac dilation.

Oct. 24—William Heinekamp King, 6, oedema of the glottis with diphtheria.

Oct. 25—James F. McNally, 52, chronic endocarditis.

Oct. 26—Oscar O. Palmer, 78, cardio-muscular renal disease, terminal syncope.

Oct. 30—Ella E. Parke, 59, Groton, multiple injuries, automobile accident.

Nov. 2—Mary Jane Woodworth, 88, cerebral hemorrhage.

Nov. 6—Joseph Badger, 69, chronic endocarditis.

Nov. 11—Joseph Kutia, 28, Montville, fractured skull, automobile accident.

Nov. 5—Stanley Pestka, 23, Ledyard, fractured skull, automobile accident.

Nov. 23—Onufy Toupass, 31, New London, strangulation by hanging, suicide.

Nov. 24—Ethel Belinda, 5, Bradford, R. I., diphtheria.

Nov. 28—Annette Thibeau, 5, Sterling, diphtheria laryngitis.

Dec. 3—James McKee, 83, fractured skull, automobile accident.

Dec. 7—Alonzo Drake Pierce, 83, cerebral hemorrhage.

Dec. 9—Charles G. Pillar, Jr., 12 days, malnutrition.

Dec. 15—Warren Woodrow Stearns, 6, diphtheria.

Dec. 25—Eleanor Kirkup, 47, endocarditis, bronchial asthma.

Dec. 29—William R. Nolan, 32, fractured skull, struck by falling tree.

Dec. 31—John Pamelac, 52, chronic endocarditis.

New London.

Oct. 11—Louis Mabrey, 67, acute cardiac dilitation.

Oct. 29—Frank Eldridge, 32, fracture of skull, right clavicle, fracture of fourth, fifth and sixth ribs, right side. Puncture of right lung, septic pneumonia.

Oct. 29—Antonio Pecora, 36, death due to automobile accident, fractured skull.

Nov. 6—Elvi Janet Hendreckson, 3 years, fracture of skull, lacerations about face and scalp, automobile accident.

Nov. 27—Peter Toolin, Jr., fracture of the skull.

Nov. 28—Erivin Walters, 6 years, fracture at base of skull, rupture of liver, automobile accident.

Nov. 28—Frank Shabunia, 15, Lyme, gunshot wound of abdomen, accidental.

Nov. 30—Katie B. Smith, 50, chronic myocarditis, chronic nephritis.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS HAVE OFFICERS INSTALLED

With a capacity attendance the first January meeting of the R. E. Hourigan Post, No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars was held on Tuesday evening in the post rooms at 2 Market street, with Retiring Commander Albert J. Turner in the chair.

The different officers and committees gave pleasing reports on the progress made by the organization during the past year. Many important items of business were discussed with interest. Several new recruits were mustered in, and the drive is on for still more during the coming year.

The new officers installed are as follows:

Commander, Leo L. Jacques; senior vice commander, Louis Hull; junior vice commander, Leslie Howard; adjutant, John Powelec; quartermaster, Arthur Fitzgerald; officer of the day, Edward Moumblow; trustees, Edward street and Capt. Burdick; chaplain, Ernest Mills; house committee, Comrades A. Marchiel, J. Kane and D. Jacobs; entertainment committee, Chairman, L. Hull, Comrades O. Leseman, R. Goldstein, J. King, A. Fitzgerald; relief committee, Comrades E. Moumblow, J. Evans and O Leseman.

Remarks for the good of the order were made by the retiring commander and the new officers. All comrades were urged to bring in as many new recruits as possible.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars is not a service man's organization formed since the close of the late war. It is a veteran organization of long standing, having been in existence over a quarter of a century; and after 25 years of honorable service to the nation, abounds in youth and vigor and grows day by day in usefulness and comradeship. Those eligible for membership are, any officer or enlisted man, of any honorably discharged officer or enlisted man who served or may serve in the army, navy or marine corps of the U. S. A. in any foreign war, insurrection or expedition, which service shall be governed by the issuance of a campaign badge by the government of the United States.

After the meeting adjourned, a smoker was held and refreshments were served by the entertainmnt committe.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR GAVE LECTURE ON ECIPSE

Everyone is thinking, talking, and planning the eclipse. Schools and colleges, business houses, and railroads, all are preparing for this great event. All ages, all people from children to astronomers look impatiently forward to the great event. So it seems but natural that the "Total Eclipse of the Sun" be a topic discussed at the Connecticut College Convocation this week.

Professor Daglain of the Physics and Astronomy department of the college lectured on the eclipse of the twenty-fourth of January, explaining the principles of an eclipse in general. His lecture was made more vivid by the use of diagram slides. In this way he showed that for a total eclipse it was necessary that the moon be on a direct path between the earth and the sun in such a manner that the shadow of the moon cast upon the earth by the sun be exactly the same as the size of the world.

Professor Daghlian described the period called the Saras, a time extending through eighteen years and eleven days, showing that it requires that length of time between eclipses. All the conditions necessary for a total eclipse repeat themselves after eighteen years and eleven days. Thus, tracing back that number of years we find that the last eclipse occurred on January 14, 1907. This eclipse was visible, however, only in Russia and Central Asia. On February 4, 1943, it will be repeated in Alaska and China. The total eclipse, thus, will take place in this part of the earth only after a period of three hundred odd years.

In the lecture the importance of training the eyes was emphasized so that one might see the eclipse properly. The resolving power of a telescope among other things depends on the size of the objective; thus, too, does the resolving power of the eyes depend on the size of the pupil of the eye. The larger the pupil, the greater our power of sight and the better our power of resolving details. That is the reason for our seeing things better in a subdued light or at night. The corona and the prominences which are the most important things to see of the eclipse are faint objects and the eyes must have been protected previously against the intense light from the uncovered portion of the sun's rays before the totality of the eclipse. Therefore the use of smoked glasses was advised by Professor Daghlien until the moment of darkness, or else the audience was warned not to gaze at the sun until complete eclipse had occurred. That period of darkness will last for two minutes.

GROTON REPRESENTATIVE IS ASKING BOND ISSUE

Representative Warren B. Burrows, Groton, introduced a bill in the house Thursday proposing that Groton may issue $150,000 in refunding bonds that the borough issue $150,000 and the town $225,000 in bonds, and that $3,000 be appropriated for care of Fort Griswold park for two years and $1,000 each year thereafter.

To Focus Automobile Lights

Seven more nights remain in which automobilists may have their headlights tested for focus and strength at the hands of the state police at the Groton barracks.

Last Friday the state police there accommodated 107 cars and probably will take care of more tonight. The largest number of machines handled in one night was 188, during the latter part of last year. Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays are devoted to this purpose, and with the beginning of February the state police will start making arrests for having improperly adjusted lights.

Played on Three Princeton Teams

In reporting Rev. Mr. Crowdis of Taftville as guest of Norwich Rotary Club Wednesday, it was stated that he was a member of Princeton team in the late 80s. Mr. Crowdis "made" the Varsity in '96 playing his first big game against Cornell—after which he was a regular member of the 'varsity During the years he was on the team, '96, '97, '98 Princeton won two championships in football—the last game '98 on Brokaw field, Princeton was made famous by Poe's run. Mr. Crowdis remembers with pleasure his playing against Morton Shaw of Howard and Gordon Brown of Yale.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN STATE ARE REPORTED

Road conditions and detours in the state because of construction work are reported by the state highway department as follows:

Union—From Stafford-Union town line, road is closed. Fair detour over dirt road.

Portland—Glastonbury-Portland road is under construction but is open for traffic.

Montville-Norwich-Hadlyme road is under construction. Detour posted over unimproved road.

Plainfield-Putnam-Norwich road,—Section is under construction, open to traffic.

Roxbury-Southbury road — Macadam construction is under way and through travel must pass with caution over this road.

Danbury-Newtown road—The new bridge over Still river is under construction. A temporary bridge is in use.

Westbroow-Patchaug River bridge is under construction on a cut-off. Traffic uses the old bridge.

Oxford—Bridge over Eight Mile river on the Derby-Stevenson road is under construction on a cut-off. Traffic uses old bridge.

Easton-Easton Center road from Blackrock Turnpike to Round Hill. Construction work closed down for the winter. Traffic uses road at its own risk.

Greenwich-Nigger Hole Hill road is under construction. Open to traffic at all times.

Milford-Orange and West Haven-Milford turnpike. Road being widened. Road is open to traffic

PROSECUTIONS FOR LIQUOR VIOLATIONS INCREASE

Prosecutions in superior courts in the state for violations of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States increased from 303 in 1923 to 584 in 1924, according to reports made to Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon by the various state's attorneys. A comparison of the criminal business records of the courts for the two years presents a study to determine whether crime increased in 1924 over 1923. The total number of prosecutions in 1924 was 2,353, or 291 more than in 1923, but the record last year for many serious crimes is better than that of the previous year.

Motor vehicle law violations, for which the total of prosecutions is high, fell off more, from 234 in 1923 to 206 last year. Prosecutions for first degree murder total four each year, while in 1923 there were nine prosecutions for second degree murder, five more than last year. Manslaughter, however, increased, according to the reports, 44 persons being prosecuted last year, while 36 appeared on the same charge in 1923.

Drunkenness Holds Even.

The old familiar charge of drunkenness held even during the two-year period, there being 38 prosecutions in 1923 and one less last year. The state had only one common or habitual drunkard in 1924, according to the reports, indicating that one either reformed or died during the year, as there were two listed in 1923.

Assault and battery charges decreased in 1924, to seventy-eight from 122 the previous year. The more serious charges of assault with intent to kill and with intent to murder were also less last year. Intent to murder prosecutions dropped from seven to two and intent to kill from 14 to 13.

How 1924 Was Unique.

The year 1924 was unique from 1923 in that it had six prosecutions for escape from jail, while 1923 had none. However, 1923 had its own particular crime, as there was one prosecution for "permitting bull to go at large," and the 1924 calendar was free of prosecutions for this offense.

Breach of the peace also declined last year, there being only 84 prosecutions, or 31 less than in 1923. Prosecutions for violations of the narcotic law stand at one each for both years. The number on arson prosecutions is also equal, five prosecutions being made each year.

Burglary increased last year, 46 prosecutions being reported, as compared with 39 in 1923. Robbery also increased from 17 cases to 36, while general theft charges decreased from 234 to 206. Only six charges of cruelty to animals were before state courts last year, two less than in the previous year. Eighteen persons were prosecuted for bigamy and 17 in 1923.

Six Disagreements of Jury.

There were 90 convictions by juries in 1924 and 117 by the court. Acquittals numbered 69, 24 by juries, 43 by courts and two because of insanity. There were six disagreements of jury. A total of 1,168 persons pleaded guilty to the crimes with which they were charged. Twenty-eight forfeited bonds amounting to $21,125. Absolute nolles numbered 599 and there were 161 upon terms. A total of 818 cases were appealed. Of these 128 were vacated, 212 forfeited bonds, 186 were disposed of by verdict, 212 pleaded guilty, 206 were nolled and 78 were disposed of on payment of costs and fines.

State Farm Bureau Federation

McLean Buckingham, of Watertown, was elected president of the State Federation of Farm Bureaus at the annual meeting of the federation in Hartford Wednesday afternoon. An address was given by J. W. Coverdale, of Chicago, secretary-treasurer of the grain marketing association.

A. C. Lincoln, of Hamden, and Stanciffe Hale, of Glastonbury, were elected vice presidents, and W. W. Service, of Norwich, secretary-treasurer.

Twenty delegates, representing all the counties of the state were present.

Demand in the raw skin end of the fur trade has shown quite a little improvement since the first of the week. Russian kitt fox, good color red fox, white fox, Russian fitch, good color mink, raccoon and southern muskrats are most in demand.

JUDGMENT ON NOTE IS GIVEN TO BANK

Judgment for the plaintiff of $4,224.46 was awarded by Judge Christopher L. Avery in civil superior court here Thursday in the suit of the New London National Bank of Commerce against Jeremiah Twomey and H. Prest, endorsers of a note of the Soltz Co., held by the bank which went to protest.

The original note was for $4,300 maturing in two months. Interest of $43 accrued up to April 30, 1924, when a payment of $247.73 was endorsed. From May 11 to date interest had amounted to $456.26, making a balance due of $4,224.46.

Milton M. Baker, of Groton, former cashier for the National Bank of Commerce, testified to having issued the note to the Soltz Co. Before the note was drawn, however, he said the board of directors of the bank had insisted that the endorsers guarantee the note if it should be defaulted by the Soltz firm. This was insisted on, he said, because of the financial reputation that company bore.

Twomey, the only witness for the defense, testified that he had endorsed the note, but that at the time of the endorsement there was nothing but his signature on the back of it. The printed statement of guarantee by the endorsers which the note bore when presented as evidence in court was not there at the time he attached his signature.

George B. Prest, who said he had been vice president of the bank 14 years and affiliated with it for 52 years, said that through his experience he had come to have some knowledge as to handwriting, ink and the like. He testified in his opinion, the statement of guarantee and the signature of the endorser was placed on the note at the same time.

LIONS WILL SUPPORT PURE MILK CAMPAIGN

A meeting of the Lions club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel with President Edward Carpenter in charge. Led by Tail Twister Frank Rinella, a number of club songs were enjoyed after which the business session was opened.

Plans were discussed concerning the pure milk campaign meeting, to be held in February, when the club expects to hear an address by some prominent speaker and have as their guests, members of the state food and dairy commission, various city and town health officers and public health nurses.

A feature of the meeting came when President Carpenter treated the members to cigars, this being because he has recently become a grandfather.

The club voted to accept the invitation of the Pawtucket Lions club to attend a charter night celebration in Pawtucket on January 26. Matters concerning welfare work were laid aside for further investigation before action is taken.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

AUTOMOBILE TAKES FIRE WHEN MOTOR OVERHEATS

A Studebaker 1924 touring car owned and driven by Philip King of Jewett City was destroyed by fire on Thursday morning about 8:30 o'clock near the J. B. Martin velvet mill in Taftville. Mr. King had driven his car from Jewett City to Taftville without realizing that his car was frozen. When he tried to shut the motor off it continued to run because it was overheated and he flooded the carburetor. Immediately afterwards the car was in flames. A call was sent to Central fire station and to the Taftville fire station, the latter company responding.

Small chemical tanks were emptied into the automobile before the arrival of the firemen, but to no avail and the car was wrecked, the body and wiring being burned off, only the chassis, tires and engine remaining.

The obese lady in the museum can't be blamed for trying to make the most of herself.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 33 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, O. N. Johnson, 643 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

ARE READY TO UNDERTAKE COMMERCIAL AIR SERVICE

American Steamship Owners Are Awaiting the Time When Airship May Profitably Enter the Field—Railway and Express Companies Will Provide Air Transportation as Soon as Airships Are Brought to a Reasonable Standard of Perfection.

New York, Jan. 16.—Railroad, steamship and express companies stand ready to undertake air transportation as soon as the airplane or dirigible are brought to a reasonable standard of perfection, the congressional sub-committee investigating United States air service was told today.

A. G. Smith, of Greenwich, Conn., Conn., president of the American Steamship Owners' association and of the Ward Line, testified he long had awaited the time when airplanes could profitably enter the field of land, water and air transit.

He predicted that continued development would evolve in this country a commercial air service that would cooperate and compete with other forms of transportation in carrying mail, specie, gold bullion, important documents and other expressable matter, over long distances and at rapid speed.

John W. Newlean, vice president and treasurer of the American Railway Express company, testified that he for years had taken an active part in organizations promoting flying. He submitted a long telegram from R. E. M. Cowie, president of the express company, which set forth that the organization was closelywatching aircraft development, with a view to contracting for the construction and establishment of an air express service, "when the necessary degree of safety and reliability and of proper relation of load to cost was attained."

"Thus far no ship that meets these requirements—that would carry business for us profitably—has been developed," said Mr. Newlean. "We would like, especially, to inaugurate an overnight express service between New York and Chicago."

The first commercial undertaking would be in emergency express, said the witness. Then in mail, and finally in passengers.

Mr. Newlean and others on the stand today were unanimous in the conviction that the government should do in the air what it now does on sea—establish routes, furnish landing places, illuminate lanes of traffic with lighthouses and beacons, supply inspection and safety patrols similar to the coast guard, and in other respects put air navigation upon a par with navigation of waterways.

Richard R. Blythe, who made several attempts to establish an aircraft insurance industry in this country, testified that all American, as well as British, insurance companies that had entered the American field paid $200 in losses for every $1 premium collected, and quit.

Private aircraft manufacturers were of the general opinion that the four-year period during which the government spent upward of $20,000,000 in developing its own airplanes at McCook field, Dayton, Ohio, was a regime disastrous to commercial air navigation.

They believed that an immediate stimulation of the industry, commercial and military, would result from the new policy recently inaugurated, whereby the government confines itself to assisting in the development and testing of privately-made machines, rather than in constructing machines.

That the Aeromarine Airways, Inc., had almost entirely withdrawn from business, after having flown 5,000,000 miles during three years of passenger-carrying over various sections of the United States, was disclosed by C. F. Redden, president.

Other witnesses who testified from the standpoint of the manufacturer, aviator or investor, included Vincent J. Bufnelli, who has made one 22-passenger craft and now is making a 25-passenger one; Benjamin Castle, former lieutenant-colonel of air service, now reserve chief of four battalions in this district; C. D. Chamberlain, a civilian flier; Richard F. Hoyt, director of the Wright-Aeronautical corporation; E. C. Wilmer, chairman of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation for the construction of lighter-than-air craft, and Charles W. Laurance, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

FILM HERO BILL HART UNCOMFORTABLE IN COURT

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.—William S. Hart, "Two-Gun Bill," of the moving pictures, and his wife, Winifred Westover Hart, from whom he is separated, today in superior court here gave their first authenticated version of what killed home fires on the family hearth on May Day, 1922.

The stories of the two failed to tally in many respects.

The occasion was the court's demand for testimony to decide whether the separation agreement which bars Mrs. Hart from the screen and which she is attempting to break, was an "agreement in restraint of trade."

Mrs. Hart said their first tiff occurred May 1, 1922, following a disagreement between herself and Hart's sister, Mary, while Hart admitted that his first intimation of trouble came on that date, but flatly denied knowledge of a disagreement between his wife and his sister.

Mrs. Hart testified that Hart frequently importuned her to go to Reno and get a divorce. Hart denied it. Although she wept off and on during her examination and cross-examination, she was generally composed.

Her husband, on the other hand, appeared ill at ease, unaccustomed to "appearing in public" and frequently found his legs too long to cross comfortably as he gave his version of family affairs in a drawling monotone.

Bill, Junior, for the most part slumbered blissfully in the lap of his nurse or his mother and did not even awaken when his father kissed him as he left the witness stand.

Hart told the court that on one occasion prior to the separation, when Mrs. Hart had asked him for more money, he expressed surprise and told her that she was spending his money at the rate of $50,000 a year.

Mrs. Hart declared—and this her husband corroborated—that she did not believe in divorce and would not attempt to obtain one, whereas, he relied that if she would not seek a divorce, he would settle a trust fund on her and one on the baby with the provision that she should not return to the screen and "commercialize" his name.

The trust fund, according to its custodian, James Stuart, banker, yields the little boy a monthly income of $875 and his mother $387.50. This, Mrs. Hart contends, in her effort to break the agreement and resume acting, is not sufficient to support her.

From May 1 to May 10, 1922, according to Hart, terms of the proposed separation settlement were discussed every night between husband and wife, after which Mrs. Hart reported her progress to her lawyers, friends and mother.

Examination developed from Mrs. Hart that she and her mother were out of funds when she married Hart, that on the day they were married he gave her $5,000 and a few days later $7,000.

CONFIDENT REV. BAST WILL BE VINDICATED

New York, Jan. 16—Entire confidence in the ultimate complete vindication of the Rev. Dr. Anton Bast, Methodist Episcopal bishop for Scandinavia, is expressed by Bishops John L. Nuelsen and Edward Blake who personally investigated the charges on which Bishop Bast was recently arrested in Copenhagen, Denmark and later released pending further proceedings.

A statement issued by the two bishops who represent their church in the European field, is published today in the current issue of the Northwestern Christian Advocate.

Rome, Jan. 16.—Ignace Jan Paderewski, former premier of Poland and noted pianist, was received in private audience today by Pope Pius. For more than an hour the pontiff conversed with Paderewski, recalling their meeting in Warsaw—the pope as nuncio and Paderewski as premier.

OPPOSE COOLIDGE'S POSITION ON ELEVATION OF BIG GUNS

Washington, Jan. 16. — President Coolidge's position against the elevation of the big guns on American battleships drew considerable fire today from the democratic side in the senate.

With the annual naval appropriation bill as a vehicle, minority senators not only demanded that congress direct gun elevation, but also asserted that under the terms of the naval limitation treaty itself the United States could not be on a par with Great Britain in the matter of capital ships at least until 1932.

Action of the Washington arms conference was defended by Chairman Hale of the naval committee, who declared the American representatives were advised by the leading American naval experts, and that in arriving at the ratio of 20 capital ships for Great Britain to 18 for the United Sattes they took into consideration all factors, especially that the 18 American battleships were more powerful than an equal number in the British fleet.

The upshot of the whole debate was that Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, proposed an amendment directing the elevation of guns to give the American ships equal range with those of Great Britain and Japan. He gave notice that he would call it up tomorrow when the senate had reached an appropriate place in the consideration of the appropriation measure.

RUSSIA NOT IN ACCORD WITH OTHER NATIONS

Geneva, Jan. 16—(By the A. P.)—Although soviet Russia is not a member of the league of nations she broke all records even for members, today, by forwarding three notes to the Geneva peace organization.

Foreign Minister Tchitcherin's first communication was a flat refusal by Russia to adhere to the compulsory arbitration clause of the permanent court of international justice. All countries have been invited to adhere to this clause.

In his second note, M. Tchitcherin announced Russia's refusal to adhere to the convention for simplification of customs formalities, elaborated last year at Geneva in the presence of the American chambers of commerce.

The third communication from the Russian foreign minister was more affirmative in nature. He accepted the invitation to send delegates to the special league of nations' committees for study of the question of unification of tonnage in inland navigation.

A communique issued later byt the league explained that M. Tchitcherin also had announced that the soviet republic does not propose to join the world court of justice. By a circular letter under the date of Nov. 14, last, Russia was invited, with other states, to adhere to the protocol attached to the statutes defining the functions of the Hague Tribunal. By the same token, it was stated, Russia also declines to ratify the compulsory arbitration clause.

PRESIDENT'S VIEWS ON MUSCLE SHOALS PROJECT

Washington, Jan. 16. — President Coolidge was represented today to be in agreement with republican house leaders that they should seek an understanding with senate leaders as to the final from of Muscle Shoals legislation before the Underwood private leasing bill is advanced to its next legislative step.

Representative Longworth of Ohio, the majority leader in the house, and Chairman Snell of the house rules committee gave the president at a White House conference their view that if the bill went to conference without such an understanding it would be largely rewritten there.

They said afterwards that they would seek conferences with senate leaders in an effort to come to some sort of an agreement. Meanwhile the Underwood bill will remain on Speaker Gillett's desk, where it has been since it was reported yesterday from the senate.

If a full understanding can be had in advance of conference consideration, house leaders are hopeful that congress will be able to dispose of the whole Muscle Shoals problem before the end of the present session. If that is not done, all pending legislation on the subject will die automatically March 4, and it would be necessary for the new congress to go over the entire ground again if the problem is to be solved.

COMMENDS APPOINTMENT OF OIL CONSERVATION BOARD

New York, Jan. 16.—Amos L. Beaty, president of the Texas company, one of the largest independent oil corporations, speaking before the Bond club of New York today, commended President Coolidge's recent appointment of an oil conservation board and said it would have the full cooperation of the oil industry.

"In my judgment," he said, "it is one of the finest things that has occurred in many years, and it is particularly gratifying that this study should be taken up at a time when the government of our country is being so wisely administered and in such fairness and justice toward business."

He predicted that in less than ten years automobiles would be operating on 40 or 50 miles to the gallon.

The annual state convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held in the parlors of the First Congregational church, Ansonia, March 25 and 26.

HOOVER HAS DECLINED CHANGE OF PORTFOLIO

Washington, Jan. 16.—Herbert Hoover, who two years ago declined the interior secretaryship from the hands of President Harding, has refused an offer of the agriculture department portfolio from President Coolidge.

Mr. Hoover intends to remain in the cabinet but prefers to stay at the head of the department of commerce rather than direct the activities of the department of agriculture.

The president offered the agriculture secretaryship to Mr. Hoover because he regards the commerce head as the type of man he desires to succeed Howard M. Gore—a man qualified to supervise in a business way the many activities of the agriculture department, and particularly one who could so direct departmental efforts as to aid the farmers of the country in obtaining better and more direct markets. Mr. Hoover, in the course of his work in the commerce department, has made somewhat of a study of marketing conditions, and his services for that reason, Mr. Coolidge felt, would be of great value in the agriculture post.

Mr. Hoover's name also was included in a list of those recommended for the agriculture secretaryship, and Mr. Coolidge thought that inasmuch as he was a part of the administration he should be given an opportunity to take the place if he desired it. This list was shown by Mr. Coolidge today to visitors, and, as now constituted, contains about two hundred names.

RADIO OCMMUNICATION FOR NEW YORK POLICE STATIONS

New York, Jan. 16.—A radio set, to be used as an additional means of communication between police headquarters and the various police stations throughout Greater New York, was successfully tested this afternoon.

It is proposed to "put on the air" from WYNC, the municipal broadcasting station, stories of major accidents and automobile thefts, including, in the accident cases, the names of those persons killed or injured. This, city officials believe, will prevent the jamming of the regular police telephone system by the great number of inquiries coming into headquarters after such accidents. The general public may "listen in" or go to nearby police stations for information, thus leaving the regular telephone wires open for the transaction of routine business.

In the case of automobile thefts, or other matters in which speed is the prime requisite in apprehending criminals, the various precincts would be notified from headquarters by code.

For such emergencies the regular program from WYNC would be interrupted, to be resumed later.

CONVICT RADIO ENTERTAINER RELEASED WITH GIFT OF $3,587

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 16—Harry M. Snodgrass, nationally known radio entertainer, left the Missouri prison a free man early today, carrying $3,587.25, the gift of radio fans.

At 2 o'clock this morning the prison gates opened for the "king of the Ivories," and with his wife, 8 year old son, and Don Witten, announced for State Radiocast WOS, he left for St. Louis. On Sunday Snodgrass and Witten will begin a two-year vaudeville contract.

AVIATOR KILLED WHEN PLANE FELL INTO TAIL SPIN

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 16.—Falling into a tail spin from an altitude of 800 feet, Staff Sergeant Robert I. Lee was instantly killed and First Lieut. Charles H. Beatty, reserve officer, sustained a broken leg late today at Brooks field.

Time Not Opportune Hayes to Retire as For Arms C[illegible]ab "Dry" Commissioner

Not Warranted by Conditions in Europe, President Coolidge Opines.

So Indicated at White House —Haynes Says "Its All News to Me."

Washington, Jan. 16. — Conditions in Europe still preclude any move by the United States toward another arms conference in the opinion of President Coolidge.

The Washington government consequently is making no further move toward the calling of such a conference.

The White House today authorized a flat denial of published stories that an arms conference would be called early in the spring.

Mr. Coolidge still feels that the United States should await the outcome of the move made by the league of nations to bring about limitation of armaments, and should do nothing in the matter until the success or failure of that move is developed.

While the president's views were being made known at the White House, Senator King, democrat, Utah, gave notice in the senate that he would later move a suspension of the rules for consideration of an agreement to the naval appropriation bill "authorizing and requesting" the president to invite the world powers to participate in a conference to be held in Washington for consideration of further limitation of armaments on land and sea.

NEW BEDFORD TEXTILE WORKERS ACCEPT CUT

New Bedford, Mass., Jan. 16.—The textile operatives of this city will go to work next Monday morning under the 10 per cent wage reduction recently announced by the cotton manufacturers.

A decision to accept the reduction under protest was made known at tonight's meeting of the New Bedford textile council when the seven affiliated unions made known the result of their balloting.

BOY SLASHED FACE OF SLEEPING STEPMOTHER

New Haven, Jan. 16.—Craving excitement which he thought from companions stories could be found in the reformatory, Arthur Waters, 13, slashed his step-mother, Mrs. Harriet Waters, across the face with a carving knife as she lay in bed asleep today. Later, he was caught on the street carrying the blood-stained knife another carving knife and a loaded small caliber revolver. Mrs. Waters required hospital attention, although six cuts on the face were not regarded as serious.

Young Waters has been detained for observation because of his words and actions. His father says the lad read literature beyond his age, and to an excessive degree, and talked much about the stories told by companions. Young Waters told the city attorney that it was his desire to go to the reformatory and this seemed to be his only excuse for injury to his stepmother.

The principal of the school young Waters attended said that he was a bright pupil. At home he had been reprimanded because of disinclination to do his tasks.

MAKING MORAL SURVEY OF STATE LEGISLATORS

Hartford, Jan. 16.—A moral survey of the present general assembly is being compiled by the Connecticut prohibition committee of which E. L. G. Hohenthal, of Machester, is chairman.

Material for this compilation is being gathered by means of blank forms, each calling for information relating to particular members of the legislature. Besides the specific information, the blanks ask those who fill them out to write on the back any other facts "that would be of value to us in securing the member's cooperation and support for moral measures."

There are blanks to be filled in with the names and addresses of persons "who have influence" with the member and among the questions asked are the following: Attitude on moral questions in general; church affiliation; attitude on Sunday observance; attitude on prohibition; attitude on child labor amendment; is he a total abstainer; and general standing in the town.

NEWSPAPER EDITORS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Washington, Jan. 16.—The American Society of Newspaper Editors, opening its annual convention today, held true to journalistic ethics, and in two editions—a morning and evening session—attempted to cover everything that has happened since its meeting of a year ago.

Criticism of some phases of the profession were coupled with a victorious defense of the good faith of the newspapers of the country, and the scope of journalism was defined by one editor—Herbert Bayard Swope of the New York World—as "life reflected in ink, and must partake of the ugliness as well as the beauty."

Deletion and suppression of crime news was touched upon and declared to be unsound, it being said that "expression can never be so bad, for the individual or group, as suppression."

The viewpoint of the medical profession on the press was brought up by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Association Journal, who linked together the "honest doctor and the honest newspaperman" in berating the "publicity hound," but added that the average reporter fails an "easy prey to the medical exploiter of the press."

C. H. Dennis of the Chicago Daily News told the convention that "when you begin to inquire as to who are the gentlemen who attack newspapers, you are surprised to find how little they know about newspapers."

"They sit in a corner, perhaps," he added, "and dream about what newspapers are, but they have very little real information, and I think it is a very wholesome thing to call these gentlemen to account."

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE GIVEN ITALIAN PREMIER

Rome, Jan. 16 (By the A. P.)—Another vote of confidence was given to Premier Mussolini by his Facist majority in the chamber of deputies tonight. The vote was 307 to 33, with no absentions, on a resolution introduced by Signor Farinacci, Fascist leader at Cremona, approving on general principles the electoral reform bill sponsored by Mussolini. The members of the Aventine opposition, who number about 100, were not present at the sitting.

NEW GERMAN CHANCELLOR LACKS FOUR OF MINISTRY

Inaugauration of Dr. Hans Luther Government Has Been Postponed Until Monday—Skeptics Around the Reichstag Are Inclined to the Belief That the Luther Cabinet is Only a Stop Gap to Cover the Few Months Remaining Until the Presidential Election.

Berlin, Jan. 16.—(By The A. P.)—Dr. Hans Luther, the new German chancellor, this afternoon was still lacking four members of his cabinet an hour before he was due to appear before the reichstag, and the session which was to have marked the formal inauguration of his non-partisan bourgeous ministry was postponed until Monday.

There has suddenly developed a dearth of available candidates for the portfolio to a minister of finance which is considered one of the thorniest jobs in the new government, as the question of reaching a decision on the government's policy with respect to establishing a temporary gold basis on pre-war state securities and pre-war government bonds awaits the new ministers' decision.

As the national party has made gold appreciation of government bonds a feature of its platform long before its prospective entrance into the government, it now discovers the problem one of embarrassment, and as a consequence neither it nor Dr. Stresemann's peoples party has come forward with a candidate to succeed Dr. Luther as minister of finance.

The new chancellor also is minus an incumbent for the minister of justice, which was declined today by Dr. Schumacher, a well known Cologne jurist who is identified with the clerical party. The post of minister of transportation and the portfolio for minister of occupied areas also remained unfilled tonight.

The frigality with which the press hails the advent of the new government finds even more pronounced emphasis in the supplementary comment appearing in the evening journals. Sentiment among the socialists and organized labor continues outspokenly hostile. The Christian Trade unions of Cologne in a resolution expressed the belief that the ministry is not of a character such as is necessary to secure internal peace.

There are plenty of skeptics around the reichstag who allot to the government only a brief career, designating it as a stop gap, primarily installed to cover the few months remaining until the presidential election, when the nationalists hope to force a dissolution of the reichstag with the purpose of bracketing the new parliamentary balloting with that for a successor to President Ebert. It is the hope of the nationalists that the internal situation then will be ripe for a nation-wide bourgeois awakening which will sound the political death knell of the socialists, and incidentally disrupt the democratic and clerical parties.

Trades union leaders are prepared to counter any radical action by the new government with a general strike of protest, it was announced today. In this connection it was recalled that it was organized labor which struck the blow which put an end to Dr. Kapp's burlesque "putsch" in Berlin in March, 1920, through the proclamation of a nation-wide general strike.

President Ebert has addressed a cordial letter to Dr. Marx, the retiring chancellor, in which his services are warmly praised.

LEVEL OF GREAT LAKES BEING SLOWLY LOWERED

Washington, Jan. 16—That the general level of the Great Lakes is being slowly but constantly lowered, was the gist of testimony given today before the special senate committee conducting hearings on the proposed St. Lawrence-to-the-Gulf waterway.

Witnesses called by opponents of proposal that Chicago be permitted to divert 1,000,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan into her drainage canal as part of the water way, agreed that many factors had contributed to the decreased depth of the lakes, but were unanimous in the opinion that further diversion would accelerate the decline.

Veteran skippers told of the increasing difficulties they were meeting in entering certain lake ports, particularly the Chicago river with its five-mile current developed by water already being diverted. If the amount is increased, the committee was assured, there would be a corresponding increase in current and in hazard to shipping, which would injure if not destroy, the value of the river as a navigable link in the waterway project.

$50,000 SUIT CHARGES THE ALIENATION OF AFFECTIONS

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 16—Suit for $50,000 charging alienation of the affections of her husband has been filed in district court here by Mrs. Helen Block Johnson, against Mr. and Mrs. William H. Johnson, of New York, it became known today.

The suit followed an annulment action instituted by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson to dissolve her marriage to their son, William H. Johnson, Jr., 20. The girl was an entertainer in a dance hall at Cromwell, Oklahoma's newest oil town.

Johnson was represented by associates at Cromwell as a scion of a wealthy family, who had come to Oklahoma to learn the oil industry.

Mrs. Johnson denied that her husband is very wealthy and said he is New York newspaper man.

NEW YORK RESERVE BANK INCURRED DEFICIT IN 1924

New York, Jan. 16.—For the first time in its history the federal reserve bank of New York incurred a deficit from operations in 1924, according to the annual report, which was made public today. Low rediscount rates, which were reduced three times during the year from a high of 4 1-2 to 3 percent, the rate still prevailing, were considered responsible for the falling off in earnings. The bank's final deficit, after the payments of dividends, amounted to $1,175 677.

Net earnings of the institution for the year total ed only $616,852, contrasted with $3,043,679 in 1923 and approximately $10,000,000 in 1922. Total earnings were $8,569,350 in 1925, compared with $11,413,182 in the preceding year.

SULMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Early retirement of Prohibition Commissioner Hayes was indicated at the white house.

The senate debated the question of naval policy and gun elevation.

The senate agreed to give the postal increase bill right of way next Thursday.

The public debt of the United States at the end of 1925, was $30,845,626,000, the census bureau announced.

The house commerce committee endorsed a bill for a bureau of civil aeronautics in the commerce department.

Captains of lake freighters testified before a senate committee on the effects of diversion of Great Lakes waters.

A bill to give the federal trade commission greater powers to prevent misbranding of goods was reported to the house.

It was announced that President Coolidge believes proposals making jail sentences mandatory for prohibition law offenders involves excessive punishment.

President Coolidge offered to transfer Secretary Hoover to the department of agriculture, but the secretary announced he preferred his present post.

Chairman Couzens of the senate committee investigating prohibition enforcement criticised the prohibition unit's handling of the Fleischmann Yeast Company complaint.

PRESIDENT'S VIEWS OF LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Washington, Jan. 16.—Legislation to make jail sentences mandatory for prohibition law offenders is held by President Coolidge to involve excessive punishment.

Such legislation now is before the house in the Stalker bill, reported by an almost unanimous vote of the judiciary committee. With respect to it the president takes the position that as there are degrees in the seriousness of prohibition law violations, discretion as between fine or jail sentences or as to both should be allowed the courts.

Possession of liquor in a flask, although a violation of the law, is not to the mind of Mr. Coolidge a serious offense, but on the other hand possession of liquor for illicit sale is a serious matter. The chief executive would not look with favor on a law meting out the same punishment to the citizen who has liquor in his possession for his own use, as to the bootlegger.

The president, however, has not had an opportunity to study the Stalker bill and consequently his views on it as given today cannot be taken as clear indication of his action with respect to the measure should it be passed by congress and put up to him for signature or veto.

JUDGE JOHN P. KELLOGG DROPPED DEAD LAST NIGHT AT HIS HOME IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Jan. 16.—Judge John P. Kellogg, 64, died very suddenly at his home, 144 Buckingham street, this city, tonight. Judge Kellogg had intended to attend a meeting of the bar association at Hartford this evening but decided to remain at home. At 11 o'clock he went down to the door to close up the house for the night. He was stricken with an attack of acute indigestion and died within a few minutes after Dr. Henry J. Anderson, the family physician, arrived.

Besides his wife, who was Miss Clara Mason, of Bridgeport, and to whom he was married in 1893, Judge Kellogg is survived by three children, Mrs. John Hamilton Jones, of Washington, D. C., Elizabeth Hosmer Kellogg and Rosemary Kellogg, both of Waterbury; also by two sisters, Mrs. Irving H. Chase and Mrs. Frank Plume, of this city, and two brothers, Captain Frank B. Kellogg, U. S. N., retired and Charles P. Kellogg, both of this city.

Judge Kellogg was the son of Stephen Wright Kellogg, once congressman from this district. He was born in Waterbury and had always lived here.

In 1917, he was appointed by Governor Marcus Holcomb to the superior court bench. He served with distinction until last year when he was appointed to the supreme court by Governor Templeton, to fill a recess appointment. He was re-appointed on Thursday of this week by Governor Trumbull.

beginning Monday evening, January 26, a Church School Teachers' Training Institute to include all the Protestant churches of the city, the Windhams, Coventry and Mansfield, is to be held in this city, with meetings every Monday evening for ten weeks. The institute is to be under the direction of the Connecticut State Sunday School Association. Wallace I. Woodin, of Hartford, secretary, is to give a course in psychology for the pupils and pedagogy for the teachers. There will also be two courses on the Bible by Rev. F. C. Williams, who will lecture on the New Testament, and Rev. Arthur Wheelock on the Old Testament. The committee of arrangements comprises Rev. Andrew S. Muirhead, Arthur Arnold, who is to act as secretary and treasurer, and Mr. Lyman of the Baptist church.

The first on a series of forums for members and prospective members of the re-organizing Windham Republican Club will be held this (Saturday) evening at the club rooms. Representative A. Linn Weatherhead will speak on his first impressions of the General Assembly. A number of other speakers, political and other wise are being booked for the rest of the season.

Miss Idelia Gee, 63, widow of Charles A. Gee died Friday morning at her home. Mrs. Gee was born in Conway, Mass., March 16, 1861, the daughter of Winslow C. and Sophie L. Stockwell Hicks. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Annis Gleason of Manchester and Mrs. Etta Morrison of Willimantic; eleven grandchildren, three brothers, Bert L. Augustus, and Cornelius of Willimantic; five sisters, Mrs. Grace Bishop, Mrs. Etta Noyes and Mrs. Celia Sweet of Brockton, Mass., Mrs. Clara Mease of West Decatur, Pa., and Mrs. Abbie Bammon of Glastonbury.

A dinner was given Friday night at the Congregational church house, by the women's society of the parish for the Boy Scouts of Troop 5. It was attended not only by the Scouts themselves with Scoutmaster Robert C. Rose as master of ceremonies, but by the Troop Committee, Robert O. Branch, William A. Dawson, Eugene S. Hanna, and Robert H. Fenton. The silver loving-cup, which is to be presented by the Congregational Brotherhood to the patrol having the best record for the year, and for which the boys are already competing, was shown them for the first time. The cup was exhibited by Robert Branch, past scout master and a member of the Troop committee for a number of years. Mr. Branch made the formal announcement about the award of the cup, which is to be made at a meeting of the Brotherhood held in the spring to the patrol giving evidence of the best work for the year. It is to be inscribed with the date and the name of the patrol, whose property it then becomes for the year. Robert Fenton also spoke along scouting lines. As the number implies, there are five branches of Boy Scouts in Willimantic, troop one affiliated with St. Paul's, Troops 2, 3, and 4 with St. Joseph's and Troop 5 with the First Congregational church. There are twenty-two members in Troop 5, which expects shortly to increase its membership to 32.

Dr. John A. Griggs of the Canton, China, Christian College, who is spending his Sabbatical year in this country, gave a talk on life in China and the college, before a meeting of the Brotherhood of the Congregational Church House Friday evening. Dr. Griggs was a teacher at the Norwich Free Academy for two years following his graduation from Yale. Before he went out to China. Dr. Griggs was in the music department at Vassar for a number of years. He described the college, which is non-sectarian, as located about three miles outside the limits of the city and has a number of very beautiful and large buildings for the accommodation of the students among whom, it is interesting to note, a number still retain their Occidental belief. This part is so old that a part of the campus was a one-time cemetery, and Dr. Griggs said that until very recently the college had been unable to obtain certain little patches of earth on its own campus that were the burying-lots of the Chinese of perhaps hundreds of years ago, still held sacred by their descendants. The students display an extraordinary high grade of intelligence and a remarkable freedom from nervousness. Dr. Griggs spoke of the present chaotic condition in China, which he expects will soon terminate, and mentions the exciting capture, by bandits of number of the students of the college. Through the quickness of the officials in this case the young men were re-captured by the authorities without the customary payment of a huge ransom.

Mrs. A. N. Chenowith entertained at bridge Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. Griggs, who, with Dr. Griggs has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chenowith, leaving Friday morning for Hartford and Rockville, where Dr. Griggs is to make another address.

Friday afternoon on North Street, Jack T. Nichols, driving a Nash touring car down North toward Main St., struck a Reo speed wagon belonging to Gail Schamback as it pulled away from the curb. The shock threw Schamback's car in toward the curb, where it struck a Buick roadster owned by Dr. Charles Weintraub, smashing through the right rear fender. The damage was estimated at about ten dollars and a settlement was made on the spot. The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Grant Bombria. All three of the cars are owned by residents of this city.

The annual church supper and roll call of the Congregational church, Windham, was held Thursday evening at the church. The results of the election follows: Church committee, for three years, Mrs. F. E. Guild; clerk and treasurer of the church, H. C. Lathrop; Superintendent of the Sunday School, Eden Cook. Besides the reports of the officers of the church, reports from the Ladies' Aid Society the Missionary Society, the Sunday School and the Christian Endeavor Society were read and accepted. The supper was under the management of the Ladies' Aid Society, directed by Mrs. H. C. Lathrop. A talk on the work of the church was given by the pastor, Rev. James F. Graham. Over fifty responded to their names as read at the roll-call.

The Windham Read Bridge Club was entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Standish, with Mrs. Owen O'Neil and Mrs. G. Everett Harrington playing as guests. First prize was won by Miss Elisabeth Hardman and second by Mrs. Homer Harrington.

About two hundred people gathered in the vestry of the Methodist church Thursday evening, to attend the annual family night dinner arranged by a committee including Mrs. F. J. Williams, Mrs. A. S. Muirhead, Mrs. Helen French, and Mrs. E. F. Cross. The entertainment which followed was in a large part furnished by the Imperial Entertainers. Familiar hymns were sung in chorus by the congregation for an opening number. The Imperial Quartette comprises Ray Tallman, Arthur Clark, Claude Ide, and Edwin L. Cross. Mrs. Charles Beebe gave several readings which were received with a great deal of appreciation. The program closed with a brief address by the pastor, the Rev. Stanley S. Muirhead.

The cold wave recently was welcomed by the ice dealers as the snow and rain which fell two days previous tended to add thickness to the ice on the ponds. The Vargos Bros. started Wednesday to house a crop from the upper pond.

The service held Thursday evening in the First Baptist church was a very entertaining one. It was held under the joint auspices of the Woman's Missionary society and the World Wide Guild. A varied program was carried out. Rev. William F. Williams of Calvary church gave the invocation and read the Scripture lesson from Matt. 3 chapter. Mrs. Frank D. Stanton sang a solo, My Task and Rev. D. C. Stone offered prayer. Mrs. Wilfred M. Brown in behalf of the societies, made an address of welcome and introduced Miss Ethel L. Ryan, who gave an address in which she told of her work and that of others among the Hopi Indians of Arizona. She told her story in such a way as to claim the minute attention of the audience. Her description of the marriage ceremony and the actual dressing of a bride, who was played by Miss Jennie Rittenhouse, proved pleasing. Miss Ryan was imbued with her topic and spoke out of an experience rich in illustration.

The Crusaders and the World Wide Guild sang selections which were enjoyed. Miss Rittenhouse presided at the piano, Stanley H. Pierce at the organ. The service came to a close when the W. W. G. sounded taps and benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dwight C. Stone.

Friday noon rain began falling in Westerly and freezing as it struck the ground, made traveling difficult. The rain continued and thawing removed much of the snow and ice.

Since the death of William D. Hoxie, last Monday on the steamer Southern Cross, the flag on the Westerly Memorial and Public Library, of which he was vice president and director, has been flown at half mast. The next steamer from Rio Janeiro, to which port the Southern Cross was bound, is due in New York Feb. 1st, sailing from the South American port Jan. 21st.

Rev. William H. Bath, of Norwich, superintendent of the district, will preside at the fourth quarterly conference of Grace Methodist Episcopal church to be held next Wednesday evening.

Henry D. Smith, station agent at Norwich, and formerly of the Westerly station of the New Haven road was a visitor in Westerly Thursday evening.

Miss May E. Moore of Pawcatuck left Friday afternoon for a visit in Providence.

It is reported that rooms at the Westerly hotels are almost at a premium for Saturday, January 24th, the day of the total eclipse of the sun. Among prominent guests expected is Thomas A. Edison, electrical expert and family, his daughter and her family being regular guests at Watch Hill.

WEEKAPAUG COTTAGES ENTERED, THIEVES ESCAPE
(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., Jan. 16.—Three Weekapaug cottages were added Friday morning to the list of seashore properties, which have been recently entered, ransacked and contents stolen. The cottages were those of Egene E. Mapes, New York; "Nofnet," with Walter Rogers caretaker; Mrs. George H. Freeman, "Spray Rock," with Frank Champlin, caretaker; a new cottage the past year of Richard H. Cole, Hartford, with Caretaker Phil Gavitt. The breaks were similar to previous ones with the exception that tallow candles were not used, nor were cigarette butts left about. The loot was piled outside near the cottages in readiness to be carried away but early discovery frustrated this attempt.

When Surfman H. J. Johnson of the Quonochontaug Coast Guard Station had nearly reached the west end of his patrol, near the Weekapaug breachway at about 1.50 a. m., Friday morning, he observed lights flashing in the Mapes cottage and calling the coast guard station told Capt. George W. Streeter what he had observed. He again called Captain Streeter when similar lights were seen in the Cole cottage. Captain Streeter called the Westerly police department and Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, Patrolman George H. Champlin left by automobile for Weekapaug, picking up Patrolman George Madison at Dunn's corners. Arriving at the beach they found that the Coast Guard were just ahead of them, having come over from Quonochontaug.

It was 2.25 o'clock when Chief Bowen received the telephone call and in less than 30 minutes the officers had arrived at the cottages. Captain Streeter and two other members of the coast guard were there to meet the officers.

The officers surrounded the cottages where the lights had been seen, and a thorough search of the premises was made. Three cottages were discovered entered, but there was no one in sight. The coast guardsmen who had reported seeing flash lights about the premises lay in waiting in the bushes until the officers arrived, but stated that he heard no automobile in the vicinity. It was later reported, however, that an automobile traveling at a high rate of speed passed over the stretch of road which runs from the Shore road to the Post road, about ten minutes before the arrival of the police.

An investigation showed that an entrance had been gained to the Cole cottage through a cellar door as other cottages had been broken into along the Westerly road, at Watch Hill and Weekapaug - dunes some time ago. The Cole cottage was ransacked and many articles had been packed ready for removal.

Two doors were found open at the Freeman cottage, formerly the Waite summer home, and a large quantity of bedding and dishes were stacked ready to be carried away. This cottage was ransacked from top to bottom.

A visit to the Davis cottage, located next to the Freeman cottage, showed that the thieves had made further progress there toward making away with the goods. The house was ransacked and considerable bedding had been wrapped in sheets. Outside the house were found one large rug, four small rugs, bedding and two water color pictures. It is believed the thieves were at work in the Davis cottage when the signal came from the outside guard to make a getaway.

The local police, assisted by Capt. Streeter and his men from the Quonochontaug station, remained in the locality until 4.30 o'clock all heavily armed. While the cottages were being searched and the surrounding property two of the officers traveled the highways in the vicinity in an automobile searching for the thieves. It is believed there were three or four in the party and that a guard stationed outside gave the warning word that they were about to be trapped.

Put In Your Order TODAY

—FOR—

Rockville Willimantic Lighting Co's Preferred Shares

In 1922 we offered our customers 500 shares of our 7 per cent. Preferred Stock. In three days they put in orders for over 850 shares. Fortunately we were able to secure enough additional shares to look out for over-subscription.

TODAY WE OFFERED 750 MORE SHARES

Based on the number of orders already received, it is not improbable that the entire allotment will be subscribed for before nightfall. In any event, we can not hope that they will last over two or three days.

Unfortunately we do not know where we can secure a share beyond those which we are offering.

The first orders (accompanied by the payment in full in cases of outright purchase—or the first payment in cases of divided payment sales) that reach the office will be filled.

We feel that everyone who wishes to become a partner of the company or to increase his holdings should understand these facts.

Please remember also that shares will be sold to customers (or members of customers' families) only and not more than 10 shares to any one purchaser.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Maybe farmers as a rule are not given to praying for material things—or interviews with them have not been concerned with such things—but as busy men with an endless round of duties before them those of the calling that have been bringing water from distant ponds to their cattle for several weeks must have felt like turning to the Diety Friday evening when rain began to come down in copious quantities and give thanks at least for the promise of respite from an extra arduous task.

Here in Danielson where one turns a faucet and gets an ample and apparently limitless supply of water at any time of day or night a water shortage seems a vague and almost impossible thing, but in territory within five miles of the borough, where there is no water service the problem is a real one. The water shortage has been more or less acute since last summer. There have been periods of relief but no real reserve supply has been accumulated and for weeks past many farmers have had hours added to their daily grind by going to springs and wells and where ever water has been available to get what they required for their herds. And if you think a herd of cows and several horses have no longing for water just try supplying their needs for a day or two. Shortly after night fell Friday there was promise of a good rainstorm out of the southwest. Realization of it would mean much to many who are engaged in the basic pursuit of the nation—agriculture and dairying.

Thrift week begins today for the nation's savers at post offices throughout the country. Incidentally, in boosting Thrift week the government quotes Benjamin Franklin, still considered an A-1 American, as saying when things were not so rosy in these good United States as they are today, "Never forget to have a penny handy when all the expenses are enumerated and paid" So, beginning today, this is the week to consider what the government has to say about its postal savings department. The post office force is just peering out through the various windows waiting to tell you all about it.

A pair of thugs recently held up Mrs. John E. Reed of this town, who is staying with friends at Melrose, Mass., choked her and pushed her to the sidewalk after snatching her purse and making off with it. The hold-up occurred in a residential section of the city about 8:45. The violence with which Mrs. Reed was hurled to the ground so injured and dazed her that she lay there until a motorist happened along and assisted her to a nearby home, where she was given first aid treatment and then taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Caswell, former residents of this town, where she is visiting.

Excepting from the shock of the experience Mrs. Reed suffered no serious effects. The assault upon her was so unexpected and made with such abandon that she is unable to furnish a detailed description of her assailants.

Mrs. Reed is the mother of Alfred L. Reed of Danielson.

It spears that numbers of people, impressed by reading newspaper stories, have left off eating shell fish, clams and oysters principally. Meanwhile many other people continue to eat them, relish them and enjoy good health. The fear of shell fish has been established as very much of a myth. It is one of the signs of hysteria of the age, and there are plenty of them. Being afraid of shell fish, in the opinion of the great majority of competent investigators of the subject, is about as reasonable as being afraid of the coming eclipse of the sun. Plenty of people in Danielson and vicinity are eating clams and oysters regularly and are as healthy, or more so, than people who are afraid to touch them. This has long been ascribed as a funny world, but it seems to be getting more so every week. Considering the question, there are some who will not eat an oyster or clam just now but don't mind riding 60 miles an hour in an automobile. It is to laugh! Give most of us the shell fish instead of the speed

The state motor vehicle department knows how to save a cent and congratulations are offered. It is sending out forms on which applications for renewal of operators' licenses may be made in unsealed envelopes as second class matter.

Edward Cloutier, who has been engaged as an automobile mechanic here for years has devised a unique link for repairing tire chains that embodies a real idea. A broken cross section can be repaired almost instantly by hooking up the broken sections and letting the car seal the ends together when the machine gets to rolling again. The best part of the whole thing is that Mr. Cloutier does not think he has got a million dollar proposition. He shows his friends how to make them. And they certainly would appreciate knowing on a bitter cold night when the roads are icy.

St. Alban's parish house will be a reality during the coming spring or summer. The plans are ready. The new structure will be erected on the parish property, Broad street, at the head of Academy street. The parish has ample land for the building in the rear of the church. The parish house is to be a one-story structure. It is to have an auditorium that will seat upwards of 200 people, a small stage, with a dressing room at either side; a woman's parlor, with fire place, a kitchen and other desirable features. St. Alban's parish is small in membership, but what it lacks in numbers is made up in zeal, enthusiasm and a willingness to do things and to give liberally for worthy projects. Under the leadership of the rector, Rev. Leonard L. Richards, St. Alban's parish has taken on marked activity. Much is to be expected of it within the period of his rectorship.

Tonight at the state armory the basketball teams of the Providence Collegians and the Service Battery will have it out. The Collegians took a trimming from the army men here a few weeks ago, but only by a narrow margin. Their representative has told Gordon J. Gale of the Service Battery team that they will bring a more powerful outfit to Danielson tonight than appeared here with the last time and that they hope and expect to be returned victors. That's a great ambition, for if they win from the Service Battery they will know that they have been in a basketball game. The battery has a real team. The fans here will be on hand to cheer for the battery players to victory.

Putnam lodge, B. P. O. E. No. 574 will hold its annual Elks' ball at the state armory, Danielson, Thursday evening, Jan. 22. Music by the Danish orchestra and band of Providence. Tickets now selling by members and at all Danielson banks.—adv.

"Why publish the fact than many people are plumb scared over the coming eclipse," writes a woman who probably reads The Bulletin. "I am scared about the thing and admit it, but I figure I am entitled to some kind of a thrill in these dull and dreary winter days. I would rather be scared, too, than just dozing around doing nothing."

Well, there is a thoroughbred in any event. The boys would call her a good sport in the most fitting sense of the word

The next boxing for Danielson is scheduled for February 3. Promotor Barber hopes to have five bouts on the card. The premier event likely will be between lightweights, but there will be bigger boys on the bill, which Mr. Barber hopes to have as good as the others staged here this season.

When members of McGregor post, W. R. C., meet next Wednesday evening committee appointments for the present year will be announced and there will be other matters for consideration of special interest to the membership.

A blue glass with which to view the solar eclipse of next Saturday morning is being offered by merchants in Danielson. It is selling well, too, evidence that many regard the eclipse for just what it is—an interesting phenomena of the skies and nothing more.

Tickets now selling for the lecture at Killingly High School next Wednesday evening by Fred D. Aldridge, scientist. Admission 35 cents. Subject, Solar Eclipse. Tickets from committee of Killingly Woman's club.—adv.

Dr. H. B. Campbell of Norwich will be at the health station in the town hall building next Tuesday to hold his monthly tuberculosis clinic.

Fox hunters had it figured out as snow was slowly shifting in from the south at sunset Friday that this would be a great morning to be out early and off for the country where reynard runs.

Scores of radio fans here expressed delight Friday over the splendid manner in which the broadcast of Frances Alda's singing from New York was received in this territory Saturday night.

The report of the clerk of the Westfield Congregational church shows an enrollment of 264 members at the opening of the present year.

Jared A. Stearns of Attleboro was a visitor in Danielson on Friday.

State Deputy Charles M. Adams of Groton will come here next Monday evening to install the newly elected officers of Killingly grange, the ceremony to be held in Odd Fellows' hall. Mr. Adams is the assistant steward of the state grange. Mrs. F. E. Cunneen is chairman of the committee on refreshments for the installation night.

Mrs. Effie Barstow of South Manchester, for many years a resident here is visiting with friends in Danielson.

Miss Carrie Chamberlin of Hawkins street will have the members of the Fortnightly club at her home for a meeting next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. C. D. Chase of North Main street will entertain the members of the Reading circle next Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold Bigelow had the members of the Woman's Foreign Mission society of the Methodist church at her home for a meeting Friday afternoon.

PUTNAM

Ralph C. Jenkins, superintendent of schools in Putnam, has an article in the January issue of the Connecticut Schools, published by the state board of education, on school savings in Putnam. He outlined the program of the school savings plan instituted here and said that there were 600 accounts in operation, amounting to $4,000, when the First National bank closed in August. He compliments the directors of the Citizens' National bank for assuming and paying back to the children during Putnam's Come Back days the full amount of their deposit. The day after they received this, he says, two-thirds of the children redeposited their money in one of the three banks of the city.

Putnam lodge, B. P. O. E., No. 574, will hold its annual Elks' concert and ball at the state armory, Thursday evening, January 22. Music by the Danish orchestra and band of Providence. Tickets now selling by members or may be ordered from all Danielson banks.—adv.

Miss Nellie Ryan died at the home of her father, Thomas Ryan, shortly after 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. She had been an invalid for a long time, but was critically ill but ten days. Miss Ryan was a lifelong resident of Thompson, having been born in the same house in which she died. Besides her father, she leaves three brothers and three sisters. Two of the brothers and one sister live in Thompson.

Miss Marjorie Bradford, assistant clerk of the courts, during the January criminal term of the superior court here, has been reading the information, administering the oath to witnesses, and Wednesday morning she called the roll of the jurors, told them their duties and pledged them to "truly try and due deliverance make." And she did it capably and in well enunciated words. Miss Bradford has been assistant to Judge Warner for several years and is thoroughly conversant with all the duties of the office.

Arthur E. Smith, cashier of the Citizens' National bank, is now occupying the G. H. Gilpatric house on Seward street, which he bought from the state bank referee. The sale was consummated Tuesday afternoon and at noon Thursday two large motor vans filled with his furniture arrived here from Hyde Park, Mass. Mr. Smith, who was formerly manager of the Hyde Park branch of the First National bank of Boston, sold his home there several weeks ago and the new owner was anxious to take possession.

The Chamber of Commerce has sent out calls for a meeting of business men to be held in the Chamber of Commerce room Monday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 o'clock. The report of "The Trade in Putnam" committee will be presented for discussion.

Donald Johnson is able to be out again after being confined to the house for a month by an infected finger. It finally became necessary to remove a small part of the finger to stop the ceptic poisoning.

The present standing of the leaders in the second round of the Putnam Checker club's tournament is as follows: F. B. Stanton 75, William P. Warren 72, Dr. E. F. Perry 67, M. H. Geissler 65, H. K. Burton 62.5, H. J. Dubois 62.5. The first round is nearly completed, with Mr. Warren almost certain of being high man. His percentage in that round is 73.

The Pomfret school hockey team won its opening game of the season on Saturday when it defeated Huntington at Pomfret in a hard fought game. The score was 1 to 0, the only goal being made late in the third period by Laselle, substitute wing, following a scrimmage in front of the Huntington cage.

There will be a missionary tea at the home of Mrs. Ernest C. Morse on Seward street Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 21, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. E. L. Robinson will sing. All of the ladies of the parish are cordially invited to attend.

There were about 150 members and guests at the open meeting of the Elizabeth Porter chapter, D. A. R., held Jan. 12. The usual meeting was posponed to the special meeting Wednesday, Jan. 14, and the meeting put into the hands of the program committee, Mrs. Sarah G. Sampson, who introduced Miss Amy Hanson, reader for the Lotus quartet, who gave a number of humorous readings. Mrs. Herbert Shaftoe of Providence sang two groups of songs. Refreshments were served by the committee of hostess, with Mrs. Helen Mansfield as chairman.

Mrs. Leonard Mellor has returned to her home on Grove street after a visit to friends and relatives at New Bedford.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Methodist church was held Tuesday evening at the parsonage, with Rev. W. H. Bath, district superintendent, presiding. Reports were read and showed the church to be in a healthy and active condition. A strong spirit of co-operation and good fellowship was manifested and it was unanimously voted to invite the pastor, Rev. N. B. Burton, to return for another year. All committees and officers elected were practically the same as last year.

During Mrs. Pierre Meyer's absence, Arthur S. Chadwick will officiate as organist at St. Philip's church.

Little Miss Muriel Grosvenor of Boston is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Milot of Fremont street.

Edward Randall of East Putnam, who has been in the Memorial hospital at Worcester for more than a year, is slowly gaining strength.

The public is cordially invited to be present at any of the regular drills of the 43rd Division Headquarters company and see for themselves the progress that is being made in modern tactics. After the drill last Monday night a company meeting, full of pep and enthusiasm, was held, and it was voted to hold Saturday night dances, and a committee of seven was appointed to carry out the details. The company also plans to hold a whist and dance in the near future and with the talent in the company will probably present a minstrel show. These activities combined with the fact that the company has just held its first ball, and has two basketball teams playing weekly, shows that they are alive and doing.

Tomorrow the pastor of the Methodist church in Putnam, Rev. N. B. Burton, will change pulpits with Rev. J. G. Bisbee of North Grosvenordale.

At the annual meeting of the Ecclesiastical society of the Second Congregational church the following officers were elected: Ray Bosworth, committee chairman for three years; John Moss, collector; C. M. Elliott, clerk and treasurer; L. Merriam, auditor for one year.

Arthur Lathrop of Dayville has purchased a tract of wood and timberland at Mechanicsville, opposite the school.

SIX INCHES OF SNOW IN PUTNAM FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Jan. 16.—Putnam and vicinity was enveloped Friday afternoon and evening in the first real snowstorm of the winter. The flakes began to fall about noon and continued all the afternoon and into the night. At 6 o'clock it was six inches deep, and still falling. The icy condition of the roads and the snowfall have made traveling difficult. Practically every automobile has chains on. Some of the cars have them on all four wheels.

JEWETT CITY

As the time draws nearer for the total solar eclipse, so interest in Jewett City correspondingly increases. Local people are finding much of interest to study in the approaching phenomenon.

Superintendent F. H. P. Clement has already given two stereopticon lectures of the coming event, and now, agreeable to the proclamation of Gov. Trumbull, the matter furnished by the Connecticut State Board of Education, will be told to the pupils.

Some local people have spoken about going to Westerly, as that is the city to which the New Haven road is to run excursions. Such a trip is entirely unnecessary, as Jewett City is nearer the center of the path of totality than Westerly and here Taylor's Hill has been selected as a point of vantage unexcelled. A large number of Jewett City people plan to take in the whole show, and will be on the hill when the eclipse begins at 8.04 a. m. The plan to visit this high point of land will enable Jewett City observers to see the wonderful shadow, as it approaches from the northwest, from a point about over the Lisbon railroad station.

When the sun gets down to a thin crescent of light, as it will be seen above the Norman farm, then the observers will turn squarely with their backs to the sun and watch for the coming of the shadow. That shadow will appear as a great dark something rising up from the horizon beyond Branch hill, and will rush across over Jewett City, toward Taylor hill at an enormous speed.

The instant it hits the watchers, they will about face to the sun and then if it is clear here, the wonderful corona will appear and last while the the watchers count 120.

Venus, Mercury and Jupiter will be plainly visible. The local observers are asked, if the air has been still, to take note if a wind springs up at the moment of totality and if so, in what direction it blows.

Putnam lodge, B. P. O. E., No. 574, will hold its annual Elks' concert and ball at the state armory, Thursday evening, January 22. Music by the Danish orchestra and band of Providence. Tickets now selling by members or may be ordered from all Danielson banks.—adv.

Young Cobb, local 138 pound boxer exhibited his wares in the squared circle at the Lorraine Community Club at Westerly, R. I., Thursday evening. He was pitted against Young Rita who has made quite a rep around Providence. Cobb made a very creditable showing against his more experienced adversary, easily taking three of the four rounds. He challenged Rita to a return match and is also booked to appear at the next boxing show to be held at Danielson.

Jack Potts seconded Cobb. "Hall" Chase, Fred Stebbins and "Doc" Gingras accompanied him to Westerly.

Chief Howard L. Stanton of Norwich, during his address at the fire engine house Thursday evening had much to say about the reduction of the hose to one and one half inches, with a one inch delivery tip on the nozzle.

The motor drawn apparatus today he said, gets to a very large per cent. of the fires, when they are in the incipient stage. Then, he explained how the small hose was much more pliable, was easily handled and, with its increased force, most fires get a black mark, without drowning out the building, and doing hundreds of dollars worth of damage with unnecessary water. The chief further advised, that when the new pumper is installed, that the Ford chemical truck be equipped with smaller hose.

Jewett City felt mighty safe and fine all day Friday, because of the assurance given by Chief Stanton, that Norwich felt very friendly toward its sister burg up the line, and he said, that surely in case of a bad fire, he would land men and a pumper here at double quick. It was of interest to hear chief relate the story of coming to Jewett City, with a steam fire engine, on a flat car special, forty years ago, at the time of the first big hotel fire.

During the late afternoon Friday, a snow storm with great damp flakes, as large as a silver quarter visited the borough.

There was not the slightest draft of air stirring from any quarter, and in an hour the bare limbs of the trees and the smaller shrubbery were transformed into a winter scene of wondrous beauty. People all over the town called up their friends, to ask if they were observing the surpassing exhibit. A local weather sharp says: If the snow on the trees drops off it will be followed by warmer weather. If it blows away, a cold spell may be expected.

The latest thing offered for sale locally, is additional buckles to sew on the lose and flapping tops of feminine goloshes. It is one of the main street attractions, this weather to see the overshoe parade go by with the buckles all a rattling, and the tops hanging down like the boots of a buccaneer.

Mrs. Ernest Blake and children visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lindell, last Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Lindell accompanied her to her home in Coventry, R. I., remaining for several days, also visiting with other Rhode Island relatives. Since returning home Mr. and Mrs. Lindell have been entertaining their granddaughter, Miss Grace E. Lindell of Griswold.

WILL GIVE GEORGE S. BROWN A FAREWELL RECEPTION

(Special to the Bulletin)

Jewett City, Jan. 16—Prentice W. Chase, editor of the Acco Smile, published for the operatives of the Ashland Cotton Co., by the Ashland club, has the following to say about the retiring superintendent George S. Brown.

Mr. Brown, our superintendent, severs his connections with the Ashland Cotton Company February 1st, to take up his duties in a like capacity with thethe Cabot Manufacturing Company of Brunswick, Maine. He enters on his new duties February 15th.

For seven years Mr. Brown has commanded the utmost respect of our entire personnel. His ability in the matter of production has stamped him as one of the best. His genial disposition and pleasing personality have made him a host of friends both within and without the plant.

The esteem in which Mr. Brown was held by his overseers reverted back to the benefit of the operatives in general.

He was greatly interested in the general welfare of the operatives' families. Always ready with a boost for the activities of the Ashland club and a frequent contributor to the columns of the Acco Smile; his pennings being varied, instructive and at times decidedly humorous.

As president of the Ashland Fish and Game Protective Association, his advice and council together with his ever willing spirit have placed this association on a par with the best in the state of a similar nature and made it possible for the sporsmen in his vicinity to gain recognition from the State Fish and Game Commission second to none.

In appreciation of his earnest support and good will so gladly given in the five years that the Ashland Club has been in existence, the Club will tender Mr. Brown a farewell reception the latter part of this month with all operatives of the mill, together with their wives and husbands as invited guests.

The program for the evening is being arranged to please both old and young and every operation is at this time urgently requested to be on hand.

CLARK'S CORNER

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Main were guests of George Jones and family, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Horace Palmer was the guest of Miss Sarah Palmer at Westerly on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Rathbone and little daughters, Althea and Antoinette, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Christian, radio specialist, at Worcester, Mass., recently. They were also entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goguen and a theatre party was given the following evening at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlina.

Alfred M. and Elbert W. Clark have filled their ice house with a fine quality of nine-inch ice.

Sunday evening a number met in the chapel to sing from the new song books.

Rev. L. S. Robbins preached an eloquent sermon in the chapel Sunday morning There was a good attendance.

S. Frank Palmer and his brother, were in Westerly on business Saturday.

There may be a new industry in this village in a short time. The Admiral Braid Company, Inc., has had men from Boston looking over the water privileges and buildings who have decided that it is one of the best sites that could be procured for their product has exceeded the capacity of their present plant although running day and night and it is proposed to locate here, when more machinery can be installed.

A REAL Furniture Opportunity

THERE ARE "SALES" and "sales." Some base their appeal on price alone, overlooking the fact that price without quality means nothing. Others depend upon the size of the discount to interest people, whereas everyone knows that a big discount from a high price doesn't mean nearly as great a saving as a smaller percentage of discount from prices that were already low !!

We give you correct styles and thoroughly dependable quality as well as extremely low prices ! Furthermore, every reduction is made from a regular price that was already very low, giving you the greatest possible saving ! First choice is best, so act now !

COLLECTING FROM GERMANY.

Quite the same as in all conferences pertaining to the adjustment of our interests or claims upon the countries of Europe, there has been carefully followed the progress made at the interallied financial conference at Paris, at which an American commission was in attendance.

The result has been to reach an agreement upon the payment of the claims which this country has against Germany, including the cost of maintaining our forces on the Rhine. There has been no question concerning the legitimacy of our claims, but it was a question as to whether we would be paid out of the payments made by Germany under the Dawes plan or whether we would have to make a separate adjustment with Germany. Inasmuch as the Dawes plan was regarded as obtaining from Germany all that it was able to pay, the injustice of the latter plan is evident.

By the agreement which has been reached Uncle Sam is to share in the proceeds of the Dawes plan. We will not get a settlement of our claims prior to the claims of the other nations. Our claims will not be paid in a lump sum. We are to share with the others, getting $13,750,000 annually for about 17 years, or until the debt is discharged for the maintenance of troops. In addition to that we are to receive two and a quarter per cent of the proceeds of the Dawes annuities and of any distribution of railway bonds, industrial debentures or other bonds we are to receive a like proportion.

In other words while we are to receive a much smaller sum than other countries we are to get it in annual installments in proportion to our claims. We thus join in with the others, manifesting in regard to the claims upon Germany much the same attitude which has been taken relative to European debts. There has been no disposition to exert an unfair advantage over the other allies, while the agreement indicates the recognition on their part of the justice of our claims and our right to participate.

WEAPONS, PENALTIES AND CRIME.

Sooner or later the number of crimes and the growing disrespect for the law has its effect upon a community. It gets to the point where there is a realization of the fact that it is experiencing an abnormal increase in crime and that the time has come to call a halt.

Just at the present time this is the sentiment in numerous cities. This week a superior court judge in Massachusetts sentenced a young man indicted for three robberies to 25 to 40 years in state prison, a sentence which means that even should he get a parole at the earliest moment he would be obliged to spend 16 years in the penitentiary. This sentence was imposed because of the character of the accused and his apparent determination to commit crime. It was likewise regarded as time to do something that would discourage the criminals.

In the city of Baltimore there have been so many murders and holdups that a campaign has been started to make it more difficult to obtain firearms. Baltimore may have the same experience that New York has had with its Sullivan law. It may be able to decrease the sales of pistols there and make it harder for individuals to protect themselves, but just as long as the criminals can get them elsewhere the desired result will not be obtained. Yet if there are any benefits to be obtained from the placing of greater restrictions than exist about the sale of firearms it is certainly warranted in securing it.

Possibly the situation is much the same in Baltimore that it is in certain of the suburbs of Boston. There may be need of letting the criminal class and the understudies know that the days of leniency are over, that more consideration is henceforth to be given to furnishing better protection to the public and in doing so there will be imposed penalties that are regarded as sufficient as to cause individuals to think twice before embarking upon a criminal spree or career. Baltimore may have good reason for placing more restrictions in the sale of fire arms, but it might help to adopt the plan of the Massachusetts superior court judge.

TRAVELING IN FOG.

Navigation through the fog is accompanied by more or less hazard. As might be expected it calls for the exercise of due caution and the careful observance of regulations. While those using the shipping lanes observing the rules and giving due consideration to the safety of passengers and ship the danger is kept to the minimum though not necessarily eliminated.

When the steamer Boston was rammed by the tanker Swift Arrow last summer off Point Judith in a dense fog, causing the loss of four lives, federal steamboat inspectors conducted an inquiry with the result that they found a certain amount of blame rested upon both captains, but the greater amount on Captain Call of the Boston, whose negligence was such that his license was taken away. This decision was even approved by the supervisor of that district, but now as the result of an appeal to the supervising inspector at Washington the decision has been reversed, the blame is placed upon the Swift Arrow's captain and Captain Call's license is returned.

Attention is directed to the fact that the tanker was using signals that tended to confuse rather than help and even though the testimony showed that that vessel had been running under reduced speed for some time and with engines stopped for six minutes it crashed into the passenger vessel, with engines reversed, to the depth of about 18 feet.

The final decision points out the faulty conclusions of the lower officials and emphasizes the fact that Captain Call had observed the proper requirements for safety, even though his ship had not been running under reduced speed prior to the hearing of the Swift Arrow's whistle. This was a case where the course of the latter crossed that of the Boston on its way to New York and it makes it clear that there cannot be too much care exercised when vessels are traveling in the fog. There's too much at stake to take chances.

AGRICULTURAL CENSUS.

The appeal which is made by Secretary Gore of the department of agriculture to the farmers of the country may not be required, but it should serve to prepare those who have not been visited as to what is expected of them and therefore facilitate the work of the enumerators.

The department of agriculture is wrestling with agricultural conditions and problems. It is important that it should have the best possible understanding of the facts in arriving at conclusions and in determining what solutions are advisable. It needs to be in intimate touch with production statistics and with such things as farm acreage, the amount utilized, the results obtained and the only way of getting such facts is of course to go directly to the farmers.

That of course is what must be done in the taking of a census dealing with agriculture. It is a matter which should be of interest to the farmers and instead of balking at the questions of the enumerators there should be an eagerness to answer them in as much detail as is possible, census matters in this instance being surrounded with the same degree of secrecy that they are in the regular census every ten years. It is not a means of providing information for neighbor, or for town officials.

In such efforts it is expected that everyone will do his part. Through such an attitude will the desired results be obtained and the real object of the census be accomplished. Whatever has a bearing upon agricultural legislation deserves to be aided.

FIGHTING OPIUM.

The fact that the last gathering at Geneva for the purpose of bringing about the suppression of the opium traffic throughout the world failed to get anywhere does not necessarily mean that other efforts can get nowhere or that all hope must be abandoned. Bishop Brent was plainly discouraged at the development, but even he understands the importance of keeping everlastingly at the endeavor to restrict the production of what contributes to so much demoralization throughout the world.

With the resumption of the conference this month, interest attaches to the appointment of Viscount Cecil as the British representative because of the important place which Great Britain and its dependencies hold in the production of opium and therefore in the international agreement which may be reached. The appointment of Viscount Cecil will be regarded as an excellent one. Whether he is for or against the plan which has been advocated by this country there are reasons to believe that he will base his judgment on good ground.

This country would have the production of opium stopped, except for such as is needed for medical and scientific purposes and the curtailment would be carried on at the rate of ten per cent in the producing countries over a period of ten years. While there seems to be no difficulty in impressing upon the conference the great harm that opium is doing, it is going to be another thing to convince those countries which have so long depended on that profitable business to abandon it. It must be continued, however, until accomplished even though it takes time.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Nothing could have been more welcome than a January rain storm.

The wild scramble for committees being over the general assembly can now settle down to business.

Norwich hasn't any reason yet for cancelling the order to the effect that all precipitation come in the form of rain.

It isn't necessary to remind some to feed the birds, while the mere mention of it is enough to set most of the others into action.

The danger of coasting in the highways where there is traffic or which intersect other roads has too many striking illustrations.

Now that Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes says he isn't planning to resign in March it will be disappointing to those who want to predict his successor.

It seems to be easy to identify Gerald Chapman when he makes a break or succeeds in a holdup, but not the same ease is experienced in capturing him.

The refusal of the house committee to report the bill for the changing of the name of Mt. Ranier to Mt. Tacoma means that the advocates must do their work all over again.

Next month the speed limit in Belgium will be abolished and motorists will be required to drive in a manner not to endanger the public. Of course they wouldn't think of driving any other way.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Is there any method — short of murder—by which jingoism can be muzzled? Of course if any attempt were made along this line the jingoists would claim that it was an infringement upon freedom of speech. That is the cry of bolshevists, communists and the whole brood who are working for the overthrow of law and order. It was the cry of the earlier socialists known under the name of "the devils of Gadara," when their work of tormenting innocent and helpless people was suddenly interrupted. Their snarling objection to all interference was this, "Why trouble us before out time?". Into this class we may justly put all those who are trying to foment trouble between this country and Japan. The officials of both countries desire nothing but continued friendship and harmony, but the irresponsible gang is using all sorts of propaganda to stir up ill feeling and foment active strife. If this comes under the name of treason, why not treat it as such?

The tendency of the people of this country to extravagance and luxury is becoming alarming, from the economic standpoint. The department of sociology of the university of Missouri has made a careful digest of the government returns as given by the federal bureau of education. During a recent year, according to this report, the people of the United States spent for luxuries the amazing sum of $22,700,000,000. This was a trifle more than a third of their total income. It seems almost incredible that the bill for tobacco alone was nearly twice as much as that of religion and education combined. And the cost in one year was more than what has been paid for higher education in 273 years. One of two things seems to be true, we are either overdoing the tobacco habit, or underdoing our educational work.

Apropos to this subject, take the work of Dr. Kernahan with several of our leading churches which begins tomorrow. It is the "new" evangelism. Its object is to arouse enthusiasm in the matter of church membership. The "old" idea of emotional experience as a necessary pre-requisite to uniting with the church has for the most part gone by. Among the denominations of the more conservative type the old idea is still held There are those especially in the south who believe that real religion cannot be separated ecstatic feelings In these days we are putting more importance on the activity of the will in the matter than the emotions. We are more and more inclined to believe that the human reason is a far more trustworthy arbiter in making religious decisions than the working of the emotional nature. It is sincerely to be hoped that the result of Dr Kernahan's leadership will result in large accessions to our churches.

A young professor in the university of Prague once gave this advice to his students; "Young men, make an assault upon opportunity." In commenting upon this remark, someone has inquired, "What on earth did he mean?" We have heard of taking hold of opportunity and seizing it and using it, but not assaulting it. Probably, however, he meant laying hold of opportunity with might and main because it may never pass your door again. Now I would apply this to the pleasant days we are having (or, at least, were having when these lines were written.) With most of us real winter usually sets in with much outside work neglected. When the spring comes it will usher in those seasonable duties that will not brook delay. But many of the undone things in cellar, attic, and outside premises can be done if Dame Nature continues to smile upon us in present fashion. It is still true that "procrastination is the thief of time."

We are afraid of a great many harmless things that we have to deal with (i. e.) some people are) and among these things are the innocent adjectives, "old" and "new." What is meant is we are afraid to let go of old things and take up new. With a certain type of mind there is just the reverse; there seems to be an unreasonable prejudice to things old, and a thoughtless passion for everything new. Strangely enough these two extremes appear very decidedly in religious work. Introduce some novel features into almost any variety of Christian or purely benevolent work, and a look of surprise will appear or some faces with the remark: "Isn't this something new?" The implication being that is cannot be wholly free from objection because of its newness. Of course the only attitude to take is a fearless investigation of things to see if they are true and are worthy of support, whether they are old or new.

Along scientific lines we can see the absurdity of clinging to old things in preference to the new. Few people in this rushing age would care to return to the "good old days" of the stage coach as long as we can have the express train, the trolley and automobile. In fact the good old ways would be utterly inadequate to house, feed and clothe at least one hundred and fifteen millions of people. The old hand loom and the old crooked stick for a plow would not do. Our great population is one result of doing things in modern ways. Go down to Mexico and you will find the farmer with the crooked stick still scratching the soil, and Mexico is not even a second-rate country. England with her enterprise went to China years ago and built a short railroad, but China crushed by her old ideas, tore up the roadroad. Is it strange that she is easily fleeced by smaller powers?

Very likely it would be practically impossible to celebrate the birthdays of all the great men whose character and deeds merit it. It would be clearly educative if we were to make more of the great man who first conceived the idea of a locomotive engine. It would be well to remember the birthday of Robert Fulton who brought to light steam navigation; or those two brothers who first showed to the world that the air could be navigated by machines heavier than air. We cannot of course, formally celebrate the birthdays of all celebrated men. But the man who was born on January 17, 1706, distinguished alike in science and statecraft, ought to be more generally recognized than it is. Benjamin Franklin was certainly one of the very greatest men of the eighteenth century. His scientific experiments showed to the world that electricity was a usable power. What he did for the beginning of this country can never be forgotten.

Amherst college did a unique and beautiful thing in sending to all her graduates a New Year's card with the following greeting: "Amherst college whose glory is the work and eminence of her sons, bids you rejoice with her at the inauguration of this new year. In the exercise of your maturer powers let your thoughts sometimes return back to the Hill from whence your strength came." Are collegians even in the days "of our maturer powers" sufficiently, or even reasonably grateful to the Alma Mater who so patiently guided us when our so-called powers to say the least were anything but "mature?" But, weren't those days great? Does a day pass when your memory doesn't go back to some incident, some classmate, some professor, something that has become an organic part of yourself? Let us be thankful for those days and still more for the recent ones.

DO NOT MISS ECLIPSE JANUARY 24

The interest of every one, whether an astronomer or not, tends to focus upon the coming total eclipse of the sun, writes Prof. Henry Norris Russell, Ph. D., in the Scientific American. We write especially for those readers who hope to be on the morning of the 24th of January, within the wide belt crossing New York and New England, within which the eclipse will be visible as a total one.

A word as to weather conditions. The records of the weather bureau show that the best chance of clear skies will be found near the ocean, where the chance is about fifty percent. For points farther west, the probability of favorable weather slowly decreases. Residents anywhere along the shadow-path are amply justified in making preparations, even if the chances of good weather are against them. Those who travel to see the eclipse will be wisest to take their stations east of the Hudson.

Here a word of warning to the inexperienced may be in order. Do not tire your eyes by looking too long or too often at the relatively uninteresting partial phases of the eclipse. Do not look directly at the sun at all unless you have some kind of "dark glass" through which to look.

Nothing is better for this purpose than a photographic plate or film which has been exposed to the light and then developed. One so dense and black that the sun is just visible through it when the plate is held close to the eyes is about right.

With the aid of such a dark glass the steadily growing nick in the upper right-hand edge of the sun will be worth watching as a prelude to the play.

By nine o'clock, when only a narrow crescent of the sun remains in sight, the country will take on a weird appearance. The light from the sun's edge is not merely fainter, but is different in color and quality. All the color values of the landscape become altered—usually in a most uncanny fashion.

The obscurity steadily grows. At two or three minutes before totality the moon's shadow comes into sight in the west, darkening all the sky and advancing with tremendous speed. On the present occasion, where the sun is low in the sky, the shadow will come almost directly downward out of space. The darkening of the western sky should be rapid and very striking.

This crowns the impression made by the strange coloring and the advancing gloom. No one who has seen it can doubt the ancient tales of battles stopped in their highest heat by an eclipse. It really seems as if the sun had gone out, even that the world is coming to an end.

But the precious seconds of totality are too few to spend in alarm. The moment that the darkness sets in all eyes must turn toward the vanished sun. In a few seconds one realizes that it not by any means pitch dark, but much more like a moonlight night. Only a few of the brighter stars can be seen and there is no difficulty in finding one's way about. The sky is not black, but a deep slaty blue. In it hangs the disk of the moon, slaty blue like at the sky, and around the moon's edge shines that wonderful fringe of light which the astronomer has named the corona—The crown of the sun—and which he is willing to travel far to observe for the few minutes during which the sun is totally eclipsed, because it is at this time alone that the corona can be seen.

On the inner coronal ring, close to the dark moon, one or more solar prominences may appear, as brilliant red wisps of light which look like flames blown into all sorts of shapes by the wind. They look small to the eye but often they are tens and even hundreds of thousands of miles high, big enough to surround the earth completely if it were anywhere in the neighborhood. At the coming eclipse —this being a year of sunspots—it is not probable that the prominences will be large. Possibly some may be visible through an opera glass.

All too soon the short totality—lasting hardly more than two minutes at the most—will come to an end; and now is the time to watch for things which are better left unlooked at as the sun goes into the shadow. Let the observer's eyes be dazzled. Just before the end of totality the inner corona brightens perceptibly, then something far brighter, shining with a white, steely light, appears. This is not the sun itself, but its hot lower atmosphere—as becomes clear a second or two later, when the sun's surface, incomparably more brilliant, bursts forth. The air fills with light, drowning out the outer corona at once and the inner corona after a minute or so. The great spectacle is over!

The amateur astronomer, while he will not willingly miss a single one of the things that the "man in the street" may see, will have his eyes open for more. He will have, of course, a good binocular, with which to see the details of the corona and of any prominences which may be present. If he is at all interested in the spectroscope, he may well bring with him one of the little "replica gratings" (celluloid casts from the costly originals), which are transparent and which enable the observer to see, at the same time, a source of light and, at one side, its spectrum.

With such a replica in front of one of the lenses of his field-glass, one may see the continuous spectrum of the corona, the bright lines due to the prominences, and if he looks sharp, the bright-line "flash spectrum" of the sun's lower atmosphere as it comes out.

But many amateurs and many persons not ordinarily interested in astronomy at all will want to do more than merely gaze. They will desire to make some observations which will have scientific value. Several things are open for them to do.

They may make observations on the audibility of radio signals, as has been arranged for the collaborators in the Scientific American's eclipse investigation. Or they may assist in locating the exact path of the eclipse, as is being arranged by the American Astronomical Society.

Today's Anniversaries

1706—Benjamin Franklin, one of the greatest figures in American history, born in Boston. Died in Philadelphia, April 17, 1790.

1796—Thaddeus Fairbanks, inventor of the platform scale, born at Brimfield, Mass. Died at St. Johnsbury, Vt., April 12, 1886.

1825—William Lewis, who commanded the Kentucky volunteers in the battle on the River Raisin, died at Little Rock, Ark. Born in Virginia in 1764.

1850—British House of Lords passed a resolution condemning the foreign policy of the government in Greece.

1875—William Forbes Adams was consecrated first Episcopal missionary bishop of New Mexico and Arizona.

1881—The centennial of the battle of Cowpens was celebrated at Spartansburg, S. C.

1911—Miles Poindexter was elected president of the American Federation of Labor.

1924—Reports of severe earthquakes were received from India, Japan and Columbia.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Books and Reading.

And Philip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, Understandest thou what thou readest?—Acts 8:30.

There are many classes of books and many ways of reading them. There are the solid books, written by great men, containing great thoughts which need to be thoroughly digested. There are others which bear only on the thought of a day or which are valuable for their beauty of expression—these may be skimmed over to advantage. Then again, there are those which contain very little thought, but are useful as a recreation to the mind after hard work, just as a light dessert is good after a substantial meal.

Books contain all the greatest thoughts which the world has produced, and a man is intelligent in proportion to his knowledge of these truths. Though it is impossible to add a cubit to our physical stature it is possible to add many to our mental stature. And it is just as possible to starve the mind as the body. Thoughts are the things on which the mind is fed and, as we can train our palates to like a certain kind of food so we can train our minds to like a certain class of thoughts.

This is the highest education for a man having once learned to take pleasure in right thoughts will always think well and will generally be happy. For as when the body is in a state of perfect health, all natural exercise of it gives us pleasure, so it is with a healthy mind. It exercises itself upon great thoughts which stimulate and exhilarate it and this is a constant source of pleasure.

It is very difficult to decide just what one should read; there is so much that it is desirable to know, and yet, a few first class books, well studied are worth more than many skimmed through.

In this the eighth chapter of Acts we have an instructive lesson on profitable reading. This man in the chariot was one high in authority. He was an earnest reader—reading to discover the truth of things. He met Philip and asked his assistance in getting better acquainted with Isaiah's prophecy. We see the Lord's hand in it. The way to get profit out of "the Book," or any good book is to follow the plan of this man. He desired to know that he might be good and true. A man like that couldn't help making progress. When you don't understand a subject then see those who do. Don't be afraid to ask questions.

The Bible says of many of us that we have ears and eyes, but neither see nor hear. A dreadful condition truly. So of our reading if we don't lay hold of the material facts and pack them away for future use. This is a very great injustice to ourselves. And not only that, but we mistake fallacies for the truth. Popular fallacies are promarated by poor books and papers. Make the Bible then your daily comparison and avoid the misleading teachings of poor, trashy books and papers. Our reading has been vain if we haven't woven these things into our daily lives.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Whittier's Dark Day.

Mr. Editor: In connection with the interest in the coming eclipse of the sun on the 24th, which interest I hope will increase as the day draws nearer, I want to call your readers' attention, through you, to Whittier's "Dark Day," or "Abraham Davenport," from the "Tent on the Beach." The Connecticut of today should be as appreciative of great and interesting events and phenomena as were those who were making our state in 1760.

Very truly yours,
C. J. DYER.

Stories That Recall Others

Birthdays to Order.

Mary, age 5, is a devoted advocate of more holidays, such as Christmas, birthdays and various other small festivals which involve in their celebration the giving of gifts. Recently she had an original and very happy idea.

"Daddy," said Mary, "it's been a long time since I've had a birthday, a long, long time, and I want another one. I want to have another birthday today."

Wasn't So Sure.

Master Harry had spent his first day in school and was questioned when he returned as to what he had learned that day.

"Well, I learned how to spell 'to'."

"Then how do you spell it?" his mother asked. However, this was unexpected and received quite a little thought and puzzling on his part.

"Well, I've forgotten whether it is 'ot' or 'to'."

Today's Birthdays

David Lloyd George, the former prime minister of Great Britan, born at Manchester, 62 years ago today.

Baron Beatty, the British naval commander whose conduct in the World war is now a subject of criticism, born 54 years ago today.

General Sir Charles Ferguson, the new Governor-General of New Zealand, born in Edinburgh, 60 years ago today.

F. M. Hubbell, said to be Iowa's richest citizen, born at Huntington, Conn., 86 years ago today.

Dr. Palmer C. Ricketts, directs of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, born at Elkton, Md., 59 years ago today.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Earned Income.

The term "earned income," in computing which the taxpayer is allowed on all net income of $2,500 and not exceeding $10,000 a credit of 25 per cent. of the amount of tax, is defined by income tax regulations as "wages, salaries, professional fees and other amounts received for personal services actually rendered." However, there are thousands of cases of taxpayers engaged in a trade or business in which both personal service and capital are material income producing factors. In such cases it is provided that a reasonable allowance in compensation for personal services shall be considered as earned income." It is further provided that the total amounts treated as earned income from a trade or business shall not exceed 20 per cent of the taxpayer's share of the net profits of such trade or business. A "reasonable allowance for personal services" in general, is interpreted by regulations to mean "only such amount as would ordinarily be paid for like services, by like enterprises in like circumstances."

The revenue act of 1924 provides for "earned income deductions." This means deductions which are properly earned income and which are allowable from gross income in computing net income. Notable among such deductions are business expenses. Frequently taxpayers receiving a salary may be compelled to use a portion in payment of transportation, advertising or for samples. Such items, which are necessary expenses in the conduct of a business, are properly chargeable against earned income. The term "earned net income," on which the credit is computed, means earned income over the amount of the income over the sum of the earned income deductions. Thus a man who in 1924 received a salary of $5,000 of which he paid $500 for necessary expense in connection with the business commutes his tax on earned net income of $4,500, from which, of course, should be deducted his personal exemptions—$2,500 for a married person, $1,000 for a single person, plus $400 for each dependent—in ascertaining earned income credit.

Rida Johnson Young's Many Hardships.

Rida Johnson felt certain that if she could leave her home city and go to New York she would succeed. She had written a play, felt sure that she could act if necessary, and anyhow, she had the clipping of an advertisement that would guide her to a position.

In Baltimore, her native city, she had attended public school. Later she had been graduated from Wilson college, at Chambersburg, Pa. Many of her poems, stories and articles had appeared in local newspapers and small magazines. Now, at 18, she had written a play. The hero was Omar Khayyam, and she was sure it would succeed.

Finally overruling her parent's objections, she went to New York. To be sure of a livelihood, while her play was being marketed and produced, she answered the advertisement that said that if an intelligent and well-educated young woman would assist in a business she would have a good home and $4 a week.

Up many flights of dark stairs in a dingy apartment house in Harlem, the advertiser, a workman who had invented a furniture polish, offered the use of a poor room if she would peddle the polish. Finding a room elsewhere she landed his business at $3 a week and board and tried to sell her play, but managers would not read it.

Finally she sent it to E. H. Southern, who heard her story and helped her obtain a small part in The Three Musketeers at $18 a week. Soon she learned she would never be a great actress and that her play never would be produced.

After two years on the stage, she composed songs for a music publishing house. At 23 she wrote her second play. It was produced, but failed. She wrote another. It was Glorious Betsy, in which Mary Mannering starred five years. Then she finished Brown of Harvard, which was a big success.

While preparing a play for Chauncey Olcott, she needed a song for him to sing, and produced the words to Mother Machree, whose sales have reached near the two-million mark. Then followed many plays, including

Letters Like This Prove the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Turtle Lake, Wisconsin. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness, backache and nervousness. I had these troubles for years and had taken other medicines for them, but I have found no medicine as good as the Vegetable Compound and I recommend it to my friends who have trouble similar to mine. I saw it advertised and thought I would try it and it has helped me in all my troubles. I have had six children and I have taken the Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound before each one was born, for weakness, vomiting, poor appetite and backache, and again after childbirth because of dizzy headaches. It is a good medicine for it always helps me. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for the last eight years for constipation." — Mrs. MABEL LA POINT, R. F. D. IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Today's retirement of Major General David C. Shanks closes a career of nearly 45 years of active military service. A native of Salem, Va., Gen. Shanks attended Roanoke College in his home town and then went to the West Point academy, where he was graduated in 1884. He had reached the rank of first lieutenant at the beginning of the war with Spain 1898, when he became captain and shortly after major in the Second Virginia Infantry. He took part in various engagements in the Philippines between 1899 and 1901; was governor of Cavite Province there from 1903 to 1905, and attained the rank of colonel in 1914. He was promoted to brigadier-general soon after the United States entered the World war and major-general in 1917, when he was placed in command of embarkation of troops at Hoboken. He was awarded a Distinguished Service Medal for his efficient work at Hoboken.

Bridge of Spain Going

Workmen are engaged in removing the last vestiges of the Bridge of Spain which formerly spanned the River Passig. Over this bridge marched thousands of American troops during the stirring days of the Philippine insurrection, and it became celebrated in song and story. The Twentieth Infantry, on provost duty, came in for a lot of good-natured abuse from their more fortunate comrades on the firing line and a tag of a popular song linking them with the od bridge was sufficient to start trouble if sung in their presence:

Natives will all stop smoking and women cease to tattle
And the Bridge of Spain will groan with pain
When the Twentieth goes to battle.

The bridge of Spain continued in active service till the flood of 1914 weakened its foundations so that it is to be condemned and the Jones bridge constructed to relieve traffic.

Biplane Ducks

Emanuel Reinhart of Lancaster, Pa., has a pair of airplane ducks. The ducks were hatched by a hen and seemed to be the same as all other ducks until their wings began to develop and then it was found that the ducks had two pairs of wings. They soar along just like an airplane, according to their owner.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

by DAVID CORY

Taking Jack Home

"Hello, Mother, is that you?
I hope you are not feeling blue," shouted Little Jack Rabbit over the telephone in the Big Brown Bear's Clay Cave House.

"Why?" asked Lady Love, his pretty bunny mother, with a smile at Cousin Cottontail, who had come over with her sewing to spend the night at the little bungalow in the dear Old Bramble Patch.

"Because, Mother dear," answered the little bunny boy, "I've just been listening to a song by the Yellow Dog Trampers on the radio. He seemed sort of lonely for his mother, and I thought maybe you were lonely for me."

"Here, give me the telephone," said the Big Brown Bear, coming over to where the little rabbit was talking. "Let me in a word or two, Mother. Is this you, Lady Love? Well, I guess your bunny boy is sleepy and homesick. I'll get on my coat and bring him over. He's too noble to tell me so, but I know how children feel when it grows dark. No place like Mother's arms when bedtime comes. I'll be right over." And hanging up the receiver, he pulled on his cap and overcoat. Then bidding us the bunny boy, who already had slipped on his fur jacket and cap, the kind old bear locked his front door and hurried down the winding path in and out among the snow clad rocks and bushes, under the tall, leafless trees that sang a sleepy lullaby as Mr. North Wind, now less boisterous, blew down the valley from the mountain tops. It was so warm and comfortable in the arms of the Big Brown Bear that when he reached the kitchen door of the little white house in the dear Old Bramble Patch the little bunny boy was fast asleep. Giving a gentle tap, the Big Brown Bear softly wiped his feet on the little rag mat and entered.

"Sh-sshh!" he whispered as Lady Love opened the door. "He's dreaming of Clover Candy and Lollypops. Better tuck him in bed, little sleepy head."

With a happy smile, the pretty bunny mother held out her arms and carried her little rabbit boy upstairs while the kind old bear sat down in the big rocker and talked to Mrs. Cottontail about cabbages and lettuce leaves and a new pink bonnet with a yellow ribbon on it which that good lady bunny had seen that very day at the Three-in-One Cent Store in Rabbitville.

"You are very kind and very good," said Lady Love, coming back in a few minutes. "My little boy is very fond of you. He is always talking about you."

"Is he?" answered the Big Brown Bear, happiness shining all over his face like a burst of sunlight through a cloud. "Whenever I hear him pattering up to my cave my old heart goes thumpetty bump like a hickory stick on an old tree stump." Gracious me, boys and girls, there goes the Big Brown Bear into poetry. Guess what we're very happy, we all talk in rhyme. They always did in Mother Goose Land when I was a boy, I remember. And now that the little rabbit is safe at home, and the Big Brown Bear is saying goodnight to Lady Love and Mrs. Cottontail, your Uncle Dave will close this story.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

PROF. J. HERBERT GEORGE DIES AT MINNEAPOLIS

A message received in Norwich Friday morning from Herbert Mason George, of Minneapolis, Minn., announced the death, the previous evening of his father, J. Herbert George, Sr., formerly of Norwich. Mr. George, Jr., and his wife, who had been in California, returned at Christmas time to Minneapolis. Both families occupied apartments at 2221 Girard avenue, South, in that city.

Professor George had been in failing health for about nine months. To friends in Norwich he had written from time to time in regard to his weakening sight. The end came peacefully, at 7.30 Thursday evening.

Prof. George is survived by his wife, who was Miss Mary Mason, of Norwich, by his only child, Herbert Mason George, and by two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Clifford, of Minneapolis, and Mrs. George Wharton James of Pasadena. Funeral services are to be held in Minneapolis Monday, at the home of his nephew, Frederick Clifford. Burial is to be in Norwich later. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert George are to take the former's mother back to California with them.

J. HERBERT GEORGE.

Prof. George was born in Newbury, Vt., in 1863, living on a farm with his parents. At 14 he went into the village and took up telegraphy, becoming so expert that as early as 15 years of age he was occasionally sent to various parts of that state and into Canada to do special work.

Prof. George was musical in every fibre. He had a fine tenor voice, sympathetic and of great range and he was equally gifted as an instrumentalist. He early learned to play the cornet and was a member of the village band in his home town. Although but a boy when the Civil war broke out, he went to the front as a member of the 10th Regiment, Vermont Volunteers. In due order he was made band master and so continued until the regiment was mustered out of service.

After the war, Prof. George went to Boston and took up tuning in a piano factory, becoming head of the department at the end of a year. In February 1870, he came to Norwich and became tuner for the late Ezra W. Yerrington, of Main street, then the leading piano dealer of Eastern Connecticut. At the end of two years Mr. George took up the tuning business on his own account, and continued until he was elected teacher of music in the public schools of Norwich.

In his work in the schools Mr. George was very successful, winning the interest and arousing the effort of both teachers and pupils. He was greatly beloved by the children, who always manifested their sincere affection for him. He was their choice for speaker or leader at their various school events and celebrations.

For nearly a dozen years he was chorister at Broadway Congregational church; also took charge for a time of the choir at Trinity Episcopal church and, through his friendship with the late Costello Lippitt he also consented to take charge of the music of that Sunday school. He was generous in aiding every worthy and charitable cause, lending his voice or his talent with great willingness. The home of the family was on Hobart avenue and it is still a tradition in the neighborhood how solemn and inspiring Prof. George always made the Christmas season by his beautiful cornet solos of Christmas carols and ancient familiar hymns.

Especially was he loyal to his Civil war comrades; he was a past grand commander of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., of Norwich. Until several years ago when his health failed he made a point of coming back to Norwich for each Memorial Day celebration of the post. Prof. George was one of four brothers who went to war.

He was patriotic instructor of Sedgwick post and every Memorial Day was among the comrades selected to visit the schools to inspire patriotism in the pupils. It was one of his favored duties of Memorial Day to be present at the exercises on Chelsea parade where he always sounded Taps.

He was a member of St. James' lodge, No. 23, F. and A. M., also of Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T., and was as loyal in his Masonic relations as in all others.

He served with loyalty and ability as a member of the court of common council of the city of Norwich. This was in '94 and '95 when Calvin Harwood was mayor. The Bulletin was reminded Friday evening by Myron O. Morgan, then city sheriff, of this fact; also that Mr. George served on several of the important committees at that time.

After concluding his work as teacher of music in the Norwich schools, Mr. and Mrs. George disposed of their property here and went to Minneapolis, where their son was at that time in the insurance business.

Rev. Timothy Byrne to St. Patrick's church, Stamford (Assistant).

CITIZENS AND AUTOMOBILES SLIP AND SLIDE AROUND NORWICH STREETS

The rain Friday evening converted Union square into a field of glare ice and many drivers who during the early evening tried to negotiate the Bath street hill got into difficulty in more ways than one. Chains seemed to be of little or no help to the machines, and in a number of cases drivers gave up the attempt to climb the hill and turning around went back Bath street and through other streets less hilly.

One machine, a Ford truck, tried to climb the hill to Broadway from Chestnut street. The driver had almost reached the top of the hill when the truck started to slide backwards. It went all the way down the hill and came to a stop against the curb near Ring's garage. In its sudden trip down the hill the truck slid backwards for a few feet and then, swinging around, it slid sideways down the hill to the curb, narrowly missing another machine parked by the curb near the rear of the United church.

A closed car was driven down Broadway hill without mishap, but when it reached Union square on its way to Main street the rear wheels suddenly slid around and threw the machine against the curbing opposite Shea's news store on lower Broadway. No damage resulted and the driver, after several attempts, finally got the machine headed down Broadway.

Two automobiles that tried to make the Bath street hill at the same time, one behind the other, got almost to the top and then promptly slid down sideways, coming to a stop on the sidewalk a few inches from the city barn, on the Chestnut street side. One of the machines had but one chain on. The driver hooked the other chain on the wheel and after a dozen attempts finally got away from the curb and headed back down Bath street.

A few minutes later a large and heavy touring car turned down Bath street from Broadway. Near the blacksmith shop the machine skidded and went up on to the sidewalk, missing the front of one of the stores there by inches, and then shot off into the road again.

Street Commissioner John Donovan and several of the street department men helped to get a number of the stranded machines away from the curb and then turned their attention to sanding the Bath street hill. Nearly a truck load of sand was spread on the hill and crosswalk and this helped materially in preventing machines from sliding down the hill backwards. Sand was also spread over spots on Union square.

After the show at the Broadway theatre a number of drivers who had parked their machines on Broadway couldn't get away from the curb. Wheels churned and chains struck sparks, but the machines refused to budge. Residents of nearby houses came to the rescue with pails of ashes which were shoveled under the wheels. This gave the necessary traction and the drivers finally got away from the curb.

Washington square was another bad spot, but careful and slow driving prevented any accidents. Most of the drivers coming down Broadway did so in low or second gear. The West Main street hill and the steep hill in Thamesville near the city line were also covered with glare ice. Driving on the hill sections of the state highways in this section was reported as extremely dangerous during the early part of Friday evening.

Pedestrians also had a hard time of it wherever they tried to walk on a slope. The Broadway hill, Church street and Bath street were particular places where the sidewalks were unusually slippery.

Street Commissioner Donovan and his force of men were kept busy a good part of the night sanding slippery walks and streets in many sections of the city.

SERVING JAIL SENTENCE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Following the receipt here of the decision by Judge Peasley of the superior court denying the motion to set aside the verdict in the case of Martin Keough of 124 West Town street and directing that the order for stay of execution be immediately vacated, Keough has begun to serve the 30 day jail sentence which Judge Peasley gave him in the May term of the superior court along with a fine of $200 and costs upon his conviction by a jury of violation of the liquor law.

After the jury verdict and the sentence in court, counsel for Keough made a motion to set aside the verdict. Judge Peasley took the motion under advisement, set a bond of $2,500 and ordered that execution of the judgment be suspended. The matter has been pending ever since the May term, but on Thursday Judge Parsons, clerk of the court, received the decision and order from Judge Peasley. Clerk Parsons at once made out the warrant and delivered it to Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main, also notifying Keough who delivered himself to the sheriff at the Norwich jail Thursday afternoon. The fine and costs in the case amounted to $319.09.

DR. DITMARS HEARD IN INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE

A bit of the famous New York zoological park was brought to an interesting and instructive way to a Norwich audience Friday evening by Dr. Raymond J. Ditmars, curator of animals and reptiles, who lectured at the Community house under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church. Through the medium of excellent moving pictures and his explanations of them, Dr. Ditmars held the absorbed attention of his hearers, showing about 4,500 feet of film with views of orangs, gorillas, chimpanzees and gibbons in the first group, the work of beavers in the second, reptiles in the third and marine life in the fourth.

In his preliminary remarks, after he had been introduced by the Brotherhood president, Walter F. Lester, Dr. Ditmars explained some of the advances that had been made in taking motion pictures.

DIES FROM INJURIES IN COASTING ACCIDENT

Sliding claimed its first victim in eastern Connecticut Friday morning at 7.50 o'clock when Chesiaw Shawinski, 10 year old son of Rudolph and Katie Shawinski of Lebanon, died at the W. W. Backus hospital of injuries received Thursday when his sled ran into a state highway department truck on the Norwich-Colchester highway driven by Benjamin Green of Yantic.

Zipneiph Shawinski, 6, brother of the dead boy, who was riding on the sled with him, is a patient at the hospital, suffering with concussion of the brain. He was resting comfortably Friday night and there was hope for his recovery.

State Policeman Botnick of the Groton barracks made an investigation of the accident, finding nothing on which to hold the driver, but following the death of the boy Friday the state policeman arrested Mr. Green and held him on the technical charge of manslaughter pending the coroner's finding. Bonds of $2,500 were furnished.

SHALL NORWICH HAVE STREET LIGHTS OUT?

No decision has yet been formally reached by the management of the Norwich gas and electric department as to whether the street lights will be kept burning or will be extinguished during the eclipse of the sun next Saturday morning. In some cities of the state it has been announced that street lights will be extinguished because of requests that have been made by scientists who are interested in observing the eclipse.

General Manager C. W. Taggart said Friday night that he was personally in favor of extinguishing the street lights but he would like to hear some expression of opinion from the Norwich public on the subject.

Miss Mary Porteous of Broadway, entertained a luncheon party of twelve on Friday. Following the luncheon auction bridge was played.

RECOVERS COPPER CARGO FROM OCEAN BEACH

Capt. Benjamin Leavitt, now of Philadelphia, who was formerly connected with a manufacturing concern in Greeneville, a number of years ago, has broken all records for deep-sea salvage in recovering a $600,000 cargo of copper that had lain since 1860 with the wreck of the British frigate Cape Horn off the coast of Chile, according to messages received in New York by the Westinghouse Lamp Company from the salvage ship Blakely.

Captain Leavitt and his corps of divers were reported to have worked "as though in daylight at a depth of 318 feet," using high-pressure diving suits of the captain's invention and pressure resisting deep-sea lights.

"It is Captain Leavitt's ambition next to salvage the $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 of treasure that lies in the sunken hull of the Lusitania," the company said.

The Blakely was purchased from the Shipping Board and outfitted with the Lusitania job in view. But it was decided to give the diving apparatus and lights a preliminary test on the Cape Horn wreckage.

Sailing from Hampton Roads last winter, the Blakely's crew located the wreck of the Cape Horn in 217 feet of water outside the port of Pichidangui.

Eighteen trial descents were made, the divers remaining under water from twenty-five minutes to three hours at depths ranging from 194 to 318 feet. The previous record for deep sea diving under working conditions was said to have been 182 feet.

The diving aparatus is of manganese bronze, with arm and leg armor ball-bearing and hinge-jointed and the flexible sections composed of interlocked copper tubing wrapped and lined with sheet rubber. It carries air apartments sufficient for four hours of immersion.

WEALTHY CAPTAIN'S WIDOW ASKS $1,000 PER MONTH

A petition for an allowance of $1,000 per month during the settlement of her husband's estate has been presented to the probate court by Mrs. Helen Lennen, widow of Capt. Jarl Lennen of 40 Boswell avenue, who left an estate estimated between $500,000 and $600,000. It is said the wealthy retired sea captain was enjoying an income of $20,000 a year at the time of his death.

In Mrs. Lennen's petition she says: The undersigned represents that she is the widow of said deceased, whose estate is in settlement before this court, and makes application of an allowance of $1,000 per month of the estate of the said deceased for support during the settlement of the estate and that the court will fix the day of making paymens.

Her attorneys are Charles L. Stewart and Gardiner Greene.

Judge Ayling gave notice that the petition will be heard and determined at the probate court room in the court house on Jan. 21 at 10 o'clock.

LEAKY GAS RANGE MADE FIRE CALL

A few minutes before 5 o'clock Friday afternoon the fire department was called out by telephone to the house at No. 112 Franklin street for a small fire in the tenement occupied by Rocco Barbetta and family. A gas range with a leaky feed pipe, bound up with tape was lighted and the escaping gas took fire. A call for the fire department was sent in but when the firemen arrived they found that the gas flow had been shut off and the fire was out. The building is owned by the J. B. Martin Co.

WEDDINGS.

Parsons—Clapp.

A wedding of local interest was that of Jeffrey Parsons of Washington, D. C., son of Mrs. Arthur J. Parsons of Washington, D. C., and Miss Helen Carroll Clapp, of Boston, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Bigelow, formerly of Norwich, which took place December 29, 1924, at Charleston, S. C. The marriage ceremony was performed in St. Michael's Episcopal church, Charleston, by the rector, Rev. Albert Sidney Thomas.

The maid of honor was Miss Nancy Bigelow of Charleston, and the bridesmaids were Misses Mary de Ford Bigelow, Charleston; Sally Carrington, Charleston; Helen Rust, Boston; Barbara Brooks, Boston; Thea Busch, New York, and Jeanne Clapp, sister of the bride, Boston. The bridesmaids all were charming old-fashioned frocks of bouffant type, fashioned of soft pussy willow taffeta in turquoise blue, and carried old-fashioned bouquets of Ophelia roses. The maid of honor was gowned in a handsome gown of gold-colored chiffon velvet and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of Ophelia roses and valley lilies. The ushers were Francis Moran, McConihe, Washington; John Melton, Hudgins, Washington; William Mendell, City, Wyo.; Arthur Reeside, Washington; T. Handasyd Cabot, Boston; Robert Sumner, Boston; John Ripley Bigelow, Charleston and Ray Bigelow, Charleston. The best man was Robert Looney, of Washington.

The bride, was charmingly gowned in ivory satin with shawl collar of real lace, the skirt fashioned along old-fashioned lines with bouffant panniers. The long court train fell from the shoulders and she wore a veil of tulle arranged in cap fashion and held in place with orange blossoms. Over her tulle veil was a handsome veil of real lace, an heirloom in the bride's family, and she carried white orchids and lillies of the valley.

A brilliant reception was held at the Calhoun pavilion. The bridal party received in the gold room. The bride's table was beautifully decorated in Killarney roses. Later in the day the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to the Orient, and expect to be gone about a year. They will return by way of France and England. The bride is a niece of Horatio Bigelow, formerly of this city. Among the guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. William Follen Clapp, Boston, parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Adams, Boston, grandfather and grandmother of the bride; Mr. Charles Clapp, Boston; Mrs. Paul Drummond Rust, Boston; Mrs. Arthur J. Parsons, Washington, mother of the groom, and Mrs. Gaither, Baltimore.

FUNERALS.

Miss Mary A. Sullivan.

The funeral of Miss Mary A. Sullivan was held Friday morning at 9 o'clock at her late home, 55 Tenth street, with requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church at 10 o'clock at which there was a large attendance of relatives and friends from Newark N. J., Bridgeport and other cities. Rev. Frederick M. Coholan celebrated the mass and Henry J. LaFontaine was in charge of the music, singing Pie Jesu at the offertory and Lead Kindly Light, for the wafting hymn.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Father Coholan. The bearers were John and Thomas Shea, Myles O'Sullivan, Stephen and Myles Sullivan and Patrick Downing. There were many beautiful flowers.

Arrangements were by Shea & Burke.

Mrs. James Fitzgibbons.

The funeral of Mrs. James Fitzgibbons was held Friday morning at 8 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Gleason, in Ledyard, with requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church, Norwich, at 9 o'clock, Rev. Frederick DesSureault officiating. Henry J. LaFontaine was at the organ during the mass and for the offertory he sang Pie Jesu. The waiting hymn was Abide With Me.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. William A. Keefe, assisted by Rev. Fr. DesSureault. The bearers were Edward, Thomas, Joseph and Raymond Gleason, Patrick McCann and John Murtha.

Relatives and friends attended the service from Brooklyn, N. Y., New York city and Hartford, and the floral tributes were most beautiful.

George Henry Howard.

Funeral services for George Henry Howard were held at 7.30 o'clock Friday morning at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned, 180 Broadway, the service being read by Rev. Michael H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church. A low mass of requiem was read at 8 o'clock at St. Patrick's church by Rev. Myles P. Galvin.

The body, accompanied by relatives, was taken on the Colonial express Friday noon to Garrison Forest, Md., for burial in Garrison Forest cemetery today (Saturday).

NORWICH TOWN

At the close of the First Congregational prayer meeting Thursday evening in the chapel, the annual meeting of the church corporation was held. The clerk Dwight W. Avery and Treasurer Frank S. Avery, and the chairman of the trustees, Frank E. Sterry submitted their reports, which were approved.

Of special interest was the report showing the work accomplished during the year and the many improvements to the church property. The year just closed shows a good balance in the treasury.

The election resulted in the re-election of Dwight W. Avery as clerk and Frank S. Avery treasurer. For the board of trustees, Frederick Rose was the new member appointed on that committee, the term of three years having expired for Frank E. Sterry. Other members on this committee are Herbert L. Yerrington and Lucius A. Fenton.

Rev. Charles Reeves will not supply the pulpit at the First Congregational church Sunday morning as previously stated. The sermon will be by the regular pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey. Owing to an important change Rev. Mr. Bailey has cancelled his engagement at Central Village.

Rev. Mr. Reeves met with a most unfortunate accident about noon on Thursday when in the yard at the hom of Mrs. Dwight Hough on Scotland road where Rev. and Mrs. Reeves are staying for the winter. Rev. Mr. Reeves fell on the ice and broke his left arm above the elbow. He was taken to the Backus hospital where the injured member was cared for.

Source of Mental Health

In society you will not find health, but in Nature. You must converse much with the field and woods if you would imbibe such health into your mind and spirit as you covet for your body. Society is always diseased and the best is the sickest. There is no scent in it so wholesome as that of the pine, nor any fragrance so penetrating and restorative as that of everlasting in high pastures. Without that our feet at least stood in the midst of Nature, all our faces would be pale and livid.—Thoreau.

Not Prehistoric

Some years ago an expert announced the discovery of clear evidences of prehistoric mural paintings in a cave on the Cornish coast, and a French authority on Neolithic art, which appears to have flourished about 20,000 years ago, accepted them as genuine. However, a local fisherman appeared on the scene and confessed that he was the artist. He had, he explained, cleaned his brush on the walls of the cave after painting his boat.

DELANEY KNOCKS OUT TIGER FLOWERS IN SECOND ROUND WITH UPPERCUT

New York, Jan. 16—(By the A. P.)—Jack Delaney, fighting idol of Bridgeport, Conn., knocked out Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga., middleweight, in the second round of a scheduled twelve-round match at Madison Square garden tonight. A powerful right uppercut delivered with triphammer rapidity to the negro's jaw, floored him for the full count, 43 seconds after the start of a second round.

The end came with dramatic suddenness. Delaney, who had been fighting a defensive fight, suddenly opened up with his first real offensive. He led with a left jab and then his driving right came through crashing with terrific impact against the negro's jaw.

The negro sank to the canvass in a helpless heap. The count of five found him flat on his back. He shuffled his feet and once got to a half reclining position only to sink back to the horizontal again as the referee sounded the final ten and waved his hands in token of a knockout.

The fight was as thrilling as it was short. Delaney, the underdog favorite of a packed house, was greeted with a wild acclaim that rivalled any ever received by a champion, as he parted the ropes and came into the ring. The din continued as the principals were being announced and its volume and momentum gained as the bell sent the men away on their work.

Delaney, his long arms ever impending the progress of the negro's vicious attack, assumed a defensive attitude at the start, content to feel out the negro and find out what he could do. Several wild rushes sent Delaney back to the ropes and he continued to wiggle around and away as the negro kept boring in.

Only once in the first round did Delaney open up and then he let go with his powerful right to the negro's ribs, a blow which sank Flowers on his heels and ate up his aggressiveness.

The second round opened as the first, Delaney on the defensive and Flowers endeavoring to get inside of Delaney's long arms.

Flowers rushed Delaney to the ropes and poured his furious attack at the Bridgeport man, hitting him in the face and body with several blows that looked for a moment as though Delaney would be hoisting distress signals.

Then came the knockout. A left to the head, the right uppercut and Flowers waddled around on the floor. Even the most ardent Delaney supporter thought the Tiger would rise again but a half rise was all he could answer and he rolled over again, but not particularly hurt.

A faint trickle of blood was visible from the Tiger's mouth as he crawled to his corner, this being the only outward evidence of the battle which rudely checked his rapidly rising climb to fame.

A capacity house of 15,000 attended the match, one of the largest and most enthusiastic fight crowds ever to pack the historic garden for a non-championship match. Prior to the start of the fight, Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, and Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight were introduced. It was announced that Berlenbach would meet the winner of tonight's match and Greb to meet the winner of that fight in a title match.

The semi-final match also ended in a knockout in the second round when Charley Nashert of Newark, was floored by Larry Estridge, New York negro. Nashert went down from a weak left but was unhurt and settled on one knee while the referee counted. He failed to follow the count and was declared out when he was still resting on his knee when the referee reached ten. The match was originally scheduled for six rounds.

In a six round preliminary Sergeant Sammy Baker of New York, won a decision over Tracey Ferguson of Meriden, Conn.; Charley Rosen of New York won a decision over Benny Gould of Toronto, Canada, in another six rounder while Bob Lawson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., knocked out Roscoe Hall of Jersey City in the third round of a six round match. Juan Beibes, of Chile and Matty Marlo, of New York, fought a four round draw to open the card.

NO FAKING WEIGHT IN PHILADELPHIA BOUTS

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—The state athletic commission today announced that an order to prevent juggling in weights of contending fighters at future boxing shows, the weight of the contestants must be written on a slip by the club physician and turned over to the announcer. The latter must give the slip to the secretary of the commission or the inspector clerk in charge, to form part of the permanent record of the show.

W. M. I. GIRLS BEAT THREAD CITY HIGH GIRLS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 16.—Speeding up its game in the last half of the girls basketball contest held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, the Williams Memorial Institute sextet found the team from Windham High easy to defeat, winning from the Willimantic aggregation by an 18 to 10 score. This contest marked the opening of the W. M. I. girls season and it was a credit to this team for the victory which they won this afternoon.

With a fine jumping center, the W. M. I. girls set out early but are handicapped by good passwork to accomplish a feat which they later did with much precision and pep. The first quarter ended with a tie score with three points scored by each side. All these points came as the result of fouls, with both Windham and W. M. I. having expert artists from the foul line. With the defense still keeping the flashy Miss Liberty in check from registering field goals, the W. M. I. embarked upon a successful offense which netted a total sum of five points. This gave the local girls the advantage at half time with a score of 8 to 6.

The next half saw some better playing with Miss A. Peck for the W. M. I. featuring with her agility upon the court. She passed the ball time and time again to the two forwards and helped materially to give W. M. I. the advantage which gained them a victory. Windham failed in her pass work, and also failed to register field baskets, being able to count only once.

In Miss A. Liberty the Windham school had an expert scorer from the foul line, she scored eight out of ten attempts from the foul line, accounting for a greater number of the Windham points by their means of scoring. Miss Liberty was fast but the guards which play her consistently held her in check. For the W. M. I. Miss Constance Pendleton was high scorer accounting for baskets from several difficut angles. Miss Pendleton scored seven field goals, four good for two points each while three counted but a single point. She also scored three fouls.

BULKELEY FIVE TO PLAY HARTFORD HIGH TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 16.—Bulkeley faces one of the toughest nuts of its entire basketball schedule, when the Orange and Black entertains the powerful Hartford High basketball quintet at the State Armory on this (Saturday) evening at 8:15 P. M. Besides this game, a preliminary contest with the New London Celtics opposing the Acmy five will wind up the activities in basketball entertainment and a fine dance completing a pretentious program.

Hartford High being defeated by Bulkeley teams but once and that in baseball two years, ago, has topped the locals in all other sports. There is only a slim chance of the Bulkeley team coming out the winner, unless the homelike atmosphere will prove to be the incentive for a victory. School spirit may also take a hand in the major contest of the evening and Bulkeley may give Hartford High the surprise of their life. But outside of these applying powers, the Bulkeley team faces the inevitable—another defeat.

The game which is to precede the Hartford game will see two strong teams in action. These fives are the Army of the House league which is substituting for the Coast Guard Cadets. Some fine players will be seen with the Celtics(and their efforts on Saturday will be watched with Keen interest.

FIRPO DETERMINED TO FIGHT IN EUROPE

Paris, Jan. 16—(By the A. P.)—Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, says he is bound to fight somewhere in Europe before he returns to America. Firpo, who is visiting Paris, declared today that if the reply of Tom Gibbons to the offer of the National Sporting Club of London for a bout between himself and Gibbons was unfavorable, he would meet at Barcelona, Spain, early in April, Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight, for a percentage of the gate receipts. Gibbons' reply is due to reach London tomorrow.

Firpo said he would leave for Nice on Sunday and train strenuously for ten weeks in order to meet any opponent. While in London he engaged Harry Drake and George Wills, who were sparring partners of Jack Dempsey when he was training for the fight with Gibbons at Shelby, Montana. They will endeavor to arrange a bout for him with either Jack Renault or Erminio Spalla, the Italian heavyweight. If these negotiations fell through, he said he was almost sure to fight Uzcudun in Barcelona.

PLAYER-WRITER QUESTION COMES TO A VOTE TODAY

New York, Jan. 16.—The New York state lawn tennis association tomorrow at its annual meeting will vote upon the proposed new amateur rule, which fixes the status of player-writers.

The association is expected to endorse the rule but particular interest is attached to its decision because it is the first of the twelve sectional branches of the U. S. L. T. A. to vote on the question.

Louis B. Dailey of New York is salted to succeed Jones W. Merserean as president of the New York body, the latter having been nominated to the presidency of the Nationals tennis governing body, which meets here February 7.

MOOSUP BREAKS RECORDS IN LAST E. C. MATCH

The Moosup team in the Eastern Connecticut League won six straight games in the wto closing matches of the league and in the match against the Palace of Norwich broke the league record for high team total by getting 1644. The mark eclipses the mark made by the Peerless team of New London early in the season. The Moosup bowlers were in rare form and the pins were bowled over in a most impressive style.

The Moosup bowlers continued their good work in the next match and defeated the league champions three straight games. MacKenzie and Chartier were the star men of the match. The scores:

LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE TO BE DECIDED BY ELIMINATION

New York, Jan. 16.—(By The A. P.)—The world's lightweight championship, vacated by Benny Leonard yesterday, after a seven year reign, will be placed on the market for open competition by the New York State athletic commission in an elimination test similar to that conducted recently to determine a featherweight titleholder.

Leonard today addressed a letter to the commission formally relinquishing his crown. At the same time he indicated a desire to have an elimination title tournament conducted to select his successor and George E. Brower, chairman of the commission, intimated this body's willingness to go ahead with such a project as soon as official word is received on Leonard's retirement.

Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, has placed a diamond-studded belt at the disposition of the New York Commission to give to the winner of the tournament.

Leonard left for Chicago this afternoon to begin a 15-week vaudeville tour. His mother and brother Charlie Leonard accompanied him. He refused to discuss his withdrawal other than to say that his mother's feeling in the matter were respected by him and that no other motive had prompted his retirement. He has apparently recovered from his recent illness and looked in good condition.

CROWLEY IS RECOVERING RAPIDLY FROM BREAKDOWN

San Francisco, Jan. 16.—James H. Crowley, star half-back of the Notre Dame University football team, who has been in a hospital here since the first of the year as the result of a threatened nervous breakdown, felt so well today that he took an automobile trip around the city. He is mending rapidly and it is expected that he will leave for home within a week.

Challenges Sullivan's Colts

Sporting Editor: We have read in an out of town paper where "Governor" Sullivan, popular west side sportsman has organized a basketball team under the name of "Sullivan's Colts". As manager of the "All Richmond Five" would challenge the colts to a series of games on their own terms.

It is a well known fact that Mr. Sullivan's popularity has grown in Colchester during the past few months but the writer, as a resident of the west side would challenge Mr. Sullivan's popularity in his district. Just how much of a sportsman Mr. Sullivan is, will be shown in his reply to this double challenge.

NURMI AGAIN LOWERS WORLD'S MARK FOR THE MILE AND THREE QUARTERS

Chicago, Jan. 16 (By the A. P.)—Paavo Nurmi, super-runner of the world, smashed his seventh world's indoor record tonight since making his American debut in New York ten days ago, when he decisively defeated Joie Ray, America's champion miler, by half a lap nearly eighty yards in a special mile and three-quarters race featuring the Illinois A. C. handicap meet at the Coliseum.

The phantom Finn, after riding all night and all day from New York, where he smashed three records last night, ran Ray to defeat in 7:55 3-5, clipping a fifth of a second off the world's indoor mark established by himself in his New York triumph last night. Nurmi leading from start to finish, ran the mile in 4:26, the mile and a quarter in 5:35 4-5 and the mile and a half in 6:44 2-5.

A half an hour after his sensational victory, Nurmi was aboard a crack train bound for New York to compete in another race tomorrow night, making his third in as many nights. He was in Chicago less than three hours. He arrived at 3.10 p. m., hopped into a taxicab awaiting him at the station, sped to the Coliseum, raced, and was off again on another 1,000-mile ride back to New York.

Nurmi literally ran the legs off Ray, who held the world's indoor record for a mile and three-quarters, previous to the Finn's record smashing expedition. The diminutive little Chicagoan began to crack on the sixteenth lap of the gruelling race and was steadily losing ground at the finish.

BUTTERWORTH RETURNS TO YALE BOXING TEAM

New Haven, Jan. 16.—Frank S. Butterworth Jr., who two years ago was Yale's champion heavyweight boxer, but who did not go out for the sport last year, has returned to the squad and will represent Yale in the 175-pound class, it was announced today. Butterworth, who is a senior, was on the Yale football squad last fall and is the son of F. S. Butterworth, rated as one of Yale's greatest fullbacks. His brother Ben was regular tackle on Captain Levajoy's undefeated football eleven.

J. C. Morley, manager of the Yale boxing team announced his schedule tonight as follows:

February 14, Pennsylvania; 23, Washington and Lee; March 2, Queens university; 14, Navy at Annapolis; 20, tentative date for match with Oxford university.

Captain Funk will box in the 160-pound class this year, as he is heavier than when he boxed last year here and in the Olympics in which he represented the United States. Last year he was in the 146-pound class. Gaisser, captain of the 1927 freshman team, is expected to fill the 145-pound place. Charlie Peet will be back as the 135-pounder. Grande will be on the team as the 115-pound member and the 175-pound class will find Butterworth as the Yale representative.

The entire team will be selected at the completion of an elimination contest now being held.

STELLAR BOWLING MATCH AT AETNA NEXT FRIDAY

Bowling interest reached a high pitch here Friday evening when Roy Fillmore received word from Ray Gaines, Hartford city champion, that he and Genevese would come to the Aetna alleys on Friday evening, Jan. 23 to roll the first eight strings of their scheduled 25-string match. The Hartford bowlers come here to stack up against Fillmore and Frankie Barber of Danielson, who was for several years eastern Connecticut champion. This match is the first of several that will be rolled here during the winter against the pick of the state bowlers. It should be one of the best matches seen in Norwich in many years.

This match is anticipated with much eagerness as it will bring together four of the state's best pin smashers. The match is to be decided on total pinfall with eight strings rolled at the Aetna, eight at Hartford and the remaining nine strings at the Danielson alleys.

COGSWELL PROPOSES PLAN FOR LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 16.—An elimination tournament for the selection of a successor to Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, who has announced his retirement, was proposed by Latrobe Cogswell, president of the National association of boxing clubs, tonight. Cogswell said he would wire for a mail vote in his organization on the suggestion. His idea is that each state hold a contest of its own and the winners go to New York for a grand final.

The association covers all states where boxing is allowed with the exception of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts. New York promoters would have to agree to hold the finals under the rules and regulations of the national body.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR THE FLYING FINN

New York, Jan. 16.—If necessary to aid Paavo Nurmi complete his three-night racing program, a special train may be put at his disposal at Buffalo to complete his dash from Chicago to New York to race tomorrow night in the Fordham A. A. games here.

Competing tonight at the Illinois A. C. meet, Nurmi has little time to lose in making the return journey. If his train is on time tomorrow, he would arrive here at about 10 p. m., but he will have only fifteen minutes to change trains at Buffalo. To guard against a slip-up there, New Central railroad officials today promised the Amateur Athletic Union they would bend every effort to help Nurmi, either by delaying the regular train or putting on a special section if necessary.

Nurmi's race tomorrow will be at 2,000 metres and his opponents will be confined exclusively to Finnish-American A. C. distance men. No record for this distance is on the books so that the flying Finn is expected to set a standard for the event.

WANDERERS WIN EASILY FROM MECHANICSVILLE

The Baltic Wanderers won an easy game Friday evening at Baltic from the Mechanicsville five, 22 to 22. The Wanderers were handicapped by playing under amateur rules and many fouls were committed by the Wanderers as a result, Charron was the star of the game. In the preliminary the Bantams beat the Taftville Crescents 33 to 25 in a fast game. The summary:

TUNNEY AND STRIBLING HAVE BEEN MATCHED

Miami, Fla., Jan. 16.—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, and Young Stribling, of Atlanta, Ga. have been matched to meet in a 10-round no-decision bout here on either March 2 or March 9 it was announced here tonight. The bout was arranged at a conference between Billy Gibson, W. L. (Pa) Stribling, and Ed Douglas, a local promoter.

Davies to Remain at Allegheny.

Meadville, Pa., Jan. 16.—Tom Davies, former University of Pittsburg all-American halfback, who succeeded Herb McCracken as football coach at Allegheny college last season when the latter became head coach at Lafayette, has signed a 1925 contract at Allegheny, it was announced today.

FALL RIVER FIVE GETS STUCK IN SNOW STORM

About 500 basketball fans were disappointed at the Plainfield Community House Friday evening when the Fall River basketball team failed to put in an appearance. Manager Salisbury received word just before game time that the Fall River team had gotten as far as Olneyville but had become stuck in the snow and ice and would be unable to get to Plainfield.

The Fall River team will play at Plainfield at a later date.

DEMPSEY SAYS HE IS THROUGH WITH THE RING

Los Angeles, Jan. 16.—Jack Dempsey is through with the prize ring unless someone can fix up a fight for him before he marries Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress, which probably will be next May or June, the heavyweight champion admitted here tonight.

Vanity Characteristic

Statues made in Crete some 5,000 years ago show such slender waists that ladies at that time very likely wore some sort of corsets. The lure of the slender waist haunted the ancient women from the Far East to the western shores of Europe. References to corseting are found in the writings of the classic Greeks and Romans.

Know How to Do It

In northern New England beans have been baked from time immemorial in a hole in the ground, the hole having first been lined with stones and the stones made very hot with a fire built in the hole.

America's Oldest Hospital

The Pennsylvania hospital, in Philadelphia, the oldest in America, dating back to 1751, operates under a charter originally granted to it by George II of England.

How Easy the Public!

Is it not notorious how small a fraction of society takes any interest in the conduct of public affairs? How important trades union issues, such as a strike, are left to be determined by a handful of the men who are vitally concerned? how great a part is played by catch-phrases and relatively unimportant local issues in our political elections?—The Right Hon. Herbert Fisher in the Common Weal.

Variously Spelled

Mac is an element, usually a conjoined prefix in many Scotch and Irish names of Celtic origin. The prefix is either written in full, Mac, or abbreviated to Mc or M'. Thus a name may be spelled variously, as MacDonald, McDonald or M'Donald.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

I Had But 50 Cents

I took my girl to a fancy ball,
It was a social hop;
We waited till the folks went out
And all the music it did stop.

Then to a restaurant we went,
The best one on the street;
She said she wasn't hungry,
But this is what she ate:

A dozen raw, a plate of slaw,
A chicken and a roast,
Some sparrowgrass and apple sass
And soft-shelled crabs on toast
A big stew and crackers, too,
Her appetite was immense
When she called for pie
I thought I'd die.
For I had but fifty cents.
She said she wasn't hungry,
She didn't care to eat;
But I've got money in my clothes
To bet she can't be beat.
She took it all so cosy,
She had an awful tank,
She said she wasn't thirsty,
But this is what she drank:

A whiskey skin, a glass of gin,
It made me shake with fear,
A glass of ale, a gin cocktail,
Some ginger pop with rum on top,
A schooner of beer,
She ought to have more sense,
When she called for more
I fell on the floor,
For I had but fifty cents.

Mother O'Mine

"If I were hanged on the highest hill,
Mother o'mine, O mother o'mine,
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother o'mine, O Mother o'mine.

If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
Mother o'mine, O Mother o'mine,
I know whose love would come down to me,
Mother o'mine, O Mother o'mine.

If I were damned of body and soul,
Mother o'mine, O Mother o'mine,
I know whose prayers would make me whole,
Mother o'mine, O Mother o'mine.

Watching the Cars Go By.

Every day when weather's fine, cars go by by in endless line, cars of black and cars of blue, family cars and cars brand new, cars enameled red and green and every other color scheme. The merchant's runabout I see, and light trucks that deliver free your dry goods and your dinner meat, and everything you want to eat. You see a tourist car go by with camping outfit piled up high, all looking for the promised land, oft using gas instead of sand. Along will come a speeding ass, forever stepping on the gas, raising dust and also anger for running down the old farm gander.
The next to come is Doctor Brown, the most respected man in town. He renovates a torpid liver or brings a brand new baby in his flivver. He comes to ease the Deacon's gout, or take the Elder's tonsils out. He comes when needed, day or night;
folks say Doctor Brown's all right.
Here comes a farmer's tin clad lizzie,
the way it rattles makes one dizzy.
Something seems lacking in his primer, and all the folks say "Whoe, old timer." He has a load of eggs and ducks, and wonders if he'll get ten bucks, or if the merchant man will say, "The price of eggs has dropped today." "What will you give today?" he cries. A farmer neither sells nor buys, for everything the price is set. He never knows what he will get. And next we see a mason's car. He rides in better style by far; his trowel underneath the seat, the latest styles are on his feet. Two bucks for every hour he works at laying bricks or spreading dirt. Or maybe he is on a spree, but then he's organized, "by gee." Thus all the folks we see in cars; some ride smoothly, some get jars. There are cars for every trade or class and all you need is kale for gas.

CLUB MEETING OMITTED

The meeting of Club No. 3 which was to have been held, Wednesday, Jan. 21, will be omitted, out of respect to our dear Social Corner Sister, H. M. L.—Mrs. Lena M. Hoxie, whose death occurred Jan. 13.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

WATER LILY: Your name has been added to the Social Corner. Pen-name selected belongs to another though not used very often. If this is not acceptable please select another.

FANNIE M. K.: Your name has been added as a Corner member.

ABIGAIL: Cards sent as requested.

BILLIE: Yours was the first recorded signature under the B's in the Corners records. It still remains there.

HOW TO CAN CHICKEN

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I feel that I ought to write a few lines today. Others are writing so many good things.

I wonder if any of the sisters can chicken as I do. I think its quite easy. After it's cut up and boiled just as you do for the table, I can it boiling hot with chicken broth and seal the cover down once. Put in a kettle of hot water up to the neck of the jar and boil one half hour, then seal cover down tight and it's done. Any better way?

Some of the sisters wished to know when the birthdays came. Mine is Jan. 17th. I wish to send the recipe for Eggless Cake: One and a half teacup sugar, one of sour milk, three (level) of sifted flour, half cup butter, teaspoon cinnamon, half teaspoon grated nutmeg, teacup raisins chopped and floured.

All best wishes to the editor and sisters.

THE WINTER IN MAINE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I want to tell you what a glorious winter we are having—only 9 inches of snow on the ground so far, and no blizzard as yet. A few sleet storms which of course did damage more or less everywhere except around Gray and Dry Mills.

We miss the blue jays and squirrels for they seem to have left us entirely. It is very good sleighing. Ice cutting has begun, and only 10 inches thick which is something unusual for this time of year.

Our well is dry, so all our water comes from the lake. We had a nice large trout in well and he had grown to quite a size—but was dipped up one evening and not seen, so we found him dead next a. m.

Many thanks to Social Corner member for my nice calendar. I received about 100 cards from Maine to Pacific coast.

I want to tell you what I am trying to do now—get tan pillow tops with names of different places and cities for a bed quilt. I will pay for all that are sent me. Winter is not really the right time to get them but they can usually be found at five and ten cent stores.

A friend has a number of blocks worked and they look fine.

I don't know if time flies with every body as it does with me, but I don't seem to do much beside my home work.

I enjoy all the letters and the poetry is wonderful. I put it in my book of poems.

Ninette Lowater: I don't see your letters any more. Trust you are not so ill you cannot write to the Corner.

Joan: What has become of you? Trust you are not ill. I am looking for all those nice letters the writers have promised me.

Congratulations to Mary 'Gusta. Trust your future will be a very bright and happy one.

Wishing you all were as well and enjoying as good health as I am and the sorrow ing ones feeling better. I will wish editor and all the Social Corner family a very bright and happy New Year.

Dom Pedro: Sorry you had a fall. Trust you will be your own dear self again soon.

Anna V: Trust you are forgetting the past and believing it is all for the best and will write to mother soon or some time.

Myst: Did you get the box if so why don't you let me hear from you?

CROSSING STATE BY AUTO AND TRAIN

Dear Social Corner Friends: We won't need to go south if we have such weather all winter. I like snow if we don't get too much of it. Hope every one had a merry Christmas and that a prosperous and happy New Year is in store for all, editor included.

An auto trip in the winter at night time has its charms, especially so at the holiday season. I had the pleasure of such a one recently. My father and brother came from Poughkeepsie to spend Christmas and I went back with them. We left home about 10 a. m. and went around by the sound. We stopped for a short time in Norwich to see a friend, but were soon on our way again. At New London we got on the road that took us down to Ocean beach, had to turn around and inquire our way to New York. After that everything went well and we didn't stop until we got to New Haven. There we stopped and had our dinner. We didn't tarry long as we had a long ride ahead of us, and it was too cold to do much sight-seeing. It began to snow dusky at Bridgeport. From there on, I thoroughly enjoyed the trip. My brother is a very careful driver and I didn't have the least fear. From Bridgeport we went to White Plains then through Tarrytown, past Helen Gould's and J. D. Rockefeller's country homes. Further on we passed Sleepy Hollow cemetery. Soon we reached Peekskill and the Highlands, which was a 20 mile drive between two high mountains famous for holdups. Fishkill and Wappengers were the last two places of interest. The pretty part of the trip was the great number of community Christmas trees. Every village and town had one and in one place I saw two. The brilliantly lighted homes, with now and then a lighted tree showing, added much to the beauty. I stayed a week with mother and came back by New York and Hartford. I left Poughkeepsie on the New York Central. The day was foggy and the first place I saw across the river was Newburg, then West Point and Haverstraw, where the Hudson is three miles wide. Most river towns are back, so not much can be seen from the train.

After passing through Sing Sing or Ossining as it is now called and Yonkers we soon reached the Grand Central terminal. I had never been to the Grand Central, but I followed the crowd, inquired for the information bureau, and had no trouble in finding my train. I saw the new road around Storm King mountain that is cut out of solid rock 400 feet up from the base. I also saw the new Bear mountain bridge that was recently opened to traffic. Toll on the bridge is 1c for auto's and 15 cents for each passenger. I had pleasant company most of the way to Hartford. A young girl sat with me as far as Stamford and at Stamford and at New Haven a lady from Enfield shared the seat and we had quite a visit. As this is quite lengthy think I had better stop.

Best wishes

TREATMENT FOR FLIES ON PLANTS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Thanks to a Social Corner member for a very pretty calendar I received. I wonder if said member is a mind reader). How did you guess to send me a picture of my favorite little friends—blue birds? It couldn't have been better if I had had my choice. Every spring a pair of blue birds build in a hole of a dead limb of an apple tree just outside the kitchen window where I can see them when I am working at the sink. I have been hanging suet in my snow ball bush for the chicadee birds and it is amusing to watch them eat it.

To the sister who asked what to do for the white flies on her plants, I will tell what I do for mine. Make soapsuds with any kind of yellow laundry soap, and wash the plant thoroughly. It may take three or four applications before they leave. Do not make the suds too strong, just ordinary suds.

Mr. Mrs. or Miss Photographer: Please take my picture. I would like to see how near you can guess how I look. When you pictured the different members of the Corner. I liked to read your letters very much. Please try mine.

Best wishes for all the sick and suffering. Hope all will be well soon.

KENSEY.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: Having attended several of the Corner meetings at the Buckingham I would like to become a member. I will take as my penname.

FANNIE M. K. (June 23.)

FINE TIME AT CLUB NO. 5's MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Jan. 7th was a beautiful day for our meeting at Buckingham Memorial with a great number present. You that could not go missed a jolly good time. Ducky was a fine hostess and with her helpers served a fine dinner. So many friends we had not seen for a long time and it seemed good to meet them again. Missed several that nearly always are present —Comfort, I. J, B., Necia, Olga, and others.

Delilah Dear: Sorry you are not able to meet with us.

Had a nice entertainment. Betty Brown gave a reading as did others. Joan played the piano, as the entertainment would not be complete without her playing.

Have not answered to my name on the roll call, but "better late than never" so say, "present."

I read so many instructive and interesting letters written by Social Corner members am discouraged about writing. I said to a sister, "You write such good letters."

"Well, she said, "my brain doesn't work very well."

I said, "Mine don't work at all."

Mirg said, "Perhaps there had never been any."

Sisters say things to each other that others would not be forgiven for saying.

Wish to thank Social Corner member for pretty calendar received, and the others that sent me cards, 20 of them. Best wishes to the editor and every member of the Social Corner for a happy New Year.

WURDY BELLE.

FINE LUCK WITH SOAP

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Happy New York to all if not too late.

Crimson Rambler: I had fine luck with the soap. It came out lovely and as white as snow. It is the best soap I ever used. For dishes it can't be beat and for washing I haven't seen anything yet that will go ahead of it. I had 14 pounds. I used little over six pounds of suet. Something funny happened about one pan of it. I put cloth in the pan and when I took it out part was under the cloth and the other half over it so it made it thin. Another time I will try waxed paper. I also used some for a bath and hubby took some to the shop but I told him not to go telling them all how good it was if he did he wouldn't have any very long. The sisters that haven't tried it don't know what they have missed.

Mavis: Was surprised to find a letter in my box. The postmaster said is your number 78 Bliss street and do you know who this letter is for addressed Anna M? I had to laugh and say, "Yes, it is for me. It is a Social Corner letter." Many thanks for all the names and hope to meet all some time. I may see you some time in town. Or some nice warm Sunday I may take a drive out that way and look you up.

Peggy Anne: Ask your hubby if he remembers feeding birds cake on the way to school or rather putting big pieces by the nest for them to eat through the day? We all went to the same school. His mother was the teacher way back in the little town of Lebanon.

Sausage Meat: The meat should be sweet fresh pork, nearly one third fat; some people use some beef but this is not real sausage. The meat should be put through a meat grinder, fat and lean well mixed and highly seasoned. This is the rule given: For each pound of meat a teaspoon of salt, a teaspoon of sage, a scant half teaspoon of white or black pepper. Put all on stove and heat up well, put in cloth bags dipped in salt water and dried or it may be put in bread pans to cool then turned out and sliced off as wanted.

GREETINGS FROM PAPA'S BOY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Ones and All: First I want to thank a Social Corner member for the lovely little calendar received during the past week.

Rural Delivery: Your letter received and will return same as soon as possible. I am in hopes of meeting you this summer. Do you like cabbage?

Keziah Doolittle: Don't forget to send R. D. along if he comes your way. Didn't see you at the last meeting.

Elizabeth: Many thanks for the box received. Will write soon.

Diamond: Too bad you couldn't be at the hall last meeting. Try and come some time.

Strawberry: If I am not mistaken I met you at the Central Baptist church a long time ago during a Christmas entertainment. Am I right?

Stitches: Hope you are better. Walk over some day. Good walk and fine air.

Gypsy: I asked the man in uniform about his ladies going home and he said, "My two ladies always ride with me."

New York Girl: Where are you? Don't even see a little letter from you. Don't let your pen get rusty.

Merry Farmer's Boy: Am waiting for that letter.

Will close with New Year greeting's to all.

PAPA'S BOY.

FIRST MEETING LEFT FINE IMPRESSION

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: I thought I would write and tell you all how I enjoyed my first visit to a Corner meeting. It was one to be long remembered. It was so nice to sit down to dinner without having been obliged to cook it. It was a fine dinner with many nice things to eat. Everybody was smiling and laughing and all seemed to be having a good time. I must take a book next time and get the names. It would be hard to try to remember all of them as there was a large crawd there.

I was reading an item in the paper the other day which I thought good and I thought those concerned must have been to a Social Corner meeting. Here it is, and perhaps you'll think the same as I did.

She—I notice by this article that men become bald more than women because of the intense activity of their brains.

He—Yes, and I notice that women don't raise beards because of the intense activity of their chins.

I am honing nothing will happen to prevent my going to the meeting next month.

MITTIE.

GRACE ANSWERS ROLL CALL

Dear Cornerites: I know I haven't answered the roll call, but wrote just before. Must write and thank the sisters for the lovely cards. They were so dainty this year. Then the Social Corner member for the beautiful calendar. It is almost a perfect picture of my front hall. All that is lacking is grandfather's old clock at the foot of the stairs also the lady with the poke bonnet and hoop skirt. I've no doubt but in the days long gone gone by both were in that old hall. Strange how you should send a picture of the place every time. Last year is was a certain spot by our pond. Are you familiar with this certain place I wonder? Have missed the Corner meetings the past year but hope to be with you soon.

Auntie Bee: Who is who? though I knew all the sisters in Fitchville.

Olga: You said it was still a mystery, why you won the Putnam prize. Perhaps it was because of the smile you always wear. Smiles count nowadays and mean much. Our F. and H. club meets at the hall Feb. 5th. Cannot you, Lonesome Pine and Betty, with any one else you like plan the dinner? Call up some evening after 7 o'clock and let me know.

Best wishes to the Corner.

GRACE.

SEEKING SOME NOT OFTEN HEARD FROM

Dear Editor and Cornerites: I wish to thank the Social Corner member for the pretty calendar with the perfectly lovely sentiment expressed on it.

Isn't it nice to have friends that remember us all and so many boxes to address, I wonder if her (?) hand doesn't get tired. Bet it isn't all done in one day.

Necia: Glad to hear the folks are feeling better. Was disappointed that we did not see you at the meeting.

Effie M.: Don't forget to put on your old gray bunnit and come to our lovely birthday party in March. Believe me I'd have no dishes stacked up that day. Do you remember? Poor little kidlets I though her heart would break when I told her I had forgotten them. And incidentally I almost broke my leg taking the yellow crepe trimming off our trellis. She brought that home and had it all over the place.

Well, well, Agatha so you are a little school ma'am! who'd a thunk it? Too bad you can't teach in the same school as Polly Peppermint, then you would be very near me. Oh, yes Black Eyed Susie is still at her crocheting and just now it is hairpin lace which a friend was kind enough to teach me. I think it makes lovely trimming for handkerchiefs and goes so fast. I like it better than tatting. Now, Agatha, let us know if you have ever made any. Just steal a few minutes when the children are real good and write us a letter.

And speaking of Tatting, where is she? We haven't heard anything of her in a longtime.

Ma of Greene Gables and Bug: It sure was good to see you. Would liked to have talked longer with you but had such a headache, and I'll bet everyone else did when I had finished my performance. What say you Chocolate?

But I was glad I went. We had a good dinner, a good time and some good laughs and I met some sisters that I had been wishing to know, so what care I for a headache once I had my hand on some aspirin.

Cretia: Was pleased to see a letter from you; and Theoda where art thou?

Saturday Eve: Enjoyed your letter on Silent Night. I heard it sung and saw it acted in pantomime by a group of young girls Christmas week and believe me it was worth seeing. Wish all the Corner family could have seen it.

Rosy Posy: Try and get to the March meeting of Club No. 2. Sometime I am going to try to go up to some of your meetings.

Yes, yes, Mr. Editor I'm finished. (for this time) So long.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

BILLIE'S REMINISCENCES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Have I heard the call for old members to write? Many thanks to those who mentioned my name and greetings to all. For sometime have promised myself to take my pen from behind my ear and send a message to you.

A singular coincidence. About ten days ago, it was Saturday evening, I was returning by trolley from a neighboring town when I saw part of a newspaper at my feet as I sat down. As I have told you long ago that I am crazy about newspapers. As General Ben Butler said: It made no difference how old a paper was if he hadn't read it he could always find something interesting. I gathered up the sheet and smiled and said, "Well! old friend if I would not come to you, you have come to me." It was the first page of the Social Corner. I folded it carefully, put it in my bag and brought it home. Then came one resolution for the new year which I am endeavoring to keep. On this page I recognized only two Crimson Rambler and Rural Delivery. I wonder if he remembers the card I sent him years ago? I wonder if he is as spooney as ever? How we enjoyed those controversies with Old Sol and Aunt Mary. Now laying all jokes aside, wasn't I able always to start something? I smile as I think of those pleasant days. How I enjoyed the letters of Joan, Calla Lily, Crimson Rambler, Enid and many more. I have been absent from the Corner so long I hardly know who are with us and who have passed to the great beyond. There is a part of the road I go over that always brings to my mind Brother Bromley and the white birches.

Had we better start something? I wish the members would with about things that belong to their first memory anywhere from two years to five. I believe I can tell a few myself, and we will call them Life's earliest impressions year and for each may every hour run itself in the golden sands of happiness.

BILLIE.

GREETINGS FROM PEGGY ALDER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: First I want to thank the editor for the yellow slip. Was very much surprised to find my name in the list of prize winners.

Lilac Lady: I think the cake recipe you sent in is the one I have been wanting so long. I am going to try it soon.

Lalla: Glad to hear from you. We expect the plaster cast to be removed from the broken arm tomorrow and we hope the arm will be straight and all right.

The radio is wonderful. We heard a grand concert from New York Friday night, the 9th. It seems strange to sit at home and listen to such nice concerts.

Nely Grey: I don't seem to be able to look behind those lights and find out what I want to know. I am watching for her letter.

I thank those that sent me Christmas cards and booklets.

Sorry I was not able to attend the Putnam meeting. Glad others could go and have a good time. The same

PEGGY ALDER.

POINTS ABOUT COOKING

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: There seems to be points about cooking ham and its uses that don't seem to get published. At least I haven't seen them in the Social Corner.

When a boiled ham is taken from its boiling water I always have it plunged immediately into cold water in the winter and ice water in summer. This makes the fat white and firm and brightens the red of the lean. The bones and skin, also liquid in which the ham is boiled, I use to make soup stock. If you have beef stock to mix with it, it is a great improvement. It makes an excellent pea soup and used judiciously makes a tasty addition to all vegetable soups.

With cured hams the same as any ham they should be boiled before frying or boiling it is not only more economical but is certainly more tasty and twice as wholesome. You also can use every morsel of it. All the little bits and shreds of ham left after slicing can be used for omelets and a dozen or more popular dishes. Keep the fat when there is too much, and to season meats and vegetables. It is always an improvement to poultry and when fried with liver gives a relish that nothing else can.

I always have the bacon and the salt pork parboiled before cutting. Of that every particle can be used. You will smile, perhaps when I tell you that I lose upon the skin taken from breakfast bacon before it is cut into strips as very valuable.

I make my own sausages by taking the tender beef from a shank which is delicious and juicy and boil this beef with the bacon rind. It is surprising how many think they are eating sausages. I also fry these in with the bacon rind. Cut into strips and fry for 20 minutes. These served with apple salad or plain apple sauce make a tasty meal.

Here is another help that I haven't seen in print. Baked potatoes that have been left over from a meal, if mashed while still hot or warm, milk, butter and salt added, and the mixture beaten till light will be delicious heated for another meal.

Here are discoveries that are original and also very practical and will be found most useful by housekeepers.

Frying, to be a success, must be accomplished with fat that is absolutely boiling. This is known by the fact that the fat stops sputtering and becomes perfectly still. When it is in this condition, fish, meats or sweets may be fried in it indiscriminately without transmitting their different flavor.

Broiling—The meat should never be turned with a fork use a knife and spoon. Be sure your broiler is greased well and heated.

Gravy in meat pies will not run over and be wasted if one or two funnels of white paper are put into the crust so that the steam inside may escape.

Beans baked with beef stock with one onion boiled in it are much nicer than baked with the plain salt pork.

Place one quart of beans in oven, cover with stock (not salted) and a piece of pork, about 1-4 pound, after trying out—pour grease into the stock—the little salt that is in the pork grease will prevent the beans from being mushy. I never parboil my beans for the flavor of the beans are deteriorated by this method. (An old man who used to cook in a logging camp informed me about not soaking or parboiling beans.) After baking in oven 4 hours remove and add 1 teaspoon of salt and 1 tablespoon of mustard, return to the oven and bake until done. I usually bake mine about 10 hours, the first seven hours covered, the next three uncovered.

Those beans baked in this manner are delicious. They have a wonderful flavor.

Many thanks to Social Corner Member for my dainty calendar. It is just what I love. The pretty green trees are restful.

ETHELYN.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Dear Social Corner Sisters:—Was glad to see more letters last week from Club No. 4. Was anxious to know if all had a good time Dec. 31 at the meeting, but guess we all did.

Glad Olga got home all safely with her little basket.

I think the radio is wonderful and enjoy many pleasant hours listening in.

Was glad to see Rosalind's letter. I see she asked how Trixy was and I have been wondering too about her. I hope she didn't get all tired out at the meeting. Wake up Trixy and make a good resolution.

I enjoy reading all the letters and look anxiously for the paper to come and turn to the Social Corner page first of all. Have been a silent reader for a long time and have learned a great many helpful things from the letters.

Keep safety razor blade in your work basket to use for ripping seams, also for cutting wall paper and to sharpen pencils. I find many uses for them and save all the used blades.

Keep all the used phonograph needles in a box. They are handy to use to wash out bottles with.

Use an old glove finger on the end of curtains ends when running on clean curtains. Saves them from tearing and is quickly done. Saves patience too.

Date Pudding: 2 tablespoons uncooked rice, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 package dates, cut in small pieces, 1 quart milk, pinch salt. Bake about two hours, stir every little while. Serve with whipped cream.

Best regards to all

WANTS RECIPE FOR "MIRACLES."

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I wish to thank the one who sent me such a pretty calendar. They are convenient and this little remembrance shows we are not forgotten. I am passing a very pleasant winter in the old historic town of Lebanon. To think we are walking over the same ground George Washington traveled. One can hardly realize it. To me the Trumbull house is a curiosity. It contains many objects of interest, as well as the house itself, so many panels and the nails and hinges of the doors are well worth seeing. Then the war office stands as a witness of the days when officers and soldiers were a common sight.

Aunt Jerusha: We would like to hear from you and what you are doing this winter.

C. E. S.: I suppose you are cooking something new most every day. Let the Social Cornerites have the benefits of your experiences.

L. H. K.: How are you this winter? I wonder if any of the sisters can give the recipe for "Miracles." I think they are some like sugar cookies.

Best wishes for a happy new year to all the sisters and editor.

ANSWERS ROLL CALL NOW

Dear Editor, and Social Corner Sisters: It is quite a while since I wrote and I do not remember having answered the roll call. I surely intended to last sickness in the family took my mind off of everything else.

I want to thank the Social Corner Member for the lovely calendar which I have received. It will be a daily reminder of the right named Social Corner. I also want to thank the sisters who sent me cards and gifts. Santa was very good to me.

I hope that all who have been sick are feeling better and I wish the editor and all the sisters a very happy New Year. A lover of the Social Corner.

LAVENDER.

IN AN OLD NEW ENGLAND VILLAGE

Dear Social Corner Friends: The older sisters will remember the autograph albums which were once the fashion. That was when I was a child and I call to mind after a lapse of more than 40 years the verse mother wrote in mine.

"Methinks long years have flown
And sitting in her old arm chair
Annie has older grown
With silver sprinkled in her hair
Her album thus she holds,
And turns its pages o'er and o'er,
And wonders if it still contains
The memories of yore;
As o'er these pages thus she runs,
With many a sigh and kiss,
Suddenly she stops and says
Who could have written all this?"
YOUR MOTHER.

It is years since I have seen the album but I have not forgotten the verse and the silver is plentifully sprinkled in my hair now but I am not yet relegated to the old arm chair.

I grew to womanhood in one of those old New England villages where the society was arranged somewhat after the fashion of a layer cake,—the workers, the middle grounders, and a few idle well-to-do. I used to be foolish enough to envy these idle F. F. V.'s but service is held now to be more honorable than idleness. Service for the public good also is coming more and more to the front and the community spirit is waxing. How well I call to mind the village church with its tall spire. It was heated in the winter by two big coal stoves, one on either side at the rear. How cosy it used to be in the rear pews and how chilly in the front ones. Near the front there were several family pews, so called, the seats running around three sides, the people on one side facing the audience. Most of the pews had been purchased long before my day by the wealthier families who permitted some of them to be rented. I used to feel that it was almost as much of a misdemanor to occupy a pew of the "four hundred" as it would have been to have walked up and seated myself on one of their verandas without an invitation to do so. Things usually moved along very smoothly in this church but occasionally this new business caused a ripple and I call to mind one time when Deacon B. was so upset over it that for a considerable period he carried a chair to church and sat in it away at the rear by one of the stoves, taking it home again after service. This was easy for him as he lived quite near but it excited considerable comment. The pulpit was "away up" and was reached by two flights of stairs, one on either side. It is at least 30 years since I last sat in that old church who used to still am hoping that sometime I may cross that threshhold again. I shall be so changed that few if any will recognize me and the church itself has been so renovated and modernized that it will scarcely seem the same but still I want to go. Perhaps some day some Social Corner sister will take me in an airplane.

Cretia: Thank you.

Thanks also to a Social Corner Member (I can guess which one) for my pretty calendar.

I believe I have never told the sisters through the Corner page that at the time I sent out my S. O. S. call for Autocrat coupons I was so generously remembered by them that I not only secured the spoons I wanted but also a handsome leather handbag all fitted out with mirror, memorandum book and vanity case. This last I have so little use for that perhaps it would be well to pass it on to Olga now that she has received a beauty prize.

I have been remiss about writing of late but as some of you know the Goodman has been ill for a considerable time and I have been so very busy. I am as interested as ever in our beloved Corner. Welcome to all our new members. May the new year bring much good to us and also good out of us.

My address changed last fall and is now in Norwich, R. D. 4. Sometime when the spirit moves I will tell you something about the excruciating fun I had boiling down the accumulations of over 30 years that had spread themselves over a big house and barn to fit into a two by four cottage. With the best of wishes to our good editor and all the cornerites.

SADDENED BY DEATH OF H. M. L.

Dear Social Corner Members: Those of us who had the courage to go skating on Wednesday, the 14th, gathered at Franklin hall, Willimantic, where we were cordially welcomed and entertained by the hostess and our able helpers, as usual. Am sorry I cannot give you the pennames.

A bountiful dinner of baked beans, brown bread, pickles, rolls, cakes, pies, doughnuts, cheese and fruit were served.

The afternoon was spent as a social hour, and the sisters enjoyed some interesting conundrums about the United States. Our chairman next time is "Amy."

We were very much saddened to have announced the passing on of our beloved sister on Tuesday, known to us as H. M. L. To have known H. M. L. was a privilege. None knew her but to bless her name. She was a home builder, an everready friend in need or trouble, and Lebanon has lost a kind friend and neighbor, and we a cheery writer and helper, and from the home there has gone the dearest of all loved ones, wife and mother.

To the bereaved family our hearts go out in loving sympathy.

"Sweet is the promise, Sometime We'll Know and Understand."

Best wishes to all our members.

SECOND WIVES

Dear Social Corner Friends: Sometime ago a letter was published in the Social Corner regarding Wife No. 1 and No. 2—and I have heard others comment upon the same subject. While it is true that the second wife may have more enjoyments and less worry and anxiety over children's ills etc., yet what can surpass the innocency and confiding trust of a little child. It is like the singing of the birds and the constancy of the sunshine. This the second wife seldom has the joy of experiencing for the children are usually grown or away in houses of their own when the second wife arrives. As I said in a recent letter there are compensations all through our lives. A young mother of my acquaintance finds greater joy and real pleasure in her little children than in any thing in else in this world, however, "A little spice now and then is relished by the best of men." A mother realizes this and should take some recreation when she can. When the second wife comes upon the scene it is usually in middle life when both the husband and wife must relax some of their early energies and take life more quietly. It is then that the opportunity to see more of the country, visit old friends and relatives and old historic places is fully enjoyed.

There are at least two sides to any question and well is it for us if we can see both sides and judge between them for a deficiency in one is made up in another and an entirely different aspect is given when we see the other side clearly.

I know a lady who married when 26 years of age a clergyman and going into the ministerial home found two sons and a daughter, 18, 16, and 9 years of age respectively. She had some misgivings as to how she would be received but found a cordial reception awaiting her. One son said in his slow, characteristic way, "I hope I'll be a dutiful son" which promise, by the way, he has always kept.

The little daughter was so glad to have a mother again that she adopted the new mother immediately and the happy family life which death had saddened for a time again moved on its usual happy vein. The second mother was a most efficient woman and having been a teacher for many years directed the little girl's education until she went to the seminary for a musical course.

This wise woman in commenting upon it said, "I did not expect to take their own mother's place but endeavored to do for them all their own mother could not now do."

Let us try and look upon the bright side for it is said "that every cloud has a silver lining" and by using our reason and good judgment we shall be able to dispel most of the troubles in life.

Best wishes to all.

ROYALLY SEATED AT BUCKINGHAM

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Well I saw a few of you a little while last Wednesday I was very busy working when Bug called up and said be a sport and catch the 11 o'clock trolley for Norwich, and go to the Social Corner. It was then 25 minutes past 10. I said I never can make it but will try and I did with the help of son and the auto. He got up both there in ample time and we were glad we went. Every one at the Buckingham seemed so glad to see us and met us with a hearty handshake. It is truly a Social Corner and I only wish we could meet with you more often! for we are far away and I for one am getting lame and weary with work and worry. While I try to get the best of it, it gets the best of me sometimes. Am just now suffering with an awful lame back real spasms at times. I think I strained it moving some bureaus. I ought to know better and maybe will next time.

I have sewed several pounds of carpet rags this fall and am having some rugs woven. I like them they are so easy to take up and wash when necessary. I am also piecing two bed quilts. I try to make one or two every winter. I hope to be able to attend the February meeting and also the anniversary meeting in March. I hope Bug will be a snort that time and go. We have just started a new lodge of Rebekahs near here and I want to go as much as I can. There were 141 members taken in a short time ago—some class—and there are more to follow. Our family can boast of two Odd Fellows, four Rebekahs and three past grands so we all have some things to think of that are good.

Best wishes to all.

WANTS FULL PAGE EVERY WEEK

Dear Social Corner Friends: How many of the Social Corner members will be able to see the airship Los Angeles when it flies over the New England states Jan. 24th.

George H. Hill of Danbury, Conn., one of the astronomers of the United States naval observatory will be aboard the airship and photograph the total eclipse of the sun which will begin in New Haven one of the most central points at 8:01 A. M. Have the smoked glass ready for the best results as it is one chance in a lifetime.

Many thanks for the fine little desk calendar from a Social Corner Member. It is at my writing desk where I can see it the whole year, and it will be very useful as I write many letters—from week to week.

Brave: Many thanks for the New Year card. It was a pleasure to me to send you the folder of California while you were ill in the hospital. I we ever need friends it is when we are down and out. The Corner Club No. 4 at East Killingly is just booming. The place is full of writers. Good!

Crimson Rambler: When you get the radio installed we expect to get a loud call from Norwich.

The Corner page was well filled last week. Why not have it full every week which will be pleasing to the editor also to the readers of the Bulletin?

This town has the honor of receiving the honor of securing the prize of the first twins born in 1925. They are two little girls—weighing 6 to 8 pounds each. Long may the Corner live and prosper is the wish of

A GOOD COUGH REMEDY

Dear Corner Sisters: For troublesome coughs the following recipe for cough medicine was handed down from an old sea captain who considered it valuable: Blend one ounce of senna, one ounce of whole flaxseed, one ounce whole licorice, and half an ounce anise seed and cook in four pints of boiling water, until reduced to one quart. Always use an iron sauce pan to boil the mixture in. Strain, add one cup golden syrup, and boil a few minutes longer, then cool, and when cold add a little whiskey or alcohol to prevent fermentation. Keep the medicine in an airtight bottle. Use a teaspoon or two when needed. This is really an effective remedy for the severe hacking coughs and colds. I have made it several times.

GREETINGS FROM CATNIP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: It has been a month since I wrote and I wonder if there is room for me in the corner page. Well, I hope so. I had a lovely time at our last meeting with such a joyous party, a full house and plenty to eat, nobody need be blue. The hostess and her helpers were kept busy a while after the tables were cleared away. Then business started. The singing and speaking were fine.

I shall be glad when the weather is fine then those that are far away can come and then I shall see more—some that I have not seen for years. I thank the dear sisters who sent me Christmas cards. I was looking over some of my clippings that I had cut out and I came across Winnie's last letter. She was a dear friend of mine and was going to take her book next time she went to the meeting to put the names down, but God put her name in His book of life.

Whirlwind: I have missed you. It has been quite a while since I saw you. It must be quite a ride up to your home.

Lucy Acorn: How are you? I hope you have not been sick this winter. How are you getting along with your mats? Do you knit any now? I

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The booming of guns on Laurel Hill, by order of Mayor Greene, startled the citizens of Norwich in 1875. This was done as an honor to the stand taken by President Grant concerning actions of the Ku Klux Klan in Louisiana.

Items in part from the Bulletins of 1875 are as follows:

Monday, January 11, 1875—Mr. Cutler, the architect, is in receipt of a notification from W. H. Hayward, chairman of the soldier's monument committee of Colchester, that the contract for the proposed monument has been given to a Poughkeepsie concern. About 40 plans were submitted to the committee by Mr. Hayward and others, but the majority of them were too expensive. The design from Norwich was a handsome one but too expensive.

Ice formed on the river Saturday as far down as Allyns Point. The river has not been closed to navigation yet this winter but it seems likely that it will be closed within a few days now.

Norwich and New London, according to an editorial in the Bulletin, were pulling together for the regatta of the college crews and there was talk of raising money to construct the boat houses that will be needed for the crews should the colleges decide to use the Thames river in 1875.

Messrs. C. D. Boss & Sons of New London turned out over 40,000 barrels of crackers last year. Their manufactured articles were unsurpassed by any in the country and plans for more business in 1875 are being met by the purchase of larger stocks of flour.

Tuesday, January 12, 1875—The City of Norwich left her dock in this city yesterday and went to Allyns Point to avoid the danger of being blocked in by the ice. It now looks as though navigation to Norwich was closed for the winter. By dates of closing of the river during the past 10 years it is seen that it varies sometimes over a month. In 1867 the river was closed to navigation on December 13th and did not open again until March 20th. This was the longest period during the 10 years figured. The shortest period was in 1868 when the river closed on December 26th and the ice went out on January 11th. In 1874 the river was ice bound for two months.

A public spirited man in this city has offered to start the Pequot monument fund with a subscription of one tenth the amount needed to erect it.

Sliding is fine in the city and hundreds are out enjoying it. Union and Church streets are favorite streets as the sleds gather sufficient momentum to take them down into Franklin square. Slater Avenue is also another good place for sliding.

The weather for the past week has been clear but cold, the mercury hovering around zero most of the time, sometimes going to 5 below.

Wednesday, January 13, 1875—Monday evening closed the ten days fair for the benefit of the Catholic church in this city. It has proved a success. The principal prize, a silver pitcher, was carried by St. Mary's society. Votes at 10 cents each brought in over $7,000. The hall was crowded most of the time during the fair and a large sum of money has been realized.

Among the confirmations of postmasters in the United States senate yesterday was that of Paul B. Greene of Greeneville.

Hundreds are now enjoying the excellent skating in the harbour, all sorts of ice games being enjoyed.

Local housekeepers are not worrying about the proposed grand strike in the Lehigh coal fields as local dealers are well supplied with coal for the winter trade.

Thursday, January 14, 1875—At William H. Page & Co's in Greeneville where they are cutting out blocks for Chinese type to be sent to the sunny land of the celestials they have received among other specimens of occidental literature, a Japanese novel, illustrated on every page.

The numerous friends of Rev. Olin Benton of East Main street church, met last evening in the parlors of the church, with money in their hands and welcome in their hearts, to tender him a donation. Some time was spent socially, when Master Norris Lipsitt came forward and presented Mr. Benton with quite a sum of money.

The report of the condition of the First National bank of Norwich for the past year shows the resources to amount to $1,242,951.11. Surplus funds amounted to $52,000.

The report of the condition of the Second National bank for the past year shows the resources to be $684,456.94. A surplus fund of $40,000 was reported.

Friday, January 15, 1875—The annual meetings of the stockholders of the Norwich & Worcester railroad was held in Worcester, Tuesday. A. F. Smith of Norwich, president. Directors elected from Norwich were A. F. Smith and John E. Slater. At a subsequent meeting of the directors A. F. Smith was re-elected president.

The fresh snow fall reanimated the streets on the plain yesterday and brought out nearly every cutter and sleigh in the city. A perfect carnival reigned on Broadway and Washington street in the afternoon, the streets being thronged with turn-outs and the sidewalks lined with spectators.

A special train is to run from this city to New London next Monday for the concert of the brilliant organist, John Loretz, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Minnie's Luck, a drama by Brougham, now having a run in New York City, is promised to be given at the Breed hall on the 26th by the Wallace sisters.

Saturday, January 16, 1875—The junior appointments for the class of 1876 in Yale have just been made and include the following; high oration, E. S. Bottom, Norwich; dissertation, L. J. Warren, Killingly; second disputes, H. S. Young, Griswold; first colloquies, L. L. Clapp, West Killingly, L. W. Maxon, Norwich; second colloquies, J. J. Jennings, Coventry.

Ice cutting is nearly done in Norwich for the winter. The ice now measures between 9 and 12 inches and is clear.

The new lighthouse on Block Island which is to cost $45,000 has been nearly completed. The masons are waiting for the iron men to finish their work and then they can finish the job in a short time.

Luther and George Rawson take the flags on pickerel fishing this winter. They have taken a six pound pickerel out of Pachaug pond, besides 60 or more other pickerel of less weight.

Joseph G. Lamb of this city has obtained a patent for an improvement in spinning rings. The Thames River worster mill in this city, now starting up, is using this method of spinning.

Guns were fired in this city yesterday upon order of Mayor Greene in honor of President Grant's utterance in regards to law and order in Louisiana. The old war guns booming forth on Laurel hill electrified the city.

BIDDY TEA ROLLS

Dear Social Corner Editor: Please accept my thanks for the yellow slip which you sent me. It was indeed a pleasant surprise. I bought Biddy Ann a potted plant with it. She loves plants and has ever so many. She had a large fern given to her Christmas which pleased her very much. I wish you could see our Christmas cactus. It is a large one and full of blossoms. It is beautiful. I hope the Corner folks had a pleasant Christmas and will have a prosperous year free from sickness and trouble. I mustn't take up too much space as there are many writers and we like to hear from them all.

Biddy Ann cuts out and puts on file all cooking recipes. We couldn't be without The Bulletin nohow. I am sending a recipe for tea rolls which I like very much. These are very nice spread with home made butter and eaten warm. A dish of sauce and a cup of tea this would made a good evening meal.

Biddy Tea Rolls: Two quarts sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoon sugar, 1-2 cup butter melted with milk enough to make a stiff dough, 1 yeast cake dissolved in warm milk. Set to rise at 2 p. m. and when well risen make into rolls. Let rise, bake 20 minutes in quick oven.

Wish best wishes for you all, I am your humble

LULAR WYLIE.

NEW YEAR WISHES

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Better late than never to send greetings to the editor and sisters for a prosperous, pleasant, helpful New Year. The glad Christmas time makes one think of what we owe the author of that days of days, and Him whose birthday it is. I read of a children's home where many children are cared for, all needs of the home being supplied in answer to prayer, and they hung up their stockings for Jesus to fill. They were not disappointed for He who came many years ago to bring peace and good will to all who will let Him is the same, yesterday today and forever.

I am saving some of the hints and helps and recipes and will have quite a collection if I keep on.

Glad to see you have a prize, Triple E. I am always glad to see your letters.

L. H. K.: I just read your letter. Will look for one by mail soon.

It is snowing and all things are white and beautiful. The little snow birds are having a gay time flitting about, no doubt playing tag as children do. They seem to enjoy the snow as well as children do the skating. They find something to be glad about at all seasons.

I wish to thank the kind editor for yellow slip received some time ago, and the member who kindly sent the cute calendar.

And best wishes to each one for the New Year and a full page for each week. Also many a beam of sunshine shine in and brighten each sick one and shut in.

SPRY BIRD.

FRIENDS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Someone has said, "Don't live your life alone without forming friendships and love. Your nature needs love. You were made for it and other natures need you. You are robbing yourself and you are robbing others if you live like a hermit. Therefore go out into God's world and live your life for others." No man liveth unto himself. Those who say they can do without friends make a great mistake. Their life is a miserable failure. They miss the sweetest and best part of living. Find the best things in life and appreciate them. Get all the happiness you can as you pass along and then share it with someone who has less than yourself. Do not cling to worldly pleasures; they cannot last. Set not your affections on riches, they take wings and fly away. Search for the good the true and the beautiful; hold fast to such things as shall benefit your soul.

Many thanks to sisters for cards, Cala Lily, Rosy Posy, Dom Pedro, Nema, Crimson Rambler.

Social Corner Member: Thanks.

Keziah Doolittle and Martha: Thanking you both for remembering me on my 43d year anniversary, Jan. 18th. Sorry they had it mixed in Corner page Saturday with the others.

Lorna: I could not come to the meeting as I had a hard cold. It is not so easy to get to the city when you have to walk four miles.

Silent Partner: I live one mile from Crimson Rambler. We are neighbors. Come see me. Take the state road; go by the Witter place, turn and go by school, continue past the Wats place and the next is mine.

Silent Partner: Was my card the only one you received?

Rosy Posy: Got your package today. Thank you very much.

PAULA.

USE A LITTLE SALT IN COFFEE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I want to thank all who sent me cards on the holidays and the member who sent the dainty calendar.

Whirlwind: Hope you did not take your horoscope too seriously.

Balsam Fir: You are the delinquent one this time. Have the promise of a letter soon.

I have tried several ways of making tea and I cannot tell a bit of difference in the taste—but coffee is better put into cold water with a pinch of salt. Many of you will remember what delicious coffee Aunt Abby used to have at her parties. She told me she always put in a little salt.

We had a large gathering at our last meeting—some I had not met for a long time. They surely have begun the New Year good.

Am glad to see so many letters and a full page—not so many as we ought to have considering the large number of writers.

One sister who wrote several years ago signed her name Hopeful. She is dead. Her real name was Mrs. Henry O. Nickols. There must be another one with that same penname. So Aunty No. 1 was right as she was with us at her home in Franklin.

Crimson Rambler: Am glad you have found a way to get to our meetings. Hope to see you often.

Hope all sick ones are improving.

Best wishes to all.

A DAY IN HARTFORD

Dear Social Corner Pals: Best wishes and New Year greetings to all. I wish to acknowledge with thanks the quaint little calendar which was received recently from a Social Corner Member. While "It is more blessed to give than to receive," I for one think that doesn't mean for all the giving to be on one side. However, even if you do not choose to let your identity became known, I believe. Have you had a kindness shown? Pass it on. 'Twas not meant for you alone. Pass it on. Let it travel down the years let it mingle with anothers tears. Till in heaven the deed appears. Pass it on.

Last week was my good fortune to receive an invitation from kind friends to spend the day in Hartford where we witnessed the inaugural parade with all its pomp, such as bands of music Richmond Blues, Governors Foot guard, etc., and the unprecented triad of Governors following in motor cars. With two airplanes circling the city and seeming to lead the parade, the brilliant colors flashing in the sunlight gave a thrill and made a spectacle never to be forgotten. After some shopping we returned home having spent a most pleasant day. That was much kindness passed on. Will send in Mother O'Mine, which is a favorite of mine.

HOPE COBWEB.

CORSET COVERS FROM SHIRTS

Dear Social Corner Members: I didn't intend writing again so soon but want to make a correction in my last letter.

In the extra verse of The Blackberry Girl, which I sent in the first line should read:

"So take it for you need not fear"

Instead of "don't fear."

Have any of the sisters ever made corset covers from worn out under shirts of the men folks?

Take the light weight ones, cut off below the front opening, fold together, cut off the top corners for the shoulder seam, hollow out the top for the neck, cutting the front of neck, quite a bit lower than back, cut out a generous armhole, then sew up shoulder seam, hem top, bottom and armholes.

I only turn the edge over once. Stitch with rather a long stitch, stretching it a little as you sew, so the thread wont draw and break. Punch a hole in hem large enough for a tape needle, draw tape through top and bottom, and you have quite a serviceable garment for everyday wear, and very inexpensive.

I have been wondering for a long time what has become of Free Air?

A prosperous and happy year to editor and members.

SILENT PARTNER, (Dec. 28.)

Preston.

LIKES TO EXPERIMENT

Social Corner Editor and Members: Do words mean anything at all? Tell me why, a lot of people I have never seen, should be dear to me?

Sometimes I like to experiment. Somebody gave me some nice new sour milk, and I didn't want to make dutch cheese just then, so I put 2 cups in my double boiler and added soda, salt, butter, sugar, spice, raisins and bread crumbs, same as you would for any bread pudding and I cooked it quite a while and it was good.

I tried the bread lemon pie, only I used one egg and 2 crusts, as I don't care very much for meringue. It was all right.

ALWILDA.

GOOD LUCK WITH RECIPES

Dear Sisters: Today I have been thinking about our last meeting and what a good time I had meeting one sister after another. It is a fine place to go to, for every one is so friendly one to another. I think we all should be kind one to another in every way we can, for we then get more out of life. I mean to take a book next time.

I like the Social Corner sisters recipes, for every one I have tried came out fine. I am going to try and go to the next meeting in Willimantic if the weather permits.

Wish you all a happy new year if not too late.

THRIFT

Dear Social Corner Friends: Many thanks to a Social Corner Member for the dainty calendar, and much appreciation of the thoughtfulness in remembering so many in their way.

Thrift week reminds us to make good plans for our work and improvement for this year. Thrift is good management; having a business system; saving that which before had gone to waste; saving in a new way getting good results. Our greatest waste has been in the character of the people from the lack of right mental and moral training. We need to work to bring the mental and moral equal to and as well understood as the physical and mechanical conditions of the present time.

A wealthy man can be reasonably sure of being able to hire some one who will train his horses or keep his car in perfect order, but he cannot be as sure that he can hire any one who will understand training his children so that they will be competent to fill his place and become good, honest, successful men prove that we need a great change in the training of those who have the care of children. those whose work is with persons has not kept up with mechanical inventions.

Education has been said to be the bundle of habits, ideas, and prejudices the child picks up. We have not progressed because we hang on to our prejudice and old wrong ideas about children which have not given good results. Children in the home and in school have not been trained to make their own decisions and do their own thinking. But have been expected to remember and do what some one else said. You cannot teach anyone what to do, for circumstances are all the time changing, and your idea may have been right in different conditions but wrong now.

The development of children is the work of every one for everyone one exerts an influence on some one else for right or for wrong.

Th only way the child can develop in judgment is by using his judgment in his own way. The child should never be criticized or ridiculed for his decision. Later without reference to his wrong decision talk and explain so that he will draw his own conclusion and see for himself the way he should have done. He has to get his experience when a child by making his mistake and then learning a better way instead of obeying orders of some one. We need the right training in every home because the child usually accepts the home ideas as right and because the first impressions are apt to be the permanent ones.

We need the right influence from every one for a child or person may get the idea which will change his whole life from a chance conversation by some one he never meets but once. While the teachings of home and school may not have made an impression on his mind and life. We can be very proud of the mechanical affair of this age but it is a disgrace to us that such a large per cent of the people are criminals or more or less northern people. Now that a national movement for child training has been organized and the parent-teachers association groups are expected to organize classes to study the nature and well being and care of children, minds and morals as well as bodies we can expect the same improvement that all organized public effort brings.

The child has to be taught right ideas until he accepts them as his own ideas and will do them.

JEREMY.

REMEDIES WORTH KNOWING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I feel a little ashamed for not writing for so long a time but it is not that I do not enjoy reading every one of the letters. They are very interesting and helpful.

At this time of year when there is so much sickness, colds, and contagious diseases around, it is a good idea to use this simple disinfectant. Fill a tin can two thirds full of water, put a tablespoon of tar in, and set it on the stove to simmer. Sulphur is very good for sore throat.

It can be taken in dry sugar. Hold in the mouth to dissolve. Another good remedy for sore throat is 1 teaspoon powdered borax, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, dissolved in a pint of warm water and to be used as a gargle.

Agatha: I think I know you. Is your throat O. K. now?

Pedestrian: I too am a nature lover. There is nothing I love better than a walk through the woods at any season of the year. Though, I think fall is the most beautiful season. With good wishes to all.

ABIGAIL.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: I have wanted to join your Corner for some time but didn't dare to write.

A few weeks ago some sister wrote about how to fix a coal fire when it goes out on two sides. If she would have it printed again I would be very thankful for it. I will take for my pen name

TODAY'S EVENTS

Today, the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, has been chosen as the date for beginning the annual observance of "Thrift week" throughout the country.

International and other problems of common concern to the Baltic States are to be considered at a conference of the foreign ministers of those states to be held today at Helsingfors, Finland.

Tom J. Terral, elected governor of Arkansas at the last election, together with others chosen to state offices at that time, will be inaugurated and assume the duties of their respective offices today.

The National Western Livestock show, one of the largest and most representative of the annual exhibitions of the kind held in the United States, will be opened at Denver today and continued through next week.

General Sir Arthur William Currie, distinguished soldier of the World war and now principal of McGill university, is to be the chief speaker at the annual dinner of the Canadian society in New York city tonight.

Major General Davis S. Shanks, who was in charge of the embarkation of troops at Hoboken during the war with Germany, will be placed on the retired list of the U. S. army today, after more than 44 years of active service.

Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the Rainbow division in France and now assigned to the command of the Fourth corps area, with headquarters in Atlanta, today will become a major-general, the youngest of that rank in the army.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Next Week at United Cong'l Church.

All officers, teachers and substitute teachers of the church school are urged to attend the regular monthly meeting and supper to be held at the Community house at 6.30 Monday evening.

The King's Daughters will meet in the church school rooms on Tuesday evening.

Midweek worship Thursday evening at 7.45, led by Mr. Abbott.

At the missions department meeting held upstairs in the Community house at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon Mrs. Mary Porter Gamewell, author of the central committee study book of the year, is to speak from her many and interesting experiences of life in China. Members of all Protestant churches in the community are invited to join in the privilege of hearing Mrs. Gamewell.

Customer Ownership Stock Sale

An interesting financial event of mid-January will be the second Customer Ownership preferred stock sale of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co.

In 1922 this company made its first offering of its securities to its customers. Five hundred shares were offered and inside of four days more than 850 shares were subscribed for. As a result of this first sale over 275 customers became profit sharing partners in the enterprise and have since received regular quarterly dividends.

The new offering is being made, not so much to raise new capital to pay for improvements and betterments to the service, as it is to obtain customer ownership. It would be an easy matter to offer these securities through regular financial channels. This would raise the capital promptly and easily but it would result in absentee ownership. It is the company's desires, according to present indications, that all of the securities be owned by customers and employees of the company and for utilizing its services to the fullest possible extent in the rebuilding of the community. In these days, when no plant enlarges its capacity and no new industry enters a community until it can be assured of adequate, uninterrupted service at a fair price, this partnership of the people and the utility to serve the community is of interest in increasing in that community trade, industry, population and prosperity.

Bread Theater

Without exception the members of the cast of Mary Pickford's photoplay for United Artists Corporation, Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall, which comes to the Bread theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, constitutes an even greater aggregation of state and screen stars than any list of players that ever supported her in any of her previous picture offerings.

Miss Pickford in the role of Dorothy Vernon is again the grown young woman. This character, however, is wholly different from that of the little street singer so exquisitely portrayed in Rosita, the picture in which Miss Pickford first assumed a grown-up role.

The part of Sir John Manners is played by Allan Forrest, who recently worked in Jackie Coogan's in The Palace of the King.

Anders Randolf, who appeared in The Bright Shawl, takes the part of Sir George Vernon, and Marc McDermott, well known on the stage and screen, makes an admirable Sir Malcolm Vernon, cousin of Dorothy, to whom she has been bethrothed against her will.

Queen Elizabeth is interpreted by Clare Eames, well known in both this country and Europe, for her brilliant work as England's famous queen.

Estelle Taylor, popular screen star, who has just finished with Cecil De Mille in The Ten Commandments, was chosen as Queen Mary.

Topics of the Day, a Hodge Podge and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of Buck Jones in The Desert Outlaw, the tenth chapter of Days of 49, the Pathe news and an Imperial comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:30 P. M.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Betty Compson is supported by a unique cast in The Female, her new Paramount starring picture directed by Sam Wood. The story is an adaptation of Cynthia Stockley's Dalla, the Lion Cub. All of the scenes are laid in South Africa.

Heading the strong supporting cast are Warner Baxter and Noah Beery. Dorothy Cumming, Helen Butler, Pauline French, Edgar Norton and Florence Wix also have important parts.

The Female, which will be shown tomorrow at the Broadway theater is a story of a beautiful young Boer girl who knows no life outside the African veldt. She meets and falls in love with a handsome young Englishman far above her station in life. Men before always flocked to her, but this one is different. He is strangely cold and ignores her, and his people, the "Englishers," insult Dalla. (Miss Compson.) The rest of the picture is a gripping and unusually entertaining story of the carrying out of this girl's plans for revenge against all the ultra-smart of the English colony in general. The picture closes with her completely winning over the young Englishman.

Watch for the great vaudeville show at the Broadway theater starting Monday.

Royal Italian Band

An elaborate program has been arranged for the coming concert of the Royal Italian band, which has been rehearsing three nights a week at their studio under the direction of Professor Pasquale Puca.

Several new selections have been incorporated in his program.

Frank Rinella, president of the royal Italian band, stated that from present indications, there will be a large demand for tickets.

Bible Picture at Y. M. C. A.

The large audience present last Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. will be pleased to learn that the Y management has secured the moving picture reels showing the last half of the story of the great Bible character, Joseph for the coming Sunday at 4 o'clock. These will be shown in the large gymnasium, the large power machine being used.

These reels will include Joseph as Governor of Egypt, when he gathers through the seven years of plenty and stores for seven years of famine, the wisdom of Joseph in suggesting this plan proving a great blessing to all the land. Joseph demonstrates a wonderfully kind spirit toward his unkind brothers, and he finally returns extreme good for their cruel unkindness to him, and the final reel shows the impressive peacemaking between the brothers and the final reunion of all the brothers and Jacob, whose latter days were made happy by his discovery of his favorite son whom he had mourned as dead. The whole story is one of unusual impressiveness, and well worth seeing.

To this showing both men and women are invited and children eleven and up may attend if accompanied by adults. Hugh Kinder will render solos and furnish music for the pictures.

Strand Theater

When the Strand theater opens under the new management Sunday night those who go to this popular theater will see a selected program of photoplays which will no doubt appeal to all. The first run features a comedy and a serial make up a well balanced array of pictures.

Fred Thompson, who is rapidly becoming a national cinema hero of western stories on the screen, will be seen at his best in his latest picture under the title of Thundering Hoofs. Capping the climax of a remarkable photoplay of a different sort is a fight in the Mexican bull ring, where Thomson saves his horse, Silver King, from being gored by a full sized Spanish bull. This is one of the most dramatic as well as the most daring feats ever attempted by a screen player and Fred Thomson is the only man in pictures who could actually "bull-dog" a big bull. The companion feature, Girls Men Forget, is a swift moving, pace setting story of a modern girl, a flapper perhaps, is a series of up-to-the-minute situations. The girl Kitty Shayne is the comedienne of her social set. She is the life of every party. In an exuberant spirit of innocent fun she never hesitates to sacrifice dignity, and perhaps even the right to command the respect of men, if by doing so she can stir a dull gathering up to an enthusiastic pitch. Patsy Ruth Miller brings the character of Kitty Shayne to life in an appropriate style. A better choice for the role is difficult to imagine. Johnny Walker appears in the opposite role and when a combination like this is seen in a picture it is assured the picture will truly be worth while.

A Joe Rock comedy and the thrill serial The Riddle Rider rounds out a picture program of merit, and it is safe to say the Strand will house capacity audiences Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The popular young leader Herb Smith and his gang of music makers also have been engaged and will furnish the music at every performance. It is the intention of the Strand management to make the Strand a theater for the entire family the prices to be within the reach of all. A matinee will be given every day and all seats (except Saturday) will be ten cents. Saturday matinee evening prices will prevail which will be ten and twenty cents.

POETRY

THE OLD DAYS.

Don't you love the old days,
The days of long ago,
Their breeches, their sunshine,
The blossoms and the snow,
The laughter on the staircase,
The sound of happy feet,
The old familiar faces
We nevermore shall meet?

Don't you love the old days—
Don't you sometimes sit
Musing in the twilight
Ere the lamps are lit,
Dreaming of the radiance
Shed by olden moons,
Listening in the gloaming
Echoes of old tunes?

Don't you love the old days,
Remembered by—how few!—
For the eyes that loved them
They have vanished, too;
Dumb are we in sorrow,
Silent in our woe—
We can dream, but cannot speak
Of the things we, only, know.

Don't you love the old days
Too bright for tongue or pen?
The grass is green above the feet
That frolicked with us then;
Oftentimes I wonder
If in some distant star
Our Dead do yet remember
Those happy days afar.

Don't you love the old days—
Yes, you and I bereft—
Of which a few wan keepsakes
Are all that now is left?
Yet in our hearts still linger—
Like deathless tapers burn—
The memories of the old days
That never can return.

—Samuel Minturn Peck, in Boston Transcript.

HOPE AND FEAR.

Beneath the shadow of dawn's aerial cope,
With eyes enkindled as the sun's own sphere,
Hope from the font of youth in Godlike cheer
Looks Godward, past the shades where blind men grope,
Round the dark door that prayers nor dreams can ope,
And makes for joy the very darkness dear
That gives her wide wings play; nor dreams that Fear
At noon may rise and pierce the heart of Hope.
Then, when the soul leaves off to dream and yearn,
May Truth first purge her eyesight to discern
What once being known leaves them no power to appall;
Till youth at last, ere yet youth be not, learn
The kind wise word that falls from years that fall—
"Hope not thou much, and fear thou not at all."

—Algernon Charles Swinburne.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Come out to my country place. You can go horseback riding and play golf.

That's polo, isn't it?—Columbia Jester.

So you've taken up smoking, have you.

Yes, I want to have something to swear off on New Year's eve.—Boston Transcript.

Then you are not disturbed by the still small voice?

"No," answered the cheerful sinner. "It can't tell me anything I don't know."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

First Inebriate—What'll you have?

Second Inebriate—Who?

First Inebriate—Thash not ganle-main. Thash me.—Life.

"George dear," said the young wife, "you are growing handsomer every day."

"Yes, darling," replied George, "it's a way I have just before your birthday."—Denison University Flamingo.

You used to be a great advocate spelling reform.

I've given up hope. What chance for it is there when half the country agrees that KDKA spells Pittsburg.—Washington Star.

Mary was newly engaged.

"We understand each other perfectly," she said. "Tom tells me everything he knows and I tell him everything I know too."

"Really!" exclaimed her candid friend. "And don't you sometimes find the silence rather oppressive?"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

They have now invented a machine by means of which a man can step up behind you and take an X-ray photograph of what you have in your hip pocket.

Gosh, that's terrible.

Still, I believe some court has ruled that the pants are not a common carrier.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Canada's population has increased by nearly 500,000 since the last census taken in 1921, according to an estimate of the Dominion bureau of statistics, which shows an increase in every province except Prince Edward Island where there has been a decline of 900. The estimated population of 1924 is 8,736,740, as compared with the 1921 census population of 8,788,483.

In London more accidents occur on Saturday than any other day of the week. The time favorable to accidents seems to be between 3 and 4 P. M., of much earlier than in the United States. The next most dangerous hour is that between 10 and 11 at night. This is not surprising, as the traffic is heavy and poorly regulated at night. It has been urged, not only in London but elsewhere, that an improvement of the street lighting would go far toward removing this danger.

LAUNCH BELREY, WITH $15,000 CARGO, SEIZED AND BROUGHT TO NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 16.—The coast guard fleet stationed at this port in an endeavor to put an end to the trafficking in liquor through Long Island sounds, made another capture of a liquor-laden craft, early this morning, when the motor launch Belrey, 2nd, hailing from New York, was seized off the Long Island shore by United States Coast Guard Destroyer 235. The Belrey is laden with about 300 cases of champagne and rye and Scotch whiskey and is now moored at the state pier, where she and the crew of three men will be detained until such time as the case is called in New York, for the seizure was made in New York waters.

The destroyer was proceeding through the sound about 2 o'clock and when off Southampton, L. I., the Belrey was observed headed for the Southampton shore, apparently heavily laden. The destroyer pulled up alongside the Felrey and an officer of the destroyer going aboard the motor craft the presence of the liquor cargo was quickly revealed. The cargo is valued at $15,000.

The destroyer and her prize reached port this afternoon and with the arrival of the rum-runner the first capture made by the destroyers in local waters became known.

Clifford Rogers, a young man residing with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gabez Rogers, 35 Jefferson avenue, was committed to the Norwich state hospital Preston, this morning following the young man being taken into custody as being of unsound mentality. Patrolman Bruton Hill was on his beat in the westerly part of the city late last night when he was requested by the parents of the young man to take him into custody, as he was undoubtedly insane and the family feared that Rogers would either cause injury to himself or members of the household. After Rogers was taken to the police station he was examined by a physician, who ordered Rogers committed to the Norwich hospital. The afflicted young man was taken there in the police automobile, in charge of Acting Lieutenant James J. Gaffney, and Patrolman Edward Daniels.

What appears to be a spite case was manifested late last night when Joseph Syracusa, 133 Jefferson avenue, a public service operator, was arrested by state police from Groton barracks, charged with reckless driving, upon complaint of Dewey Connors, driver in the employ of the Yellow Cab company. Syracusa will be given a hearing in the Groton town court next Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Syracusa was operating his automobile between Groton and the submarine base last night and in making the trip encountered the Yellow Cab company's machine, operated by Connors. Connors declares that Syracusa operated his machine in such a manner that only by exceptional precaution was the Yellow Cab prevented from being forced off the side of the highway and damaged. When Connors reached Groton he communicated with the state police and the arrest of Syracusa followed.

The Yellow Cab company several weeks ago secured an injunction restraining the operation of a so-called "checkered" cab by Syracusa, the Yellow Cab company alleging that the cab of Syracusa's Hudmobile, had been painted a color closely resembling that of the Yellow Cab company and for the purpose of securing some of the business of the aggrieved company. The case is pending in the courts.

Charles Saunders, one of the oldest baggagemasters in the employ of the Central Vermont railroad, is ill at his home on Broad street, having suffered a paralytic stroke earlier in the week. The condition of the patient is considered serious. Mr. Saunders is about 70. He is well known among railroad employes.

Colonel Charles Parkhurst, U. S. A., retired, Williams street, has vacated his home and has gone to Virginia, where he will take up his residence with his son, Captain George Parkhurst, U. S. A.

Mrs. Jacob Monsky and infant son of Singa, N. J.; Mrs. Paul Munsel and infant son, of Westerly; James N. Graves, Nameaug avenue; Mrs. Theodore Rix, Pine, New Haven; Miss Lillian LeMieh, Ocean avenue; Crafence Coote, 238 Connecticut avenue and Baby Jerge Kibe, Clover street, patients at Lawrence hospital were discharged today.

The M. C. Candy company store, Bliuman street, has been the location of numerous petty thefts by youths of late, especially since the store was visited by fire several weeks ago, since which time the place has not been secured by a proper lock. The latest theft to occur took place last night, when entrance to the store was gained and a small amount of candy stolen.

Thomas Rudd, son of former State Police Officer Alfred Rudd and Mrs. Rudd, of 69 Blackhall street, and John Morrison, 98 Hempstead street, were returned to New London this forenoon, having been arrested late last night at Providence, charged with being runaways. The youths were picked up on the streets of Providence and their identity being established the New London authorities were requested to notify the parents of the runaways of the predicament of the youths. This done, Mr. Rudd started for Providence by automobile about 1 o'clock and during the forenoon returned here with both boys. Neither youth is over 14.

Arthur Brookhaus has sold a building lot on Kenomee street to Minnie Anderson.

A two horse truck of the Schwartz company, engaged in the grain business on Bank street, did a trick today that it could not accomplish in the manner many days in the year. The horses were at a loading platform in the rear of the Armstrong building when something happened that frightened them, or they were feeling the effect of the oats that had been fed to them and started to run, when left unattended by the driver. They went out through Sparyard street at a pace that was astonishing. Across the sidewalk they went without hitting anything or anybody, and into Bank St., which is a crowded highway most of the time. They did not come in contact with anything there either and continued around to the south end of the building where they turned into the stables. At the turn the truck swung into the plate glass windows of the store of S. Elsman, taking out two slabs of glass that were a quarter of an inch thick. That was all the damage occasioned. The escape of pedestrians was the remarkable thing about the incident. It was the lucky thing about it as well.

Seldom has a winter furnished such favorable weather for the continuance of building operation as has that of 1924-25 thus far. There have been few days when work out-of-doors could not be carried on. Today laborers were at work on the excavation for the Klinck building in bareless attire. There has been no hindrance to the use of cement either, and bricklaying has been possible right up to this afternoon when rain and hail set in. Carpenters have pursued their labors as though working in the warm season.

New London lodge of Elks discussing the robbery of the safe in the club house, at the meeting last evening and when they had finished the members were more determined than ever that every means possible should be resorted to to discover the thief. He is not wanted and will not be tolerated in the organization and he will be prohibited from having membership in the order, if he is discovered. The Order of Elks has been so generous with the deserving of every race and all creeds that the robbery of a lodge is regarded as more despicable than would be the theft of funds from almost any other organization that did not have charity as a cardinal principle. There is an element in the lodge that would overlook rather than bring odium upon the order by the prosecution of the robber, but that element is in the very small minority.

The funeral of Henry Lezarde was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons, the pastor. The bearers were George, Harry, Frank, James and Robert Kennedy, and Edward Gregan, the last named of Brooklyn, N. Y. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

An automobile owned by the Ideal Coat and Apron Supply company and driven by Bernard L. Burman, 613 Bank street, skidded upon the slippery pavements on State street, near the union station, this afternoon and collided with a machine owned by the Velvet Tobacco company. Neither machine was damaged of consequence.

An automobile owned and operated by Louis A. McKenzie, 24 Pleasant street, Groton, smashed against the sign at the railroad crossing of the New Haven railroad, Hallam street, late this afternoon, the sign being demolished and the automobile damaged. McKenzie reported the accident at the police station, also to the railroad company. The automobile was descending the Hallam street grade when the car started skidding on the ice-coated surface, made doubly dangerous by rain. McKenzie lost control of the machine, with the result that it crashed against the sign, ripping it away from its support, and disfiguring the automobile.

Mrs. Charles H. Merris, 64 Vauxhall street, late this afternoon complained to the police that a sled belonging to her son was stolen from the yard of her home some time during Wednesday night.

Several New Londoners, including Sergeant of Police Patrick Murphy and Francis Sullivan, are in New York tonight, where they witnessed at Madison Square Garden the 15-round battle between Tiger Flowers and Jack Delaney.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, 767 Montauk avenue, are in New York, to remain for a fortnight.

Miss Dorothy H. Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Wilbur, 60 Phillips street, is a medical patient at Home Memorial hospital, having entered the institution yesterday.

Miss Emily Knox of Spicer avenue, Groton, is confined to her home as a result of an injury sustained last evening by falling on the sidewalk in front of the Groton postoffice. In landing Miss Knox's head struck the sidewalk with sufficient force to open the scalp, the wound being so serious that she required medical treatment.

Funeral services for Phyllis R. Waterhouse, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Waterhouse, were held yesterday afternoon at the residence of the child's parents, 159 Baker avenue, Groton. Rev. Henry W. Hulbert, pastor of Groton Congregational church, conducted the services. Burial was in Union cemetery, Groton.

Frederick H. Crowell, 63, died today at his residence, 36 Starr street, after an illness of about a month. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Stephen and Frederick Crowell; a stepson, Earl B. Sexton, and a daughter, Mrs. Grace Durkee, of Waterford. Mr. Crowell was for many years employed by the American Railway Express company as messenger and was a native of New London, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Crowell. He was retired by the express company about six years ago.

State health authorities are investigating the death of Thomas J. Lavin, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Lavin, 249 Huntington street, whose death occurred Wednesday night at Lawrence hospital from anthrax, according to the death certificate signed by the attending physician, Dr. Millard Knowlton, director of the bureau of preventable diseases, Hartford, has been in New London and has obtained samples of blood and serum taken from the spine of the boy, the samples now being at the state laboratory, Hartford, to be analyzed. While Dr. Knowlton is not positive that the youth died of the disease accredited, the physician is reasonably certain that death resulted from anthrax, a disease prevalent principally among sheep and other animals, but which is contracted by

The special committee of the city council, together with City Manager William A. Holt, continued its police probe in the juvenile court room, municipal building, this evening. All the officers to be quizzed were members of the 11 o'clock shift, and among them were Patrolmen William Manice, Michael Corcoran and Michael Dorsey. In almost every instance the questions propounded the officers pertained to the rumored violation of the liquor law and queries as to whether certain changes might be for the betterment of the department and a step toward greater efficiency.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

"The Grange stands and has always stood for just laws, properly enforced," said Allen B. Cook, Worthy Master in his address at the state grange annual meeting in Hartford this week. "All laws," he continued, "should be properly enforced. If found wrong or unjust they should be corrected, but as long as they are laws they should be observed. The simple fact that certain laws do not suit certain people is no reason for non-enforcement, for any law will displease some people. Otherwise it would not be needed. Any law which requires a decided change in the habits of a considerable number of people is sure to meet opposition but that is no excuse for not enforcing that law. The fact that our prohibition laws are being violated is no reason for their being repealed or modified. Our standard time laws must be enforced just as far as is possible, but we must realize that we are situated between the two great railroad terminals of New York and Boston as long as they both are on daylight saving time, we are to a very great extent the unfortunate victims of circumstances. If these cities or even one of them could be persuaded to get back to sensible standard time our problem would be solved. Let us hope that the recent vote in Massachusetts may pave the way for this solution."

The state master asked that the state grange endorse the work being done by the agricultural station and the Connecticut Agricultural college. He commended the state board of agriculture for its market bulletin and recommended that the state grange ask for a larger appropriation for its work. He urged a liberal support of the departments of health, domestic animals and food and dairy.

"I hope," he said, "that you will express yourselves clearly and emphatically on the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution."

The state master said education was one of the most important questions of the present time and that all wanted their children to have the best possible education at the least possible expense. "How to combine the two is a serious problem. In many cases the rural school is at a great disadvantage when compared with the village school largely, perhaps, because suitable teachers cannot be persuaded to teach in the rural districts and put up with the living conditions often found there. Would it not be practical in many instances, where there is a good school building but unsatisfactry living conditions, to transport the teacher rather than the children, thus keeping the rural school and at the same time allowing the teacher to live where she can enjoy the village conveniences?"

"Automobile liability insurance, in some form, should, I believe, be required of every person driving an automobile, not only for their own protection but that of other persons and property," he said. "The time is soon coming when some of the state's and probably Connecticut, will require some form of liability insurance."

Darius A. St. John of New Canaan, state treasurer, gave his report for the year. The balance on hand January 1, 1924, was $4,107.92. The receipts were: Interest, $212.50; other sources, $8,400.58; total, $12,730. The disbursements were $9,205.64, and the balance on hand, $3,524.36. The invested funds of the state grange total $22,287.59.

Ard Welton of Plymouth, state secretary reported approximately 17,000 members January 1, 1925. There were 1,617 new members admitted. There are 142 subordinate granges and ten Pomona granges. One grange, Mystic, No. 171, of Mystic, was reorganized.

It was voted to appropriate $400 for the lecturer's work. It was voted to distribute 175 copies of the Code of the Flag to the grangers.

"The executive committee is unanimous in recommending the appointment of Dr. Albert W. Gilbert, commissioner of agriculture of the state of Massachusetts, as the new secretary of agriculture."

I. O. B. B. AUXILIARY.

The following were initiated at the meeting of Rose of New England Auxiliary, No. 40, I. O. B.-B., at its meeting in Steiner hall last Sunday when the Springfield degree team was present to officiate.

Mrs. B. Goldfarb, Mrs. J. Bendett, Mrs. B. Swartzburg, Mrs. B. Rubinstein, Miss Rae Novick, Mrs. Rose Markoff, Mrs. S. Ehrenberg, Mrs. D. Diamond, Putnam, Mrs. H. Dwersk, Miss Marcia Bruckner, Miss Elizabeth Diamond, Putnam, Miss Dorothy Pasnik, Mrs. B. Belt, Miss Goldie Bruckner and Mrs. M. Bruckner. There were three generations in the Bruckner family to be initiated, mother, daughter and granddaughter.

After the initiation a supper consisting of cold meats, potato salad, pickles, olives, rolls, tea and fancy cakes was served to the out-of-town guests and the sisters of the auxiliary as well as to the brother lodge.

Following supper the installation of officers took place. Mrs. M. Lubchansky of New London acting as installing officer. The following were installed:

President, Mrs. Bettie Pasnik, (third term); vice president, Mrs. F. Tractenburg; financial secretary, Mrs. B. Solomon; recording secretary, Mrs. Chas. Jacobson; guide, Mrs. R. Henschel; guardian, Mrs. B. Bruckner; monitress, Mrs. B. Smith; trustees, Mrs. G. Greenberg, Mrs. W. Tractenberg, Mrs. M. Schwartz.

Further plans were made for the annual dance to take place in the Wauregan hotel on February 11th. No special chairman was elected to take charge of the affair but all the sisters are enthusiastically working to make this annual event a gala occasion and there is no doubt that it will surely prove to be a great social success.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

A regular meeting of Loyal Victory lodge, No. 4, was held in Steiner's hall Thursday with Noble Grand Nellie Ince presiding. Routine business was transacted and new committees were appointed for the coming six months as follows:

Sick committees: City, Sister Alquist and Sister Hill. Hospital, Sister Partridge. Greeneville, Sister Shaw, Sister Wooley. Taftville, Sister Knowles, Sister Unsworth. Social committee, Sister Hartley, Sister Lamphere, Sister Hunt, Sister Mathers. Sister Addison.

It was voted to hold a pre-Lenten dance, plans for which will be announced later. The meeting adjourned to be open again February 5th. A large attendance is expected.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

Clover temple, No. 9, held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the Buckingham Memorial with Most Excellent Chief Miss E. Grace Fowler in the chair. Reports were read and routine business transacted, following which plans were made for a supper to be held at 6.30 o'clock on the next meeting night, Feb. 5th, when the grand officers would be present. It is expected that every member of the temple will be present when the grand officers make their official visitation.

MARKET WAS STEADY.

New York, Jan. 16.—Stock prices were subjected to selling pressure throughout the greater part of today's session in further readjustment of the market's week-end technical position resulting from nearly ten weeks of almost steadily rising prices. The reaction in most issues was an orderly one with many of the popular rails and industrials making irregular recovery on short covering in the final dealings.

Opening prices were firm, fresh buying having come into the market overnight as a result of the continuance of the local federal reserve rediscount rate at 3 per cent. Except in a few instances, however, operators on the long side showed little disposition to follow up the advance with the result that bear selling was resumed by professional traders in a number of issues, forcing some rather sharp reactions, particularly among the specialties.

St. Paul issues were offered in rather large volume on President Byram's confirmation of reports that the road had failed to earn its fixed charges last year. The common sagged to 13 1-2 and the preferred to 28 1-4, closing at 14 and 28 7-8 for net losses of 5-8 and 1 7-8, respectively. Omaha common dropped 3 3-4 points to 52 on a few sales, and Jersey Central broke 7 points to 295. Louisville & Nashville fell back two points to 106 and "Nickel Plate" dropped one to 125 but most of the other popular issues showed only fractional recessions. Independent strength was shown by Pere Marquette prior preferred, which advanced two points to 83.

United States Steel common fluctuated within a range of less than two points, closing 3-4 higher at 123 3-4. Baldwin showed a net gain of 1 1-4 at 133 3-8 and American Can moved up 1-2 to 161.

Nash Motors was the outstanding individual feature, closing 16 points higher at 268, or 56 points above last week's close. Ludlam Steel advanced 3 points to a record top at 37 7-8, in reflection of the claims made for its stainless steel process at the winter meeting of the American Society for Steel Treating. Allis-Chalmers climbed over 4 points to 79 7-8, also a new top, on reports of high current D earnings.

Other outstanding strong spots included Coca Cola, Dupont, General Electric, International Nickel, Pittsburgh Terminal Coal, United States Cast Iron Pipe and United States Realty, all of which closed from 2 to 6 points higher. Weakness was shown by Air Reduction, Continental Insurance, General Baking and Utah Copper. Call money held steady at 3 1-2 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand sterling ruled about half a cent lower around $4.77 1-4 while French francs held firm around 5 3-8c. Italian lire made moderate recovery from recent heaviness.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Big European buying gave a substantial lift to wheat values today after the market had suffered a sharp setback. July delivery of wheat sold at a new high price record for the season. Wheat closed firm, 7-8c to 1 3-8c. Net higher, May 1.86 to 1.86 1-4 and July 1.59 1-4 to 1.59 5-8, with corn 1 to 1 1-4c up, oats 1-8 to 1-4 off, and provisions unchanged to 22c lower.

It was estimated that 1,500,000 bushels of wheat and 250,000 bushels of rye were purchased today for shipment to Europe. About half of the wheat taken was domestic. The foreign buying developed quickly when prices here had undergone a break as a result of heavy selling associated with reports that European countries were obtaining new supplies chiefly from Argentina. It appeared later, however, that the recent action of Roumania in prohibiting exports had forced larger buying to meet European requirements, especially as chances for settlement of the Australian shipping strike were said to be remote.

Corn showed considerable independent strength. Rough weather likely to hinder the delivery of corn at rural elevators was more or less responsible. Demand for oats was indifferent.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market, and so likewise did announcement of a heavy increase of the stocks of lard here.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Jan. 16.—Contrasting price movements in today's bond market were supplied by the rally of Mexican obligations and the slump of St. Paul railroad issues. Fluctuations elsewhere were narrow and insignificant, with a firm undertone prevailing.

The forthcoming discussions between international bankers and Secretary A. J. Pani, of the Mexican treasury regarding interest payments on Mexico's debt stimulated trading in Mexican bonds, some of which extended their recent gains 1 to 3 points.

St. Paul liens reacted following the announcement that the road failed to earn its fixed charges for 1924 and that an examination of the road's position would be made preparatory to meeting heavy 1925 maturities. Liquidation was not especially drastic but the 4 per cent bonds which mature this year, were under heavy pressure and yielded about two points. Most of the company's other liens suffered moderate recessions.

Wilson and company bonds displayed independent strength in anticipation of an early settlement of the company's reorganization difficulties. The convertible sixes led with a gain of 3 3-8 points and the 7 1-2s moved up 2 1-4. On the other hand Skelly Oil 6 1-2s, Federal Light 7s and Standard Gas sixes fell back 1 to 2 points.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Jan. 16.—Uneven price movements characterized today's curb market with the main trend upward in the closing transactions.

Oil shares held fairly steady, Prairie Pipe and Prairie Oil and Gas (old stock) showing net gains of a point each while a number of the other popular shares improved fractionally. Red Bank was heavy, closing 1 1-2 points lower at 27 1-2.

Radio issues moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Thermiodyne and Sleeper again established new highs and Hazeltine closed at a net gain of 1 point. Trading in the old Dubilier stock was abandoned after two cash sales at 68 and 67 1-4, respectively, the new stock then making its appearance and being quoted between 34 1-2 and 33 1-8.

A gain of nearly two points in American Gas and Electric common was the feature of the public utility group. Commonwealth Power, selling ex-dividend, closed at 118, which represented a gain of one point on the day.

WESTMINSTER

The topic for the home hour of prayer and worship Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, is "Work done with God and for God will succeed." Read Nehemiah, chapter 2, through chapter 6, verse 16.

By a typographical error Jan. 12, in speaking of repairs on Westminster parsonage shortly before its total destruction by fire, it was stated "no" windows instead of new windows (26) were put all over the house and in the shed, each also receiving two coats of paint.

The morning of the day appointed for the annual church business meeting began with what seemed a heavy snowstorm and continued cold. The gathering was at the church, on account of there being no parsonage, and the minister's home at the Coulter house not being sufficiently settled for the usual reception in connection with the meeting. The attendance was smaller than for quite a number of years, only a business quorum being present. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Davies, who in the absence of the clerk read the warning for the meeting. For the first time, so far as known, communion was administered at the annual business session of the church, it having been impossible, from road conditions, on the first Sunday of the year, and then postponed in expectation of the usual large proportion of members at the annual meeting, and to better prepare all to consider the business of the day. In the report of the church school mention was made that a gold enameled perfect-attendance-for-a-year pin had been awarded Earle MacLeod and Harry Helstrom; also that the usual two cents a month for each member had been given the denominational missionary boards, and a Christmas offering of $3.49 taken for Red Cross orphans. Deacon Barstow led in prayer at the conclusion of the reports. The election of church trustee for three years was left for later consideration, other officers being re-elected. By request of the superintendent, a church school committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. Barstow, Mrs. Douglas and Deacon Edmond. A brief report of the fellowship of neighboring churches, shown the pastors since the fire, was given by Mrs. Davies, and the meeting concluded by the benediction given by the pastor.

Charles Barstow and Edward Baker have been appointed appraisers of the estate of the late Fred Bennett.

The continued improvement of Deacon A. C. Greene, many years active in this community, church and town, now of Danielson, ill since early December, rejoices his many friends throughout this region.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Rev. William C. Prentiss of Plainfield exchanged with Rev. Mr. Knight Sunday evening, giving an illustrated talk which was very entertaining. It is to be regretted that there were not more people present to enjoy it.

A choir rehearsal was announced for Friday evening at the parsonage.

Tuesday afternoon the Ladies' Aid society was entertained by Mrs. Knight. The attendance was good. A quilt was tied and another one prepared for tying. The society has been fortunate in receiving a number of orders for quilts from out of town people. In the absence of Mrs. Appley, the president, Mrs. Sager, the vice president, presided at the business meeting.

Milo Appley, master of Canterbury grange, with Mrs. Appley and Miss Grace Dawley, the lecturer, have been in Hartford this week attending the sessions of the state grange.

Mrs. Goddard and son, who have been visiting at Edward Lovell's, have returned to their home in Montreal.

Mrs. Arthur Bennett and daughter were Norwich visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. Stephen Babcock, her son Richard and daughter Bessie are all confined to the house ill with severe colds or grip.

The W. C. T. U. held an all-day meeting and dinner at the home of Mrs. C. C. Frink Wednesday. The dinner, which was served at noon, was well patronized and proved a success financially. Cold lamb and beef, with warm vegetables, rolls, pickles, cake, pie, pudding and coffee, comprised the menu. Many of the village people availed themselves of the opportunity to get so bountiful a dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Frink, Mrs. Charles Hyde and Mrs. Pearl were present from Brooklyn.

LEGAL NOTICE

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 16th day of January, A. D. 1925.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Eliza T. McDonald, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

William H. Shields of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament, with codicil thereto, of said deceased be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 24th day of January, A. D. 1925, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

Don't Miss This

Fred Thomson has made some great pictures in the past! Silver King, his horse has done some marvelous work in previous pictures! Both star and horse, in this picture, have excelled themselves! In addition to putting over a splendid characterization, Fred Thomson performs more reckless, more thrilling stunts than he has ever done before! Silver King shows an intelligence that is little short of uncanny! You must see this picture! You're going to enjoy every second of it!
